Liz Nominated for Oscar; Ingrid's Nowhere in Sight

LIZ

Her competition in the 31st annual Oscar Race: Susan Hayward, "I Want To Live;" Deborah Kerr, "Separate Tables"; Shirley MacLaine, "Some Came Running," and Rosalind Russell, "Auntie Mame."

Conspicuously absent was Ingrid Bergman, who was expected to be nominated for her role in "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

Spencer Tracy was nominated for a possible third Oscar—a record for a star—for his role as the grizzled Cuban fisherman in "The Old Man and the Sea."

Also nominated for the starring actor: Tony Curtis, "The Defiant Ones"; Paul Newman, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"; David Niven, "Separate Tables," and Sidney Poitier, "The Defiant Ones."

The Motion Pictures Academy's voters nominated these as the best motion pictures of 1958: "Auntie Mame," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "The Defiant Ones," "Gigi" and "Separate Tables."

For best performance by a supporting actress: Peggy Cass, "Auntie Mame"; Wendy Hiller, "Separate Tables"; Martha Hyer, "Some Came Running"; Maureen Stapleton, "Lonelyhearts"; Cara Williams, "The Defiant Ones."

For the best performance by a supporting actor: Theodore Bikel, "The Defiant Ones"; Lee J. Cobb, "The Brothers Karamazov"; Burl Ives, "The Big Country"; Arthur Kennedy, "Some Came Running," and Gig Young, "Teacher's Pet."

For best direction: Richard Brooks, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"; Stanley Kramer, "The Defiant Ones"; Vicente Minelli, "Gigi"; Robert Wise, "I Want to Live," and Mark Robson, "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

Best song: "Almost in Your Arms," from "Houseboat"; "To Love and be Loved," From "Some Came Running"; "A Very Precious Love," from "Marjorie Morningstar," and the Title Tunes from "A Certain Smile" and "Gigi."

Hollywood's biggest prize will be handed out to the winners at a telecast program April 6 in the Pantages Theater.

Dulles Quit? Ike Says Demands Made by Headline-Happy Critics

Wait and see—Reston, 7A

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

HUMPHREY

SYMINGTON

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Johnson Called Tyrant

Sen. Proxmire Wants 'Voice'

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three Republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets, Police Battle at Plant

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

Gland Problem

Marshall Weaker

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall weakened Monday. His condition remains serious.

In a medical report on the 78-year-old general, Col. George M. Powell, Army physician, said:

"He shows an indication of an involvement of the pituitary gland as evidenced by a definite increase in water output by way of the kidneys. This involvement has complicated his treatment."

Dr. Powell explained that the complication of treatment concerned the feeding of Gen. Marshall, which heretofore has been by intravenous solution and through a plastic tube into his stomach.

The general's second stroke was accompanied by mild pneumonia. Col. Powell reported the pneumonia under control.

Jobless Millions Cited for Demand

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders asked Congress Monday to legislate a sharp cut in the American work week immediately. They said this is necessary to provide jobs for millions idled by increasingly efficient machines.

The federation's executive council called for a reduction of the present 40-hour-week, eight-hour day limit in the Fair Labor Standards Act to 35 hours with a seven-hour day.

Beyond that, overtime pay rates would apply.

The council urged Congress to make the 35-hour week effective for employes of the federal government.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said organized labor will push hard for such legislation and redouble efforts to accomplish the same result through collective bargaining contracts.

Meany said the U.S. is clearly able to produce more now with fewer workers and that either the work week must be shortened or a substantial proportion of the American working force taken out and shot.

Meany said some unions already enjoying a work week of less than 40 hours will strive to get below the 35-hour goal.

The council statement said that in the 21 years since Congress set the 40-hour week "America has made tremendous technological progress which justifies and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The growing efficiency of the American economy, the council said, is demonstrated by the fact more than one million fewer factory workers are employed now than in 1942, yet the output has been multiplied.

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said many members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

Meany said the immediate drive to get Congress to reduce the work week is part of a triple play effort to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Other federation goals, he said, are to raise the present $1 hourly wage minimum to $1.25 and to broaden the law's scope to cover eight million to 10 million of perhaps 20 million workers now exempt.

At present the law covers about 24 million workers.

A new batch of AFL-CIO economic statements blasted policies of President Eisenhower's administration. These said the nation's basic economic problems are to provide more jobs and promote economic growth.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

Mac Cancels Hunt, Plans Talks With Nikita Instead

Red Chief Foresees 'Results'

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night suddenly canceled a hunting trip planned by the Russians for today and arranged instead to have further private talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the countryside.

The visiting British leader's change in plans was made known after a lavish dinner in the British embassy, where Khrushchev hailed him as a man of peace.

Guests at the dinner quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"We (the Russians) think that the conversations between us will bring results."

This was Red Army Day and Macmillan, according to Radio Moscow, opened his speech with a tribute to the Soviet part in winning World War II.

"When I ponder the present state of the world, I ask myself whether we have not today a common interest of at least equal degree. This common interest is peace . . ."

The Soviet premier, in an expansive mood, said he regretted that "it has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and Russia in the post-war period.

"We all live on the same planet, and enjoy the same sun and air. Let us find wisdom to bring peace."

A British spokesman told reporters the talks substituting for the hunting trip will take place at a villa about a half hour's car ride from Moscow. The villa has been placed at Macmillan's disposal during his visit.

The embassy dinner followed up the first formal business meeting of Macmillan and Khrushchev at the Kremlin Monday morning.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-aggression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

Bridge Crash Fatal to Four

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Four persons were killed and a fifth was injured critically Monday when a speeding car missed an exit turn on the Brooklyn Bridge and careened against an iron picket fence that sliced off the hardtop.

Police identified the victims as Tomas Gomez, 30, the driver; Anna Montanez, Eliesar Toscano and Luis Curra Trigo. Critically injured was Jose Luis Bruel, 35.

Police said Gomez failed to make a sharp right turn around a wooden barricade when leaving the bridge on a Manhattan side exit. The barricade was marked with 14 flashing red lights.

Third Top Batista Aide Is Doomed

HAVANA — (AP) — The last of three former army officers labeled by the Castro government as Cuba's top war criminals was condemned to death Monday after a seven-hour trial.

Defense attorneys for Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao said an appeal is being made on grounds of temporary insantiy.

Executions of nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday boosted the unofficial total to 325.

Grao was found guilty of assassination, homicide and robbery while fighting Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente Province.

The 45-year-old career soldier had first been led in for trial on Jan. 22 in the circuslike atmosphere of the Havana Sports Palace along with ex- of whom were executed.

Only Sosa Blanco stood trial before the thousands of spectators in the Sports Palace, and he later got a new trial in more decorous circumstances.

Among those executed Monday were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three others.

They were convicted of torturing and hanging four of Castro's student sympathizers only four days before Fulgencio Batista fled the country Jan. 1.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cubana airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fidel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

'Best Yet' Label Deserved

'Masked Ball' Makes Miami A Grown-Up in Opera World

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music Editor

Music Review

Miami grew up to full stature, operatically, Monday night when a wonderfully-matched cast from New York combined forces with Miami Opera Guild's chorus and young singers to produce Verdi's "The Masked Ball" for the first time in this area.

First-nighters began during the first scene to register unusual pleasure in the consistently top-notch production, which gave them some of the best ensemble singing we've had in all the history of opera in Miami.

As the guild operas have gotten better and better, the phrase "best yet" has had a workout, but this time it really and truly is.

"Masked Ball," from Verdi's fertile middle period, is grand opera with emphasis on the "grand." It is full of wonderful lyric-dramatic music—beautiful and unusual arias, and a lot of truly magnificent opportunities for ensemble singing. There are duets, trios, quartets, quintets in profusion, some sung against an exciting choral background. And it is rhythmic, vital, and infectious music.

All of this complicated ensemble singing melded together perfectly last night, and the opera turned out to be one of the best sung and best-put-together productions this community has seen. It began to click just after the opening curtain, and kept on clicking right down to the end.

The symmetrical cast included Richard Tucker, one of the Metropolitan Opera's most highly-respected tenors, as Ricardo, Herva Nelli as Amelia, Mario Zanasi as Renato, Eva Likova as the page Oscar, Martha Lipton as Ulrica, and Joshua Hecht and Edward Doe as the swashbuckling conspirators.

Tucker was in fine voice and fine fettle, and was generally much better supported this time than in the "Tosca" he sang here last season. His arias were delivered with the smoothness and sweetness that characterize his singing.

Miss Nelli has lovely, pure top tones, and her singing is warm and vital, as well as absolutely technically secure, and she has the true "grand opera" style.

Miss Likova's charming fresh coloratura was a delight to listen to, and she has a most assured and beautiful stage presence for such a young singer. She did a little scene-stealing unintentionally, because you just can't help looking at her when she's on stage. We hope to see more of this young artist in future operatic productions here.

Zanasi's baritone blends well with Tucker's tenor — moreover it is a really rich baritone, full and of fine quality.

And as for Miss Lipton, we thought she was perfect as the sorceress, both vocally and in action.

Edward Doe and Joshua Hecht were excellent villains, and their taunting scene at the end of the third act was strikingly well done.

Miami's own young student singer, James McCormick, did the small role of Silvano with distinguished success — quite as well as he recently did the Monterone in "Rigoletto." It looks as though we shall be hearing things from this young baritone, who appears to be a "natural" for opera.

Two other small roles were sung with security and taste by William Ledoux and Lee Stair.

And Mrs. Ledoux it is, we believe, who deserves a large share of the praise for the spectacularly fine work of the choruses in "Masked Ball" — male chorus, women's chorus, and the large mixed chorus. There is lots of work for chorus in this opera, and the large groups sang with more spirit and better-paced dynamics than in any previous opera, and their individual members comported themselves with real operatic know-how. The mob-scenes were really marvelous.

The entire production was excellently paced by Emerson Buckley, who conducted, and the music, we thought, was better played than in any recent guild production. There was genuine sparkle in the whole musical turnout.

The scenery, made in Texas, was being used for the first time, and it was excellent realistic scenery. The setting chosen was the Swedish one, usually used today, instead of the Boston setting of the original production, and setting and costumes were most successfully integrated.

"Masked Ball" will be produced Wednesday evening in Miami Beach auditorium, and again Saturday evening in Dade County auditorium.

Rich Bolita Suspect Tracked

Police Trace Him to Florida

By BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writer

A free-spending millionaire—sought as the No. 1 man in a Michigan bolita scandal involving police bribery — was traced to the Hollywood home of a Miami strip dancer Monday.

But Russell Raymond Trilck stayed one jump ahead of the lawman sent to find him.

Trilck has extensive land holdings in Broward, and connections who might hide him out, a Detroit assistant prosecutor said.

Trilck fled the Detroit area to avoid charges that he was No. 1 bolita operator and had bribed a half dozen officers including a police commissioner, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Albert A. Goldfarb said in Fort Lauderdale, where he was sent to serve a fugitive warrant.

"He had a multi-million-dollar operation," Goldfarb said.

Trilck spent the last few days at the home of Leocadia Neivit, who dances at the Suburban Club in Miami, Goldfarb said. She lives at 6961 NW 22nd Ct., Hollywood, in a home equipped with a swimming pool, he said.

Goldfarb quoted her as saying:

"I knew him in the old days when I was dancing at Micky's Show Bar in Detroit. He had always been good to the girls and spent a lot of money on them."

Fort Lauderdale police also picked up Trilck's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dennis, and held them for investigation of harboring a fugitive, the prosecutor said. He did not give their address.

Goldfarb has a fugitive warrant charging Trilck with four counts of conspiracy and bribing public servants.

"The former chief of police of River Rouge, Mich., and the former safety or police commissioner of Wayne have been accused of accepting his bribes," Goldfarb said.

He said that in 1947 the Kefauver Committee produced evidence showing that Trilck's earnings from bolita alone were $612,000.

Trilck owns at least four expensive homes which he rents in the Fort Lauderdale area, and several lots, Goldfarb said.

He was associated with a now-defunct Fort Lauderdale company, the International Richwoods Plastics, he added.

Trilck had been traveling with his wife — who once was convicted with him on a bolita arrest — but she left for Detroit last week under an assumed name, Goldfarb said.

He added that Trilck's connections are with some of Michigan's top officials — and many influential ex-officials living in the South Florida area.

'Most Governed'

Duke's Not Free Man

SINGAPORE — (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh isn't a very free man, he said Monday.

Speaking at a dinner here, he referred to Singapore's new constitution giving the colony self-rule, then joked:

"I have had very little experience of self-government. In fact, I'm one of the most governed people in the world."

The duke, on a tour of the Far East, was the guest of Prime Minister Lim Yew Hock at a 12-course Chinese dinner.

Conscience First, Candidate Told

Kennedy Is in Error, Catholic Paper Says

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (UPI) — A Roman Catholic publication Monday criticized as "unrealistic but dangerous" a statement by Sen. John Kennedy regarding separation of a public official's religious beliefs from his governmental decisions.

The Ava Maria, a national weekly published by the Holy Cross fathers at the University of Notre Dame, took issue with Kennedy's statement in a magazine (Look) last week.

In the article, the Massachusetts Democrat speculated on the chances of a Catholic being a 1960 presidential nominee. Kennedy, a Catholic, is regarded as a front-runner for the Democratic nomination.

"Whatever one's religion in private life may be," he said, "for the officeholder, nothing takes precedence over his oath to uphold the Constitution and all its parts — including the First Amendment and the strict separation of church and state."

In an editorial for an issue dated March 7, the Ava Maria said such thinking "contains a serious flaw."

"Something does indeed take precedence over the obligation to uphold the Constitution — namely, conscience. And this applies to whatever the religion of the officeholder," the editorial said.

"To relegate your conscience to your 'private life' is not only unrealistic, but dangerous as well."

Mad at Wife, He Just Burns

When Ronald Samuels gets mad at his wife, he burns, Dade Fire Inspector Ben Layton said Monday night.

The 42-year-old Negro of 9035 SW 125th St. slashed the seats of his wife's car, poured kerosene over the interior, and was hunting for matches when police arrived, Layton said.

He was charged with attempted arson and held in county jail.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

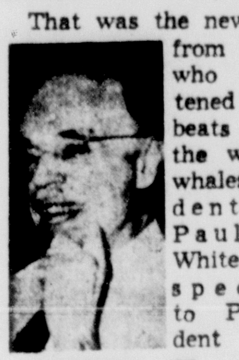
Bad Hearts Plague Russia, Too, Ike's Doc Says

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

America isn't the only country with heart troubles. Russia is beset with them, too.

That was the news Monday from the man who has listened to heart beats a round the world from whales to presidents — Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart specialist to President Eisenhower.



WHITE

Ike's doc was in Miami to give the third annual Leonard G. Rowntree Lecture sponsored by Phi Beta Phi of the University of Miami School of Medicine Monday night.

He took time out to sip Florida orange juice and flatten a few Florida gnats on the lawn of Dr. W. S. Nock's home in The Moorings of Coconut Grove.

A slight, slender man, Dr. White has no time to grow fat, even if it weren't hard flown in from the ice and sleet of Boston. He left immediately after the lecture for Washington to appear before a Senate committee in support of an international health institute, then heads for Africa Friday to listen to the heart beats of gorillas in the Belgian Congo.

"This should be very interesting because gorillas are primates," he explained. "It is very useful to make comparative studies of animal hearts."

What's with the whales?

"Their hearts are much larger but much slower than man's. A blue whale's heart weight 500 pounds," he explained.

And President Eisenhower's heart?

"Fine!" said the specialist. "I correspond with him frequently, but am afraid to be seen with him now. It would be misconstrued. He is in good conditon and has good doctors."

But getting back to the Russians.

Visiting a large hospital in Russia recently, Dr. White said he found about half the patients were victims of heart ailments.

"That's about the same percentage we have here," he reminded.

In fact, the doctor said he has found no place where heart ailments are not of concern. And he has studied kangaroo hearts in Australia and human hearts in Japan.

The white haired little doctor's eyes glowed when he told of progress being made, however.

"We're breaking through every day now," he said, attributing this to the vastly expanded research program which he termed the most significant advance in the heart field.

Chicagoans Vote Today; GOP's Sad

CHICAGO — (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley's powerful Democratic organization flexes its muscles in a dull primary today that appears certain to leave Republicans aching.

Daley, seeking a second four-year term in a city that hasn't had a GOP mayor since 1931, wants to roll up 775,000 Democratic votes to demonstrate his party's potency.

The Republican standard-bearer, former Congressman Timothy Sheehan, figures 130,000 GOP voters will turn out for their primary — the worst showing in years.

Opposing each man is Lar (America first) Daly, a stool and chair jobber who in the last 20 years has made a habit of running for and losing races for every important political office, including President. He isn't given a chance.

Voters also will elect aldermen from the city's 50 wards and, there, too, Republicans see very little to be optimistic about. Democrats have controlled the City Council since 1931.

Election officials estimate about half of the city's 1,835,224 registered voters in 3,826 precincts will vote.

Lenten Prayer for Today

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

To my way of thinking, the single enduring fact of prayer is that men, no matter how great, become humble and honest when they address God. In sum, the words they mouth for the world are not related to the words they are moved to express toward their Maker.

The humility and the wisdom of the words of prayer would lead one to believe that men and women, in the face of death, assess themselves and their spiritual wealth or poverty much more clearly than at any other time. Oliver Cromwell composed his deathbed prayer on the day of a terrible storm in England in August, 1658, and he began it with the confession: "Lord, though I am a miserable and wretched creature . . ."

Girolamo Savonarola, the Italian religious reformer who was hanged in 1498, for sedition and heresy, was a belligerent, vindictive man. Compare this belligerence with the final words of his last prayer:

My Lord, I know Thou art the Trinity, perfect, invisible, distinct in three persons, Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

I know Thou art that eternal Word that descended from heaven to this earth in the womb of the Virgin Mary, and ascended the wood of the cross to shed thy blood for us miserable sinners.

I beseech Thee, my Lord, I beseech Thee! Save me, I beseech Thee, my Comforter, that so much precious blood may not be shed for me in vain.

But let it be shed for the remission of my sins from the day I received the water of baptism until this hour, which I lay before you, and for which I crave your pardon.

I implore pardon for aught in which I have offended against this city and its people, whether in things spiritual or temporal, and for all things in which I have erred knowingly. — Amen.

IS YOUR ENGLISH HOLDING YOU BACK?

"Many intelligent men and women are held back in their jobs and social lives because they use poor English or can't speak and write effectively," says Don Bolander, director of English at Career Institute, Chicago.

"Adults who realize that their English is holding them back use our new home method to stop making embarrassing mistakes in English, to improve their writing, to increase their vocabularies, to speed up their reading, to acquire the techniques of fluent conversation. But the use of effective English pays off in unexpected ways," says Bolander, "because language is a tool of thought as well as a tool of expression.

"You use words with which to think. The more you learn about words and how to arrange them to express your ideas, the better your thinking becomes. The improvement of your English — including your thinking — can lead to amazing personal achievements."

Write today for free 32-page booklet, How to Speak and Write Like a College Graduate. It explains the importance of English in your personal, social and business life. It shows how the new Career Institute Method can help you achieve your special goals quickly in your spare time at home. Send a card or letter to Don Bolander, Dept. MH-15, Career Institute, 30 East Adams, Chicago 3, Illinois. The booklet will be mailed to you promptly.—Adv.

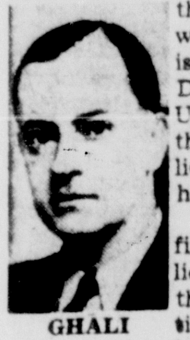
Rightists Gain in Algeria

French Commies Stage Comeback In First Test of De Gaulle Rule

By PAUL GHALI

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire



GHALI

PARIS — The Communist Party made a striking comeback in three parliamentary by-elections in France over the weekend while the Rightists and the De Gaullist UNR (Union for the New Republic) suffered a heavy setback.

This was the first test of public opinion since the Nov. 28 elections and President Charles de Gaulle's drastic economic and financial reforms of Dec. 13.

The test was only partial, being limited to three constituencies, but its interest lies in the fact that these elections represent a large cross-section of opinion as the regions where it took place are far apart.

The Communist gains averaged 2,000 over the November figures in each constituency but nowhere allowed them to beat the independent rightist candidates who emerged on top.

In two out of the three by-elections a second ballot was necessary and electors will have to join forces next Sunday to bar the road to communism.

As votes swung leftwards in the three constituencies more electors refused to take sides. The number of asbstentions suddenly rose to 40 per cent against 20 per cent last November when the country was still under the spell cast by De Gaulle's return to power.

While Communist opposition is rising in metropolitan France, there are more and more signs that the extreme rightists are gaining ground in Algeria.

During demonstrations by veterans in Algiers Sunday groups of monarchists suddenly shouted, "Long live the king, cheers for Petain."

Religion Put On the Phone

STOCKHOLM — (UPI) — Religious counsel is being offered over the telephone throughout Sweden as part of a campaign by the Swedish Lutheran Church to meet modern-day requirements.

Larger cities have a special alarm number — "9-0-0-0-0" — to summon police, firemen or an ambulance and now such calls can also be connected to a religious conselling service, where a minister is on duty 24 hours a day to aid anyone who asks.

How can I find peace of mind?
THE TRUTH IN THIS GREAT BOOK CAN COMFORT YOU
What comfort can come to one who knows who he is and where he is going—to one who realizes his oneness with God and his safety as God's own child! Such assurance can be yours if you will turn to the truth contained in this great book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.
Countless thousands have found their peace of mind in the midst of apparent chaos when they have prayerfully sought an understanding of God and man as explained in Science and Health. They have learned how to turn away from the confusion of today's changing world to a sense of calm and tranquillity that can be found only in communion with God.
Find this out for yourself! Read, buy,* or borrow this book at the Christian Science Reading Room nearest you. There you can read it, together with the King James Version of the Bible, in an atmosphere of quiet and rest. You can also borrow Science and Health without charge to take home and read at leisure.
COME . . . AND FIND PEACE OF MIND!
*Science and Health can be purchased in red, green, or blue binding at $3 and will be sent postpaid by the Reading Room on receipt of check or money order.

A Deed Is What's Needed

Propaganda And Peace

IF BRITAIN'S Prime Minister Harold Macmillan achieves nothing else for the ice-locked diplomacy of East and West, at least he will have disabused millions of Russians of strange notions about Western democracy.

Only selected English literature circulates behind the Iron Curtain. Here, for decades, Russians have seen Britain through the 19th Century novels of Charles Dickens depicting the social ills of the Victorian era.

Equally distorted views about the United States get around from the equally dated writings of Mark Twain, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and others, helped along by the typical Soviet propaganda of abuse.

So, the P.M., he told 'em, Colonialism and imperialism, he said, are old hat. Times have changed western society.

This elemental lesson in bringing the Soviet Union up to date about the 20th century would be fantastically unbelievable if it were not true—and not necessary.

But the important thing is that the Russian press printed it all, and for the first time.

THIS SUGGESTS that one of the most difficult problems between East and West is communication.

Mr. Macmillan thus may have done a thawing service in the interest of peace when he sold a previously censored and dogmatic press a new concept of the West.

This would be to the good, but it would also merely gloss over the problem. It is not so much what Russians think we are like as the motive behind the purposeful propaganda fed to them. The West has yet to be shown that this motive is anything but aggression, and that the people of Russia have been conditioned systematically for the expedient of a war of hate.

Thus it is not so important what Russians think, though we want them and others to know the truth, as what their government does or does not do.

What is wanted, in short, amidst all the ceremonial vodka swilling and speeches is a single act.

THIS CAN COME in reasonable concessions on Berlin, European security and disarmament. Generalities and vague promises are not enough, though they are discussed in comfy circumstances. Americans who remember the Litvinov agreement of 1933, for instance, will wince at Khrushchev's promise recently that Communism will keep hands off the "internal policy" of the United Arab Republic.

The deed will speak much louder than words. Thus we hope that Prime Minister Macmillan, as deputy for all the Western powers, will come home with assurances, later translated into action, that the Soviet Union will back off from the Berlin ultimatum and come to a foreign ministers' conference prepared to deal realistically with disarmament.

Now that it's conceded that Fagin-the-Viper is not the prototype of the modern Briton and that slave-trading is hardly typical of American commerce, perhaps there may be equal realism about the propagandized problems of peace.

We say only "perhaps." But a deed would clinch it.

What It Is, Is Spring!

SPRING HAS SPRUNG here, if you please, a month ahead of the almanac.

There's no longer any doubt about it. Even the little wildflowers which Floridians call weeds are blooming their heads off in fields and gardens.

Mango trees burst into flower some time ago, scenting the air with a honey-like perfume. Now the avocados have joined the procession.

Orchid trees are alight with their purple or white blossoms. Even stately pines are shedding pollen, and oaks are dropping the fuzzy stuff that says they're about to put on their spring robe of tender green.

All this is being abetted by puffball clouds floating around the horizon. They gather together, glower and irrationally break into tears, to the delight of thirsty shrubs below.

Of course, it's natural that spring should come early to this peninsula, far south of the clime where the official date for the season's start is March 21.

But the truth is that winter never really came to South Florida this year. So it's harder than usual to believe that spring is here already.

For A Great Medical Center

THE UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI has taken a long step in its program for the development of an outstanding medical school. It has set up a citizens' advisory board to help chart the future, which it sees as full of promise.

That future could well include the establishment in Miami of one of the world's great medical centers.

The elements are here. The University has a young and vigorous medical school with 263 students and a faculty that is alert and inquiring, including full-time teachers and part-time volunteers from the experienced practicing physicians.

And there is Jackson Memorial Hospital, one of the South's largest and best, where the upper-class medical students get their final training.

Around these basic requirements is a growing complex of hospital, medical and research facilities. Public and private funds contribute to this magic growth. More than 100,000 patients are seen yearly, presenting a variety of medical challenges almost unique in this country.

AT THE CORE is the medical school, training students, doing research, stimulating the whole medical profession in the community and state.

"We are involved in planning for the future," said Dean Homer F. Marsh. "We are considering programs in such fields as tropical medicine, health problems of old age, space medicine, heart and cancer research, post-graduate medical education and many other areas."

The newly created advisory board will contribute to this planning, help finance a permanent home for the medical school—the two lower classes are still in makeshift quarters at the crumbling Veterans Administration Hospital at Coral Gables—and give the school and University aid and comfort wherever needed.

It is a large order that faces the new board — the realization of the vision. The material framework is ready. Climate and geography are favorable. The scientific brains and tools are being assembled. To this is now added the final ingredient, the dedicated lay leadership. It is up to them to provide the spark.

'W-M-D' In The Fullness Of Time

ONE ANNOUNCEMENT from Washington over last week evoked a lot of memories. Sen. James E. Murray, Montana, and Rep. John D. Dingell, Michigan, are preparing bills for a national health insurance plan financed, as is social security, by payroll contributions of employers and employes.

Fourteen years ago these same two Democratic stalwarts, with the late Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York, introduced similar legislation. The Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill became at once a most controversial proposal. It almost jarred the nation's doctors away from their stethoscopes and put them squarely into politics. The medical lobby set up to oppose that bill still exists. The American Medical Association has a powerful voice in Washington today.

But time has a way of changing perspectives.

It is not likely that the new Murray-Dingell proposal will stir up such a blazing battle. In the first place many ideas in the original bills have since been enacted into law. The federal government is deep in the health picture, providing aid to states and communities, to medical schools, and above all, spending millions on medical research.

A GOOD ARGUMENT can be made that a federal health insurance plan is not needed today. More than 125 million Americans are covered by voluntary health and hospitalization insurance. Private companies and physician-sponsored, non-profit, Blue Cross and Blue Shield constantly expand their coverage and benefits. The AMA only recently came out with a strong plan to reduce costs for older patients so that insurance for this group would be economically feasible.

Though rising medical and hospital costs still make serious illness a catastrophe, the picture is far different from that of 14 years ago. Senator Murray and Representative Dingell deserve credit for perseverence but the urgency is gone from their cause.

A Good Time Had By All

CASTRO'S CUBA is host for three days this week to thousands of Dade County visitors, and we must say the Bearded Ones are doing it up brown.

Hotel rooms—2,000 of them, for double occupancy—are free. So's the transportation. It may be assumed that the food is ample and that some of it is on the government. Habaneros and Miamians alike will not want for free and familiar band music. And if you like motorcycles, then Brigadier General Tom Kelly's drill team is on hand—no doubt putting its faith in the hope that there won't be a law enforcement crisis at home while on detached Caribbean duty.

Further, if you hanker to see statesmen in person there's a covey or better of City and Metro commissioners, each with quorum possibilities.

All of this, to be sure, is Cuba's business. And surely it's one way to drum up same. The genuine good will that animates the celebration will do neither country any harm.

Just for the record, however, we beg to observe that in all probability Dade Day at the Grito de Baire is history's most magnificent example of uninhibited free-loading.

Harris A Welcome Antidote

Editor The Herald: I would like to express my appreciation of the column which appears daily under the name of Sydney Harris.

I feel the column has a value which is almost therapeutic. After reading the daily review of the world events, humanity begins to look like a menace and a blight on the face of the earth. It is then that Harris' column emerges as a welcome antidote to the toxins released by the day's reports.

It sets a meditative mood, a precious moment of relaxation, and it points up intimate and important values in a sane perspective which makes the hysterical, brutal world of screaming headlines remote and unreal.

As he reveals himself, he reveals ourselves to us, with a great tolerance and dignity. In doing so he gives us an opportunity to identify ourselves with him, and through him with others who may be legion. Identification with others can be a very warming feeling. It is like finding refuge in unity with a great mass of other human beings.

Harris has a very gratifying love for words, and his literary style far exceeds the demands of journalism.

His choice of words and their smooth flow is an added delight to savor.

I often thought that it must be a privilege to know a man like Harris on friendly terms.

We Will Miss Marines, Too

Editor The Herald: For the past 28 years Marine aviation has had the pleasure of living and working with the fine people of Miami. This association will be terminated with the disestablishment of the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment on or about March 31.

During our entire period here and especially in my two years as commanding officer, we have been aided by the outstanding cooperation and understanding of the local information media. The success of our recruiting program, Toys for Tots campaigns, and general public relations has been due in no small part to the efforts of The Herald.

Please accept our sincere thanks for a job well done.

Well, Just Whom Do They Mean?

Editor The Herald: John Pennekamp's column on language purists reminds me of Will Rogers' famous retort to complaints about his use of "ain't."

"I know lots of folks," Will said, "who ain't sayin' ain't, who ain't eatin'."

I agree that errors in basic rules often find their way into print, and some of them are not flattering to the publications in which they appear. But in most cases, they are rather quibbling type errors which don't change the sense of the article itself.

IT WON'T HURT NONE TO USE AIN'T!

Some technical errors get by under the law of poetic license, which is often invoked by songwriters strapped for a rhyme, say with "tree," who will use the phrase "you and me" when strictly speaking they should say "you and I." Still, we know who (or whom) they mean.

Roadblock Ruling One For Rights

Editor The Herald: Dade Countians should be grateful to Judge George Holt for banning roadblocks and to former Mayor Abe Aronovitz who helped citizens regain their constitutional rights.

There has never been anything in our democratic principles that allows any police agency to presume citizens are guilty until they can prove their innocence.

Small Cars Next?

Editor The Herald: I consider myself an average motorist with normal complaints and praises. Recently several articles have appeared regarding the road blocks and small cars.

Now road blocks have been declared illegal. The question is who declared them illegal? Not drivers like myself (stopped several times and thought nothing about it.)

If the minority won out on the road blocks will they also win out on the small car complaints and declare them illegal?

Trumbull Sells State Abroad

Editor The Herald: An acquaintance who is spending a holiday in Florida sent me a copy of The Miami Herald to accelerate my desire to visit your wonderful city.

An article by your Steve Trumbull, "Potamophilous," gave me much pleasure and a better view of Florida. My impression of Miami—gathered from the movies — was simply of golden sands and glorious sunshine but also of your billboard-cluttered and juke-joint-infested highways.

It is refreshing to read of the beauties of your St. Lucie and Oklawaha rivers.

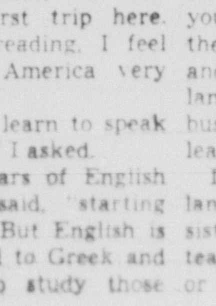
Strictly Personal

Even English Is Greek To Us

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I HATE to meet young people from foreign countries. They make me feel so inferior — and they make me blush for our young people in America.



Harris

Dining with us one evening was a German boy of 19, who arrived on these shores a week ago to attend a college in Ohio. His grasp of English was superb, and I asked him how often he had been in America.

"Oh, never before," he said. "This is my first trip here. But, from my reading, I feel as if I know America very well."

"How did you learn to speak English so well?" I asked.

"I had six years of English in school," he said, "starting when I was 10. But English is simple, compared to Greek and Latin. I had to study those languages for 10 years."

★ ★ ★

THIS BOY, mind you, while bright, is no exceptional scholar, no intellectual — just an ordinary, educated European youth. He took it for granted that nobody with a decent education would speak only one language.

I was ashamed to tell him not only that most American students cannot converse in any foreign language, but that most of them are not able to express themselves gracefully in English speech or writing.

Language courses in most American schools are a farcical waste of time and money for many reasons. First of all, youngsters start too late. By the time they reach high school and begin to take a foreign language, they are too old, too busy and too indifferent to learn it.

It would be better to cut out languages entirely than to persist in this foolish course of teaching them for only a year or two in high school. Not one student in a thousand can conduct a mature conversation in a foreign tongue after he leaves school.

But the root of the trouble lies deeper than this. English itself is not understood by the mass of students. And when one does not understand the structure of one's own language, it is virtually impossible to learn a second, except by living abroad and hearing it every day.

THE WHOLE body of language teaching—including English — in American schools needs a radical revision. And not merely for the sake of English (important as it is), but because ignorance in speaking and writing becomes a crippling handicap in all other subjects.

If we cannot communicate coherently, we cannot really achieve a mastery in any field. America is full of tongue-tied technicians who cannot transmit their knowledge, even to their own countrymen.

Behind The Front Page

Metro Not Giving What Voters Want

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

HOW IS METROPOLITAN government to provide city-type service in the populous unincorporated areas of Dade County where the residents want them?

The question is the subject of a memorandum issued by County Manager O. W. Campbell.

It recognizes that it is obviously unfair to tax all of the residents of the county, including those living in the cities, for services which will benefit only those living outside the cities.

Pennekamp

The county fire patrol is cited as an instance. Organized in 1932 it "benefits only the unincorporated area." Its costs are borne county-wide.

At the same time the memorandum acknowledges:

"There are always some citizens who expect something for nothing—or neighborhood service without local taxation."

★ ★ ★

WHILE TELLING the Metro commissioners that the decisions rest with them, the manager's memorandum makes several suggestions.

It points out that an effort to set up a special tax district in Golden Shores to finance special services — fire and road patrol, waste disposal and such — was knocked out by the State Supreme Court.

The decision said that since the assessment was to be based on the valuation of property in the district, it amounted to a device to defeat homestead exemption.

Suggested methods to remain within the law: Front footage assessments, general tax or general obligation bonds approved by the district's voters.

★ ★ ★

ANOTHER proposal is for the Metro commissioners to create a municipality embracing all of the unincorporated county area.

The commissioners could serve as the governing body passing laws and levying taxes with the county's staff doing the administration work.

"This device," says the report, "would permit the people of the now unincorporated area to enjoy the benefits not only of an area-wide metropolitan government, but also of a municipal government at a minimum of overhead expense."

The suggestion comes close to what the people of Dade County and of the state voted for when they approved the amendment which authorized the Metro charter.

It is the kind of government they are looking for on a county-wide basis.

The existing distortions resulted from:

1. The fact that the charter was written soon after an election in which an entirely new commission took office. Some of the resulting political irritations are reflected in the charter, although none is too serious.

2. An uninformed interpretation that a federalization rather than a consolidation of overlapping offices was intended by the voters.

3. Resistance by office holders in many of the county's 26 municipalities who seized upon the federalization idea to keep their offices and operations expensively intact.

★ ★ ★

AN ADVANTAGE of creating a city of the unincorporated area would be that some $2 million a year from cigaret taxes collected outside the cities' limits would remain in the county. It now goes to the state.

Still another suggestion for meeting the extra services situation is for Metro to make a county-wide tax levy, rebating to the cities the amount collected within their boundaries.

"Municipalities," says the memo, "would use these rebated tax monies in defraying their local service expense and would reduce their millages accordingly."

Leaving the question:

"Why doesn't the county proceed to take over the services in toto as intended by the Metro amendment?"

Justice Breeds Injustice

Log Jam In Courts Worst In History

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Many thousands of citizens in the United States are today being denied justice.

This is a cruel, dangerous, and unnecessary condition. It is getting worse, not better.

Drummond

If there is to be any "march on Washington," I can think of no more justified demonstration than a parade past the Capitol of the long line of people who are being denied-by-delay — denied by egregious, ever-longer delay — of their day in court.

Something needs to be done about it. Something can be done about it. The responsibility rests directly upon Congress which for at least two decades never has given the courts sufficient manpower.

The central fact is that with a rapidly burgeoning population, with businesses growing and expanding, with millions of more automobiles on crowded highways, the causes of litigation are constantly increasing. The ability of the courts to deal with the demands has not kept pace.

★ ★ ★

FAR FROM IT.

Right now more than 80,000 cases await disposition by the federal, courts, the worst backlog in history.

Every judge and lawyer in the country agrees that six months is all the time that should be required to bring a normal case to trial.

It now takes over 12 months to get the normal case to trial. And in the larger judicial districts — Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New York, Chicago — these delays reach two to four years Delayed justice is injustice. A person deprived of employment by injury does not receive justice when a three-year delay in the payment of damages is permitted by our judicial system. Justice doesn't come to life by the law alone. Justice comes to life only when the courts apply the remedy.

I AM referring primarily to the slow-motion functioning of the federal district and circuit courts. But some state courts are just as bad — if not worse.

And what is the consequence of our failing to keep our courts abreast the times? Speaking for the whole judicial conference, which is the administrative arm of the federal judiciary, Chief Justice Earl Warren declares:

"Delay in the courts is indisputably bad. It is bad because it deprives citizens of a basic public service. It is bad because the lapse of time frequently causes deterioration of evidence and makes it less likely that justice will be done when the case is finally tried.

"It is bad because delay may cause severe hardships to individuals, to families, to businesses operating with only a margin of capital, and to other parties similarly vulnerable when faced with unusual delay. And it is bad because it brings to the entire court system a loss of public confidence, respect, and pride."

★ ★ ★

DESPITE all the progress that can be made through better administration and pre-trial techniques (each district judge now disposes of an average of 247 cases a year as compared with 168 cases in 1941), more new judges are needed in the most congested districts.

Every year since 1954 the judicial conference has asked for more judges. No action.

Last year the President, the judicial conference, the Department of Justice, the American Bar Association, and the judiciary committees of the House and Senate unanimously appealed to Congress to authorize 41 new district judges and four new circuit judges. No action.

Is Congress going to keep on yawning and allow congestion in the court dockets to breed further congestion, more frustration, and greater injustice?

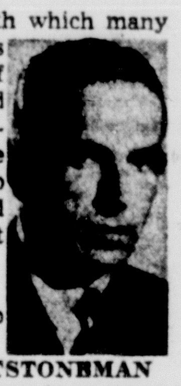
'Hind Side of the Animal'

'Neutral' German Belt No Advantage to U.S.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

PARIS — Creation of a "neutral" zone in Central Europe or the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time would be senseless, dangerous and perhaps even disastrous in the opinion of military commanders at Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe.



In view of the eagerness with which many American and British politicians have played with the notion of withdrawing both Allied and Communist forces from a "demilitarized" belt in Europe, the arguments against such a step which are advanced by seasoned professionals appear to merit attention.

* * *

THEY CAN BE summed up as follows:

1. THE ESTABLISHMENTSTONBMAN of a strong American ground force in postwar Europe came in 1951 as a direct answer to a real threat of Soviet aggression.

Until then we had had one infantry division and a strong mobile force known as the constabularly in Germany.

We built that force up to five divisions plus a stronger mobile force consisting of three armored cavalry regiments to replace the constabulary.

At the same time Gen. Eisenhower was sent to Europe to command allied forces and organize them under SHAPE (Supreme Allied Headquarters.)

That increase in force and a similar increase in British strength on the continent restored the shattered nerves of Western Europeans and dispelled tension.

* * *

2. THESE FORCES, which the Russians now want us to dissipate, did not create any tension in Europe. They reduced tension.

"So," say these officers, "if you think you can reduce tension by reducing our forces you are starting at the hind side of the animal."

If you want to reduce tension you must start on the political side, not the military side.

* * *

3. THERE IS A SERIOUS practical reason for not withdrawing American and British forces from Western Germany. Due to German financial support we were able to finance the buildings and other installations needed for the maintenance of a sizable force in Germany.

It is highly doubtful if we could find space for more than a very small complement of men anywhere else in Europe.

So it is virtually certain that if we remove our forces from Western Germany the mass of them will have to go home.

There are also political reasons why this is so. It is unthinkable that a country like France would find it possible to play host to eight or 10 divisions of non-French troops in peacetime.

When you advocate the removal of our troops from Germany what you are really proposing is to remove the tangible evidence of our determination to defend Western Europe.

* * *

4. THE "SCREEN FORCE" which we now maintain in Western Germany is not intended to sway the balance in a global war. Its purpose is to deter any local attack or operation such as the Communists might be tempted to try if there were no shield along the Iron Curtain.

The major deterrent to global war has been and remains our retaliatory power . . . the hydrogen bomb and so forth.

The major deterrent to a small attack of the kind that has become increasingly likely is the screen force.

We must be able to halt an attack with adequate forces the minute enemy forces cross the Curtain. That will compel the enemy to bring up additional forces, a step which it would hesitate to take.

People must try to remember that we are not preparing to fight a war. We know that a war would ruin the world. What we are doing is to arrange such a pattern of defense that the enemy will not make a mistake which could provoke a major conflict.

* * *

5. THE RUSSIAN and Polish proposals for the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Eastern Germany are deadly dangerous for a reason few people seem to recognize.

The withdrawal of Soviet forces would allow the East Germans to throw out the Communists whenever they felt like it. That would almost certainly mean Soviet intervention of the Hungarian variety.

That would invite possible intervention by the West Germans and that would probably mean war.

* * *

6. WE ARE ALL LOOKING for a realistic way of reducing tension. One possible way would be to work out an agreement for the control and inspection of forces on both sides of the curtain. That would reduce the danger of a surprise attack.

The reduction of tension which resulted might create an atmosphere in which we could consider the reduction or readjustment of forces.

The trouble is that any such control agreement would be hard to apply unless we recognized the East German regime. That is impossible because it would outrage the West Germans and probably mean the loss of our rights in Berlin.

So it seems almost inevitable that the creation of an inspection zone would be tied to a solution of the German unification problem. And the Russians are dead set against such a solution.

* * *

7. FROM WHATEVER ANGLE you examine this situation it seems a mistake to consider the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time.

Those who complain because "we aren't ready to make any concessions to the other side" might stop to consider that the Iron Curtain today is the most stable frontier that the modern world has known.

We should think a long time before tinkering with a situation which doesn't seem to disturb anybody but the Red army and Mr. Khrushchev.

But Time Is Vital Factor

'Wait-and-See' Policy Best For Dulles, Moderates Feel

By JAMES RESTON

The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — When White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty was asked Monday about Senators Stuart Symington and Hubert Humphrey calling for the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he replied: "It is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the papers."

These are the extremes of the controversy over the consequences of Dulles' illness. Most impartial observers here do not think it is necessary to reach any decision now, nor do they think it is right to dismiss serious doubts about the situation as mere "publicity seeking."

RESTON

The reasons behind this moderate wait-and-see position are:

1. It has been two weeks since Dulles asked for a leave of absence, and only 10 days since it was discovered he was suffering from a recurrence of intestinal cancer. There is nothing unusual in his being away from his post two or three weeks. This has happened many times during his six years in office, and while absence from Washington is not the same as absence for reasons of health, the State Department is accustomed to carrying on without him longer than a fortnight.

2. It is too early to know what the effects of the radiation treatment will be. He had his third treatmnt Monday, and the doctors are at least satisfied that these have not upset him.

3. Dulles himself has said publicly that he will let it be known "at any time I don't feel able to carry on." There is no reason to question his good faith on this point. Nobody knows better than he the dangers of a part-time Secretary of State at a critical time like this, and those who know him best, including the members of his own family, who want him to stay on, are convinced that he will resign immediately if he does not feel able to carry the full responsibilities of his job.

This is the argument which has persuaded such men as Senators J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Mike Mansfield of Montana and John Sparkman of Alabama — all members of the Foreign Relations Committee and all periodic critics of the secretary — that there is no reason to make a decision before the radiation therapy has been given a fair chance.

On the other hand it is not prudent, in this moderate view, not to give serious thought to alternate plans for conducting the nation's foreign policy, lest the hopeful assumptions of the White House prove to be false.

While there is no likelihood that any major decisions will have to be taken on the Berlin crisis before Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returns from Moscow, it is not accurate to say that everything is being carried on normally at the State Department.

For example, in his last public statement on Berlin the day he returned from Europe, Dulles said the three Western nations he visited (Britain, France and West Germany) had "reconfirmed the unity and firmness of our position."

"We are not resolved," he added in a formal statement, "that our position in, and access to, West Berlin shall be preserved. We are in general agreement as to the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights in this respect."

Because of Dulles' illness, however, not even the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate knows what these "procedures we shall follow" actually are.

Dulles has not been able to tell them. Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter has not told them, and neither has anybody else.

Involved in these procedures, however, are issues of momentous importance.

1. What is meant by the allies reconfirming "the unity and firmness of our position?" And what are "the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights" to pass freely from West Germany across 110 miles of Communist territory to free West Berlin?

2. Is there really "unity" among the allies on sending an armed convoy through East Germany to maintain our rights if the Communists try to block the way?

3. Who would man the convoy — U.S. soldiers or soldiers of all the Western allies?

4. If this led to fighting, would the obligations of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance be involved?

5. At what point would the issues be taken to the United Nations, and to what body of the U.N. — the Security Council or the General Assembly?

6. Is there "unity" among the allies on the forces and strategy necessary to pursue a policy of "firmness" in "preserving" "our position in, and access to, West Berlin?"

Even after Dulles made his general statement, a "working committee" of the four Western powers met to work out answers to these and many other questions, but officials here said Monday the four governments were still not committed to any specific course of action to meet any of the serious contingencies which may lie ahead.

What is at issue here is nothing less than a course of action which everybody concerned agrees could lead to war in Central Europe against conventional forces far larger than any commanded by the West.

Accordingly, while there is much sentiment for Dulles' recovery, there is also a great deal of anxiety in Washington about the formulation of policy to meet these serious developing situations.

Even with Dulles using all his authority in the National Security Council debate, it has not always been easy for him to prevail against the Pentagon on policy questions which might involve military action.

For all these reasons, time is a factor in the equation. The decision, of course, is the President's, and not Dulles', but at some point fairly soon somebody must decide what forces are to be placed in what positions to demonstrate Western "firmness," and this will certainly be one of the most important decisions of the last six years.

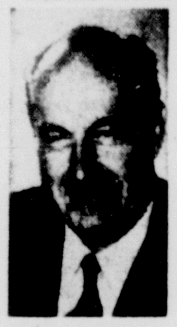
Strauss Criticism Censored in 1957

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If handsome, debonair Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington really wants to get the lowdown on Adm. Lewis Strauss, the Wall Street banker now up for Senate confirmation as secretary of commerce, he should call Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri as a witness.



PEARSON

STRAUSS

He should also subpoena the heavily censored report which Cannon once prepared on Strauss but which was largely killed at the insistence of Republicans.

In retrospect Cannon was well ahead of his time. His criticism of Strauss, then head of the Atomic Energy Commission, charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. Since then, sensational Russian tests show that the Congressman from Missouri was right.

Cannon, who represents Mark Twain's district in the "Show Me" state, had long adopted a "show me" attitude toward the ex-atomic chairman who now seeks to get a Senate OK as secretary of commerce.

And as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee he has the power to scrutinize much of what Strauss did.

In the Appropriations Committee report in the summer of 1957, Chairman Cannon accused Strauss of falsifying facts, bringing politics into atomic energy, and rubbing out commissioners who did not agree with him.

Immediately a storm broke inside the committee and Congressman John Taber of New York, ranking Republican, succeeded in having the criticism of Strauss largely censored from the secret report.

TABER

CANNON

However, this column has obtained a copy and senators who have to vote on whether Strauss is qualified to serve as Secretary of Commerce should read it.

"The approach to the problem which is urged by Commissioners Strauss, Libby and Vance constitutes nothing but defeat," was one critical statement stricken from the report.

* * *

THE NEXT SENTENCE was not censored: "Logically the vital question before America as a nation is, what are we accomplishing?" But the answer to this question was stricken. It read:

"The answer is inescapable that we are stagnating because of the dogmatic attitude of Chairman Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission. His (Eisenhower's) pledge to the world has been effectively thwarted by reason of a philosophy on the part of Mr. Strauss."

"Prior to the second advent of Mr. Strauss into official position as a member of the AEC," continued the censored report, "the commission remained singularly aloof from politics.

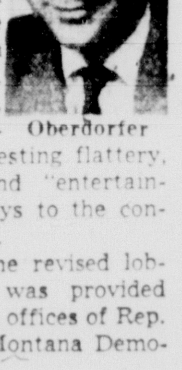
"Early in 1953, the President deemed it advisable to permit himself to be counseled by Mr. Strauss as a special adviser on atomic energy matters . . . Mr. Strauss set out to defeat the whole purpose of the Congress in entrusting this responsibility of sweeping magnitude to a five man commission. The result has been a development which is contrary to the best interests of the United States."

New Look in Lobbying --Just Use Soft Soap

By DON OBERDORFER

Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congressmen have just taken an unusual peek at the newest methods of "influencing" their votes.



Oberdorfer

Since the Goldfine case, influence-minded constituents are being warned against giving congressmen anything more tangible than the time of day.

Instead, Washington "advisors" are suggesting flattery, social favors and "entertainment" as the keys to the congressman's heart.

The look at the revised lobbying methods was provided through the good offices of Rep. Lee Metcalf, a Montana Democrat.

He slipped into the Congressional Record the text of a message circulated to more than 10,000 businessmen by Babson's Washington Forecast. This is a newsletter claiming to give "inside tips."

The Forecast assured its readers that despite the recent tightening up on influence-peddling, "you can use many methods to influence (congressmen's) opinions and votes — without any danger of involvement or embarrassment."

Legal influence, a la Babson, proceeds this way:

"Find some fields of common interest — people back home, sports, hobbies, etc. Invite your congressman to lunch or dinner, or to a social affair.

"Make him feel you think he's smart and important. Ask him questions about subjects on which he's expert. Be a good, agreeable listener.

"Don't overspend on entertainment, but don't be afraid to order a sufficiency of the best. Very important: Don't give gifts of any kind.

"Develop future personal contacts — an affair back home, a speech or visit by your congressman at a trade meeting or convention, a fishing trip, golf game, visits to your home, etc. Gradually build a close personal friendship.

"After you're on a first-name basis, casually ask his advice about a personal or business problem . . . let him develop a reputation as a problem solver. Praise him for his astuteness.

"Very soon you'll find him wanting to live up to this developed reputation. At that stage, you'll be surprised at how open-minded he will become on issues on which you previously thought him bitterly opposed."

Rail Labor Heads Put Blame on Management

(One of a Series)

By PAUL GAPP

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO — Labor leaders accuse the nation's railroads of operating one of the most effective propaganda machines in existence.

They say the machine pumps out a mixture of distortion, exaggeration and half-truth that conceals the financial successes of railroads and gives a warped view of the industry's labor relations.

They contend that many newspapers, magazines and other news media print or broadcast only the management side of the railroad problem.

To get labor's side of the story this writer interviewed five of the country's highest ranking railroad union officials, head-quartered in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and St. Louis.

Guy L. Brown, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, spoke out on the railroads' "machine."

"If railroads spent as much time and money on furnishing and selling transportation as they spent on telling the public they're heading for the poorhouse, maybe they would increase their incomes," he said.

Brown, a railroader since he was 15, said the morale of rail workers is "lower than it has been in 50 years."

He is among labor leaders who are less than optimistic about patching up union-management relations.

* * *

THE BROTHERHOOD leaders generally condemned the bright young businessmen who represent today's new breed of railroad executives.

"They're detrimental to the industry," said George S. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association and head of the Telegrapher's Union.

"All they're looking for is the almighty dollar," he said. "They're not interested in serving the public."

Leighty said the railroads' total net income more than doubled between the late 1940s and the 50s (although it has declined since 1956).

"The railroads are actually a growing industry," added George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway & Steamship Clerks.

* * *

ROADS LIKE the Chicago & North Western will always remain "marginal," said Harrison, by virtue of the geographic and economic limitations of the regions in which they operate.

"Railroads want the public to pay rates sufficiently high to finance additions or betterments to their operations," he said.

"But does an office building owner raise his rents just so he can get enough money to put up a new building?" asked Harrison.

"No, he gets the money someplace else. He borrows it. And that's what the railroads should do."

The labor chiefs blame poor equipment, service and sales methods for much of the decline in passenger business.

* * *

FOX AND OTHER union officials feel intensive advertising campaigns, better customer relations and aggressive salesmanship can give passenger business a major boost.

Employe rudeness to customers and inadequate maintenance, they contend, can usually be traced back to workers disgruntled by overwork and a disinterested management.

Harrison said creation of super transit authorities in cities like Chicago could solve the commuter line problem.

Existing railroads would continue to supply service under contracts with the authority under such a plan. General revenue would make up any deficit.

Simple fare increases are not the answer, said Harrison.

* * *

MORE REALISTIC regulation of freight rates was urged by H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Gilbert said he also favors eliminating the 10-per cent federal tax on passenger fares, paying railroads the full cost of handing mail and similar measures.

Generally, however, labor and management find little common ground from which the joint program could be launched to help their industry.

Land Purchase For Hospital Near Completion

The purchase of five and a quarter acres of county land for the Cedars of Lebanon hospital on the former Miami Country Club grounds will be completed Thursday.

A check for $53,211 will be presented to County Commission Chairman Walter Weiss by Dr. Morris Blau, chairman of the building committee.

Construction of the 110-bed, two-million-dollar hospital will begin in about two months on the northwest corner of NW 14th Street and 12th Avenue, across from the proposed State office building, and north of the site of the Baptist Hospital.

The land was sold by the county at cost to a group of 72 doctors who will build the non-profit, non-denominational hospital.

A bookie suspect was arrested Monday Dade County law enforcement agents, who found him in a building at 14010 W. Dixie Hwy.

Arrested was Ormand Pagluca, 52, who was at a table containing numerous betting slips, according to State Attorney Richard Gerstein.

He added he has scheduled a second meeting this Friday with top Dade and municipal law enforcement chiefs to review what steps have been taken to drive out bookmakers here.

Herbert C. Gee, former chief Army engineer here and now a consultant for the civilian Flood Control District, warned the meeting at the Dupont Plaza Hotel that the project-scratching was imminent.

Along with 90 other students, the first-semester failures are tackling the course with the aid of a special mathematics course set up especially for them by the University.

"We are making a concerted effort to aid students who have shown a deficiency in math," said Dr. C. Doren Tharp, UM vice president and dean of faculties.

The freshman physics course is being taken by 314 students.

Real Swifties Got That Meat

Tenderloin steaks purloined from a Miami meat warehouse over the weekend weren't taken by amateurs.

A break-in at the Swift & Co. warehouse, 48 NW 11th St. netted the thieves over $5,000 worth of the choicest cuts, in crates weighing a total of 10,000 pounds.

Manager C. D. Williams said the thieves were not only meat experts, but were suspiciously well acquainted with the plant.

The theft was pulled at one of the few periods the warehouse was unattended. The thieves also "commandeered a fork-lift truck to haul the loot to a waiting truck, police said.

New Order Sought By Nehru

NEW DELHI — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru appealed Monday night for a new supra-national world order, avoiding both the "acquisitiveness of capitalism and the dogmatism of Communism."

He said the new order should be based on cooperation, not competition, and prepare the way for an eventual world state.

Nehru delivered a memorial lecture on "India Today and Tomorrow" dedicated to the late Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, the Indian nationalist leader and education minister who died a year ago.

At another point in his wide-ranging address, the premier emphasized the need to control the world's population growth.

"If the entire world functions on the lines of the U.S.," he said in this context, "then probably all essential materials will be consumed by the end of the century, although this is unlikely."

FEC Just Waiting For 'Papa'

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

The richest orphan of them all — the Florida East Coast Railway — will have a family once again by late summer.

That was the word Monday from Ed Ball, spokesmen for the FEC's prospective guardian, the St. Joe Paper Co. of Jacksonville.

All that remains after recent court approval of the "adoption" is to poll FEC bondholders to see if they want to accept control again of the technically bankrupt line.

"I don't think I am being optimistic in saying this vote is a formality," Ball said. By late summer we should be out of bankrputcy."

Although the half-century-old FEC went into bankruptcy in 1931, it became one of the nation's money-making railways. Lengthy court fights over who should take control has kept it a ward of the federal courts.

Ball said the "red tape of getting the line out of bankruptcy" is delaying a new terminal near 29th St. and the FEC tracks.

He told County Commissioner Faris Cowart Monday he's sure Metro and new FEC owners can agree on selling a parcel of FEC land near the airport to the county for lenthening of a runway.

They met with Port Authority Director George McSherry, who said the lengthening of the runway "is not urgent this year."

Liability Claim Action Deferred

City officials Monday deferred action until March 9 on a $10,000 annual disability application of City Attorney William L. Pallot.

Pallot, who is suffering from a heart condition, claims he was disabled as a result of a fall from an office swivel chair.

Congressional Allies Say

Ike May Veto Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— Some of President Eisenhower's congressional allies predicted Monday that the chief executive will veto any deep cut in his foreign aid program.

"I'd bet my right hand that if the program is cut too deeply it will get a veto," one administration supporter said.

Eisenhower was reported to be worried that if aid to anti-Communist nations is jeopardized, the U.S. would wind up in a "garrison hemisphere."

Although some congressional sources have predicted foreign aid reductions of up to a billion dollars, the consensus among veterans was that the cut would be less than half of that.

Eisenhower sought $3,498,000,000 for mutual security in his $77,030,000,000 budget for the year starting July 1. The foreign aid request was down $383 million from last year.

But he also sought $3,930,000,000 in new obligational authority, more than $400 million above the current year's total.

Some legislative experts believe the President would be lucky to get the foreign aid total he received a year ago.

Eisenhower apparently has not talked about a veto to his legislative leaders, but has made his feelings about the aid program clearly known through his statements.

Spaceman Predicted In 2 Years

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The first man will be put in orbit around the earth within two years, rocket expert Willy Ley predicted Monday. It probably will be a Russian, he added.

The German-born scientist, speaking to Los Angeles State College students, said Americans should not be disappointed if Russia is the first to send a manned space craft around Earth.

American scientists, he said, will not send a human being into orbit until every phase of the re-entry problem has been completely solved.

Extending his look into the future, Ley said he expects orbiting of the moon to come in about four years. Such a rocket, he said, would be launched from an unmanned space station and would not return to Earth.

Boys Knock Out A Guard, Escape Dade Youth Hall

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

Mounting tension, due to overcrowding, exploded into an escape at Dade Youth Hall Monday — but a threatened mass walk-out collapsed.

Two Negro youths knocked out a guard, pushed through a second-story window screen and leaped barefoot from a balcony.

But — with doors unlocked — a crew of other youths either "chickened-out" or thought better of earlier threats.

Still others, who could have escaped, came to aid the injured guard, shouting, to the escapees:

"You got his keys, what more do you want?"

Caught in close quarters were factions of three opposing teen-age Negro gangs — the Unions, the 20th Street Sharks and the County Sluggers.

"I knew trouble was brewing," explained the injured Negro guard, Osa L. Nickerson. "They tried to make it happen Saturday."

Still at large is Joseph L. Walker, 15, who had announced frequently he'd escape if sentenced to Florida Industrial School at Marianna.

Back at Youth Hall is Leroy Tucker, 14, who was returned to custody by his father.

Nickerson was treated at Jackson Memorial Hospital, where he was given seven stitches for lacerations of the scalp. One of the inmates pulled the boys from him, he said.

"The whole bunch could have gone."

Superintendent Vincent O'Dea said there are 31 boys in the section, built to accomodate 17 in single-occupancy rooms.

About half of these were waiting for commitment to the Industrial School in Marianna or the county detention home at Kendal. Both are full, he said.

Two more guards were scheduled to go on duty next week. One would have been assigned to this division.

'They Hit Me Here'
. . . says injured guard

Nickerson had been on duty 11 hours when the early morning attack came. But he blamed his misjudgment instead of fatigue.

Walker is tough, he said, "but I trusted Tucker."

He said he let Tucker out to go to the rest room and wash some clothes. Later Walker asked out for a drink of water.

Tucker tackled the guard, who'd turned to hang up one of the boy's toothbrushes on a rack.

Tucker was in Youth Hall for a three-month commitment to Kendall for rifling pay phones. Walker had a string of offenses, including strong-arm robbery and assault.

Treasury Eases Medical Deductions

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

Several favorable rulings were made in 1958 on the important issue of what constitutes deductible medical expenses. Because of these, you or your friends or relatives may be able to take larger medical expense deductions in your 1958 return.

SYLVIA

First, it has become fairly common practice for many persons to go south in winter, north in summer in order to be in a more healthful climate. Generally, they can't treat their traveling expenses as deductible medical expenses, especially when they go to places which also are resort areas. The reason is that traveling to improve one's general health does not qualify as a medical expense.

Last year, though, the Treasury said that a person's traveling expenses will qualify as a deductible medical expense if he takes the trip on a doctor's advice in order to alleviate a specific chronic ailment and to escape unfavorable climatic conditions which have been injurious to his health.

The ruling was given to an 80-year-old man who suffered from a heart disease which made it difficult for him to breathe, particularly in summer. His doctor advised him to go to another climate for the summer where the temperature was more suitable, to take along a nurse and to avoid sightseeing or other side trips.

Since he traveled for the sole purpose of alleviating his specific chronic ailment, the Treasury said he could deduct the expenses of the trip as medical expenses.

In another situation, a person with a cardiac condition bought a reclining chair prescribed by a cardiac specialist for maximum rest. This person was allowed to treat the cost of the chair as a deductible medical expense — although the Treasury says that the deduction is allowable only if the chair is not otherwise generally used as an article of furniture. The same principle should apply to other types of household equipment which are bought solely for medical purposes (say, a hospital bed).

A decision also was made last year on whether the costs of going to and from work can be deductible as a medical expense. The cost of commuting is definitely not deductible as a business expense.

In the case on which the Treasury ruled, a person was partially disabled by a spine injury and his doctor recommended employment as a part of therapy as well as use of a car to improve his physical condition. This influenced the decision that the operating expenses of the car (other than the portion allocated to social and recreational trips) were deductible as medical expenses.

In 1958 too, the Treasury liberalized its attitude toward medical expense deductions for the care of physically or mentally handicapped children. It previously had ruled that the cost of special instruction or training was deductible as a medical expense. But the specialized services are often part of an overall package furnished by a school or institution—including ordinary education, meals and lodging — and the Treasury had denied a medical expense deduction for that part of the cost allocable to the ordinary education, meals and lodging.

Last year, though, it modified its position and ruled that the total cost of meals, lodging and ordinary education furnished a mentally retarded child attending a special school is a medical expense if a principal reason for the child's presence is to use the institution's resources for alleviating his mental or physical handicap.

While most of the 1958 developments on medical expenses favored the taxpayer, there was one exception. When a wife is recovering from an illness, it often may be necessary to hire a maid to permit the wife to take the rest needed for her recuperation. But the Treasury balked at accepting the maid's salary and other costs as a medical expense, and all that it will allow as a medical expense deduction are the costs attributable to services rendered directly to the wife which are of the type rendered by a nurse.

Paper Reports Tipsters Fix Wins For Rakeoff in Puzzle Contests

PORTLAND, Ore. — (UPI) — A nationwide ring of puzzle solution "tipsters" is victimizing newspapers by supplying puzzle answers to "fixed" winners, according to the Oregon Journal.

William W. Knight, publisher of the Journal, said in a front-page editorial that the Journal and the Portland Oregonian were "hit" by the ring, which was believed to operate from Detroit.

The two Portland newspapers have been running a type of "crossword" puzzle and paying cash to readers who solve the puzzles. Many other newspapers in the U.S. also carry the puzzles.

Knight said that about a week ago, the Journal learned of the possibility of a "fix" and "tiping" scheme and began to investigate.

The newspaper learned that a Portland woman who was paid $2,600 on Feb. 13 retained only $300 of the money. The rest was paid to an intermediary, who in turn paid off $2,150 to a person representing the Detroit ring.

The Journal said another Portland man, who won $2,950, admitted he kept only $950 and sent the rest to a "tipster" in Detroit. Knight's editorial said:

"When first given the information, we were incredulous. We could scarcely believe such a thing possible."

Knight said the FBI and police were advised of the Journal's information and the investigation is continuing.

He said the Journal puzzles would be terminated as soon as this week's contest expires and that steps were being taken to "assure the fairness of the contest for current participants."

Ervin: Release Collins As a Witness

BARTOW —(AP)— Attorney General Richard Ervin asked a Criminal Court judge Monday to release Gov. LeRoy Collins and two others as witnesses for the bribery trial of E. B. (Shorty) Jones.

Judge Roy Amidon said he would hear arguments on the motions today prior to the opening of the trial.

Jones, a former director of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and one-time state legislator from Madison County, is charged with attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish.

The sheriff said Jones offered $5,000 in cash and $1,000 a month to allow a bolita gang to operate in Polk County. The offer came just before Parrish took office in 1957, the sheriff said.

Jones, 39, now operator of a restaurant at Perry, Denied the charges.

Witnesses subpenaed by the defense include Collins, his executive assistant, William Durden, and Don McLeod, director of the Florida Sheriff's Bureau.

The attorney general and two assistants appeared in Criminal Court Monday with motions to quash the subpenaes against the three.

Ervin said Collins "invokes the common law immunity inherent to a sovereign of a state and declines to recognize" the subpena.

He said, in listing grounds for quashing the subpena on Durden, the executive assistant "has no knowledge of the existence, contents, or whereabouts of any of the records . . . except that which was imparted and entrusted to him" in his capacity as an aide to the governor. Durden "therefore invokes common law immunity," the attorney general said.

Cyprus Defense Outlined

Britain Keeps 2 Base Areas

LONDON —(AP)— Britain disclosed Monday night that a 2,000-man army, 60 per cent Greek and 40 per cent Turkish, will defend the new Republic of Cyprus.

The government published a white paper with full details of the independence agreement worked out here among British, Greek, Turkish and Cypriot representatives last week.

The white paper outlined these additional points:

Britain will have absolute control of two areas on the Eastern Mediterranean island for use as military bases. It can exclude anyone from the areas. This was one of the thorniest points in the negotiations.

The constitution of the proposed republic of Cyprus will come into force "at the earliest practicable date." Simultaneously sovereignty over the island colony will be transferred to the republic.

Britain, Greece and Turkey jointly agree to guarantee the new republic's "independent territorial integrity and security."

Under a separate defense treaty, Greece, Turkey and the new republic will join forces against any aggressor threatening any one of them.

The white paper made public for the first time the Greek-Turkish Zurich agreement on Feb. 11 on which the final Cyprus settlement was based.

The Zurich agreement provides that the president of the new republic shall be a Greek and the vice president a Turk. The house of representatives will be elected 70 per cent from the Greek community, 30 per cent from the Turk.

It is expected that Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, will be the first president.

UF Alumni Of Miami Elect Fleger

Jack Fleger, insurance executive of 10640 SW 73rd Ct., is the new president of the University of Florida Alumni Club of Greater Miami.

Other officers elected at the annual luncheon at the Urmey Hotel Monday are Peter Pruitt and Bruce Vining, vice presidents; Dick Hunter, treasurer, and Jim Hartnett, secretary.

Larry King, 9901 SW 60th Ave., was named to the state executive board as district vice president. A 19-member board of directors also was named.

Ray O. Weimer, head of the university's school of communications, said Florida leads all states in existing educational TV stations, as well as in planning for the future.

Bill Fleming, a former Miamian who is now assistant alumni affairs director, said the university now has "greater alumni activity than at anytime in its history." Assistant Football Coach Hank Foldberg reviewed the outlook for the 1959 grid season.

Shoppers Taking Free Buses at Orange Bowl
. . . merchants start service to spur downtown business

1,281 Shoppers Take Advantage Of First Free Buses to Stores

Miami shoppers by the hundreds rode free buses from Orange Bowl parking lots into the downtown area Monday as merchants began a five-week test of a "park free-ride free" program to boost downtown business.

Merchants and other downtown interests — who are underwriting the test at a cost of $117 a day — were happy when it was announced that the 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. free buses carried 1,281 riders.

Figures of the Miami Transit Co., operators of the buses, showed that there were only 493 riders to and from the same parking lots to the downtown area during similar hours a week ago Monday. The free buses will continue at eight minute intervals during these hours, six days a week.

The new plan, sparked by the Downtown Business Council of the Miami-Dade County Chamber of Commerce, is shooting at a goal of 1,500 riders a day.

In Tampa, where an almost identical plan has been in operation for nearly a year, some 70,000 potential shoppers are brought in monthly from the Fair Grounds there.

But merchants there told their Miami counterparts that the experiment there was far from satisfactory at its start, and that it required some three months before it "caught on."

Monday's first trip was complete with a hostess, blonde 18-year-old Wanda Stubblefield. She was loaned by the Metropolitan Bank, where she is a secretary.

Taxpayers Fly 'Economy' Class

Government Employes' 'Champagne' Trips Rapped

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Thor C. Tollefson (R.-Mich.) said Monday that too many government workers traveling by plane at taxpayer expense are taking deluxe "champagne" flights rather than economy flights.

He called for a congressional investigation.

Tollefson said government employes ought to fly in comfort but it's carrying things too far when they patronize the "champagne" flights.

The congressman requested an investigation in a letter to Chairman William L. Dawson (D., Ill.) of the House Government Operations Committee, giving examples of what he is complaining about.

Tollefson told of a businessman flying from Europe to this country aboard a jet plane who found that most of the deluxe passengers where government personnel — and "most of the economy passengers were businessmen."

Round-trip deluxe fare is $903.40, while the economy rate is $478.70, Tollefson said. Deluxe passengers are served cocktails and a hot meal; economy riders get "deluxe" sandwiches, but no liquor.

Tollefson said an airline president had told him of making a transcontinental flight to the West Coast on a plane carrying both coach and first class passengers. For coach passengers the round-trip fare was $229.50; for first class, $343.98.

"First class passengers receive two cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, wine with meal and champagne," Tollefson said. "Coach passengers receive a meal but must buy liquor if they desire it. The quality of service for both classes is the same."

Tollefson said the airline president informed him that to the best of his knowledge all first class passengers on the plane were on government orders "and consisted of Marine privates, Navy ensigns and similar personnel."

Through Zoning, Pupil Assignment Law

Schools Can Forestall Mixing for Years—Odum

TAMPA—(UPI)—Assistant Attorney Gen. Ralph Odum said Monday that most public schools in Florida can continue to operate on a segregated basis for years.

Odum, the state's top segregation expert, said that residential zoning and the pupil assignment law will provide a high degree of natural segregation.

"The courts have not ruled that racial integration must be carried out just for the sake of integrating, regardless of normal geographic districting," Odum told Independent Bankers of Florida at a meeting here.

He said the parent option plan of private schools, which the Legislature will be asked to enact next year, will be needed only in scattered spots. He said he has not been able to get accurate information on cost of private school operation, but some schools set up in Virginia are charging $20 a month, which is less than the cost of public schools.

Odum said public education might improve considerably under the parent option plan because of private school competition.

Only a few school districts in Florida are bi-racial, he said, pointing out that schools in such neighborhoods are the most vulnerable to integration.

The Orchard Villa School in Miami, an all-white school which the Dade County School Board ordered integrated next fall, is located in a predominantly Negro section and the board said the pupil assignment law gave them no basis for refusing to admit four Negroes who live close by.

"Where residential areas by race are not so well defined, the criteria provided by the school placement law, such as scholastic levels, will result in a high degree of natural segregation," Odum declared.

An amendment to the state constitution would be needed to allow state tax money to go toward the cost of attendance at a private school.

Then, he said, there should be laws which:

1. Define the reason and conditions which justify a child's withdrawal from an integrated public school and his receiving a grant-in-aid with which to attend a private school.

2. Provide for an orderly withdrawal of children from public schools and safeguards against misuse of grant-in-aid tuition money.

3. Give reasonable protection to the tenure and retirement benefits of public school teachers.

Legislators Kicked Out Of Meeting

By JOHN BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — "It was all a mistake," an education department spokesman told three legislators Monday after they were asked to leave a meeting of the state committee selecting textbooks.

Rep. Mack Cleveland, of Sanford, said he and Reps. Robert Mann of Tampa and Ralph Turlington of Gainesville, were politely booted out of the meeting and "I never did understand what it was all about."

Cleveland said he and the other two legislators, in Tallahassee for another meeting, decided to visit the textbook committee session without any special reason.

"Of course I am interested in how textbooks are selected," Cleveland said, "because occasionally I get a complaint from one of my constituents about a certain textbook."

Later, Fred Turner of the State Department of Education, came out personally to invite Cleveland and Mann back. Turlington had left the capital before the matter was smoothed out.

Turner explained a member of the committee, without any bad intentions, questioned whether the legislators should be present while a textbook salesman was speaking for his company.

It was the first time the question had ever come up and the committee just acted hastily, Turner explained.

Something New in Skies

Astronomers Puzzled By New Stellar Object

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Astronomers have found something new in the skies. They think it might be a "neutron star" weighing millions of tons to the cubic inch.

ZWICKY

Whatever they've found, the scientists say it appears to be "a new stellar object" of a kind never before observed.

They are now aiming radio telescopes in its direction to try to pick up signals from the hot gases thrown off by its explosion, which occurred sometime between August of 1954 and November of 1958. The explosion was photographed during that interval but between last November and Jan. 12 this year it disappeared from telescopic view.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology has predicted the existence of neutron stars but none has ever been observed before. He theroized that forces of contraction in some dying stars becomes so great the atoms are crushed to the dimensions of their nuclei.

In a neutron star, atoms lose nearly all of their volume, but retain all of their mass.

A kind of dying star called a white dwarf which attains densities of 10 to 20 tons or more per cubic inch is familiar to astronomers. But while dwarfs are fluffy compared to a neutron star.

Bosses for Day To Visit Medics

As part of the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce's "Boss for a Day" program, 40 students of Miami Beach High school will visit the University of Miami Medical School next Monday.

Arriving at the Medical School at 9:30 a.m., the students will be shown the various laboratories and classrooms. They will also tour the main campus and have lunch in the Student Union.

Cub Scout David Lewis Meets Generals
. . . Romulo and Gen. Pate of U.S. Marines

You Just Can't Compromise With Reds, Romulo Asserts

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. —(AP)— Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Phillipine ambassador to the U.S., says the world should beware of the voices of communism that are "counseling for a peace that is compromised."

"How can there be compromise with a force based on a philosophy of world conquest and imperialism?" Romulo asked in ceremonies at this historic site where George Washington and his Army spent the winter of 1777-78.

The occasion was the 10th annual Freedoms Foundation Awards to 694 individuals, organizations and schools for things they said, did and wrote during 1958 to maintain the American way of life.

The Philippine ambassador to the U.S. and former President of the U.N. assembly was cited on Washington's 227th birthday for "his wisdom and courage in the quest to sustain and expand man's individual liberties."

Romulo accepted the special Freedoms Leadership Award Medal "humbly," he said, "in behalf of my people, because it really belongs to them . . . they have long fought for freedom."

The nation's No. 1 Boy Scout leader, Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, was honored with the foundation's top George Washington Award for "his forthright patriotism, skilled administrative work and leadership by example in character building, which have made Scouting a beloved word in every home in America."

A Hit in Melbourne

Aussie Churchmen Hail Graham Crusade

MELBOURNE —(AP)— Protestant church leaders Monday hailed Billy Graham's week-old crusade as a big boost to Melbourne's religious life.

Anglican Archbishop Frank Woods said the American evangelist made a good impression on the clergy, and the public responded in "the most remarkable way."

Since Friday night more than 125,000 people have heard Graham preach at three meetings in Melbourne's open air Music Bowl. Seventy thousand turned out Sunday. Nearly 400 required first aid for effects of the 93-degree heat.

The president of the Methodist Church of Australia, Dr. A. H. Wood, said his church is heartily supporting Graham.

"We are extremely grateful for what he has done," said Dr. Wood. "His movement has brought a greater response than expected. It is the duty of Australia's churches to conserve the good work Graham is doing."

The Rev. A. Crichton Barr, a Presbyterian leader, said Graham has a great preaching power and persuasive ability and is bound to make a profound and lasting impression on both religious and non-religious sections of the community.

About 30,000 are expected to hear Graham preach Wednesday night.

Special Funds Urged

Repay Bilked Clients, Bar Groups Are Told

CHICAGO —(AP)— The American Bar Association called on state and local bar associations Monday to set up special funds to reimburse any clients defrauded by their lawyers.

The possibility of a fight over a resolution dealing with controversial Supreme Court decisions on communism arose when the subject was put over until today for consideration.

Theodore Voorhees of Philadelphia, chairman of an ABA special committee which drafted the reimbursement resolution, estimated an annaul five-dollar contribution by each lawyer would be more than adequate to provide restitution to victims of embezzlement in most parts of the country.

The Oregon and Vermont bar associations voted last year to establish such funds.

Fifteen local bar associations voted last year to establish such funds.

Fifteen local bar associations have committees studying such plans.

The ABA threw its support behind the principle of such funds after floor discussion at its mid-winter meeting. Opponents contended such problems are local matters not within the province of the national organization.

The committee's report on the plan said:

"The clients' security fund is a closely-related public service program. By the assessment of the members of a state or local bar association, it provides a fund by which, on the infrequent occasions when a lawyer embezzles his client's money and fails to make restitution, the bar is placed in position to assume his obligation.

"In Britain and many other common-law countries, that obligation is regarded as a debt of honor by the profession."

The report on Supreme Court decisions concerning communism, supported by the ABA board of governors, cites criticism of several court decisions dealing with subversion and Communist activities in the U.S. It calls for clarification of internal security laws as the remedy for the situation.

Proposal to Admit Red China to U.N. Divides Senators

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A former State Department official suggested Monday that the U.S. should declare its willingness to enter into diplomatic relations with Red China. The proposal sparked sharp opposition in his audience of senators.

"The munute you recognize Red China, you might as well kiss Southeast Asia good bye," Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) told Charles Burton Marshall, a former member of the policy planning staff of the State Department.

Marshall also suggested to the Senate disarmament subcommittee that disarmament negotiations might be improved if the Chinese Nationalists quit Quemoy and Matsu and the U.N. underwrote the defense of Formosa by the Western powers.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) questioned whether any agreement with a Chinese government could be trusted. And Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D., Ohio) said that by its own conduct Communist China is not eligible for membership in the U.N.

"I am not carrying a flag for Red China's entrance into the U.N.," Marshall said at one point.

But he said there is a contradiction in talking about negotiations for disarmament while ignoring a party that would have to be included in any effective agreement.

Congo Tense as Rioting Spreads to Jungle

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo — (UPI) — The savage intertribal rioting that killed at least 120 Negroes here last week was reported Monday to have spread to the jungle town of Fort Rousset, 250 miles north of Brazzaville.

There was no immediate report of casualties from Ft. Rousset, but it was known that a number of native huts there had been set on fire.

A detachment of state police was sent north from Brazzaville in anticipation of trouble at Fort Rousset.

A tense calm reigned in Brazzaville Monday with several thousand French-officered Negro troops patrolling the streets ready to clamp down on any new rioting.

When Gen. Charles de Gaulle came to power in Paris, this former French Congo territory became one of 12 autonomous African nations in De Gaulle's new overseas community.

Goering Estate Poses Problem

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN, Germany — A denazification board in West Berlin, the last of its kind in Germany, still is wrestling with the problem of Hermann Goering's estate.

GOERING

Involved are securities and works of art that belonged to the onetime No. 2 Nazi leader who beat the hangman by committing suicide after his conviction of war crimes' charges by the international tribunal at Nuernberg.

The estate is claimed by Goering's widow, Emmy, and their daughter, Edda, who now live in Bavaria. The denazification panel may order all or part of the value seized. The items that have been discovered are said to be worth 10 million reichsmarks, an amount difficult to translate into present-day terms because of currency conversion.

Jewish Flight Worries Arabs

VIENNA — (AP) — The flow of Jewish emigrants from Romania to Israel is continuing without interruption despite the protests from the Arab states, Jewish sources here reported Monday.

Most of the Romanian Jews came out by train to Vienna and then are sent to Naples to board Israeli-bound ships.

Dispatches from Cairo have reported the United Arab Republic government plans to ask Moscow to stop the exodus from Romania and other Soviet bloc countries.

A Jewish relief spokesman said the migrant flow via Vienna is expected to hit a three-month high in February.

In December some 4,000 emigrants came through. After a slight decline in January, the rate this month is exceeding December's.

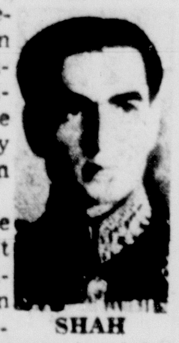
Shah-Princess Union Opposed

VATICAN CITY, — (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano said Monday the Roman Catholic Church could not approve a marriage between Roman Catholic Princess Maria Gabriella of the House of Savoy and the Moslem Shah of Iran.



SHAH

It was the first time that the authoritative Vatican newspaper mentioned recent reports involving the princess and the shah.

L'Osservatore did not refer to the two principals by name but described them as "A Roman Catholic princess" and "a Moslem sovereign."

Reports that the beautiful 19-year-old princess and the Shah of Iran would wed have been widespread in the Italian press. They have been denied by members of the House of Savoy, once rulers of Italy, including Umberto, father of the Princess and Italy's last king.

Some reports said approaches had been made to Vatican authorities and even to Pope John XXIII concerning the matter.

L'Osservatore gave no indication whether this had occurred. But it clearly defined the church's position in such a situation.

Flaming Wreck Kills Five As Car Rams Huge Truck

CALLAHAN — Five persons, including Marine John A. Barlow, a 22-year-old hitchhiker, were killed Monday when a car rammed a huge tractor-trailer truck and burst into flames.

Highway patrolmen said it was several hours before they could identify the badly burned victims, who were killed on impact.

Truck Driver Howard Lewis East of Cedertown, Ga., told police the approaching car veered and rammed his truck. Callahan is in extreme northeast Florida.

Driver of the car was listed as Mrs. Pauline K. Driver, 40, of Hartwell, Ga. With her were her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Moore, 19, and her son, Garland Driver, 12, also of Hartwell, and Richard White, 42, of Iva, S.C., owner of the car and cousin of Mrs. Driver.

The marine was from Columbus, Ohio, assigned to Camp LeJeune, N.C. Trooper R. S. Akers said Barlow's family believed he must have been hitchhiking.

Ex-Sen. King Gets Jail for Perjury

BARTOW — Former State Sen. Harry King, his request for a third trial denied, was sentenced Monday to two concurrent one-year jail terms on perjury charges, growing out of a $10,000 political payoff.

Criminal Court Judge Roy H. Amidon sentenced King and refused King's motion for a new trial, asked for a long list of alleged court errors.

The 56-year-old Winter Haven attorney was convicted Jan. 29 on two misdemeanor counts of conpiracy to commit perjury. At the same time he was acquitted of two felony charges of subornation of perjury.

King's attorneys announced they would appeal and he was freed on $5,000 bond.

Castro to Get Batista 'Gift'

FORT LAUDERDALE—Cuban strongman Fidel Castro may be chuckling under his beard over a "gift" unwittingly given him by his bitter foe, deposed President Fulgencio Batista.

Last August, Batista bought 10 used American planes for his Cuban Air Force. But delivery was delayed, pending repairs. So late, in fact, that although Batista bought them, Castro will probably get them.

The 10 T-28 Navy trainers were bought at Phoenix, Ariz., and sent to Aircraft Instrument Service here for repairs. Space was leased for them at Broward International Airport. "Now that the situation down in Cuba has cleared up," said Frank Hill, co-owner of Aircraft Instrument, "it looks like Castro will get the planes."

Base Cuts Its Force in Half

WEST PALM BEACH—Palm Beach Air Force Base has reduced its personnel 50 per cent in a gradual deactivation, which will be completed in late June.

The base, at its peak, had 4,000 men and its deactivation is expected to have an impact on the local economy.

The last remnants of the 1370th Photo Mapping Squadron, a complement of 1,100 men, left last week for Turner Air Force Base at Albany, Ga.

Other personnel will be relocated in "dribbles." However, the base will continue its training program until the last day of operations.

Woven Flexalum Is New Window Drape or Shade

A stylish new aluminum material for draperies and shades has been introduced to local homemakers by Sistrunk, Inc., 401 NW 71st St.

Known as Woven Flexalum, it is made of sculptured aluminum reeds loomed by an interesting monochromatic pattern of rich yarns and metallic thread. Its demensional profile creates an unusual visual effect through the interplay of highlights and shadows on the face of the reeds.

Versatility is the keynote of this material for it combines the appeal of high style window fashion with the practical advantage of eliminating glare, but admitting soft, diffused light.

The flexibility of Woven Flexalum makes it equally adaptable for use as draperies that traverse, roll shades, both cord and pulley and spring-roller types, or cafe curtains. The soft contour of Woven Flexalum draperies adds a touch of glamour and creates a pleasant new feeling of warmth.

As shades, Woven Flexalum gives both smart styling and pleasant, diffused light control. Floor to ceiling installations as room dividers or door substitutes make large rooms multi-purpose, neatly dividing room areas. Woven Flexalum collects compactly when drawn back.

Woven Flexalum is the newest product of the makers of nationally known Flexalum brand quality window treatments. The Flexalum aluminum reeds are made of a special alloy created for home decorating. Their permanent baked enamel finish can't fade, warp, split or mildew and their smooth surface is easy to keep dust-free.

Woven Flexalum is available with aluminum reeds in six decorator colors: antique white, tawny beige, citron, mist green, sand and mocha. The weave is identical for all colors, using sun-fast yarns in warm natural hues ranging from subdued white to rich gold.

Woven Flexalum with its delicate lines . . . fresh subtle use of color . . . and its versatility . . . make it the perfect background for the room where decorator drama and beauty is important.

OSTEOGLOSSUM BICIRRHOSUM, above, has been described as a "living fossil". It is on display at All Southern Aquarium and Pet Supply.

Rare Fish Make Work Interesting

The rare fish on display at Ali Southern Aquarium and Pet Supply did not get there through someone's generosity. Nor are their birds and animals healthy by accident.

A lot of hard work and money are expended to acquire and take care of fish and pets which will keep customers satisfied. There also are many thrills—and some chills — connected with the aquarium-pet supply business.

"A recent addition to our well-stocked aquarium division gave us one of the greatest thrills we've ever known," says Katie Nichols, who, with her husband Nick, owns the firm.

"Our new arrival was a fish — but what a fish!" she said. "The scientific name is Osteoglossum Bicirrhosum. There is no common name, but in some parts of South America, particularly around the Amazon River basin, it is known as the 'Arowana.'

'This fish is one of the most primitive forms of life found today. So primitive, in fact, that it has been called a 'living fossil.'

"The first day in our shop, the Osteoglossum became frightened when some children tapped the tank and jumped up and out. I caught him on the first bounce and, fortunately, it wasn't hurt.

"Since then, however, we keep that particular tank covered and request those who visit us not to tap any aquarium tank."

In addition to supplying rare specimens of fish to aquarium lovers, All Southern has a large selection of the more conventional tropical fish. All Southern's owners, being specialists, can and will give helpful advice on the care, feeding and treatment of all kinds of home aquarium fish.

A variety of canaries, parrakeets, and other song birds, as well as all food and essentials for their care, are part of All Southern's complete stock. The store is located at 1144 W. Flagler St., Miami. They are members of the Miami-Dade County Chamber of Commerce and the Pan-Am charge plan.

Information about pets and supplies may be secured by calling FRanklin 4-7010. Store hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays. Visitors are invited to come in and browse around.

Six Sisters Give Up Tresses - - Gladly

. . . Freda, 6, in chair; others from 8 to 18

Long Hair for Scrapbooks

SIX BRAIDS of hair, to be preserved in scrapbooks, are all that remain of the long tresses worn by the six Talbot sisters of St. Joseph, Mo.

A mass cutting snipped away a total of 12 feet of hair from the heads of Freda, 6; Patty, 8; Margaret, 11; Theresa, 13; Gertrude, 15; and Delia, 18. And were they glad!

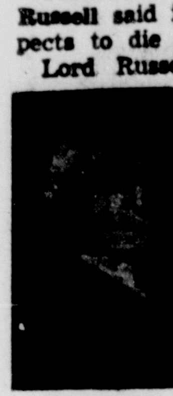
"They're just about wearing out the mirrors looking at their new looks," Mrs. Anthony Talbot, their mother, reported.

"It saves a lot of time in the morning when they are getting ready for school," the practical Mrs. Talbot added.

The girls had only one real worry. Could they still wear their old hats with the new bobs? They can.

Unimpressed by the sudden change in their sisters' appearances are the three Talbot boys.

"What's so unusual about getting your hair cut?" asked one. "We get ours cut once a month."



RUSSELL

PHILOSOPHER Bertrand Russell said in London he expects to die on June 1, 1962.

Lord Russell, who will be 87 on May 18, will read his own obituary on a television interview program next month.

The aged Nobel prizewinner, who has been married four times, wrote the obituary in 1937. He followed the style of The Times of London.

"I haven't changed a syllable of it for the television interview," Russell told a reporter. "I'm sticking to it all, including the date of my death.

"Why June 1, 1962? Well, I will be just past 90 then and it seems a suitable time to die.

"I must confess I am becoming a little nervous as the time approaches."

Rossellini Still Soneli's Friend

ITALIAN film director Roberto Rossellini said in Paris he often saw his Indian girl friend, Sonali Das Gupta. But he declined to talk to a reporter about any marriage plans.

ROSSELLINI

Asked if a marriage was in the offing, Rossellini replied "I can't answer that. It's much to early. We are very good friends, that's all."

He confirmed that Mrs. Das Gupta was living incognito at the home of wealthy friends of Rossellini at Longpoint about 15 miles south of Paris. With her are her two children, a boy, Hari, three, and a girl, Raffaella, born in Paris 14 months ago.

Diplomat Wants Out, Papers Say

TWO LONDON newspapers reported that Guy Burgess, the British diplomat who went behind the iron curtain eight years ago, wants to come home now.

BURGESS

But the British foreign office said it had received no application for a passport to allow Burgess — now 48 — to return from Moscow.

The London Evening Standard and the London Express both reported that Burgess had appealed in Moscow to visiting Prime Minister Macmillan for a "safe conduct" guarantee. They said he wanted to visit his mother.

Ousted Singer Hired by Allen

SINGER Tommy Leonetti, bumped from a network television program Saturday, has been engaged for a show on another network.

Both bookings were for guest appearances. Leonetti will appear on Steve Allen's program (NBC) next Sunday, Allen's publicity man said.

He was to appear last Saturday on the Dick Clark show (ABC) but there was a last-minute change.

Leonetti's manager, Dick Linke, said the appearance was cancelled after the singer's name cropped up in Washington rackets committee hearings. Testimony alleged the singer's former manager used strong-arm methods to push records.

Hollywood Star System Rapped

WILLIAM WYLER, motion picture director, says that Hollywood should stake its main emphasis and investments on the content of films—rather than on high-salaried stars.

"It is the creative elements—the writer, the director, the producer and the material — which do much more in determining the success or failure of a picture," he said.

Wyler, returning from making a movie, "Ben Hur," in Italy, said in New York City salaries being paid top stars range up to a million dollars a picture, and added:

"I believe the people who pay these fantastic amounts to actors are out of touch with the public.

"The financiers, the bankers and the distributors are working under an illusion—that a star's name will guarantee them a profit."

Russian Author Dodges Press

BORIS PASTERNAK, Russian author-poet, has left his suburban Moscow home to spend a month at a Black Sea resort, it was learned Monday.

Although Pasternak dislikes to leave his comfortable Peredelkino villa where he wrote the non-conformist novel "Dr. Zhivago" and other works, he decided to escape the scores of journalists from the West who flocked to Moscow with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Collins Feels Chill By Ike on Race Plan

BILOXI, Miss. — (AP) — Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida said Monday his local option plan of school desegregation might be rejected by the National Governors Conference executive committee because of lack of encouragement from the White House.

Collins' plan is to enlist congressional, residential and state aid in working out the problems brought about by the U.S. Supreme Court school desegregation decision of 1954.

Collins told a news conference that lack of encouragement from the executive department means "there is not much point in pursuing it further here."

The question was scheduled to come before the nine member executive committee today. Collins did not say whether he would shelve the issue.

Briefly, his plan is "to facilitate desegregation where it is feasible and to set up specific safeguards against efforts to force desegregation where it is not feasible."

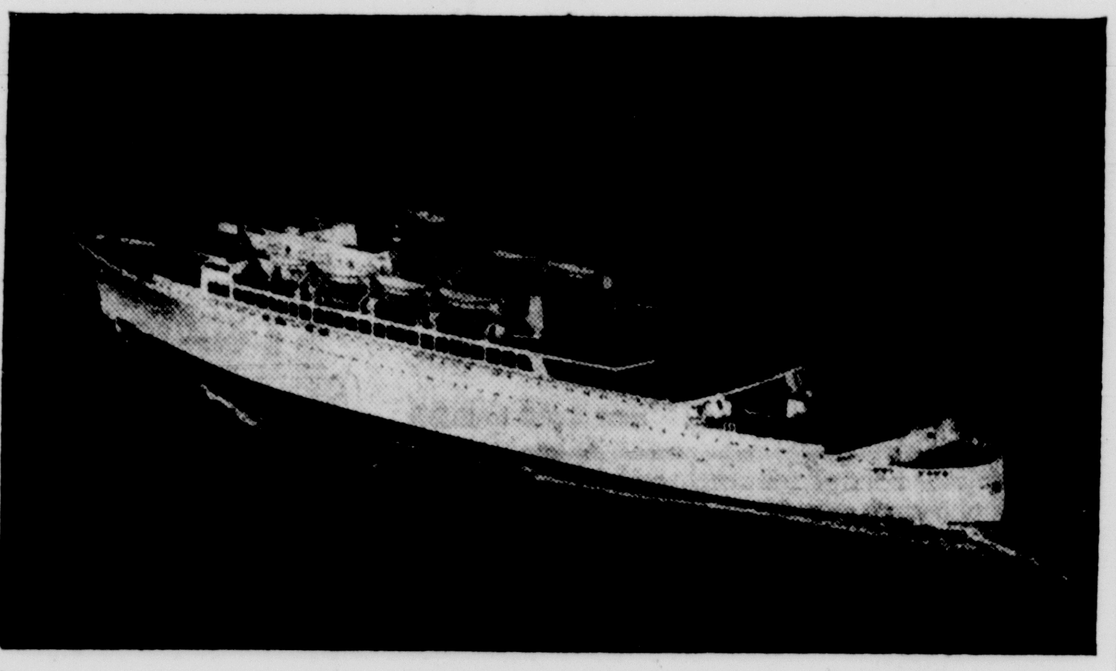
33 GLAMOROUS DAYS ON A BRAND-NEW SHIP

Northlands Spring Cruise ON the NEW ss BRASIL

To Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany, Denmark, Scotland, England, Ireland



Your ship is your hotel • a seagoing resort • 22,770 tons • built for cruising

ALL THE FUN of travel—without the trouble! Your spacious stateroom is home for the whole trip. No packing, unpacking or checking reservations.

You'll enjoy the up-to-the-minute freshness of a new ship, Moore-McCormack's SS BRASIL, the very latest in marine design.

She's all first class, designed from stabilizers to unique Observation-SUNstack for long-cruise luxury. Staterooms are all outside, with individual controls for warmed or cooled air, windows or ports that open to sea breezes. Each has its own bathroom.

Spacious lounges, two outdoor, heated salt-water pools; Night Club Café, professional entertainment, the newest wide-screen films. And Mooremack food is famous!

Cruise fares from $1,350; liberal credit terms available. More details and brochure in full color from your Travel Agent.

From New York May 14—before the main tourist season begins.

33 Days during the height of northern Europe's radiant Springtime.

8 Countries, 14 Ports, 7 Capitals—more than you ever knew a month could hold! The deep, relaxing rest of a sea voyage and on 19 of your days—more than half—the adventure of new and interestingly varied places.

Shore trips arranged by Thos. Cook & Son with ample time for sight-seeing and shopping in BERGEN • EIDFJORD • GOTHENBURG • AARHUS RONNE • STOCKHOLM • HELSINKI • VISBY • TRAVEMUNDE (LUBECK) • COPENHAGEN • OSLO • LEITH (EDINBURGH) • SOUTHAMPTON (LONDON) • DUBLIN

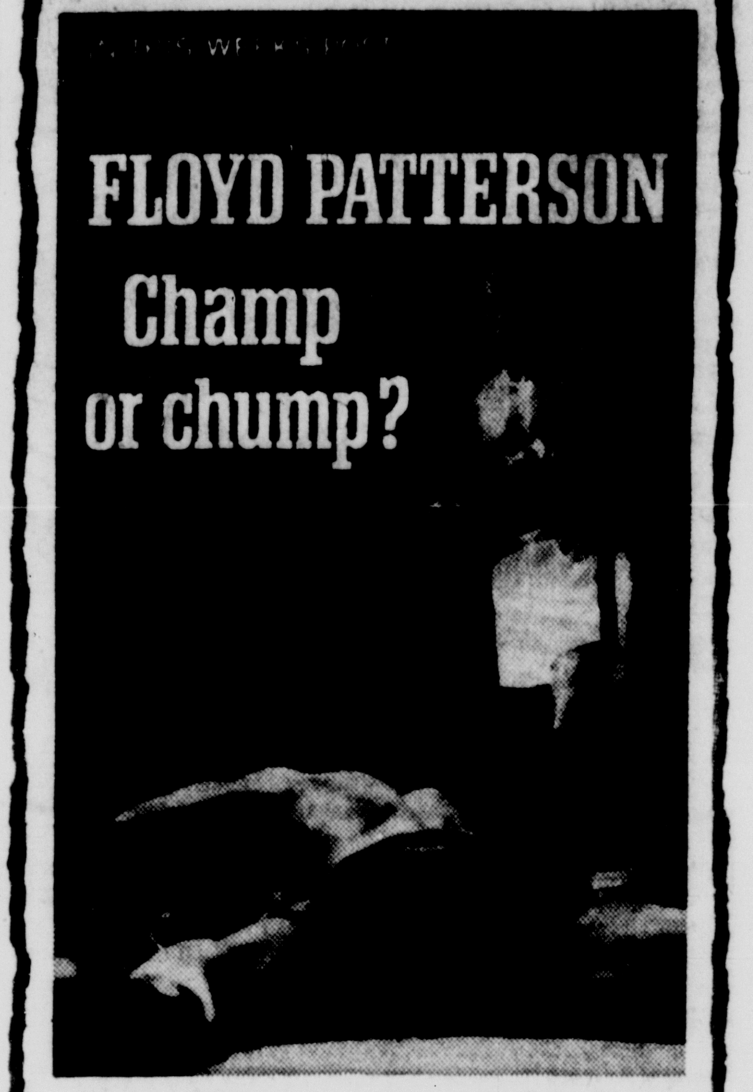
FLOYD PATTERSON
Champ or chump?



Now that Patterson has signed to fight Ingemar Johansson, boxing fans have started asking some blunt, embarrassing questions. They want to know:

- how a champ who never fights (three bouts in three years) can be "up" for the toughest fight of his life.
- if Patterson really lacks the killer instinct.
- why he's been the guinea pig in Cus D'Amato's feud with the I.B.C.
- what he thinks of Johansson — how he rates the other top contenders.
- if it's true he gets more "excited" when he fights a white man.

In this week's Saturday Evening Post, you'll get frank, honest answers from Patterson himself in "A Visit With the Champion."

How Arthur Murray
wife!

What's it like to live with a man who "eats, sleeps and breathes" his business? Does money make up for loneliness . . . for the desire to be loved?

In this week's Post, Kathryn Murray talks frankly about the price she and Arthur paid for his dazzling success. Here is the shocking story of her heartache, jealousy and the tragedy that almost wrecked her life. Don't miss this revealing installment of "My Husband, Arthur Murray."

Learn to dance from Arthur Murray diagrams in the Post! Follow them each week; watch Arthur Murray demonstrate them on "The Arthur Murray Party," Monday nights, Channel 7

How soon will we send a man into space?

Right now plans are under way for sending a man into orbit around the earth. When will "Project Mercury" be ready? What are the chances of the space man getting back alive? What other space projects does the U. S. have in the works? You'll be fascinated by "Our Plans for Outer Space" — exclusive in this week's Post.

Is Berlin worth fighting for?

To the Reds it's a "cancerous tumor," a city that must be destroyed. To the West it's a $1 billion show place — gay, defiant, bursting with prosperity and courage. But is either side willing to fight for Berlin? Is it worth World War III? Read "The Squeeze is on Berlin"—in this week's Post.

ALSO—Discovered! A fabulous oil deposit that could surpass the "black gold" output of the Middle East—if scientists can only get it out! Read "Treasure of the Athabaska."

It's a wonderful week in the Post . . . 7 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photos.

Why Men Wear Hats That Are Too Small

LISBON —(WNS)— Primitive man wore clothes to keep himself warm, the chivalrous man wore clothes to make himself beautiful and now modern man wears clothes for psychological reasons.

So, says Scella Corsi, poet, painter and designer-turned-psychologist.

He explains:

"The American male now wears a miniature-brimmed hat that is two sizes too small for his head and makes him look like a movie comic.

"This headpiece makes the wearer look naive, but not quite a half-wit. It is ideal for business deals.

"One would not wish to do business with a half-wit," explained the Portuguese designer. "But to look uncalculating and not clever enough to drive a good bargain is desirable.

"The trousers of the American businessman are ill-fitting with a low baggy crotch.

"This has two psychological advantages for the wearer," Corsi says.

"First, it distinguishes him at a glance from women and teenagers who wear their trousers cuttingly tight. Second, it shows that the wearer is not an idler who can waste time at a tailor shop having his clothes properly fitted."

The same American now wears a little-boy jacket buttoning high on the chest with the narrowest lapels ever known to civilized man.

"This immature cut inspires confidence to the beholder," Corsi claims. "It indicates that although the wearer does not know what is aesthetic, he does know what is new. To know what is new is important in business."

Corsi also points out that they are the direct opposite of the famously loud "American neckties" of previous years.

"Therefore, by wearing ultra-narrow cravats the wearer advertises the fact that his necktie wardrobe is new, which costs money," he explains. "And money, of course, is the great American symbol for success."

The straight-folded handkerchief in the jacket pocket serves several psychological purposes.

"Its unchanged fold suggests that the wearer does not sneeze," says Corsi. "He is in good health, and it is safe to do business with him."

It also indicates that the wearer is a follower in all matters, and not a leader or a non-conformist. Therefore, you can safely predict his reactions in any business deal.

"Finally, it points out that the wearer does not think for himself but obediently follows instructions from sources above him that are considered reliable," he reports.

'Should Folks Our Age Go Dancing? We're 60'

By DR. J. G. MOLNER

DEAR DR. MOLNER:

My husband and I are 60 years old. Recently we joined a club which gives a dance twice a week — an average of three hours of dancing for the week.

We haven't a car so we have to walk or take the bus wherever we go, so we do get in some walking.

Do you think dancing is too strenuous for people our age?

There has been some discussion among our friends as to the advisability.

MRS. C.

Tell your friends they are crazy. Certainly you are old enough to go to dances . . . Oh, you mean they think you are TOO old?

Dr. J. G. Molner

Rubbish.

Plenty of people of 60 or above play golf. Some play tennis. Quite a lot bowl. Some ride bicycles. Some indulge in far more strenuous jobs or sports.

The big danger — if any— is in overtaxing the heart, but the heart is an honorable organ which gives fair warning before it lets you down.

Sudden, extreme and—especially—unaccustomed strain is dangerous.

On the other hand, moderate exercise, and especially if the person is accustomed to comparable activity, not only is not harmful but is very good for you.

If you puff and huff, and start to black out, and feel uncomfortable because of the exercise, you are doing too much.

I have in mind the man of 60 (or 70, or 50 or even 40) who plays golf. He hasn't been out except on rare week-ends, but he suddenly decides to go play 18 holes. Or 36.

And his weariness and shortness of breath tell him he's had enough after six holes. If he quits, fine. But if he stubbornly keeps on, either to keep up with the rest, or to get full return for the fees he has paid, he is asking for trouble.

That fact that you folks walk a lot is good. It keeps you in trim. If shortness of breath, or tiredness, or other discomfort gives you a warning at the dance, then take the hint and rest for a spell.

Heed nature's warnings. And if you have been inactive, go back gradually to physical activity. But if you follow those two rules, your twice-a-week dances, or any other physical activity you enjoy will be beneficial, not harmful.

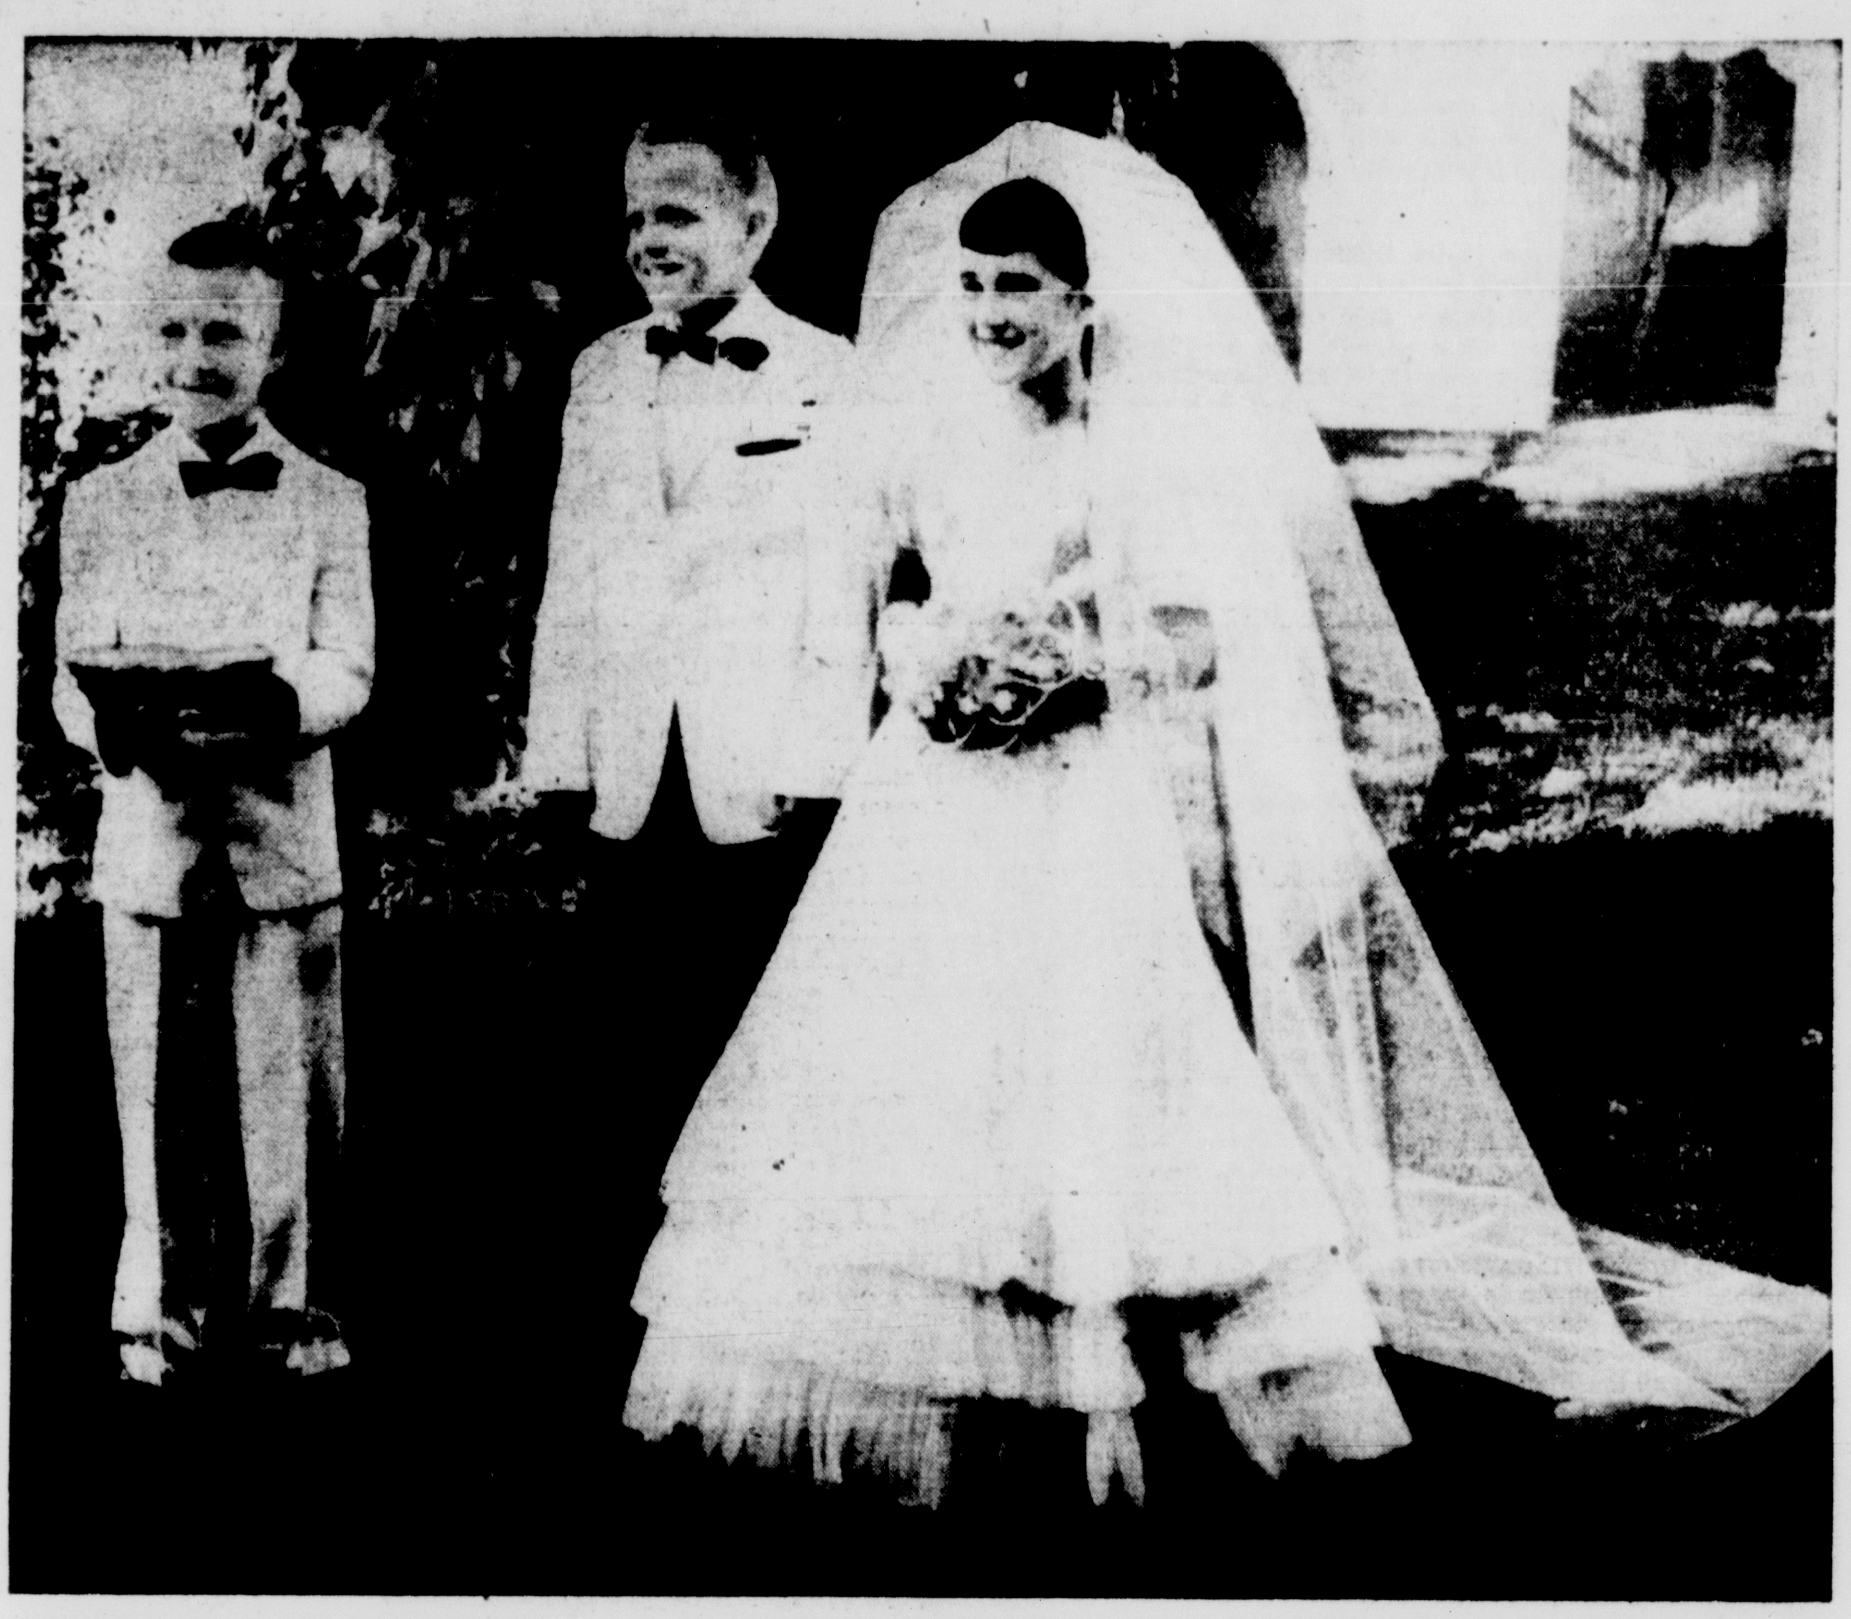
Bossy Wives a Myth, Says a Male Writer

NEW YORK — (WNS) — David L. Cohn, author of Love in America, An Informal Study of Manners and Morals, has a pat on the ego for American women.

Cohn laughs off the laments about today's woman being domineering to her male and full of smother-love when it comes to her children.

"Women's actual power is small," says Cohn, "Their children are likely to pay little attention to their views and, for all that their husbands appear meek, mild and browbeaten in their presence, the men retain the real power in all that counts and regard their esteemed spouses with the bemused affection that hunters have for their old, retired bird dogs."

Cohn, who is married, admits that the reference to "old, retired bird dogs" may ruffle many women. But he thinks it's better than being called "cold and unfeminine," as has happened so often lately.



O PROMISE ME that one day you and I can spend a honeymoon on Mars, live on Saturn and retire on the Moon. Until then bride and groom Donna Schwartz and Biair Moore and their ring bearer Paul Eckman will have to content themselves with being fourth graders at South Hialeah Elementary School. Friday they'll be principals in their class's formal Tom Thumb wedding and reception whose cast of 35 includes soloists, train bearer and flower girl. The bride's costume is imported alencon lace over slipper satin. The ceremony takes place at 8 p.m. in the school cafetorium. Parents will be among the guests.

Miniature Hearts For Your Neck

A new jewelry fad is on the way, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute. Tiny Miniatures, such as hearts, drops, free-form designs, geometric shapes, and religious symbols are fastened to fine gold chains.

They nestle in the hollow of the throat and make the neck appear slender and delicate.

Masked Ball Draws Colorful First Night Crowd

By HELEN WELLS and NORA OPHULS
Herald Society Writers

Second opera of the season by the Miami Opera Guild, The Masked Ball brought out as varied a crowd to Dade County Auditorium Monday night as you'd want to see.

PERSON TO PERSON

There was Opera Guild President Alex Balfe and Mrs. Balfe and benefactor Walter Olson and Mrs. Olson. And there were brand new opera-goers seeing their first opera. Sixty-five of these youngsters had their own special section in the auditorium, chaperoned by Mrs. David Coleman.

Sisters Nancy Beth and Shelley Cole came with their brother Stephen, 11, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Cole, and their grandmother, Mrs. Sam Luby. This was the first opera for Nancy Beth, who's 7, it was the second for Shelly, 9, who saw a performance of Tosca in Rome with her mother.

The Walter Olsons flew in Monday from Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. Vitus Houha of California. Mrs. Olson wore a beaded blue sheath and Mrs. Houha was in white net over flesh pink.

It was Mr. Olson's birthday. Speaking of birthdays, this year marks the 100th anniversary of the first performance of Verdi's The Masked Ball.

It also was Everett Clay's birthday but Ev couldn't make the opera so Mrs. Clay brought 13-year-old daughter Dana.

Another husbandless couple were Mrs. A. S. Galbraith and Mrs. Edwin Drescher, who made a stunning pair. Virginia (Mrs. Nestor) Morales brought her sister, Mrs. Boots Hinson.

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henry came down from Bal Harbour. The former Juanita Haverbeck became Mrs. Henry Jan. 10.

As usual many of the gowns were knockout. Bobbye (Mrs. Roy) Schechter had on a geranium red chiffon empire gown. Rald also was selected by Muriel (Mrs. Carey) Matthews. She wore a bubble-skirted satin gown with matching stole trimmed in gray fox. Muriel and Cary were talking with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexis de Yakimae, she in a stunning bubble-skirted black velvet gown with silver embroidered jacket.

The N. Drexel Rutherfords arrived with the Lloyd Dilworths, Mrs. Dilworth in cocoa lace over pale blue. Mrs. Rutherford's white satin capelet embroidered with full-blown roses was made by a bull fighter's tailor in Spain and has all the drama of the bull ring.

The opera will be repeated Wednesday night in Miami Beach auditorium and again Saturday in Dade County auditorium.

Cherry Trees at Surf Club

Red, white and blue jeweled plaques flashed from the walls of the Surf Club on Saturday evening and cherry trees set the stage for the dinner dance at the Bath Club.

Largest party of the evening at the Surf was given by Carrie and Charlie Mastronardi who entertained for Emilie Flannery Ottavino, her son, John Flannery and his wife Adele. They are visiting the Mastronardis from their home on Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Mastronardi

Carrie was wearing a white lace sheath highlighted with a corsage of red rosebuds. She and Charlie circulated among their guests on the pool terrace during the cocktail hour before dinner at the three-sided table in the Fountain room.

With Mary and George Ritter were their houseguests Betty and Dr. Paul Weaver. He is president of Lake Erie College for girls, one of the oldest in the U.S. If Dr. Weaver administers the college in as expert a manner as he dances, it's the best run school ever!

Visitors from Baltimore, the Ralph DiChiaros and their attractive daughter, Roberta, were more diners and dancers, and so were Judge and Mrs. Leonard O'Connor.—she is just about to publish another book of poems—Dorothy and Steve Quade, Myrtle and Tony Gocking.

Looking like a dream walking was Hazel Penn in a bouffant ball gown of white satin heavily embroidered with ruby red sequins. She and Al, the Russell St. Clairs, the Charles McDonoughs, Irene and Ralph Crum, and Clarence Marquardt were more of the Mastronardis' guests.

And speaking of dancing, nominated for the "head of the dancing class" are Hope Stokes and Joe Bettandorf, Laurel and Steve Wilson, all four were whirling around at the Surf on Saturday.

At Marge and Joe Hendry's table were Bernie and Adm. Charles Leffler, Gen. Richard Sutherland among others. Spied Kay and Joe Binns, on the dance floor. They are here from New York where he is general manager of the Waldorf and a v.p. in the Hilton Hotel chain. Kay is the former Kay Daumit.

Jay Thomas also had a big and beautiful table of guests. His hostess for the evening was Margaret (Mrs. Robert) Butler whose pretty daughter, Catherine, and husband, Joseph Ringland Jr., and their two moppets, are visiting her at her Sunset Island I home from Minneapolis.

* * *

Don't Eat the Cherries

The tempting cherries on the tree in the foyer at the Bath Club weren't edible . . . I tried one. Anyhow, they looked pretty, and were almost as red as Joe Timilty's dinner coat! He was squiring Pug (Mrs. Edward S. Moore) to the dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Knight.

Others in this group included Kay and John Clark, (he is the former president of Hialeah) Lucile and Adm. Gene Markey who were celebrating the victory of Mrs. Markey's great racer, Bardstown, in the Widener on Saturday at Hialeah. Dorothy and Leslie Combs were more.

The Norman Woolworths, the Frank Hellers, the Leo Fitzpatricks, the Herbert Johnsons were dining and dancing.

Frank Cibula, temporary manager of the Club, resplendant in his new dinner clothes (he hopes the club will reimburse him!) told of plans for the Safari on March 26 at the club when George Wallace will show his African animal pictures. Mr. W. is a versatile man. He also does magic tricks.

* * *

Maybelle Haynsworth waved goodbye to John on Sunday and flew away to New York on a jet. But she'll be back in ample time for the cocktail-buffet dance she and John, Marge and Nate Hunt are giving on Friday at the Surf Club.

* * *

Former Miami Beachite, pretty Betsy Wheeler, now Mrs. Bud Cole, writes from Punta Gorda that she and Bud and the baby-to-be will be making their home for at least another year in Punta Gorda Isles, but will probably build or buy next year in Coral Gables . . .

100 JEWISH HOUSEWIVES

Consumer Panel Formed

NEW YORK — Mrs. Arthur Federman of Cedarhurst, N.Y., president of the Long Island chapter of the Women's Branch of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, has been appointed national chairman of the Kosher Consumer Advisory Panel sponsored by UOJCA and Women's Branch.

Announcement of Mrs. Federman's appointment to head the first such panel in American Jewish history was made by Moses I. Feuerstein of Malden, Mass., President of the UOJCA, and Mrs. Allen I. Edles of Woodside, N.Y., President of the Women's Branch.

The panel is made up of 100 Jewish housewives, representing the majority of Jewish communities throughout the United States. The panel was organized to provide information on the needs and problems of the American Jewish housewife who maintains a kosher home.

NOTHING IS EVER RIGHT

'I Have a Nosy Neighbor'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

How does one cope with a next door neighbor she does not care for, a person who is contradictory and nosy, yet a person whose feelings she hesitates to hurt?

Column with a Heart

Mine gets on my nerves so badly that I actually find it difficult to speak civilly to her. She has a habit of belittling whatever I have, say or do.

If I say black, she says white. If I say it's a nice day, she says it's too hot. When I say I ate at a certain restaurant and the food was good, she wouldn't eat there.

If I mention a movie I saw, she says she wouldn't want to see that picture. If I tell her I baked a cake with a certain mix, she asks why I didn't use another brand.

No matter what I tell her, it isn't right.

I have tried to avoid her, but invariably she'll corner me. I don't want to hurt her feelings by being rude, as she has been nice to me in that she remembers my children on their birthdays, etc.

What is the best way to avoid a person like this? My husband says I shouldn't let her bother me, but being sensitive, I can't help it. The straw that broke the camel's back was when she asked why I named my baby as I did.

I would like to hear from the readers. You received so many replies regarding the minister and his yard, perhaps this query will warrant some interest, too.

DISGUSTED NEIGHBOR

Methinks you accept too many favors from this woman you do not care for, else you wouldn't be quite so loathe to say, "But I like it," when she takes issue with your likes (which seems to be constant).

I believe you deal with people like this by "hurting" their feelings when the occasion demands it, at least disagreeing with them pleasantly but openly.

We will welcome the readers' comments.

Mary, You Have Sick Marriage

TO MARY (confidentially): You have a sick marriage and one that has grown progressively worse with the years because there has been no attempt to get "treatment."

The man and woman who live happily together work hard for this happiness. They do not obtain it with empty promises or by reading the Scriptures.

Please don't misunderstand me. The Bible is the Holy Word and can be an unlimited source of inspiration, guidance and comfort. But merely reading the words is not enough.

I am sure you realize that no one has a pat formula that will enable you, your husband and your 14-year-old son to suddenly start living a happy life under the circumstances you have described. But there are people who can help YOU to see the way clear to make the decision that you know is best for you.

Please call the Rev. Dale Ratliff, counselor, at the Protestant Service Bureau for an appointment now. The Bureau's offices have been moved to the Huntington Building, so ask information for the new telephone number.

He's Dated Another Girl

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I'm in love with a wonderful boy. We are both young but I feel he is the one for me. We haven't talked seriously about anything like marriage because of our ages.

We haven't been going together long, but I certainly never thought he would ever date another girl because he made it clear that I was to give up all other boys. I thought the same thing applied to him.

But the other night he went out with another girl. When I asked him about it, he said he was sorry and wouldn't do it again. I let it go and never mentioned it again — that was before I found out how far the date went. I was really surprised to find out some of the things they did.

I haven't said anything to him, but everytime I go out with him that's all I can think about. It's ruining my grades in school, and the good times we had together.

I've got to do something, but what? I would appreciate your view and the readers' opinions.

K

Are you sure the "things you found out" are facts, and not distortions? A lot of facts take on a new appearance, even after the second telling!

The heartache you have already experienced in this brief relationship is one of the best arguments I can think of for not going steady so young.

For love embodies much more than physical attraction and a wanting to be with someone . . . that part comes easily. It's the consideration, the sincere wanting to put another's happiness ahead of your own that's hard.

I honestly think you'll be happier if you try to think of this boy, not as a person whose every thought and action you must share, but a fellow student you enjoy being with when you are with him.

And I guess this all boils down to a kind of round-about way of saying, don't go steady with anybody — now.

Eleanor Hart.

PAINT WON'T WORK

Plastic Covering Hides Tile Sills

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Three readers sent in the same answer to Mrs. P.C. who wanted to know if she could paint her red tile windowsills. Answer is no, but they know what will help her.

READERS' EXCHANGE

They suggested a gummed-back kind of plastic covering which is available by rolls in the five and ten-cent stores. It is available in assorted patterns and colors and is relatively inexpensive.

One young man called to say he covered his red tile sills with it (a marbelized pattern) last June and "it hasn't bubbled with dampness or peedled away at all." Says it's easy to clean, not hard to put on.

D.M. used it on a workshelf in the kitchen and finds it "very practical." Says on tile, though, "be sure the tile is free from grease or dampness."

Mrs. F.P. of Miami said she applied it on her kitchen countertop "where I drain my dishes and sprinkle my clothes."

If you'd like to know the name of this covering, we'll be happy to tell you if you'll send a self-addressed, stamped envelope along with your request.

What Takes Off Iodine Stains?

A skull and crossbones item. Iodine, that is.

"I would greatly appreciate learning if there is anything that will remove iodine stains from the bath white porcelain basin," writes L.R. of Miami.

"The bottle fell from the medicine cabinet and smashed into the washbasin. I have tried many scouring powders, but to no avail."

But the Things Won't Wash . . .

Hear tell there's some 24 karat gold underwear (or maybe when it's gold it's called lingerie) available in a department store here. Black lace trim and all that schmaltz.

But there's a difficulty about the whole thing. Just in case you can afford the $45 necessary for a brief unmentionable, what do you do about the sudsing thereof?

A curious shopper told us that she looked at the tag and it said the fabric couldn't be washed, couldn't be dry cleaned. What could you do?

Just thought we'd pass the thought along in case Daddy was thinking of buying you gold lingerie. Ask for mink instead.

Help for Messy Sewing Boxes

Tangled threads are no longer a problem for Mrs. D.P. of Miami. For years she struggled with the tangled threads of all colors snarled up in her sewing box. No more, though.

"Put a tiny piece of cellophane tape over the loose end of each spool of thread in the sewing box. It keeps it from unwinding and tangling."

Fine idea.

Stubborn Stains On Drinking Glass

Stubborn stains on drinking glasses?

A glass company says use lukewarm water softened with baking soda.

Says, too, that glasses washed with detergent should be air dried; with soap, cloth dried.

Aluminum Window Frames Are Black

Naughty, naughty. Careless workers at the home of Mrs. J. W. of North Miami left some black stains from plastic and cement containing lime on her aluminum window frames.

What to do? she wonders. "Tried finest of steel wool and mineral spirits, but does not do a satisfactory job," she writes. "Would appreciate some good method."

Msgr. Barry Receives Americanism Medal

Msgr. Barry

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. William Barry, dean of Greater Miami's Catholic priests, received the special Americanism Medal from the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday in the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Mrs. Barbara Smith Wiler, regent of Golden Anchor Chapter, DAR presented the medal which recognizes outstanding leadership and patriotism among the foreign born.

Msgr. Barry, born in Ireland, has been pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Miami Beach for more than 30 years.

The luncheon at which he received the award was given by the Patrician Club of the church to celebrate the anniversary of the church's founding in 1928 and George Washington's birthday.

Msgr. Barry gave a short talk on patriotism following the award presentation, and the luncheon for 800 women also included a fashion show and drill by the Edison cadettes. Mrs. Arthur Wood was chairman of the luncheon.

State Flower Show Theme Announced

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — "Florida the Floral Way" will be the theme for the seventh state flower show of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs April 1-3 at Pensacola.

Announcement of the theme was made by Mrs. W. T. Chennell of Orlando, federation publicity chairman.

All amateur gardeners may enter the horticulture section of the show where reservations are unnecessary, except in the case of potted plants.

Plans for the flower show, in Pensacola's municipal auditorium, include a separate "show within a show" for Junior Garden Clubs, the African Violet Society and the Hemerogallis Society.

Peanut Butter Pie Crust

Pie with a Fresh Outlook—Peanut Butter Crust
. . . filling is banana and lemon flavored chiffon

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

Blend peanut butter, honey and graham cracker crumbs for a pie crust, and hear the raves.

The filling is something to rave about, too. It's a chiffon type made with lemon flavored gelatin and bananas for flavor.

Daily Food Guide

The final touch is a sprinkle of crushed peanut brittle over the pie before it is served.

FEBRUARY SUPPER
Broiled Chicken
Boiled New Potatoes
Wilted Spinach Salad
Heated Rolls, Butter
Peanut-Banana Chiffon Pie

The pie is made in two stages. The crust is baked far enough ahead of time so it can chill before filling.

PEANUT-BANANA CHIFFON PIE

½	cup creamy style peanut butter
2	tablespoons honey
¾	cup graham cracker crumbs
1	6-ounce can evaporated milk
1	package lemon-flavored gelatin
¾	cup hot water
	Dash salt
1	cup mashed banana
¼	cup lemon or lime juice
½	cup confectioners' sugar

Blend peanut butter with honey. Combine with graham cracker crumbs. Blend thoroughly. Pour into greased 9-inch pie pan and press firmly against bottom and sides of pan. Bake in a moderately slow over (325 degrees) 10 minutes. Cool and chill in refrigerator until set, at least 2 hours.

Pour milk into bowl and place in freezing compartment of refrigerator until ice crystals form around edge of bowl. Meanwhile dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until thick as unbeaten egg white.

Whip gelatin with rotary beater until fluffy. Whip milk until stiff, add a dash of salt and fold in the gelatin. Add bananas, lemon juice and sugar.

Pour into chilled pie shell and chill until firm. Just before serving sprinkle with crushed peanut brittle.

Note: If wished, substitute 1 cup heavy cream for evaporated milk. Omit salt if cream is used.

New Shoe Racks Made to Order

New Shoe Rack
. . . how it works

Shoe storage is always a problem. But there's a new type shoe rack available in Miami to keep your closet neat and help keep your shoes free of mildew by letting air circulate around them.

Shoes are hung by their soles on this rack so that buckles and bows aren't damaged when you store them.

The rack is fastened to the back of a closet or to a bedroom door and makes shoe selection easy. You may either buy a complete rack — made to your closet specifications and number of shoe racks wanted — or you can buy the individual racks without the boards and make the completed storage area yourself.

Price made up is 30 cents per pair for ladies' shoes and 35 cents per pair for men's. The individual racks are $1 for 6 pairs if you want to build it yourself.

Where To Buy?

Call FR 9-3826 after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours, write to The Miami Herald Shopping Service, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Rapid-Fire Hamlet Starts at 9:30 Tonight

By JACK GAVER

GAVER

NEW YORK—(UPI)—"One thing is certain," Ralph Nelson said. "This will probably be the most rapid-fire 'Hamlet' anyone has ever seen."

The producer-director was referring to the 90-minute version of Shakespeare's masterpiece that he will bring to the CBS network tonight from 9:30 to 11 as the "DuPont Show of the Month" (locally by WTVJ, Ch. 4).

"And referring to it as a 90-minute show, I only wish we had 90 minutes," Nelson continued. "With time out for commercials, we actually wind up with about 78 minutes of playing space. Oh, well, as I said, it's going to move."

* * *

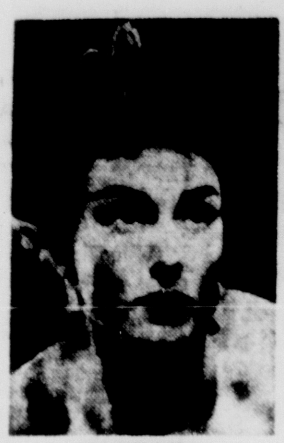
"HAMLET," IF PLAYED uncut, which scarcely anyone ever does on the stage, runs over four hours.

The production Nelson is bringing to the home screen stems from the stage version played by London's Old Vic Company which has just completed a tour of this country in a production that runs well over three hours.

"So, you see," Nelson resumed, "our TV version will be less than half as long as the one the Old Vic people used on the stage.

"I must emphasize that the TV 'Hamlet' is not just a cut and rearranged staging of the Old Vic production. We are using the Old Vic cast, but this is definitely a presentation prepared directly for television.

"Michael Benthall, who staged the play for the Old Vic for theaters, collaborated with me in cutting the script for TV. We didn't work from the already-cut Old Vic script, but from the original full-length copy.



BARBARA

NELSON

"While we will use the Old Vic costumes, which have a mid-19th century flavor, we have our own scenic scheme.

"Instead of the somber backgrounds of the stage production, Designer Bob Markell is going in heavily for white backgrounds which will show to more advantage on television inasmuch as this is not a colorcast."

* * *

THIS ISN'T Nelson's first brush with "Hamlet." The handsome blond producer started in show business as a stage actor, and he was in the cast of the "Hamlet" in which the late Leslie Howard starred on Broadway 22 years ago.

The "Hamlet" production was recorded on video tape over the weekend.

Heading the cast are John Neville as Hamlet and Barbara Jefford as Ophelia. Richard Wordsworth, Dudley Jones, Joseph O'Conor Oliver Neville and Margaret Courtenay have other leading roles.

Persons and Programs

The CBS film division will video-tape a jazz show on April 3 that'll feature Miles Davis and Billie Holiday for its upcoming series, "Theater For A Story."

The new series — produced by Robert Herridge — also will offer a ballet show, a comic dance show, Eugene O'Neill's "In The Zone," Guy de Maupassant's "Piece of String," a dramatization of the death of Socrates and three Lee J. Pogostin stories about the Hudson Street section of Manhattan.

CLARE

SLOAN

Clare Booth Luce is narrator of the test film for another proposed CBS film adventure series, "The Diplomat," which has the okay of the State Department.

ABC-TV will launch re-runs of the Gale Storm show in a daytime spot on April 13. The Gale Storm nighttime show, folding on CBS-TV in June, will switch to ABC-TV nighttime next fall.

The new Florence Henderson-Bill Hayes musical show which bows in on NBC-TV in late March will be called "Play of the Week."

Edward Robinson Sr. and Jr. will co-star for the first time on April 2 in a CBS-TV "Zane Grey Theater" episode, "Loyalty."

Sloan Simpson, former wife of New York's former mayor, William O'Dwyer, has signed in for an upcoming ABC-TV Naked City, "Nothing But The Truth."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

South had to duck his way thru two suits in order to bring home the game contract which he and his partner had reached on the barest of values.

North had a dead minimum opening and after his partner's two over one response he might have contented himself with a two spade rebid since his hand was worth only 13 points in support of hearts. However, he chose to raise South instead and the latter proceeded on to game.

West led the king of clubs which was permitted to hold as East played the discouraging deuce. West's natural shift was to the nine of diamonds and again declarer ducked. East took the trick with the queen, and returned the nine of clubs which was taken with the ace.

After cashing two top trumps, declarer went after the spade suit, ruffing the third round in his own hand.

The contract was now secure, irrespective of West's actions. If West over-ruffed and led a diamond, declarer would win with the ace, ruff one more spade in his hand to establish a "thirteener" and cross to dummy by ruffing the club, discarding the losing diamond on the four of spades.

If West refused to overruff, declarer would simply ruff the losing club, establish the fifth spade, and retain the ace of diamonds for entry to the dummy.

Observe that if declarer takes either the first round of diamonds or clubs he cannot win the hand, for he will be unable to maintain contact with the dummy.

Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: Is "Believe you me" bad English?—L. T. P.

ANSWER: It isn't bad English, but it's bad rhetoric, bad conversational strategy.

The Psalmist admits that he was a little hasty when he said in his heart that all men are liars; but even if he had stopped and thought it over he would, I think, have made only a few exceptions. Men have lied so long and so persistently that scarcely any assertion beyond the order of the alphabet or the facts of the multiplication tables can hope to be received without a measure of incredulity.

As a result, all languages are full of protestations of veracity and, of course, the more the protestation the more the suspicion. Among such expressions in our language is "Believe me." But no one believes someone else merely because he demands to be believed and the phrase soon grew weak. Then somebody tried to give it more force by inserting "you" and inverting the word order.

But it doesn't work. The excess of protestation stimulates an excess of doubt. And the contrived and artificial word order leads one to suspect that the statement it prefaces will be equally contrived.

4 — HAMLET — The Show of the Month has the play of all time as its vehicle of the night. The Old Vic Company the excellent British group, does the play which will not be explained here. John Neville plays the wonderfully complex prince in a solid production that suffers mostly from the fact that they're doing a 3½-hour play in 78 minutes and that's not cutting away mere fat; some bone was removed, too. Neville isn't the best Hamlet you'll ever see, but he at least makes the great words meaningful.

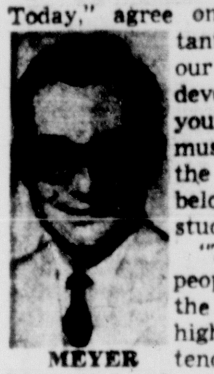
Value of Vocational Programs Examined

Dade, Conant Agree: Neglect No One

Third of a Series

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Education Writer



MEYER

Dade schoolmen and educator James B. Conant, author of "The American High School Today," agree on one important point: in our eagerness to develop the best young minds, we mustn't neglect the average or below - average student.

"There are people who take the position that high-school attendance should be limited only to those pupils who are academically competent," say Dade Administrators Wesley Matthews and Jeff West. But they point out that a high school should help every pupil develop to the limit of his own abilities.

The value of vocational programs for the non-college prospect is examined in the following summary of some of Conant's suggestions and Dade County's answer to them.

CONANT SAYS students who want to take jobs after graduation should get minimum academic requirements plus vocational courses: typing, home economics, stenography for girls, shop or vocational agriculture for the boys. Schoolmen should keep in touch with job opportunities in the community to be sure they are offering the right courses.

DADE SCHOOLS offer vocational work. Three — Southwest, North Miami, and Northwestern — are particularly strong in this field. New Central High, which will replace Tech High, will be particularly strong in teaching secretarial and clerical skills. We also have high school courses in the Aviation School on LeJeune Road. And there is a program enabling juniors and seniors to hold part-time apprenticeships in trades and business.

ACTION PROPOSED: Matthews and West would add more vocational subjects so that all students may "develop their personal skills and abilities to the maximum."

★ ★ ★

CONANT SAYS ninth graders who read at a sixth-grade level or below should get special treatment. He proposes guiding them toward simple vocational work and giving them special teachers in the required English and social studies classes.

DADE SCHOOLS provide a reading specialist in each junior high, and a voluntary summer program for helping retarded readers. But not all of the senior high schools have special classes for slow readers.

ACTION PROPOSED by Matthews and West is to extend the special reading classes into all the high schools, although "most slow readers at high school level will never gain complete proficiency." Cost: $120,000.

★ ★ ★

CONANT SAYS half of the time a high school student spends studying English should be devoted to composition. Students should write a theme a week and their teachers should be given no more than 100 pupils apiece.

DADE SCHOOLS make pupils do a lot of writing, but there's no set minimum, Matthews and West found. Most students show "very satisfactory achievement."

However, the average English teacher here has 150 pupils, and that's a lot of papers to read.

ACTION PROPOSED: Cut the load of English teachers to 125 pupils, put more emphasis on original composition and exhibit samples of good writing on a schoolwide basis.

Extra teachers needed: 40. Cost $220,000.

CONANT SAYS the school day should have six periods in addition to physical education. This means a seven or eight-period day with periods as short as 45 minutes. It would permit students to take a wider variety of courses.

DADE SCHOOLS operate on a 55-minute period, six-hour day, as prescribed by the State Department of Education. However, some schools have early-morning classes which are extra.

NEXT: What to do with our brightest pupils.

Small Cars May Cause Headaches for Big Three

Business-Finance
Complete Market Tables
James Russell, Editor

AP, UPI, New York Times

The "Big Three" automakers' entry into the small car field is likely to cause some headaches in the industry.

George Romney, president of American Motors, which has been selling small cars for years, said the big companies' sales forces will be faced with a conflict of interest.

How, he asked, are dealers going to promote a big car and a small car simultaneously without hurting one or the other?

Romney said Ford, General Motors and Chrysler will also be faced with production and development problems which his firm has already overcome.

All of the "Big Three" are expected to be offering small cars by next year.

8 GROWTH WARRANTS
LOW-PRICED FOR BIG 'LEVERAGE' PROFITS

Where you can afford to speculate, there is probably no faster, more profitable way to make your money grow than in well situated warrants. For example: while $100 in Tri-Continental's stock was growing to $1,623 in 48 months, $100 in Tri-Continental's warrants grew to $17,200 — or 10.6 times as much. And while $100 in Hoffman Electronics' stock was growing to $2,267 in 24 months $100 in Hoffman Electronics' warrants grew to $50,000 — or 22.1 times as much. As you can see, $100 in warrants (especially at low prices) can do the work of $1000 or even $2000 in growth stocks. Now many warrants are low-priced once again. And our Editors in a new Special Report select for you: "8 Very Low-Priced Warrants That Can Make You Big 'Leverage' Profits". A copy of this new Warrant Report is yours as a special bonus now when you send just $1 (new readers only) to try our unique advisory service 'The Growth Stock Letter' for the next two weeks. Miami Airline Orders Prop-Jet Cargo Planes

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

The Miami based Riddle Airlines announced Monday it has ordered four prop-jet cargo planes, which would make it the first airline in the world to operate jet-powered aircraft carrying full loads of freight.

The British-built planes are Argosy freighters produced by Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft Ltd. of Coventry, England.

Riddle hopes to have the prop-jets operating on its routes by August.

The Argosy is powered by four Rolls-Royce Dart prop-jets and can cruise at 300 miles an hour at altitudes up to 25,000 feet.

Prop-jets and full jet planes are operating on passenger routes out of Miami but no airlines have yet begun using jet-powered aircraft for all-cargo flights.

"In addition to substantial savings in direct operating costs, the Argosy . . . will achieve significant reductions in indirect expenses such as cargo handling," Riddle's President George L. Giles said.

Riddle's present cargo fleet consists of 32 two-engined C-46's and three four-engined DC-4's.

The British firm which makes the Argosy says the planes operating costs will be about 30 per cent less than the C-46. Because of its speed and "quick turn-around capabilities," the company said, one Argosy will do the work of three C-46's.

On Riddle's present Miami-New York route, for example, a C-46 flies up one night and returns the following night. This requires two planes to fly nightly service in both directions.

The new jet-powered Argosy will make the round trip in one night and will carry twice the payload of a C-46.

The Argosy can be used as a passenger plane accommodating as many as 80 persons—or it can carry a mixed load of passenger and freight.

Riddle is the nation's largest north-south air freight carrier and the second largest all-freight carrier in the nation.

The British-Made 'Argosy'
. . . may be flying here by August

Utility Co.'s Earnings Up

A sharp increase in net income was reported by Florida Water and Utilities Co., in a preliminary statement for 1958.

The company, which operates water and sewage plants in South Dade County, had a net income after taxes of $155,456 in 1958, against $36,909 in 1957.

Earnings were 90 cents a share last year against 33 cents a share the year before.

Total revenues from water, sewers, and service availability charges was $535,221 in 1958. Expenses totaled $189,978.

Luchow's Buys Longchamps

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Longchamps and Luchow's, two famous names in the restaurant business, have come under common ownership.

Control of the Longchamps chain, which has been in the red since 1954, has been sold to Janmit Corp., an investment concern controlled by restaurateur Jan Mitchell — sole owner of Luchow's since 1950.

Adolf Hitler proclaimed himself "Der Fuhrer." The swastika waved. Boy Scout troops in Germany were ordered dissolved. The clump, clump, clump of the goosestep resounded across the Atlantic. This was 1934.
Absorbed in the bread-and-butter problems of the Great Depression, Americans paid little heed to the sinister happenings abroad. People were more concerned with the G-men's hunt for John Dillinger, named Public Enemy Number One.
A pleasanter fascination was the birth of quintuplets to the Dionnes in Canada. Those five little girls stared at us from newspapers and breakfast food boxes until, eventually, their novelty wore off.
This was the year—1934—that Chase Federal opened on Miami Beach. Dade County's population then was about one-sixth of today's. The University of Miami had less students in 1934 than it has faculty members now. It took faith and courage to look beyond the dark clouds and envision a prosperous Metropolitan Miami.
Over the past quarter of a century, Chase Federal has grown with the area. It has put the savings of its customers to work locally. It has advanced almost $125,000,000 in mortgage money to home-owners. It has a long record of paying 49 uninterrupted dividends at generous rates.

Material Gain Not the Measure Of the Success of a Human Life

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I am at the present time failing in business. I do not fear it so much as I fear the effect it will have on my wife, who is very sickly. Is there any way I can approach the problem of telling her without further impairing her health?

GRAHAM

ANSWER: That all depends upon what has been your relations in your affairs prior to this time. It also depends upon what you both regard to be success. If she is the kind of a wife I think she is from your letter, it may be the challenge she needs to rise above her own problems. I would also suggest that you consider together what you are living for. Everyone must earn a living, and no one wishes to be an object of charity.

The other extreme, that of having an unquenchable appetite for personal gain and success is one of life's most deceptive quests. We discover the full meaning of life when we stop living for self and begin to live for others.

My Answer

Jesus came into the world, not to gain riches and fame, not to enjoy temporal security and sensual pleasure, but to both live and die a sacrifice for others. I have never heard any intelligent person say He was a failure. In fact, He changed the direction of the world, and to this day, He is changing the lives of misdirected and confused people. He said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

INTERESTED IN LIQUOR prices? The war has everybody in the business going crazy. Many prices are well below wholesale costs, and buyers are stocking up on well known brands. Liquor is different than gasoline. In a gas war you buy all the tank will hold. You can stack liquor on the shelves until the closet is full.

Walgreen's and Weinkle's have been selling "specials" for some time. But the real war started when Shell's got its license, after months of roadblocking by the South Florida Liquor Dealers Association.

Shell's got into low prices almost at once. Then State Stores got into the war. There's a fairly well authenticated report that State Stores lost $25,000 last week-end. Associated Stores also is deep in the whirlpool now.

Just about everybody is cutting prices now, on some items. It's mighty rough on the small stores, for they can't afford to meet the well advertised prices of the big fellows. Where it will end nobody knows. But it doesn't make much sense.

The headquarters tag agency sold about 20,000 tags last Friday, deadline day. Then the staff worked Saturday and Sunday behind closed doors. They opened Monday morning to more long lines of late purchasers. Total Dade sales through Friday were 315,712. The total sale last year was 475,740.

Teamsters Open Drive on City, County Workers

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters Union kicked off a new organizational drive Monday to sign up Dade's 25,000 county and municipal workers.

The campaign will extend from West Palm Beach to Key West, but the initial blow will be aimed at Miami and Miami Beach, Teamsters officials reported.

The drive was revealed amid reports at the Teamsters Miami Beach executive council meeting that Hoffa is eyeing some 10 million unorganized public service employes along the Eastern seaboard.

Indications were, however, that Hoffa will meet stiff opposition here in his white-collar campaign.

E. C. Tony Wilcox, president of the Dade County and Municipal Employes Association, commented that the Teamsters "will not be welcomed here."

He said he is opposed to Teamsters efforts to organize Dade County and municipal workers.

"I know the firemen won't go for it," remarked Wilcox, who is also president of Local 587, AFL-CIO Association of Fire Fighters.

Monday's announcement was made by Henry Feinstein, president of Teamster Local 237, City Employes Union of New York City.

Feinstein recently brewed a headline-making storm when he took steps to organize police officers in New York City.

Feinstein said he will make no attempt to woo Dade police officers "unless they ask us to come in."

The New York labor official has had members of his staff studying the potentialities of an organizational drive in South Florida since last summer.

"We decided that because of the low salaries among public employes here there is a crying need for organization," he declared.

Some 500 workers in South Florida have already signed up, he added, including 125 in Miami.

The first Teamster target, Feinstein added, will be the garbage collectors, whose numbers include 1,278 in Miami and 1,356 in the unincorporated areas.

Other campaigns will be aimed at employes in public works, parks, hospitals and general labor.

On-the-scene organizers include William Huet of Miami Beach, and Michael V. Mirande of West Hollywood.

Feinstein said 10 additional organizers are being drawn from the ranks of county and municipal workers. Professional organizers also will be imported from other areas.

Hoffa, meanwhile, lashed out at proposed labor legislation now before Congress as "the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Passage of the bills, he added, "could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years."

Paid Job May Cost Policemen

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Two Miami motorcycle policemen — privately paid for using city-furnished equipment to set up a private roadblock on a public road — may be suspended from the force, a Miami police inspector said Monday.

The two uniformed but off-duty cops took it on themselves Sunday to hold up holiday traffic on Key Biscayne's busy Rickenbacker Causeway so a television company could shoot leisurely commercials.

"We don't know yet who the motormen are, but we'll find out," said Miami Police Inspector John H. Weber Monday.

When irate motorists complained about the delay Sunday, it was believed that the officers were part of the Metro police force. The incident occurred in Metro territory.

But a Metro investigation Monday revealed that the film company hired off-duty Miami police after Metro's road patrol department flatly refused to let their men take part.

Metro Safety Director Thomas Kelly said he had to send two of his motormen over to the Rickenbacker causeway "to straighten out the mess" caused by the commercial roadblock.

"Not only were they out of their territory but apparently they were acting without permission from Chief Walter E. Headley," said Webber.

"We don't allow that kind of commercial business unless it's really something spectacular," Webber said.

"Those motormen are subject to suspension, demerits or a fine — depending on what an investigation shows," Webber added.

Miami's motorcycle police, each of whom has his own city-furnished motorcycle 24 hours a day, seven days a week, have long been allowed to use their cycles, uniforms and authority on approved outside jobs.

In fact, one Miami motorman, who makes extra cash with his tax-paid motorcycle, has a special private business card which states, "Have Motor —Will Travel."

The show, which runs from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m., closes Wednesday night.

Tag Supply Stalls Off 'Big Pinch'

Technically, 30,000 Dade motorists should get pinched today for riding around with 1958 license plates.

But they won't.

The drivers applied for 1959 tags on deadline last Friday. But agencies won't be able to deliver them until Thursday because of the heavy last-minute rush, according to I. D. Smith, manager of Dade's main auto tag agency.

Until then, Smith said, no fine will be meted out, or arrests made.

Even several Metro police cruisers were spotted Monday without their 1959 plates.

Even Liquor Sales Under Its Control

By. C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has full authority to take over Dade cities' regulation of liquor sale hours, vehicle inspection, tradesmen licensing and many other municipal functions, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Gratified at the broadest definition so far of Metro's powers, county officials nevertheless adopted a "go slow" attitude.

PEARSON

Metro Commission Chairman Walter Weiss and County Manager O. W. Campbell said the decision "will mean no overnight broadening of Metro activity inside the cities." But, they added, the Pearson ruling "shows us where to take the next steps to make Metro fully effective."

County Attorney Darrey A. Davis called the decision "no surprise." He said it helps clarify Metro's power to do the actual regulating and enforcing of county laws county-wide, as well as set minimum standards for Dade municipalities."

Pearson's ruling came on a suit filed by the city of Miami Beach, a chief center of Metro opposition. Miami Beach attorneys asked the court to approve a list of city functions which its citizens could, by vote, turn over to Metro, but which Metro could not preempt under the home rule charter.

In ruling for Metro, Judge Pearson said the county government can take over these functions without first getting a vote of approval from people in an area:

WASTE AND SEWAGE collection and disposal.

SETTING HOURS for liquor sale.

INSPECTING automobiles and issuing safety stickers.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING BUILDING codes, and issuing certificates of competency to contractors and tradesmen.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

The activities specified in Pearson's ruling, said the Judge, are all of a "countywide" nature and therefore belong to Metro. For this reason, he said, it would not be necessary for the people to vote to transfer them to the countywide government.

Pearson said the functions he ruled on Monday "are not purely local in nature but susceptible to areawide regulations."

Under Pearson's findings, cities no longer have authority to set their own building codes, or to examine contractors and other building tradesmen. They must recognize the Metro building code and certificates of competency issued by Metro boards. But they can still charge occupational fees and keep the money.

Pearson said later that, in his opinion, Metro's powers extend even to the placing of traffic lights on city streets.

"If Miami Beach wanted to put a light at every block in its business section," he said, "it could not do so without Metro approval."

On the other hand, said Pearson, Metro could not abolish the police department of a city without the approval of the people living in the city. Some of the functions of such a department are purely local.

Dade Farms Hit By Vandal Swarm

By JOY WINANS
Herald Writer

South Dade farmers — hit by poor markets, unseasonal weather and disease — are being plagued by vandalism and pilfering costing them thousands of dollars.

And one farmer is checking reports that his watchman was fired on last week.

The vandalism has reached gigantic proportions in recent days as:

SOMEBODY CRASHED four tractors into each other at the Cornelius and Sons Produce farm in Florida City — causing damage of more than $1,000.

THREE TRACTORS belonging to Fritz Rutzke of Florida City were dumped into potholes surrounding his tomato fields west of Florida City. He said eight pieces of machinery were tampered with, and damage was $6,000.

THREE of Homestead farmer Grady Lofton's tractors were raced through his bean patch and through the barn while Lofton was away. There was no damage estimate.

MRS. CHARLES CARPENTER, 701 NW 20th St., Homestead, said her water pump was stolen, some batteries smashed and a tractor was parked on top of another.

She added:

"That's not to mention those Sunday visitors who despoil our fields. Why, a neighbor told us there were 50 people out in our tomato crop Sunday."

IRVIN BARNETT, manager of the Far South Cooperative Association, said someone took a $450 pump and other items from his farm.

PAUL CORNELIUS said he learned that someone in a 1951 Ford had shot at his watchman Sunday. He said farmers may have to take up arms unless the law does something.

Farmers said a group of young men, about 16 to 25, have been seen in the farming area on motor scooters on recent Sundays.

Metro's detective bureau has assigned men to the case.

Lofton spent Monday with Constable George Wright, and said he believes that "something will pop," possible today, on the case.

"We've got some pretty strong evidence," he said.

Giblins File Pair Of Suits

Circuit Judge and Mrs. Vincent C. Giblin Monday filed two personal injury damage suits against the City of Coral Gables and Gables Motorcycle Policeman Seymour Anderson.

The suits, asking jury trials of claims "in excess of $5,000" each, grew out of their arrests Jan. 23.

Mrs. Giblin was charged with speeding and the judge with resisting an officer.

Presiding Judge Marshall C. Wiseheart has already asked that a judge be assigned here from another circuit to handle two other Giblin suits in the same case.

In one, Giblin seeks to have his arrest by the Coral Gables policeman declared illegal. In the other he seeks to bar Gables city judges from trying the case.

It's possible that the judge requested by Judge Wiseheart may handle all four Giblin suits.

Judge Giblin's Monday damage action charges Anderson "assaulted and battered plaintiff by forcing him to submit to wrongful and unlawful search of his person and compelling him to be driven to Coral Gables jail."

Both suits charge the city "negligently employed Anderson knowing him to be incompetent and unfit to perform his duties."

Metro Fires Two Jailers

Two Metro jailers have been fired following an argument in which one pulled a knife, the sheriff's office said Monday.

They are Manuel Lima and Charles Wood, Metro Internal Security Chief Richard Wright said. Lima was a jailer six years; Wood had been a jailer 11 months.

Wright said Wood pulled the knife, but did not open it. He said no blows were struck and the argument was "a personal grudge." It took place in a jail corridor.

Poison Ivy Gets Scratched

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Even if you can't tell poison ivy from creeping charley, you can scratch off the itching season this year — provided you know the difference between aspirin and a new little white pill now on the market.

The pill, which offers season-long immunity to poison ivy and pioson oak, was brought to Miami Monday by an official of New York's Yeshiva University.

Max J. Etra, chairman of the university's board of overseers, said the pill was developed by a team of scientists headed by Dr. Robert J. Langs of Yeshiva's Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

"All of 50 Boy Scout campers who were given the tablets last year showed clinical immunity to ivy poisoning during nine weeks of summer," said Etra, who is here for Sunday's reception for Yeshiva's medical shool at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

"When the tablets were given to 68 adults and children—all of whom had a past history of poison ivy dermatitis — only two showed any evidence of ivy poisoning over a four-month period," Etra said.

By taking the little "Aqua-Ivy" pills four weeks before going to summer camp, Etra said, children will develop an immunity that lasts nearly a year.

Cecelia, We Still Have Faith

Officials at Crandon Park Zoo insisted Monday that they have not lost faith in Cecelia, even though it is now a month since she was supposed to have a baby.

She hasn't had anything during that month except a terrific appetite.

The date on which the zoo's lady camel was due to become a mother for the second time was Jan. 25.

Robert Mattlin, zoo director, declared that despite Cecelia's disappointing lack of performance, that he and the other zoo worker, as well as the zoo veterinarian, are sticking by their original diagnosis of her condition.

"She'll have that baby any day now," Mattlin said, trying to sound confident. "She shows it more every day. She is the most pregnant camel in history. All we can do is wait."

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

We 'Recruit' Fidel's Son

Fidel Castro's eight-year-old son got an honorary Dade sheriff's badge Monday from Sheriff Thomas Kelly in Havana.

Kelly pinned the badge on Fidelito in a ceremony at the Havana Military Academy.

More than 300 Dade visitors — in Havana for today's Cuba independence day parade—had lunch with the cadets.

The University of Miami's band and marjorettes put on a show to highlight the day.

VETERAN OF COMBAT is this beauty queen — Miriam Hadar, "Miss Israel" of 1958. Now a student at the law school of Hebrew University in her home town, Jerusalem, she was a sergeant in the Israeli Air Force and saw combat action in the Sinai campaign. 'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

Prio Home Up for Rent

THE VENDOME HOTEL penthouse where ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras spent his exile was listed for rent in a recent issue of the Wall St. Journal . . . Combination of overwork and a virus bug canceled Donald O'Connor out of his Las Vegas date. Suffering possibly as much as Donald are Ben Novack for whom he has a Fontainebleau date on March 17, and Bill Miller who was hoping he'd show a profit for the Riviera there shortly after.

Wometco is serving up two versions of "My Uncle," the French comedy click starring Jacques Tati, this week. The Mayfair will have a print with French dialogue and printed English subtitles. The Sunset will show the film with English dialogue dubbed over the French sound track. You takes your pick.

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Ruth Foreman, director of the Dramatic Academy, was on the jury at two show business tests over the weekend: at Miami Beach High School for its "Frolics" on Friday, and at Booker T. Washington High for "Jabberwock" Monday night. She's taking over operation of Studio M.

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.

The program will include Vivalid's A Minor Concerto for violin, string orchestra and organ, Haydn's Symphony No. 101 (The Clock), the Procession to the Cathedral music from Wagner's "Lohengrin," German's Country Dance from "Nell Gwyn," "Forgotten Dreams" by Anderson, and the fourth movement of Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 4.

Lacy Coe will be violin soloist in the Vivaldi work, and Bruce Davis will be at the organ. Admission is free.

Hollywood Buys Screen Rights to 'Fidel'

Sinatra First Choice for Castro Role

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—How do you like the idea of Frank Sinatra playing Fidel Castro in "Fidel," a movie based on the life of the Cuban leader who has caught the attention of the world in overthrowing the Batista regime? Frankie boy is first choice.

Let me tell you about the company newly formed to make this picture in Cuba. Mike Colin is the producer and he has acquired the screen rights to a novel and a diary written respectively by Pardo Llada and Dr. Manuel Penabaz, two prominent Cubans who were with Castro in the hills.

Llada is a Havana news commentator on radio. Dr. Penabaz was Castro's first judge in rebel territory.

I FELT a little pang when I heard that Aeneas MacKenzie is going to Mexico to work with John Huston on adapting "The Man Who Would Be King." The pang was caused not by MacKenzie, but by the many conversations I had with Humphrey Bogart before he died. He so wanted to do that story.

John's had it a long time, but he never had the heart to put it on the screen after Bogey's death. Now he's planning to film it as his next after "The Unforgiven."

MY GAL Patti Page closes her TV show March 16 — but she won't be idle. She writes from New York:

"Charlie (O'Curran) and I have started building our new house in Bermuda Dunes, outside Palm Springs, and we hope it will be ready for furnishing by June. We love the desert in the summer so it won't be too hard on us.

"I may go to England March 22 for one of their big TV Sunday shows. Can't make up my mind whether I want to or not — I really need a rest for a week or two." I also hear Patti's been booked into the Desert Inn in Las Vegas in June.

Soviet Film a Bit Seamy

OSLO —(AP)— The first Russian film produced for a new screen system the Soviets call Cine-Panorama just had its world premiere.

The film, "Great Is My Country," was intended to display both Soviet life and the new movie technique, comparable to American giant screen systems.

The United States put on a similar show at the Brussels World's Fair, only it was projected on a 360-degree screen running all around the auditorium.

The Soviet method was so similar to the American that United States equipment left over from the showing of "Windjammer" was used with only minor alterations.

All through the 90-minute showing the joints were clearly visible where the pictures from the three projectors met. The separate films also had different exposures and tones.

Group to Sing 'My Fair Lady'

The Vaida Musical Comedy Singers will be presented in their version of "My Fair Lady" at 8 p.m. Saturday at Pier Park, Miami Beach.

Featured will be Ann Congelo, Susan Breniger, Bill Eastham, Gabriel Denes, Frank White and Don Daniels.

GREEK FIRE is the commodity dispensed by Zozo Sapountzaki in her current stand at the Beau Rivage Cotillion Room.

Miss de Los Angeles to Sing

Spanish Soprano Symphony's Next

De Los Angeles

Soprano Victoria de los Angeles will make her first appearance with University of Miami Symphony Orchestra at the March 1-2 pair of concerts.

John Bitter will conduct both — the first in Miami Beach auditorium and the second in Dade County auditorium.

Miss de Los Angeles has programmed the Mozart motet "Exultate Jubilate" and two arias, the "L' Altra notte in fondo" from Boito's "Mefistofele" and the "Una voce poco fa" from Rossini's "Barber of Seville."

Bitter is programming for the orchestra piece de resistance Schumann's Symphony No. 1, Op. 38, called the "Spring" symphony. The orchestra will also play the Bach Fugue in G Minor in Stokowski's arrangement for orchestra, and the No. 8 and No. 10 Slavonic Dances of Dvorak.

The still - young soprano she's about 34, has sung two recitals in Miami, both for members of Civic Music Association.

She made her operatic debut at 20 as the Countess in "The Marriage of Figaro" in 1944 at Barcelona's famed Liceo Theater. Spanish-born, she had previously studied at the Liceo Conservatory of Music in Barcelona.

After establishing herself in all the major opera houses of Europe, Miss de los Angeles made a Carnegie Hall debut in 1950 and the next year was contracted by the Metropolitan Opera. Last season, her most crowded and brilliant to date, she sang her first Desdemona in "Otello" and her first Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan.

Critical Guest

Richard L. Merrick of the University of Miami art department will be guest-critic at Lowe Gallery's studio sketch session on Thursday evening.

CITY OF MIAMI
PROPERTY FOR SALE

The Commission of the City of Miami, Florida will receive bids for the purchase of the real estate described below on the 4th day of March, 1959, at 10:00 o'clock A.M. Eastern Standard Time, in the City Commission Room in the Municipal Justice Building, 1145 N.W. 11th Street, Miami, Dade County, Florida.

DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY
Private Court, Bay Serena, a resubdivision according to Plat Book 7, page 135, Public Records, Dade County, Florida.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR BIDS
1. The bid shall be submitted for the purchase of the above described property.

2. The bidder shall pay cash within thirty (30) days from the delivery of an Abstract of Title showing good, marketable and-or insurable title in the City of Miami for the above property, which shall be paid to the City of Miami at the time the City of Miami can deliver good, marketable, and-or insurable title and possession, provided it shall not be later than April 1, 1959, or such reasonable time thereafter as may be necessary to make the title good, marketable, and-or insurable.

3. The Commission of the City of Miami reserves the right to reject any bid which is less than the fair market value as determined by the City of Miami, or which it determines is not in the best interest of the City.

4. The purchase price shall be net cash to the City of Miami, with all fees, commissions, and expenses in connection with the purchase and sale to be borne by the purchaser.

5. The purchaser shall make no more liberal use of said property than is permitted under Zone Classification B-3.

6. Any use that might be considered by the City Commission at or prior to the acceptance of this bid as undesirable from the point-of-view of noise, odor, or appearance will not be acceptable.

7. The City Manager upon the acceptance of a bid by the Commission of the City of Miami shall enter into a deposit agreement after such has been approved by the City Attorney, on behalf of the City of Miami upon the terms and conditions of these specifications for bids.

8. There shall be no liability upon the City of Miami or the successful bidder for inability to consummate this transaction.

9. The property to be conveyed pursuant to the specifications shall be used as a part of the entire tract bordering between N.E. 13th Street to 131.09 feet more or less South of N.E. 15th Street, and lying between Biscayne Bay on the East and N.E. Bayshore Place on the West.

10. The bidder shall submit together with the bid a statement outlining the proposed utilization of the property.

11. The City shall be given reasonable time to remove any underground utilities. In the event it is necessary to remove said utilities the purchaser shall assume all the expense of said removal.

12. The City of Miami shall convey all its right, title and interest to the property by quit-claim deed subject to the restrictions heretofore set forth.

E. A. EVANS,
City Manager

RETIRE IN FLORIDA
SHOULD PARENTS HELP MARRIED CHILDREN FINANCIALLY?
YES ☐
NO ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

WRONG! A YOUNG FELLOW, for example, may think he's living for his family — that they need him and that he exists to satisfy their needs. The young woman may feel that she's living for her husband and children. The middle-aged man or woman may be trying to become creative citizens and focus their life goals toward the common good. The noted psychologist, William James, once said, "The great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it."

2. Yes, within reason. Before you do, however, remember that your married children want to make their own way in life. They may resent your efforts to help when that assistance threatens their own integrity as a couple. Sometimes it's best to help only when it's requested. Usually it's wise to clear with them before moving in with some big "surprise." You might take one party into your confidence in planning something aimed to please. Getting hurt feelings because you haven't been appreciated won't help. Helping in ways your married children can accept with appreciation is worth learning.

295— AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

Read This—$495

I'VE just returned from road testing our 1953 FORD "V8" CUSTOMLINE 4 door sedan and at the price of only $495. I think that it defies comparison anywhere in Dade County. It's finished in Glade Green with the completely factory original interior including doorpanels, headliner and floor mats complimented by an unusual set of custom tailored to fit seat covers that were installed by the former owner.

NOW — just note these extras — FORD-O-MATIC automatic transmission, MAGIC-AIR thermostat heating and fresh air system directional signals, clock, Ford's best "8" tube push button radio and excellent white wall tires. It even has a full front windshield sun visor. Bring the whole family with you and even your mother-in-law with you and take this smooth performer for a long test drive. You'll be glad you did.

IT'S guaranteed in writing by Grentner Bros. for 90 days and there's no cash needed — just trade in your 1949 model for the downpayment.

$1,495

HERE'S that hard to find 1956 PACKARD "400" HARDTOP and it's in Aristocrat condition. From it's gleaming front bumper through the striking triple tone Dover white and Caribbean coral factory paint finish it's a standout (head and shoulders) from the crowd. The factory original interior is gorgeous including the two tone leather door panels, orthopedic designed seats with genuine silver thread in the upholstery and thick pile floor carpeting that would do justice to your living room.

Of course there's all the equipment TORSION LEVEL SUSPENSION on all 4 wheels (no other automobile has it yet) POWER STEERING, POWER BRAKES, 4 WAY POWER SEAT, POWER WINDOWS, PUSH BUTTON, TWIN ULTRAMATIC drive, the big SELECTRONIC radio that finds it's own stations automatically with dual front and rear seat speakers clock, directional signals, dual thermostat controlled heating and fresh air systems, E.Z. eye Solex tinted glass, safety padded dashboard and General tubeless white wall tires.

This is a magnificent creation and will sell to the person who drives it. When you realize that this automobile sold new for $5,910 —you'll realize what tremendous "VALUE" it is on sale today for only $1,495. Guaranteed in writing for 90 days and no cash needed. LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Something Wrong Here

NOTHING is as aggravating as waking up early on my day off.

Days when I am working, it is an ordeal to force my eyes open and my body out of bed. On such days, I would give a week's pay for another hour's sleep. Unfortunately, I can't afford a week's pay and I have to kick myself into wakefulness.

But on my day off, I always wake up bright and early. I don't have to get up, this is that coveted morning when I can turn over and forget the alarm clock—but I'm wide awake. I make myself stay in bed as long as I can, eventually I admit defeat and get up long before I need to.

There seems to be something wrong about this.

* * *

MODERN NURSERY RHYME, by Mrs. Winifred Landry, Merritt Island:

Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary
  How does your new car go?
With souped-up works and speed-mad jerks,
  And tail lights all in a row.

* * *

WITH GREAT PLEASURE, Mrs. A. Leonard Anderson, Hallandale, recalls the walks she and others took in their younger days near Concord, Mass.

"We lived in a farming section, called Nine Acre Corner. We would start out by going around Mine Hill, and crossing the Seedberry River. After a mile or so on the road, we turned into the woods to follow the river to Fairhaven Bay, passing Mosquito Landing to Park Tub Landing, before arriving at the bay itself, a peaceful widening of the river.

"Leaving the bay, we turned into the woods once more and went over the small hill, across the road to Bed Bug Corner. By now it was time to head for home.

"It is a walk I take in memory many times and I wonder if any other little section of God's universe can come up with so many odd names."

Maybe, but not with more pleasant memories.

* * *

THIS TIME I think we've solved that putting-on-the-pants problem. The solution is offered by Aldred D. Hadel, New Smyrna Beach:

He says he put on pants the way I do for many years, but finally decided to change methods when he reached the age of 82.

"Now I put on my shirt, sit on a chair, and then pull up my trousers," he reports. "Viola, as the French say. No hop, no bump, no knock. As the pants slide up, I stand up and the shirt automatically drops into place. Time and energy saved, also temper and shins."

This is revolutionary, but I think Mr. Hadel has come up with a brilliant idea. However, I. F. Wood, 895 NE 130th St., North Miami, warns me to quit tampering with time-honored customs.

"I am going to organize all men against you if you write another word about changing our way of dressing of a morning," he says. "We are going to take steps to forever condemn you to living in a class by yourself and lose the respect of all men who want to put on their socks and shoes and then hop around all over the place trying to get our trousers on. We like it that way.

"Sure, I have a rough time each morning getting my trousers on over my Size 12 shoes and have, on quite a few occasions, barked my shins, fallen down and gotten tangled in the trouser legs. But I like it that way. I like hopping thither and yon, swearing and getting mad. Doggone it, you leave us alone!"

It's mighty tough tangling with tradition. Nevertheless, I'm going to give Mr. Hadel's theory a try. I may wait until I'm 82 before I try it, but some day I'm going to do it.

Be Dynamic Today! Get Experts' Help

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, February 24, 1959

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You are most dynamic today and should use this quality to get you far along your chosen profession. Don't be afraid to contact those supporters and experts who can give you financial backing and the benefit of their experience.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Spend a good part of today attending to those secret matters that will put your affairs in better order. Aspects are most favorable for success in this.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) An excellent day to team up with good comrades in affairs that will be mutually profitable. Cooperate intelligently and the future will be more successful and happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use a different psychological approach in all business or personal affairs today so that you get better results. Then discuss thoroughly with supporters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be alert to the many fine ideas and innovations which you can uncover today in paper, TV, printed matter of all sorts. Also, make it a point to meet newcomers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is a day when you can truly put into operation such ideas and systems as will bring you much closer to your goals. Be sure to first consult with real authorities.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day for real understanding with any partner important to you, if you confine your conversation to big issues and straighten them out. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for March send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Instead of fretting about the labor involved delve right into whatever has to be done to make surroundings more beautiful and use those lovely items and materials you have tucked away somewhere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Join forces with all who you know are staunch supporters, allies and who see eye to eye with you, and by intelligent cooperation you can mutually achieve the fine ends you desire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It would be wise today to sit down with family ties and give a concise explanation as to why you have taken certain steps or stands, put policies in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An ideal day to get your head out of the clouds and stick to basic and practical endeavors, making them a workable reality. Some of your ideas are good. Use them!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to forego the pleasure of helping others and concentrate on own needs and desires. By taking the right steps now, you can add much to your abundance and security.

Jack Kofoed Says

Lowry Backs Stand That Failed Before

SUMTER LOWRY wants Gov. LeRoy Collins to resign because four Negro children will be admitted to the Orchard Villa school under the Pupil Assignment Law. Gen. Lowry is all for massive resistance to segregation, which has failed in other states.

Mr. Collins, who is an excellent governor, isn't about to quit, and it's probably good for Florida that Lowry holds no important public office from which people might urge him to resign.

Straws in the wind point to Mayor Haydon Burns of Jacksonville as a contender for the governorship at the next election.

Under Burns' leadership, Jacksonville has become one of the most progressive and improved cities in Florida. No wonder the spotlight is focused on him.

Who would have believed it? Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt advocates off-track betting in New York. Thinks it would bash the bookies to bits and help solve the Empire State's tax problems.

Hialeah, though piling up one million dollars day after the other, is running behind last season. Beautiful weather, which lures many to beaches and golf courses instead of the track, and an upsurge in bookmaking activity may be the reasons.

Off track betting, credited to mutuel play at the track, would hypo Hialeah profits and Florida's share of the loot.

Marlon Brando demands one million dollars to star in a motion picture. If Brando wants to ruin the flicker industry, he's on the right track. On the other hand, there probably isn't a producer silly enough to offer him that much money.

Several men were pinched in a rest room of a beach hotel for shooting craps. That was naughty of them. Nobody ought to roll dice, particularly at 3 o'clock in the morning. But, holding the boys in $2,000 bail seems pretty ridiculous. We've had guys in this town released on such a bond when accused of really serious crimes.

The University of Wisconsin has purchased a collection of small magazines . . . tiny in size and circulation, but large in literary quality . . . for $30,000.

In 1919 my brother Bill published one of the first of that type, called "Little Story." It was highly rated by the intelligentsia, but was never a money maker.

When W. Averell Harriman entered politics, he stopped parting his name in the middle. Now that he's no longer gunning for office, the former New York governor has resumed the practice. As a whole, Americans don't seem to like name splitters. The most unusual name one I've ever known was a Staten Island golfer, Pennington Miller-Jones.

I've been disappointed with reaction to my plea for the honor prisoners at the Deep Lake road camp. Those men, in the process of rehabilitation, and almost ready for return to a free life, need softball equipment to make their recreation periods more fruitful.

A sporting goods dealer (unfortunately, I've lost the letter, and forget his name) offered to send them a dozen balls. There were a couple of small checks.

Nat Potamkin, Veepee of Vic Potamkin Chevrolet on the Beach, has offered help. He'll not only give, himself, but will ask his friends to join the effort. Now, I'm really hopeful we'll get the boys what they need.

Mike Gordon, who built a big sea food place on the 79th St. causeway from a small beginning, pays all bills in cash. The money comes out of Mike's right hand pocket, the receipts go into the left hand shirt pocket. Why mess around with checks?

Hialeah Owes More to Live Fans Than to Television Viewers

DIFFERENCES OF opinion still rage over what should have been done Saturday at Hialeah when Jockey Bill Hartack refused to ride Greek Circle. The fact Fred Hooper's horse had a good workout Monday morning does not eliminate possibility there was something wrong with Greek Circle before Saturday's sixth race.

HARTACK

Opinions seem to be influenced mainly by whether those voicing them like or dislike Hartack. He may not be the greatest jockey, but there is no disputing he is the most controversial. He is brash enough to do what he thinks right—as he pleases might be a more apt description—regardless of the consequences.

Excuses offered by racing officials for not putting another jockey on Greek Circle indicate they were more sensitive to public reaction than Hartack.

HOOPER

Steward Keene Dangerfield explained they scratched the horse (1) because of the large amount of money bet in making him the favorite and the possibility of something happening, and (2) the delay in rushing another jockey to the post might have interfered with nationwide telecasting of the upcoming Widener.

This raises the question of whether the obligation to TV viewers was more than to the 34,128 cash customers? Truth of it is the concern over television was unnecessary.

★ ★ ★

'Ted Williams' Of Turf

FOR ONCE, television, which is prone to offer commercials at such inopportune times as when fight decisions are being made or the outcome of other events is in doubt, prolonged its program to give the official results. This was necessitated by Hartack's foul claim in the feature.

Your reporter holds no brief for Hartack, who treats some turf writers like Ted Williams does some baseball writers.

Right or wrong, Hartack was not afraid to follow his convictions. The same cannot be said for the officials charged with straightening out the rhubarb caused by the jockey.

Florida May Play Here Twice in '60

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI has given Florida permission to schedule a football game here Oct. 8, 1960, when the Hurricanes will be in Pittsburgh, UM Athletic Director Jack Harding said Monday.

FOLDBERG

If Coach Bob Woodruff books a game here on that date, it will make two Miami appearances for the Gators that year as they are scheduled to play UM at the Orange Bowl in 1960. Miami lost to Florida at Jacksonville last year and next fall the traditional rivals meet at Gainesville.

Gator Assistant Coach Hank Foldberg gave Miami-Florida alumni a reassuring talk about prospects problem. Foldberg said any one or half a dozen Gators are capable of continuing the fine team leadership offered by Quarterback Jimmy Dunn, who has completed his career.

The Gators will hold their annual banquet tonight at Gainesville and it will be no surprise if Dunn is named the Most Valuable Florida Player of 1958.

Patterson Rates Pastrano As Fast

FLOYD PATTERSON, called the least known of heavyweight champions, discusses possible opponents in a current SatEvePost article.

PASTRANO

"I think Eddie Machem is a very hard puncher," Floyd told W. C. Heinz. "He boxes quite well, but I think Zora Folley is a much, better boxer than Machem is. Willie Pastrano, I think, has tremendous speed, very fast speed. And Nino Valdes — although he looks like he can't fight because of the way he gets discouraged very easily — he's always dangerous. I have respect for everyone of them."

Patterson confided to Heinz that he does not like the fact being heavyweight champion limits his freedom. However, he does like the financial security which has been a part of becoming champion.

Pastrano is fighting Joe Erskine in England tonight. Angelo Dundee postcards he and Willie had a nice trip over, but were bothered by the fog.

"Carmen has a lot of friends in Augusta," said Dundee . . . Paul Warren, here for a brief vacation, gave a one-word description when asked about the weather at Cleveland . . . He replied, "Zero" . . . Ernie Seiler of the Orange Bowl Committee does not enjoy the luck at Hialeah that he does in staging his Orange Bowl Festival . . . "I had the double," Ernie confided Saturday. "But it looks like everybody else had it, too" . . . That was why it paid only $16.10, Ernie . . . Perry Moss, Florida State University's new head football coach, will be in town this week.

Distractions Don't Worry Richards

SOME MAJOR league managers have frowned upon Miami as a spring training site, because of distractions—night clubs, dog tracks and jai alai frontons.

"I don't worry about there being so many things to do here," said Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles.

"When my boys get through with their daily workouts, they'll be too tired to be interested in distractions."

Newsreel Movies to be Studied, But . . .

Petty Appears Daytona Winner

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — Bill France, head of the Daytona International Speedway, said Monday night newsreel pictures of Sunday's disputed 500-mile auto race will be returned from New York and studied before an official decision on the winner is announced.

Johnny Beauchamp of Harlan, Iowa, and Lee Petty of Randleman, N.C., finished neck and neck in the International Sweepstakes. Beauchamp originally was declared the winner, but still photos taken just before and just after the finish show Petty apparently ahead.

France indicated an official decision would not come before sometime today, but Ed Otto, vice president of NASCAR, said he felt Petty was the winner.

He said, "Beauchamp pulled into the pits after the finish knowing in his own mind he was not the winner. There is no question in my mind who won it."

Auto tracks are not equipped with official cameras to record close finishes, as are dog and horse tracks.

This was the first time the new two and one half-mile track here has been used and the 500 climaxed three weeks of races and speed trials.

For six hours Sunday night Beauchamp was the winner — until the controversy started.

Petty was driving a 1959 Oldsmobile and Beauchamp a 1959 Thunderbird in the neck and neck finish before 47,000 spectators.

The 35-year-old Iowan and the 45-year-old North Carolinian were nip and tuck for the final 15 laps and neither was ever more than a couple feet ahead or behind.

The remainder of the field of 58 hardtops and convertibles had either fallen out or were so far behind none could count for first or second.

Morehead State 17th Victim

NIT-Hopeful UM Romps, 102 to 93

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Coach Bruce Hale told his recognition-anxious University of Miami sophomores Monday night he had just been assured they were "still very much in contention" for a bid to the NIT Basketball Tournament.

With thoughts of playing in New York's Madison Square Garden in their minds, the Hurricanes proceeded to out-run and out-gun Morehead State (Kentucky) College, 102-93, before 1,539 Beach Auditorium fans.

It was Miami's fifth successive victory, ninth in its last 10 starts, and 17th triumph in 24 contests — most wins ever earned by a UM quintet against strictly collegiate foes.

Coincidentally, it marked the Hurricanes' second straight Auditorium appearance in which they were established as nine-point favorites — and won by exactly a nine-point spread.

After seeing four of Miami's five starters snipe for 20 points or better, Morehead Coach Bob Laughlin told Hale:

"If all but one of these guys are sophomores, how about canceling next year's game?

"I hope you go on (to the NIT)," Laughlin said, adding, "this ought to help you some."

"I hope so," said Hale, "Ken Norton (NIT Tournament Chairman) told me today we're still in the thick of consideration."

The Hurricanes were in charge from beginning to end, getting as much as 14 points in front during the first half (34-20) and 17 in the closing half — at 95-78 with 4:30 remaining.

Sophomores Dick (The Menace) Hickox and Ron Godfrey hit for 26 points each; Senior Joe Gardner weighed in with 21, and Sophomore Harry Manushaw had 20.

Hickox' production for the nation's leading scorers gave the flashy 5-6 guard 445 points for the season and the all-time scoring record for UM sophomores.

Manushaw, a 6-7, 220-pound tiger under the boards, captured 26 rebounds to in-

. . . And a Tourist

Orioles 'Hatch' Holdout, Unknown

A possible holdout . . . a surprise prospect . . . and a 'tourist.'

That was the picture at Miami Stadium Monday as the Baltimore Orioles continued their instructional school for rookies and welcomed varsity pitchers and catchers.

LOES

But, for Pitcher Billy Loes, there was no welcome. He failed to arrive on schedule with 17 other Bird batterymen, and there was no immediate explanation for his no-show.

However, a teammate said, "Billy hasn't signed yet, and he may be holding out. But don't quote me by name."

The surprise prospect, 21-year-old free agent Don Dingwerth, just walked into the rookie camp and asked for a tryout.

Despite his impressive size (6-3, 208) he was about to get the brushoff until he said he ran the 100-yard dash at Murray State (Ky.) Teachers College in 10 seconds.

That got him the uniform, and his power and fielding were enough to convince Manager Paul Richards that a prospective Oriole in the hands is worth two looks.

"I've heard of guys walking into a camp and begging for a tryout, then winding up a star," said Richards.

★ ★ ★

PITCHER Ernie Johnson's arrival was a little different.

"All the way down on the train I kept thinking I forgot something," said Johnson. "But for the life of me I couldn't remember what it was."

At Miami Stadium, the light dawned. Johnson had left his spikes, sweat shirts and other equipment at home.

"Must of thought I was coming on vacation," said Johnson.

★ ★ ★

ONE disquieting note popped up when X-Rays disclosed that Rookie Outfielder Don Ewin's right thumb, jammed during Sunday's intrasquad game, was fractured. The 20-year-old Culver City, Calif., standout will be out at least a month.

Round Table Runs Last, Leg Bleeds

ARCADIA, Calif. — (AP) — Round Table found the journey too long, the weight too heavy and the grass course too soft — at least Monday — and finished dead last in the $60,400 Washington's Birthday Handicap.

Hakuchikara, the 6-year-old chestnut from Japan, won the holiday feature before a crowd of 44,891 which gasped as Round Table, the odds-on betting favorite, made an early bid and then dropped gradually back to run last in the field of 16.

Round Table, it became known soon after the race, kicked his left front leg down near the hoof at some stage of the arce. He came back from the track bleeding from the injury.

Eight days ago Round Table developed a small quarter crack in the right front foot. His training was interrupted a day or two. Apparently he was favoring the right foot when he hurt the other one this afternoon.

In Regatta

Olsen Retains Crown

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Eric Olsen of Essex, Conn., successfully defended his championship Monday in a One-of-a-Kind Sailing Regatta which resolved into a "Junior America's Cup" battle between him and England's R. S. Prout.

For the fourth time in five races spread over three days, Olsen sailed the amazing 17-foot catamaran Tigercat to a convincing corrected time victory in Yachting Magazine's unique competition off Coral Reef Yacht Club.

To make the last-race triumph most satisfying of all for Owner William Cox and Designer Bob Harris, Olsen won in light southeast breezes — first test for their prototype in soft air conditinns.

"This convinced us we've got a great cat," said Cox, two-time International Lightning champion in his own right.

"And where better could Eric have proved it, said Cox, "than in what I considered a sort of Junior America's Cup — a chance to maintain America's prestige against British sailors."

In a 39-boat fleet comprised of as many designs, Olsen's only second-place finish came in the third race when Prout, world-respected Southampton catamaran designer - builder, won with his new Cougar Cat.

Prout earned runnerup honors with corrected time finishes, in order of fourth, fourth, third, third and fourth.

Olsen, who had to surge from behind to catch Prout after Monday's opening windward legs, called the British skipper "an excellent sailor who taught me a few things about sailing cats."

Winner of the last previous One-of-a-Kind in 1954 on Long Island Sound, the 41-year-old Olympic sailor actually never was worse than third in boat-for-boat finishes.

As Harry Melges of Zenda, Wisc., won all five races, in elapsed time with his powerful 38-foot A Scow, Olsen compiled actual finishes of 3-3-2-2-3 with Tigercat.

In corrected time placements, Melges' Scow was dropped to fourth position, highly respectable considering the big time advantages she had to concede to rival entries.

Third place went to Lou Whitman, a 52-year-old whom you had to see to believe as he jockeyed a tricky 17-foot International 10 Square Meter Canoe.

Despite capsizing at least once a race the International Canoe champ earned third place on corrected finishes of 4-5-7-6-9.

'New Look' Marlins Open Against Royals

The new-look Miami Marlins, under manager Pepper Martin, will meet the Montreal Royals here on Tuesday, April 14, to open the 154-game International League baseball schedule for 1959.

President Frank Shaughnessy today released the schedule as baseball's oldest minor league circuit prepares for its 76th consecutive season.

In Havana on the same date, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, a former pitcher, is due to throw out the first ball in a game between the Cuban Sugar Kings and Dixie Walker's Toronto Maple Leafs.

Other inaugurals find Buffalo at Richmond and Rochester at Columbus.

Secondary openers, in the loop's northern cities, are staggered. On April 17 Columbus appears in Buffalo and Richmond in Rochester while on April 29 Canadian club openers get under way with Miami at Montreal and Havana at Toronto.

The league's All-Star event is slated for Columbus, August 27, when the Pittsburgh Pirates will face a picked squad of the International's top players in the fourth renewal of this classic.

Five clubs have named new managers. At Columbus, Cal Ermer, who won pennant, playoffs and Dixie Series for Birmingham last year, succeeds Clyde King.

At Havana, Pedro (Preston) Gomez, a player for Washington and Buffalo during the war years and manager at Mexico City in 1958, takes over from Tony Pacheco.

Steve Souchock, longtime Yankee farmhand, takes over from Ed Lopat at Richmond, while Martin, last in the Shaughnessy circuit as Rochester manager manager in 1943, supplants Kerby Farrell with the Marlins.

Farrell, in turn, takes over from Phil Cavarretta at Buffalo.

Holdover pilots are Clay Bryant, Montreal's "manager-of-the-year," who won the loop's pennant and playoffs; Cot Deal, entering his third season at the Rochester helm, and Dixie Walker, his third at Toronto.

No new cities appear in the league line-up. The last change occurred in 1956 when Miami replaced Syracuse.

Gunton Wins

WEST PALM BEACH—Lou Gunton of Ft. Lauderdale defeated Bill Driscoll of Miami, 7-5, 0-6, 6-4, Monday to reach the semifinals of the Golden Age Tennis Tournament at Howard Park.

Gunton plays Jack Flood at 10 a.m today at Ft. Lauderdale Community Center Court. The finals will be held in Miami Wednesday.

Rogers: Watch Out First Landing

Troilus Puts Eurasia In Place, Sets Mark

Troilus
. . . a thundering winner

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Bayard Sharp's Troilus crushed the heavily-favored Eurasia Monday in a record-smashing performance which stamped him as First Landing's chief rival in Saturday's $100,000-added Flamingo.

Troilus ran the mile and sixteenth in 1:42.2, clipping two fifths off the Hialeah record set by Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege in 1957.

Jockey Chris Rogers, after dismounting from the winner, said: "First Landing better have his running shoes on Saturday. I hit my horse a few times but all I was doing was knocking the flies off him."

A crowd of 22,110 expected Greentree Stable's Eurasia to dart into command right after the start, but Rogers surprised them all by sending Troilus to the front.

Master Palynch tried to run with Troilus, and held second until he tired and dropped out of it near the stretch turn. Eurasia then was third with the remainder of the nine-horse field left astern.

Jockey John Ruane sent Eurasia after Troilus and was only two lengths behind at the eighth pole, but the Sharp colt pulled away to win by four and a half lengths.

Quiz Star finished third, three lengths behind Eurasia.

With Eurasia bet down to 11 to 20 favoritism on the basis of a sensational victory in his debut at Hialeah Feb. 14, Troilus refunded a liberal $9 to win.

"I thought Eurasia ran a good race," said Ruane. "He might have tired a bit in the late part but, after all, he had only run once and he was going a distance for the first time against track-record time by the winner.

"I look for him to improve off this race."

Charles Peoples, trainer of Troilus, said, "We have never run against First Landing and I'm anxious to get a shot at him. I am convinced now that we have a real good horse."

Troilus had won the Bahamas Stakes under 123 pounds in his last start. He carried 116 to Eurasias 108 this time.

Monday's 22,110 attendance and $2,221,724 handle topped comparative figures for a year ago when 20,265 fans bet a total of $1,839,579.

Metzgers 'Rolling' In Bowling

John Metzger Jr., and Pete's Hotpoint Floridians produced the weekend's big bowling news.

Metzger, who has been in a tailspin, totaled 1,070 for five games to win the Valentine Tournament which ended late Sunday night at Bird Bowl.

The Floridians, a group of Miami gals, posted a 10,140 to win eighth position in the Bowling Proprietors of America's National Team Championship at Cleveland. Grand Rapids was the winner with 10,905.

Don Metzger's 587 set led the Floridians. Mary Lou Graham posted a 568 high set during the 12-game competition.

Trailing Metzger in the Valentine tournament were Lou Mandragona (1,057) and Gus DeStefano (1,031).

Bob White and Elvie Diefendorfer won doubles with 1,313 for three games.

Bleeding Rosi Wins Verdict

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Bleeding Paolo Rosi won a 10-round split decision over Filipino Flash Elorde in a Cow Palace bout that finished in a fast swinging final round Monday afternoon.

Rosi weighed 135, Elorde 132. The decision was booed loudly.

Rosi started bleeding from a cut over his left eye in the thrid round. In the fourth another cut opened over his nose.

The Italian-born New York lightweight, however, was the harder puncher. But he missed many punches and blinked his bloodfilled eye frequently.

Referee Franklie Carter called Rosi winner by 100-94. Judge Eddie James scored it 98-97 for Rosi. Judge Jack Downey called it 96-93 for Elorde.

In the dressing room, Rosi said he would like to fihgt Lightweight Champion Joe Brown for the title in San Francisco any time after about two months. Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, said recently he would consider Monday's winner as the champ's next challenger.

'Officially' Back in Business

Norris Backs New Club

CHICAGO — (AP) — The immense wealth of the Jim Norris-Arthur M. Wirtz business interests Monday was thrown behind the promotion of boxing under the name of National Boxing Enterprises, Inc.

Norris and Wirtz, giants in the dissolved International Boxing Club, will be chairman and president, respectively, of the new NBE, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Chicago Stadium Corp.

Truman Gibson, former president of the IBC, will be a director as well as the administrative head.

Wirtz said the NBE will operate on a national basis and will continue presentation of the Wednesday night televised fights. Friday night telecast fights will continue under the new Madison Square Garden setup.

Since there is no apparent link between the Garden promotions and those of the NBE, the two groups probably will be not competitively in landing the best fights for their television obligations.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis will remain with the NBE in an advisory capacity. He was being paid a reported $30,000 a year for such a service by the IBC.

In New York, Harry Markson, new general manager of boxing in the Madison Square Garden setup, said, "This is what the Federal Court envisioned when it broke up the relationship between the Chicago Stadium and Madison Square Garden — more competition between all promoters.

"We will continue to try to get the best fights for the Friday night show."

Although giving away height until Morehead's Dale Fair, 6-4 forward, and Jim Harrison, 6-9 center, fouled out midway of the final half, the UM won in rebounds, 55-45.

In an overtime preliminary, the UM frosh shaded the Campus All-Stars, 84-81. Ineligible seven-footer Mike McCoy caged 33 points for the losers; Forward Jack Spisak 22 for the victors.

Meyer Toils in Sun, Hunting 'Lost Talent'

WEST PALM BEACH — (AP) — For 10 days a man and a boy have toiled together under the Florida sun, looking for a lost talent.

The talent was in the right arm of Russ Meyer, once a good pitcher in the major leagues. Meyer lost his ability to pitch late in the 1956 season when he threw a curve ball to Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers and hurt his arm.

Meyer hung around the big leagues until early the next season. Then he went to the minors, first to Seattle and then to Nashville. In 1958, he quit baseball.

But he's back on the fringe, at age 35, confident that he has regained the magic that once was his. He's got six weeks to prove it.

"When you've been in baseball as long as I have you don't know anything else," Meyer told Sports Writer Joe McGuff of the Kansas City Star. "I love to play and I just couldn't resign myself to the thought of quitting."

* * *

ON THE FINAL day of last season, Meyer worked out with the Kansas City Athletics. He was sharp enough for Manager Harry Craft to decide he was worth a trial in spring training. If he shows enough stuff, the pitcher-poor Athletics will offer him a contract.

"One of the kids from the high school (Meyer didn't name him) has been catching me and yesterday I threw hard," Meyer said. "I broke off some curve balls and had no trouble at all."

* * *

TAMPA — Rookie Pitcher Barry Latman was the only absentee as the Chicago White Sox opened spring training Monday.

Vice President Chuck Comiskey said Latman returned an unsigned contract. He added: "Latman wants the salary of a 20-game winner. I mailed his contract back to him last week. If he doesn't sign by Thursday, I might start deducting $100 a day from his salary."

* * *

CLEARWATER — National League batting champion Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies came out of a salary conference with General Manager John Quinn and said:

"We're not too far apart now. Actually, you might say our difference is no more than tip money. But I tip pretty good."

* * *

TAMPA — Don Newcombe, the Cincinnati Reds pitcher who once was so scared of flying he had to be hypnotized to get into a plane, now is taking flying lessons.

He said he has already flown a plane and now is looking forward to tackling one of their 600-mile-an-hour jets.

"They get you there so much faster," he said, sans smile.

Marlins Sign Left-Hander With Control

Miami Marlin General Manager Joe Ryan said Monday he had received the signed contract of Pitcher Jim Archer.

Archer, a 6-foot, 190-pounder, was the workhorse of the San Antonio staff last year.

The left-hander appeared in 39 games, and pitched 19 complete contests while compiling a 15-18 record with an earned run average of 3.85.

Unlike most southpaws, Archer is known for his control. Last year he issued only 63 walks in 250 innings. He struck out 189.

Archer, 26, is from Max Meadows, Virginia.

Stewards Take No Action

Hartack Safe --It Appears

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Hialeah racing stewards had a long conversation with Bill Hartack Monday, but indications are that no disciplinary action will be taken against the jockey for:

(1)—His rejected foul claim against Bardstown in the $100,000 Widener;

(2)—His refusal to ride Fred W. Hooper's Greek Circle in Saturday's sixth race after informing officials that he considered the horse unfit to run.

While Hartack's foul claim was made on rather slim grounds, the stewards do not regard it as frivolous.

As for Greek Circle, the three-year-old colt worked a splendid five furlongs in 1:00 3-5 Monday morning and three veterinarians have found nothing wrong with him.

Hartack's refusal to ride Greek Circle, a 4-5 favorite, caused the colt's withdrawal at the last minute and forced the refund of $136,089. The rebate prevented Hialeah from setting a Florida record for a one-day mutuel handle.

Saturday's wagering totaled $2,722,983. The all-time record of $2,859,072 was set on Widener day in 1956.

Rule 130 of the Florida State Racing Commission's regulations states, "All jockeys shall faithfully fulfill all engagements in respect to racing."

However, Section 1 of rule 138 states, "A jockey's fee shall be considered earned when the horse which he has been engaged to ride leaves the paddock for the post."

Hartack faithfully left the paddock aboard Greek Circle. So there you are!

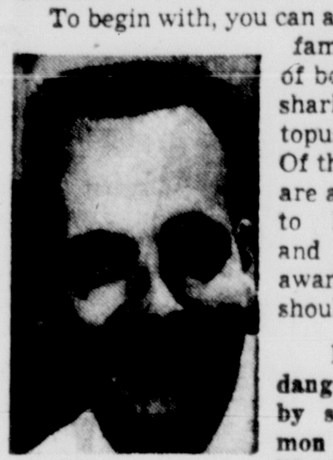
Their Stings Can Be Dangerous

Respect Sea Urchins, Or Pay the Penalty

Many dangerous creatures inhabit the sea, and anyone who fishes, swims, shells, or otherwise visits the ocean or shore should quickly learn the possible dangers and how to avoid them.

To begin with, you can almost ignore the famous sea villians of book and movie—shark, barracuda, octopus, giant squid. Of these, only sharks are a serious menace to human beings, and folks are well aware that they should be avoided.



DUNAWAY

More frequent dangers are posed by small and common forms of sea life so common that you often overlook their threat.

Included in this rogue's gallery are crabs, jellyfishes, sea urchins and sting rays, as well as many kinds of fish. None of these will attack, but they don't have to. Careless people leave themselves open to injury from them all the time.

Best equipped to deal misery is the sting ray, who can drive a multi-barbed spike several inches into human flesh. The spike is not venemous in the sense that a snake bite is venemous, yet it is covered by an infectious slime which can, in severe cases, lead to amputation of a stricken arm or leg.

Watch That Sting Ray

OBVIOUSLY, you should never hoist a tail-lashing sting ray into a boat unless there is plenty of room for safety while you conk him with an oar.

Also be respectful of sting rays when wading shallow water. They inhabit flats in great numbers and often settle out of sight in soft bottom. Recommended procedure is to drag your feet while wade-fishing. This will flush a ray, but a stab is certain if you should bring your foot down on one.

Sea urchins are another threat to the wading man. Since they are stationary, you can't hope to frighten them away. The only way to avoid their needle-sharp stickers is to watch where you step. Fortunately they are black in color and you can usually spot them without trouble.

If you're not familiar with the sea urchin, it is a creature as thickly-spined as a porcupine. And those quills can easily puncture a canvas shoe or rubber wader.

* * *

Steer Clear of Jellyfish

MANY JELLYFISHES sting worse than a nest of hornets, and the brilliant Portugese man-of-war can actually put you in the hospital, so venemous are his flimsy tentacles. Scientists say a man-of-war sting could conceivably cause death.

FISHING

...with Vic Dunaway

Jellyfish are probably the hardest of all sea dangers to avoid. If you spot one or more of them while swimming, it's a wise move to leave the water until a change of wind or tide clears them out.

Fishermen should look hard before dipping a hand into water where men-of-war recently have been spotted.

A lot of jokes have been made about the pinch of a crab, but you won't share the laughter if a blue crab gets his nippers on you. Stitches are required to close crab wounds in most cases.

If you go crabbing, take a closed container to keep your catch in. And it goes without saying that crabs must always be handled with utmost care.

Wednesday's column will deal with the dangers involved in the everyday act of catching fish—and taking them off the hook. And if this doesn't sound like a serious matter, just think back over your fishing career.

I'll lay odds that any angler has, at one time or another, received a painful wound from his catch.

Olmedo Snares Title

NEW YORK —(AP)— Catlike Alex Olmedo, the U.S. Davis Cup Champion by way of Peru, won the National Indoor Tennis Championship on his first try Monday by outlasting Defending Champion Dick Savitt, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 12-10, in a gruelling three-hour final.

Olmedo then teammed with Barry MacKay to whip Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables and Grant Golden for the doubles itle, 6-2- 6-4.

In the singles, Olmedo survived a first set mental lapse and a fourth set comback by Savitt to triumph.

Alex, after breaking Savitt's service in the seventh game, moved to set point in the first set. He had an easy shot with Savitt out of position — and then netted the sure kill.

In the fourth set, Olmedo was leading, 5-4, and merely had to hold his own service to win. But Savitt broke him, held his own delivery in the 11th game, and smashed Alex's service again in the 14th game to send the match into the fifth set.

In that sizzler, Olmedo broke through in the 21st game and held his own service in the 22nd game for the championship.

Providence Five Added to NIT

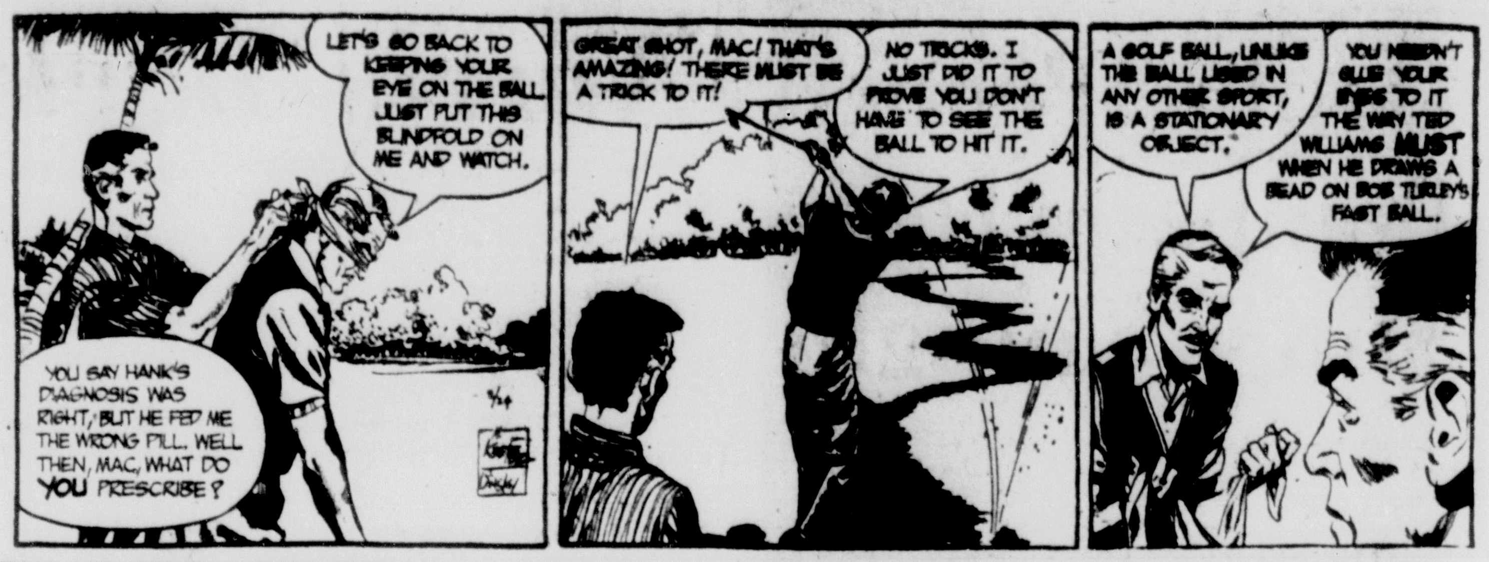
NEW YORK — (AP) — Providence College, a New England basketball power with a 16-3 record, was selected Monday to participate in the National Invitation Tournament to be played March 12-21 at Madison Square Garden.

Providence was the seventh team to be named. Others are St. Bonaventure, Oklahoma City, Fordham, NYU, St. John's (NY) and Villanova.

Stetson Wins 16th

DELAND, — (AP) — Stetson won its 16th basketball victory of the season Monday with a 64-53 victory over Florida Southern College.

MAC DIVOT



LET'S GO BACK TO KEEPING YOUR EYE ON THE BALL. JUST PUT THIS BLINDFOLD ON ME AND WATCH.
YOU SAY HANK'S DIAGNOSIS WAS RIGHT, BUT HE FED ME THE WRONG PILL. WELL THEN, MAC, WHAT DO YOU PRESCRIBE?
GREAT SHOT, MAC! THAT'S AMAZING! THERE MUST BE A TRICK TO IT!
NO TRICKS. I JUST DID IT TO PROVE YOU DON'T HAVE TO SEE THE BALL TO HIT IT.
A GOLF BALL, UNLIKE THE BALL USED IN ANY OTHER SPORT, IS A STATIONARY OBJECT.
YOU NEEDN'T GLUE YOUR EYES TO IT THE WAY TED WILLIAMS MUST WHEN HE DRAWS A BEAD ON BOB TURLEY'S FAST BALL.

Grid Crowds Near All-Time High, But...

NEW YORK —(AP)— College football attendance was near an all-time high in 1958 but it was 29.9 per cent lower than National Collegiate Athletic Association statistics indicate it should have been.

That figure was given Monday in an analysis of attendance figures made for the NCAA Television Committee.

The over-all total of 19,280,709 for 2,586 games played by 618 colleges in 1958 turned out to be about 25 per cent higher than estimates based on attendance at major college games in previous years. It was the biggest total since 1949, when 682 colleges played football and drew 400,000 more spectators.

But when NCAA Service Bureau statisticians compared the paid attendance figures with those of the pre-television era in relation to increases in population, disposable income and college enrollment, they found football crowds hadn't kept pace with the growth of those factors.

Digging into the effects of television competition on ticket sales, NCAA statisticians found a direct relationship. Gains were smallest in areas with the heaviest TV.

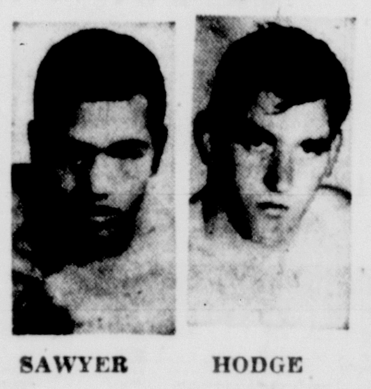
Sawyer Squares Off Against Hodge Tonight

By MEL DERRICK
Herald Sports Writer

Ex-Olympic wrestler Dan Hodge, the heavyweight hope of people accustomed to dealing in championships, squares off with youthful Garvin Sawyer tonight in a Miami Beach Auditorium 10-rounder that will prove:

1. Experts like George Gainford and Sugar Ray Robinson can be wrong, or;
2. Hodge could be the new shot-in-the-arm the heavyweight division needs.



SAWYER HODGE

Hodge, despite only seven fights (six victories), rules a 7-5 favorite over granite-chinned Sawyer, who has gone the distance with folks like Zora Folley, Bob Satterfield and Bert Whitehurst in a 16-4 career.

Gainford, co-manager of middleweight champ Robinson, has previously helped Hodge smooth his moves, and Robinson says he'll be in Hodge's corner tonight.

Neither the advice nor the odds worry Sawyer.

"Robinson will be as much help to Hodge as (Carmen) Basilio was to (Mike) DeJohn last week," says Chappy Roberts, who'll work with Sawyer. (Sonny Liston TKOed DeJohn in the sixth round).

Sawyer puts it even simpler. "Robinson," he says, "can't hit for Hodge."

Hodge, former AAU wrestling champ managed and trained by Al King, brings in a good reputation as a right hand banger. But Robinson flatly figures his left will win tonight.

"He's really coming with it," says the Sugar Man.

Despite his own relative inexperience, Sawyer is a step upward for Hodge. He has a TV fight — and loss — to top-rated heavyweight Folley and a victory over Henry Hall in his past.

In his only previous Beach appearance, Sawyer chilled Ollie Wilson with one punch.

Preliminaries, starting at 8:45 pair Willie Mack with Freddie Blades, in an 8-round light-heavyweight go; middleweights Tommy Della Rocca and Levi Pearson, 6 rounds; heavyweights Tony Alonzo and Tiger Flowers, 4 rounds; and lightweights Eddie Ludlow and Hilton Smith, 4 rounds.

Pastrano 2-1 Choice At London Tonight

LONDON —(AP)— Willie Pastrano, anxious to make up for his defeat by Brian London, takes on Joe Erskine, former British heavyweight champion, tonight at Wembley Stadium. Pastrano, a high-ranking boxer from Miami Beach, is a 2-1 favorite.

Still bitter about his Sept. 30 defeat by London, when he suffered a severe eye cut and was a fifth round technical knockout loser, Pastrano promised to come out fighting. "This will be no kid gloves affair," he said. "I've got to beat Erskine."

If Pastrano whips Erskine, he may get a match with Cuba's Nino Valdes, rated No. 2 among the contenders. Pastrano is ranked No. 5 by Ring Magazine and No. 6 by the National Boxing Association. Erskine is unranked.

A sellout crowd of 11,000 is expected to see the match.

Revenge?

Double-Primed Pompano Hosts Stings Tonight

Unbeaten Pompano Beach risks its spotless basketball record against Miami High tonight in the South Florida prep headliner.

Home-standing Pompano goes into the game with a dual purpose:

1—To avenge a football lacing.

2—To register the school's first unbeaten season. (Pompano closes against Stranahan Friday night).

Frank Budka and Don Hughes are Pompano's big guns. Pete Somerindyke and Bob Paterson lead the Stingarees.

The Southwest-Coral Gables game has been switched from tonight to Wednesday night at the Cavaliers' gymnasium.

And the Gold Coast Conference championship game, originally planned for tonight and then moved to Wednesday, definitely will be played Thursday night at Miami Jackson's gymnasium. Hialeah and Key West meet for the title.

Other local games tonight send South Dade to St. Patrick's, Palmetto to Norland, Fort Lauderdale to Miami Jackson, West Palm Beach to Miami Edison and Columbus to McArthur.

Shamrock Green $13.10, 7.00, 5.00; Gone 9.60, 5.80; Cork Screw 3.90.

OWNERS: 1, Black & White Ranch; 2, Mrs. W. D. Carroll; 3, T. D. Buhl; 4, H. J. Rose; 5, Rockmoore Farm; 6, Jo-Ed Farm; 7, E. Jacobs; 8, Patty-Ann Stable; 9, L. Rodriguez; 10, Old Rose Farm; 11, Rose Sorrentino; 12, F. Zraket.

SHAMROCK GREEN attained a clear lead in the early stages, was well rated and held sway under intermittent pressure. GONE, forced to take up in the run to the first turn, improved his position steadily but failed to menace the winner. CORK SCREW rallied mildly on the final turn and weakened.

SCRATCHES: Mr. Burt, Rajador, Buddy, Capeador.

677—SECOND—Purse $3,500, 4-year-olds and up,

MODEL JEEP assumed command along the backstretch, turned back the challenge of BOOMER SOONER and drew clear under pressure. BOOMER SOONER weakened following a determined effort to wrest command on the final turn and well into the stretch. PENDER wore down tired horses. BEAU FOND rallied mildly on the final turn and flattened out.

SCRATCHES: Bruce Harvey, Antigua, Biscayne, Flaming Blue.

678—THIRD—Purse $3,500, 3-year-olds, maiden fillies

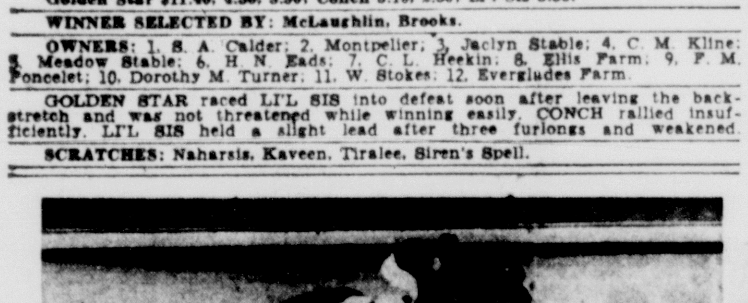
GOLDEN STAR raced LI'L SIS into defeat soon after leaving the backstretch and was not threatened while winning easily. CONCH rallied insufficiently. LI'L SIS held a slight lead after three furlongs and weakened.

SCRATCHES: Naharsis, Kaveen, Tiralee, Siren's Spell.



679—FOURTH—Purse $4,500, 4-year-olds and up,

(claiming $8,000-7,000); 7 furlongs, chute; start good; won driving; place same; went 3:01; off 3:01½; winner ch. c., 4, by Royal Lover-Port Darling; owner Grandview Stable; trainer S. Jacobs; value, $2,925, 900, 450, 225; time, 23, 45 4-5, 1:11 2-5, 1:24 4-5.

ANOTHER ART disposed of early opposition to attain a clear advantage in early stretch, then lasted over CLUB CHAMP. The latter, unhurried early, moved boldly from the outside to loom a threat entering the stretch and continued his rally to be wearing down the winner. SUTHERN BREEZE finished with good energy. JOE JONES held a striking position to the stretch and gave way badly.

SCRATCHES: Onaga, Lady Ponder, Tocsin, Hat Box.

680—FIFTH—Purse $4,500, 4-year-olds and up,

MORNING AFTER, outrun for five furlongs, rallied boldly from the outside and wore down the opposition. MOUNT JAY raced TILE SON into defeat to attain a clear advantage in early stretch, then proved no match. ETHEL-RITA held a menacing position and was responding mildly when forced to steady in late stretch. Leonard's claim of foul against MOUNT JAY for alleged interference nearing the finish was disallowed.

SCRATCHES: Bora, Anfitrion, Royal Briar, Wherehavubeen.

Overweight: Oil Rich 1.

Mlle. Dianne $7.60, 4.40, 3.60; Lament 5.20, 4.20; Oil Rich 7.50.

WINNER SELECTED BY: O'Neill, Ulbig, Brooks, Consensus.

OWNERS: 1, H. H. Polk; 2, V. Giorgi; 3, Elmendorf; 4, C. S. Handelman; 5, S. A. Calder; 6, Mrs. M. T. Jones; 7, Merrick Stable; 8, Dixiana; 9, Combs & Hanes.

MLLE. DIANNE, unhurried while outrun early, entered contention on the turn and was nicely handled while moving cautiously through the field to wear down the leader from the inside. LAMENT wrested command in early stretch and was unable to hold sway. OIL RICH held on fairly well. MOON GLORY flattened out in a dull showing.

SCRATCHES: Easter Music, Switch Off, Sequoia.

Huckster, Sea Dream Win Awards

Jacon F. Whitney Jr.'s cruiser Huckster, Monday won the trophy for the best decorated boat in the 50-foot-and-up class of the Miami International Boat Show's Aqua Parade.

H. N. Millard's Sli-Dona, a 38-foot cruiser, took the 25-to-50-foot trophy, and Lt. Wallace Shrader's Lilyan, A 22-foot outboard, earned the 16-to-25-foot award.

In the marina competition, the Daytona Beach Boat Works Marina was judged the best in the southern district, extending from Norfolk, Va., to New Orleans. Tony Walsh is Marina manager.

Manager Sam Shelsky of Fort Lauderdale's Bahia Mar Marina, and Bill Dunham of the Jupiter Beach Colony Marina, received certificates of merit as runners-up.

Bahia Mar was the bronze plaque winner last year.

Bishop Eyes 4-Ball Golf

Special To The Herald

HOLLYWOOD — Miami's Jack Penrose and former National Amateur Champion Ted Bishop of Boston are two of the early entrants in the third annual International Four Ball Golf Championship at Orange Brook March 18-22.

Penrose was a semi-finalist in the North-South Amateur last year. Bishop won the National Amateur title in 1946.

Other top golfers entered are Knox Young and Fred Brand Jr., both of Pittsburgh, and Bob Cochran and James C. Ford of St. Louis.

During the Four Ball tournament, contests in putting, driving and iron shots for accuracy will be held. The tourney will be 72 holes of medal play.

	4	Admiral Town	W. Blum	113	20-1
659	11	Greek Guard	No Boy	113	20-1

ERRATIC should put up stiff argument here; NAHARUE has chance in tight fit; IBN PONDER's last race was a nice try; QUICK PASS must be given consideration.

686—SECOND—Purse $3,500, 3-year-old maiden colts & geldings, 1⅛ miles. Post 1:58.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
651	3	North Pole 2nd.	P. J. Bailey	120	5-2

	9	Ambitious City	C. Rogers	120	10-1
628	7	Wheatley Road	H. Woodhouse	120	20-1

NORTH POLE 2ND is ready to graduate; COURTIER must be given contender spot off last race; SEA CRAFT had speed in last, is expected to improve; MONTE CRISTO has chance if he gets off "also" list.

687—THIRD—Purse $3,500, 2-year-old maiden colts & geldings, 3 furlongs. Post 2:26.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.
	1	Official Seal	R. L. Stevenson	120

	16	Venetian Way	M. N. Gonzalez	120
588	17	Ragnar	E. Guerin	120
489	18	Gallant's Image	No Boy

FLEET GREEK is highly regarded, clocker likes; HIDDEN TREASURE has been working well; SIR FLIP reported ready now; COPPER TOM is in good hands.

688—FOURTH—Purse $3,500, 4-year-olds and up, claiming $5,000, 6 furlongs. Post 2:54.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds

	3	Blacktype	W. Zakoor	118	20-1
374	2	My Treasure	W. M. Cook	113	20-1

a—Keystone St. & M. Shagrin Entry.

HANNIBAL'S GIRL is the best of these if she escapes "alsos"; FLORANN will be a stout factor; I GEEGEE is a veteran with some class; DEAD INDIAN could beat the rating.

689—FIFTH—Purse $3,500, 4-year-olds and up, fillies & mares, claiming $3,500, 1 3-16 miles. Post 3:22.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
533	1	Point Count	W. Hartack	122	5-2
658	9	a-Nell	No Boy	115	3-1
595	4	a-Way-Lady	No Boy	115	3-1
624	3	Falcula	S. Boulmetis	120	4-1

658	5	Bonnie Heaton	J. Ruane	120	20-1
631	6	Aula Tymie	No Boy	115	20-1

a—Spring Hill Farm Entry.

POINT COUNT appears to hold upper hand; NELL is contender at this distance; WAY-LADY is an entry mate of Nell who could dispute this; FALCULA has been close up.

690—SIXTH—Purse $4,500, 3-year-olds, claiming $10,-000-$8,000, 1⅛ miles. Post 3:50.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
(627)	12	Warrior's Exile	L. C. Cook	116	2-1
605	11	Zabaglione	H. Cruz	x105	5-1
(662)	6	Ruffjon	C. Errico	122	5-1
654	7	Associate	L. Batchellor	110	6-1
(605)	4	Carneaux	K. Church	111	6-1
(589)	2	Beaureve 2nd.	J. Ruane	116	8-1
627	9	Six North	No Boy	110	10-1
518	1	Quick Master	P. J. Bailey	116	12-1
600	3	Tom's Ace	J. Sellers	116	15-1
570	5	Sin-Jex	B. Martin	111	20-1
570	8	Truce	No Boy	108	20-1
580	10	Pepper	L. Gilligan	110	20-1

WARRIOR'S EXILE could easily repeat; ZABAGLIONE is a factor at the weights; RUFFJON is now racing at top form; ASSOCIATE could be closer than rated.

691—SEVENTH—Purse $5,000, 3-year-olds, allowance, 6 furlongs. Post 4:18.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
(645)	2	Jet Fuel	J. Leonard	119	2-1
503	3	Pointer	W. Hartack	110	4-1
(583)	4	Pryson	I. Valenzuela	117	6-1
(582)	7	Bang Up	J. Block	x114	10-1
591	6	Easy Spur	No Boy	122	10-1
645	1	First Minister	S. Brooks	122	4-1
(617)	5	Locoweed	J. Ruane	x113	6-1

JET FUEL must call for a repeat of last great effort; POINTER's last race must be ignored; PRYSON won last; retains his speed; BANG UP also was a winner of last, could make trouble.

692—EIGHTH—Purse $5,000, 4-year-olds and up, allowance, 6 furlongs. Post 4:46.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
536	5	Slaipner	M. Kay	x107	3-1
536	2	Missile	P. Anderson	109	4-1
593	6	Vegeo	M. Sorrentino	118	4-1
656	12	Ajaccio	G. Avila	124	4-1
	9	Ben Lomond	H. Woodhouse	109	5-1
(620)	3	Allarullah	K. Church	109	6-1
520	8	Greek Game	J. Choquette	109	12-1
457	4	Ricci Tavi	No Boy	112	15-1
555	11	Royal Spy	S. Brooks	109	20-1
440	1	Feast	S. Boulmetis	115	20-1
	7	Bay Boy	F. Sheppard	x104	20-1
	10	Red Rythm	H. Woodhouse	109	20-1

SLAIPNER gets much the best figure; MISSILE is a factor in last showing; VEGEO is a hard-knocker, chance; AJACCIO is toting heavy package but ready for anything.

693—NINTH—Purse $5,000, 4-year-olds and up, fillies & mares, allowances, 1 1-16 miles, (turf) Post 5:14.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
602	8	Rare Treat	J. Ruane	106	6-5
639	1	Royal Float	S. Boulmetis	109	3-1
653	10	Sabena 2nd.	No Boy	106	10-1
539	4	Bloomin Alibi	No Boy	109	12-1
674	6	Paris Picnic	No Boy	115	8-1
602	5	Point Pleasant	W. Blum	115	15-1
602	3	Royal Charmer	L. C. Cook	115	15-1
639	2	Scarlet Slipper	C. Errico	106	20-1
636	9	Bevy Of Roses	M. Sorrentino	109	10-1
612	7	Equipat	B. Thornburg	112	20-1

RARE TREAT looms as the best bet of day; ROYAL FLOAT will be right there at the finish; SABENA 2ND has good foot for the grass; BLOOMIN ALIBI raced fair over Canadian turf.

NORTH POLE 2nd—Second Race

TODAY'S BEST LONG SHOT

MRS. K. L.—Fourth Race

Jim Martinez Beats Vaughn

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — Jimmy Martinez of Phoenix, Ariz., outpointed favored Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles, Monday night in the 12-round main event at Sydney Stadium. Martinez weighed 159¾, Vaughn 158.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the dull fight, marred by frequent clinches. Vaughn forced the fight, but Martinez connected with the cleaner punches. Vaughn, a 7-4 favorite, missed badly at times as he tried to catch up with his elusive opponent.

Let Dad Give You Carfare

Visit a Lawyer, Ann Advises

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Three years ago I married a fellow I thought I was very much in love with. I was 17. I've had three miscarriages and a lot of skin trouble since I got married. My husband refuses to give me money for doctor bills.

ANN

My father is not well off financially and I had to get money from him three times. He's been wonderful but I made up my mind not to ask him for another penny.

I'm strong enough to go to work now as I've been out of the hospital three weeks, but my husband won't give me money for carfare or decent clothes so I can look for a job. Please tell me what to do. I'm really up against it.—AVIS.

Dear Avis: This is a marriage? I suggest you borrow carfare from your father and see Legal Aid. Perhaps when your husband hears from a lawyer what his obligations are, he may believe it.

Did you say you married at 17? Surely you could have waited a few years for this doll of a husband.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I'm a high school junior and have never been in any trouble. We are having a war at our house and I hope you can help me out. Please try.

The big dance of the year was two weeks ago. I took my best girl and we doubled with Butch and Sally. Butch got his dad's car. After the dance we decided to drive to a chicken shack 12 miles out. It was raining and the roof was leaking on the girl's nice dresses so I offered to get my dad's car.

The car was in our driveway as usual and the folks were asleep. The keys were on the kitchen table so I helped myself. Dad has always been good about letting me have the car for special events.

When I got home at 2 a.m. every light in the house was on. My father met me on the porch. His first words were "You idiot, why didn't you tell us you were taking the car? We heard it being driven off and reported it to the police."

I tried to explain I didn't see any point in waking them up to ask a question when I already knew the answer.

Now I can't have the car until St. Patrick's Day. Don't you think this punishment is too stiff for an innocent kid? —DON.

Take your punishment, Boy. Aristotle made the same mistake. He could have avoided a lot of trouble if he had asked Mrs. Aristotle to open her mouth so he could count her teeth. He was SURE women had fewer teeth than men but he didn't bother to check.

Next time, don't assume anything. Just open your mouth and ask.

Flora Shook Her Old Phobia by the Neck

Flora faced her bugaboo, after she finally had dragged it out of the recesses of her memory. And after three victories, she began to realize she was now the master, instead of the slave, of this childhood complex about closed places (claustrophobia).

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

FLORA G., 28, is the secretary who was afraid of riding in an elevator.

She had suffered this fear of closed places ever since the sixth grade of grammar school.

"Think back," I urged Flora, "and tell me if you can recall anything during the sixth grade which might have made you afraid of being suffocated or shut in."

Flora wrinkled her pretty forehead and tried, but said she didn't remember any terrifying experience at school.

"How about at home or on the playground? Were you ever shut inside a dark closet?"

Again she shook her head.

"Think again," I persisted, "for there is always a cause for psychological complexes. Often the experience is so frightful, you try to banish the memory of it, but it is there.

"Under hypnosis, I could bring it out at once, but you can also ferret it out by yourself if you keep on. So think some more."

* * *

SOON HER face brightened. She had consciously broken through into a painful memory which she had avoided through the years.

"Now I know where my fear started," she said. "I was visiting some cousins on the farm.

"We had two opposing sides and were having war. I had been taken prisoner. But the prisoners were often set free when their team attacked again, so my captors decided to hide me where I wouldn't be seen.

"There was an old abandoned cistern which was almost dry. And they stuffed me into it, despite my pleading. Then they replaced the wooden lid, which suddenly left me in pitch darkness.

"I screamed and was so terrified I must have fainted, for later I woke up lying on the muddy bottom of this cistern.

"Again I started screaming and somebody heard me. Soon I was pulled out. And I never went to visit those cousins again."

* * *

MAYBE IT seems odd to some of you readers that people can forget such emotional incidents, but such lapses of memory are common.

If you dislike a person, you may later find it difficult to recall his name.

"It's just on the tip of my tongue," you may say, "yet it will not come back to me."

These psychological "blind spots" occur to some degree with everybody. But when unusual pain or anguish are linked with a childhood incident, we may banish all conscious recall thereof, even though we still show its emotional effects via a phobia or compulsion.

"Flora, now you see where your fear of closed places started," I said. "You have allowed yourself to be a slave to a forgotten fright. So it is time to declare a revolt. Don't be a slave any longer."

THEN I TOLD her to accompany me and we'd take the elevator to the top floor in my office building.

"You may still feel some terror," I added, "so occupy your mind with some mental task. Multiply 13 by 17 in your head, or hold your wrist and count your pulse, for any mental function will reduce emotion."

She trembled but we rode to the top and back again. Then I praised her and let her try it herself, without my presence. She succeeded.

After a rest, I had her do it again, for when you face your bugaboo three times, you are its master, instead of its slave.

No Surgery Needed to Heal Swollen Pile Tissues While You Shrink Them!
Remarkable medication does more than reduce the tissue swelling . . . stops pain in minutes and promotes natural healing, too!
Pain, itching of swollen piles are torture. You may think there's no relief without an operation. Yet...thousands have discovered how to stop this nagging discomfort in minutes—and without surgery! A remarkable compound you use at home makes you feel worlds better, right away! Not only reduces swelling but stops pain at once, promotes healing of inflamed tissues too!
Preparations that just act to "shrink" piles can't offer complete symptomatic relief. For real comfort, fast, you need this more complete medication, called Stainless Pazo. In doctors' tests, patients reported immediate relief of discomfort. That's because Stainless Pazo combines the most effective ingredients known for piles. Thus works 3 ways at once: 1. Anesthetic action stops pain, itching in minutes... puts rectal nerves to sleep, thus relaxing muscle spasms that cause discomfort. 2. Reduces tissue swelling, congestion... protruding parts shrink. 3. Promotes healing of raw tissues. You get immediate new comfort while Nature's own healing magic goes to work.
Don't suffer needlessly one more day. To sit, stand, walk without pain again, get Stainless Pazo Suppositories or Ointment at druggists. Get glorious relief without surgery or money back!

Top AFL-CIO Brass Call for 35-Hour Week

5 Million On Jobless Rolls Cited

Automation Justifies Demand - - Meany

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council called on Congress Monday to take immediate steps to reduce the present 40-hour week to 35 hours, in the Fair Labor Standards Act.

In the 21 years since the nation established the 40-hour week, a council statement said, "America has made tremendous technological progress which justifies and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The statement, adopted at the current winter meeting here, said that with nearly five million jobless now, the need for shortening the work week is obvious.

"It is perfectly clear that we are producing much more with much less people," said AFL-CIO President George Meany. "We must either reduce the work week or shoot some substantial portion of our working population."

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

"We're not going to worry about a few hours off until we've raised living standards first," said Hoffa.

"If you took a vote on it, I don't think the workers in our union would stand for it — and they're no different from the workers in any other union," he added.

Meany said the AFL-CIO intends to get busy right away persuading Congress to adopt a 35-hour week and a seven-hour day in addition to boosting the present dollar-an-hour minimum wage to $1.25 and applying it to at least eight million now exempt.

Also on the day's agenda was a group of new charges of racial discrimination in labor unions.

Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has filed a series of complaints alleging the color line in specific unions and union locals.

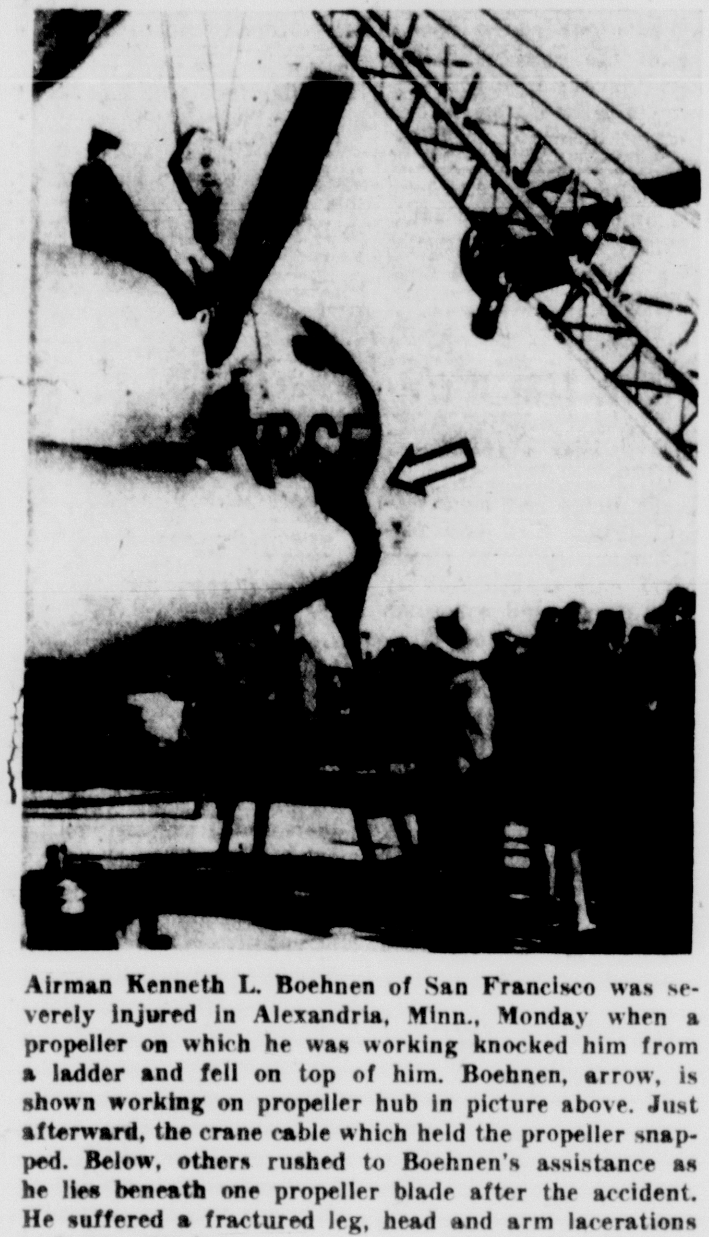
What is needed from the AFL-CIO now, the NAACP said, "is not more pious resolutions or public relations, but rather decisive action."

Hill has written a series of letters to Meany and other federal leaders urging action. In one he said:

"We recognize that a goodly number of AFL-CIO unions are diligently pursuing a pol- also are aware that several icy of non-discrimination. We unions which heretofore had policies permitting, if not encouraging, discrimination have begun to take corrective measures.

"But a discouraging number of unions have made no move to correct inequities."

Cable Snaps, Prop Falls on Airman



Airman Kenneth L. Boehnen of San Francisco was severely injured in Alexandria, Minn., Monday when a propeller on which he was working knocked him from a ladder and fell on top of him. Boehnen, arrow, is shown working on propeller hub in picture above. Just afterward, the crane cable which held the propeller snapped. Below, others rushed to Boehnen's assistance as he lies beneath one propeller blade after the accident. He suffered a fractured leg, head and arm lacerations and severe bruises. —Associated Press Wirephotos

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets and Police Battle With Fists

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

Pact Ratified

LONDON — (AP) — Radio Moscow said the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) Monday ratified an agreement between the Soviet Union and Argentina arranging a 100 million dollar credit for the sale of oil equipment to Argentina. The agreement was signed in Moscow Oct. 27.

Gland Problem

Marshall Weaker

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall weakened Monday. His condition remains serious.

In a medical report on the 78-year-old general, Col. George M. Powell, army physician, said:

"He shows an indication of an involvement of the pituitary gland as evidenced by a definite increase in water output by way of the kidneys. This involvement has complicated his treatment."

Dr. Powell explained that the complication of treatment concerned the feeding of Gen. Marshall, which heretofore has been by intravenous solution and through a plastic tube into his stomach.

The general's second stroke was accompanied by mild pneumonia. Col. Powell reported the pneumonia under control.

Tourist Trade Shows Pickup

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Revolutionary firing squads shot nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday, swelling the unofficial total of the war crimes executions to 325.

Among the dead were ex-Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three troopers convicted of torturing and hanging four University of Havana students, sympathizers with Fidel Castro's rebels, just four days before the New Year flight of Dcitator Fulgencio Batista.

The four were shot at Pinar Del Rio, in West Cuba, along with three other men convicted by revolutionary tribunals.

Two ex-policemen — a lieutenant and a patrolman — were executed at La Cabana fortress in Havana.

The trial of Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao, 45, accused by the revolutionary government of being one of "the top three" war criminals, got under way at La Cabana.

The two others, Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco and Capt. Pedro Morejon, have been executed. Like them, Grao is accused of murder and other misdeeds during civil war campaigning in easternmost Oriente Province.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cuban airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fedel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

Porter Says:

Batista Has Half-Billion Loot in U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Fulgencio Batista has about a half a billion dollars stashed away in the U.S. which belongs to Cubans, Rep. Charles Porter (D., Ore.), said Monday.

"This is an informed guess based on information from persons I've talked to here and other places," said Porter, who is here on official business.

He said he has asked the Justice Department and the Treasury in Washington to find out what assets Batista holds in the U.S. and what can be done to get it back. Initiative for recovery would have to come from the Cuban government, he explained, adding that the Cubans could count on plenty of cooperation in the U.S.

Batista has been living in the Dominican Republic since he fled Jan. 1.

Death Ends Plane Trip

DANBURY, Conn. — (AP) — Four Patterson, N. Y. persons, two of them teenagers, were killed Monday when a private plane crashed and burned "after a terrific roar and explosion" on wooded Pine Mountain.

The charred bodies of the victims were found strapped to their seats in the plane wreckage by a rescue party.

State police said the pilot was Eugene Brandon, an employe of the Danbury School of Aeronautics. His passengers, who were flying to New York's LaGuardia field to meet a friend, were identified as Emerson Smith, about 40, a self-employed carpenter and father of four children; his son, Joseph, about 14, and his cousin, David Sprague, about 15.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

Power Failures Hit Other Areas

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines, and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

British Plan Huge New Telescope

LONDON — (AP) — The British government disclosed Monday plans to build a 100-ton telescope with a 98-inch aperture, the most powerful ever made in the British Isles.

The telescope will be erected at the Royal Greenwich Observatory at Herstmonceaux in Sussex. It will be named after Sir Isaac Newton who, in addition to his famous theorizing on gravity, invented the first reflecting telescope.

The new telescope will be 30 feet long. It will cost $1,848,000 and will take five to six years to complete. The world's largest optical telescope is the 200-inch instrument at Mount Palomar, Calif.

Proxmire Complains He's Disenfranchised

Senate Leader Johnson Accused of 1-Man Rule

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

William Proxmire
. . . challenger

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of

Publicity Hunters, Ike Sniffs At Demand He Fire Dulles

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with

Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Firm Price Supports

'Corporate' Farmers Reaping H. S. Profits

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.), told the Senate Monday that two large farm operators collected more than 2½ million dollars in government farm price supports in 1957.

"The high rigid support program is little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming," Williams said, "and actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers."

The senator said the two largest government supports were $1,460,902 to the Producer's Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark., on rice and $1,157,502 to the Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., on cotton.

Williams said these two payments in one year were larger than those received by all farmers in his home state of Delaware for two years — 1956-57.

Britain, Reds to Draft New Cultural Treaty

Macmillan, Nikita In Accord

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev agreed Monday to start work on a two-power cultural treaty in the first concrete achievement of their summit talks.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-agression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

However, no one would rule out the possibility of a non-aggression document. Macmillan himself referred to the possibility of such before he began his Moscow mission Saturday.

Britain and Russia had a non-aggression pact until 1955 when the Soviets abrogated it.

Details of the meeting at the long, rectangular table in the cabinet room were secret. Macmillan, in his foot-tall white fur hat that won the hearts of the Russian people, and wearing a borrowed fur overcoat against the 18-degree Moscow temperature, arrived at the Kremlin to the applause of a crowd.

"He looks so handsome and distinguished," one bystander remarked.

Another pointed to the hat. "It goes well with his gray hair," he said.

After the Kremlin meeting, Macmillan had lunch at the British Embassy and then toured Moscow's skyscraper university where he got a riotous welcome.

Thousands of youngsters jammed corridors and fought their way up and down in elevators of the towering structure to cheer their distinguished visitor. Security officers were frustrated in efforts to keep them in an orderly file. Macmillan waved and smiled.

He spoke briefly in the rector's office, a sunlit room decorated with marble busts of Lenin and Stalin.

"Many thousands of students from India, Pakistan and Ceylon come to complete their education in Britain," he said. "We would like to see more students from the Soviet Union — you will be very welcome."

He expressed hope that more English books and magazines will appear in Soviet book shops so Russian people can read the works of modern British writers.

"One must keep in touch with modern writing," Macmillan said. "There are other authors apart from Dickens and Tolstoy."

He was interrupted repeatedly by applause.

Johnson Is Labeled 'Dictator'

the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

The young Wisconsin liberal was elected in 1957 to finish the last year of the late Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's term and reelected to a full six-year term last fall. He said he planned a series of speeches on senators' "surrender of rights" to their leadership and on "evaporation of individual senatorial responsibility."

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

The Town Crier

INTERESTED IN LIQUOR prices? The war has everybody in the businesses going crazy. Many prices are well below wholesale costs, and buyers are stocking up on well known brands. Liquor is different than gasoline. In a gas war you buy all the tank will hold. You can stack liquor on the shelves until the closet is full.

BELL

Walgreen's and Weinkle's have been selling "specials" for some time. But the real war started when Shell's got its license, after months of roadblocking by the South Florida Liquor Dealers Association.

Shell's got into low prices almost at once. Then State Stores got into the war. There's a fairly well authenticated report that State Stores lost $25,000 last week-end. Associated Stores also is deep in the whirlpool now.

Just about everybody is cutting prices now, on some items. It's mighty rough on the small stores, for they can't afford to meet the well advertised prices of the big fellows. Where it will end nobody knows. But it doesn't make much sense.

Hoffa Aims Blast at Union Bills

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa charged Monday at Miami Beach that labor legislation now before Congress "is the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Hoffa also announced that the union's organizing efforts in Florida — the future strategy — will be unveiled today.

Hoffa made his observations during a news conference at the Eden Roc Hotel following a meeting of the Teamsters board of directors.

The results of the union's initial organizing in Florida will be described by Murray (Dusty) Miller, southern chairman for the union, and Joe Morgan, international organizer, who is spearheading the Teamsters' bid for a foothold in this state.

Hoffa said his board is prepared to appeal to the Federal Appellate Court if court-appointed monitors attempt to take over the operation of the union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington ordered the monitors to step in as a result of a questioned election last year in which Hoffa was named union president.

The Teamsters have asked for a stay order.

"We were not elected to sell out the union and we do not intend to do so," Hoffa said sharply.

As for his differences with the new labor proposals in Congress — there are four major bills — Hoffa said none of them spell out anything which is not already covered in existing labor law.

"If there is going to be any legislation, it should be specific, not general," he declared.

He called it a mistake to write laws "which would leave to the imagination of administrators the intent of the Congress."

Passage of any of the labor bills in Congress, "because of their loose wording . . . could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years," he said.

Liquor Hours Up To Metro

Judge Defines County Powers

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has absolute power over cities in the setting of liquor sale hours, issuing auto inspection stickers and controlling many other muncipal activities, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Among the other functions which the new countywide government can take from the cities without a vote of the people, the judge ruled, are:

WASTE and sewage collection and disposal.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING building and related codes.

ISSUING certificates of competency for building contractors and tradesmen.

Pearsons' ruling came on a suit filed by the City of Miami Beach, one of the chief centers of opposition to Metro.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We will have a totally different type of government from what we have today," predicted Spaet, "if this decision is upheld."

The suit, said Spaet, presents all Metro issues "squarely for the first time."

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

He delayed making it until the Supreme Court took its final action on a decision upholding the countywide traffic code. A request for a rehearing on the suit brought by the Village of Miami Shores was denied last week.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

Governors to Get Proposal

Collins Feels Chill By Ike on Race Plan

BILOXI, Miss. — (AP) — Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida said Monday his local option plan of school desegregation might be rejected by the National Governors Conference executive committee because of lack of encouragement from the White House.

Collins' plan is to enlist congressional, residential and state aid in working out the problems brought about by the U.S. Supreme Court school desegregation decision of 1954.

Collins told a news conference that lack of encouragement from the executive department means "there is not much point in pursuing it further here."

The question was scheduled to come before the nine member executive committee today. Collins did not say whether he would shelve the issue.

Briefly, his plan is "to facilitate desegregation where it is feasible and to set up specific safeguards against efforts to force desegregation where it is not feasible."

The plan calls for a five-member commission in each state.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

Assignment Law, Zoning, Key Factors

Expert Sees Schools Segregated for Years

Option Plan Explained By Odum

TAMPA —(UPI)— Assistant Attorney Gen. Ralph Odum said Monday that most public schools in Florida can continue to operate on a segregated basis for years.

Odum, the state's top segregation expert, said that residential zoning and the pupil assignment law will provide a high degree of natural segregation.

"The courts have not ruled that racial integration must be carried out just for the sake of integrating, regardless of normal geographic districting," Odum told Independent Bankers of Florida at a meeting here.

He said the parent option plan of private schools, which the Legislature will be asked to enact next year, will be needed only in scattered spots. He said he has not been able to get accurate information on cost of private school operation, but some schools set up in Virginia are charging $20 a month, which is less than the cost of public schools.

Odum said public education might improve considerably under the parent option plan because of private school competition.

Only a few school districts in Florida are bi-racial, he said, pointing out that schools in such neighborhoods are the most vulnerable to integration.

The Orchard Villa School in Miami, an all-white school which the Dade County School Board ordered integrated next fall, is located in a predominately Negro section and the board said the pupil assignment law gave them no basis for refusing to admit four Negroes who live close by.

"Where residential areas by race are not so well defined, the criteria provided by the school placement law, such as scholastic levels, will result in a high degree of natural segregation," Odum declared.

His speech, fourth in a series around the state, contained a detailed explanation of how the parent option system of private schools would work.

An amendment to the state constitution would be needed to allow state tax money to go toward the cost of attendance at a private school.

Then, he said, there should be laws which:

1. Define the reason and conditions which justify a child's withdrawal from an integrated public school and his receiving a grant-in-aid with which to attend a private school.

Odum said this law should be passed with the idea in mind that the U.S. Supreme Court had ruled that the act of segregation by races in schools is harmful.

2. Provide for an orderly withdrawal of children from public schools and safeguards against misuse of grant-in-aid tuition money.

Odum said affidavits should be required, proving the child is attending a private school with adequate facilities and standards.

3. Give reasonable protection to the tenure and retirement benefits of public school teachers.

"We think this can be solved by provision for extended professional leave for teachers who, although not employed in the public schools, are engaged in educational training or work," Odum said.

He said a number of questions had been raised about legality of the parent option plan "but ours is not a glib solution. It reaches for an answer that will satisfy the combatants in the controversy.

"It will bow to the law, yet take the case of the objector out from under the law."

As for it being legal, Odum said parent option "will necessarily encounter administrative and legal difficulties, but there is no reason to believe these difficulties are insurmountable."

"It meets the basic legal requirement of federal courts that public schools may not be segregated by race," he said.

It Figures

Being identical twins, Joan and Joyce Cornett felt it only right that they get identical marks, even if they had to set a record to do it. The Nashville, Tenn., girls averaged 99.29 in their four years of study, best in the history of their high school. They were named co-valedictorians and agreed to pose with the low 99 figure since there wasn't room for the other digits.

Freed Pending New Appeal

King Given One Year

BARTOW — (UPI) — Former State Sen. Harry King, his request for a third trial denied, was sentenced Monday to two concurrent one-year jail terms on perjury charges growing out of a $10,000 political payoff.

Criminal Court Judge Roy H. Amidon handed down the sentences as he refused King's motion for a new trial on grounds of a long list of alleged trial errors.

The 56-year-old Winter Haven attorney was convicted Jan. 29 on two misdemeanor counts of conspiracy to commit perjury. At the same time, he was acquitted of two felony counts of subornation of perjury.

Judge Amidon gave him one year each on the conspiracy counts, the terms to run concurrently in Polk County Jail. But King's attorneys immediately announced they would appeal the decision not to allow a third trial and Amidon released King under $500 bond.

The judge could have sentenced King to one year in prison and a fine of $500 on each of the two conspiracy counts.

King was convicted on all four counts in 1956, the year of the payoff, but the conviction was thrown out by the State Supreme Court on the basis of trial errors. Amidon sentenced him to a total of five years in prison at the first trial.

King still faces trial on two counts of violating election laws and one count of perjury. Judge Amidon ruled Monday that King would be tried on these charges May 12.

The former senator, who would have become president of the Senate had he been re-elected in 1956, was accused of setting up a conspiracy scheme to block his indictment on charges of giving former State Rep. Boone Tillett Jr. of Lake Wales $10,000 not to seek King's Senate seat.

King, former Sheriff Pat Gordon and two deputies, Rollie Arnold and James Busbee, were charged along with King. All were convicted when tried as a group in 1956 and all the convictions were set aside by the Supreme Court.

Harry E. King
. . . third trial denied

But since then Busbee and Arnold have pleaded guilty to perjury and are awaiting sentencing. Gordon, charged on the same counts as King, will be tried for the second time April 21, Judge Amidon ruled Monday.

The defendants were charged with giving, or conspiring to give, false testimony to the Grand Jury investigating the case. King admitted giving the money to Tillett, calling it not a bribe but an effort to catch Tillett in an extortion attempt.

The deputies, who later admitted they lied, told the Grand Jury that Gordon had assigned them to work with King to catch Tillett and that they were watching the night that the money changed hands near Babson Park.

Text Rating Board Chases Legislators

By JOHN BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — "It was all a mistake," an education department spokesman told three legislators Monday after they were asked to leave a meeting of the state committee selecting textbooks.

Rep. Mack Cleveland, of Sanford, said he and Reps. Robert Mann of Tampa and Ralph Turlington of Gainesville, were politely booted out of the meeting and "I never did understand what it was all about."

Cleveland said he and the other two legislators, in Tallahassee for another meeting, decided to visit the textbook committee session without any special reason.

"Of course I am interested in how textbooks are selected," Cleveland said, "because occasionally I get a complaint from one of my constituents about a certain textbook."

Later, Fred Turner of the State Department of Education, came out to personally invite Cleveland and Mann back. Turlington had left the capital before the matter was smoothed out.

Turner explained a member of the committee, without any bad intentions, questioned whether the legislators should be present while a textbook salesman was speaking for his company.

It was the first time the question had ever come up and the committee just acted hastily, Turner explained, telling Cleveland "You can come back anytime you want to."

Turner said no one has previously expressed any interest in attending the meetings. Cleveland and Mann said they "were happy" the misunderstanding had been cleared up.

The textbook selection committee is appointed by the governor and follows a procedure of admitting only one textbook salesman in the hearing room at a time.

But Rep. John Shipp, of Marianna, southeastern manager for a textbook concern, said he thought it was proper the salesmen not be allowed to "hear the other fellow's pitch, but the meetings are open to the public under the law."

Drive Puts Heat On The Fire Ant

MARIANNA —(UPI)— An all-out attack on the fire ant inside the Marianna city limits was under way Monday.

Infestations have been found in several sections of the city, including Chipola Junior College campus and the vicinity of the Jackson County courthouse.

Flagler 'Fairly Well Managed'

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Finances of Flagler County are in good condition and "fairly well managed" by the county commissioners, State Auditor Bryan Willis reported Monday.

He said the commissioners had kept spending within resources. However, he said, budgets were not prepared realistically and had been overspent.

He said the commissioners had contributed $50 to help the Flagler Women's Club building and had contributed materials and labor to paint a Methodist church at Haw Creek without legal authority.

Although authorized by law, the commissioners had given financial assistance to the Bunnell High School band and to the Flagler Chamber of Commerce for advertising and promotion in lump funds, instead of requiring vouchers setting out how the money would be spent.

An audit of the East Flagler Mosquito Control District said finances were in fair condition and money has been spent carefully.

Governor Called in Bribe Trial

Officials Ask Subpenas Be Denied

BARTOW —(AP)— Attorney General Richard Ervin asked a Criminal Court judge Monday to release Gov. LeRoy Collins and two others as witnesses for the bribery trial of E. B. (Shorty) Jones.

Judge Roy Amidon said he would hear arguments on the motions today prior to the opening of the trial.

Jones, a former director of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and one-time state legislator from Madison County, is charged with attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish.

The sheriff said Jones offered $5,000 in cash and $1,000 a month to allow a bolita gang to operate in Polk County. The offer came just before Parrish took office in 1957, the sheriff said.

Jones, 39, now operator of a restaurant at Perry, Denied the charges.

Witnesses subpenaed by the defense include Collins, his executive assistant, William Durden, and Don McLeod, director of the Florida Sheriff's Bureau.

The attorney general and two assistants appeared in Criminal Court Monday with motions to quash the subpenaes against the three.

Ervin said Collins "invokes the common law immunity inherent to a sovereign of a state and declines to recognize" the subpena.

He said, in listing grounds for quashing the subpena on Durden, the executive assistant "has no knowledge of the existence, contents, or whereabouts of any of the records . . . except that which was imparted and entrusted to him" in his capacity as an aide to the governor. Durden "therefore invokes common law immunity," the attorney general said.

Ten grounds were given for dismissing the subpena for McLeod. One was that he is under orders from the board of directors of the sheriff's bureau "to decline to produce or divulge for public examination matters and things demanded to be produced in his subpena."

However, the board Monday instructed McLeod not to comply with the subpena. McLeod told the board that to comply would "ruin the bureau."

Another of the grounds stated that records of the bureau "are confidential records."

Attorneys for Jones asked in the subpenaes the governor and the other two officials bring to the trial "all records, reports . . . and other tangible evidence of any and all investigations concerning gambling, lotteries, cuba and-or bolita in Polk County, Fla., from July, 1956, to the present."

Legislators Hit State Ad Agency

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Florida Development Commission must demonstrate to the legislative auditing committee it has taken steps to correct complaints of State Auditor Bryan Willis.

The committee hinted Monday it would take punitive action against the agency appropriation if the commission didn't act.

The committee instructed its chairman, Rep. Mack Cleveland of Seminole County, to determine if the commission has moved to prevent improper use of telephone and gasoline credit cards by employes, use of personal automobiles when state-owned cars were available, and per diem claims for trips of less than a day's duration.

A. L. Hackett, commission manager of accounting and purchasing, said the agency "has taken, and is taking, steps to meet all the criticisms of the audit." He said the commission is trying to strengthen controls on all expenditures.

Sen. Tom Adams of Orange Park declared all agencies must realize irregularities must be corrected.

"We must let them know we have not forgotten the criticisms. If we have to reflect this in appropriatons we will do it," he said.

Cleveland said the audit indicated the commission had been doing "everything an agency should not do."

Cleveland said he would ask a detailed account of what is being done to correct abuses.

The committee gave final approval to a bill to give the comptroller responsibility for collecting money owed counties by county officers.

The group indicated its approval of legislation to impose a fixed limit of travel expenses by county officers. Willis said there is no legal limit now and "some unreasonable claims are made."

Deputy State Auditor A. J. Henry told of one county official who took his wife on a 16-day trip to Portland, Ore., and put in a claim for mileage, hotel bills and meals.

"There isn't much we can do about claims like this, because the law puts no ceiling on a county officer's travel expenses," Henry said.

UF Enrolls New Record

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — A spring semester registration of 11,123 students was reported Monday by University of Florida Registrar R. S. Johnson.

The official figure establishes a new record. It is a gain of 850 students over last year's enrollment.

The spring total is swelled by 2,998 freshmen. The freshman class shows a total of 845 women and 2,153 men — a ratio of less than three men to each woman.

The College of Arts and Sciences leads the enrollment total among upper division schools and colleges with 1,249 students enrolled.

Marianna School Costs Up

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Costs have risen more than 26 per cent during the past four years at the Marianna School for Boys, but the number of inmates jumped only 15 per cent, a state audit revealed Monday.

The audit, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, said in 1954-55, the institution cared for 655 boys at a cost of $2.71 per day per boy. By 1957-58, it said, the cost had risen to $3.19 per boy per day for 754 youths.

Auditor Bryan Willis said the school farm produced much of the food eaten at the school, but nevertheless food costs were up slightly. Total food costs were $325,898, of which food produced by the school accounted for $152,466.

The audit criticised Superintendent Arthur G. Dozier for having his car repaired at the school. Dozier used his personal car for many official trips. He also has a state automobile for his use.

Willis said Dozier charged the state the normal 10 cents a mile for his travel, but he also received parts, tires and labor on repairs from the school which were not authorized.

The audit said it was unable to determine the exact dollars and cents worth of the parts and labor because of inadequate records.

Willis said tighter controls were needed on the school's auxiliary funds. He noted a $174 shortage in the canteen fund, but said it was smaller than it had been in several years. At one time there was a $1,193 deficit.

Drowned Man's Body Recovered

LEESBURG —(UPI)— The body of a 46-year-old farmer was recovered from nearby Lake Myrtle Monday after a two-day search.

William Arzig disappeared on a fishing trip Saturday.

5 Die in Flames Of Head-On Crash

CALLAHAN —(UPI)— Five persons, including a Marine Corps hitchhiker, were killed Monday when their car rammed a huge tractor-trailer truck and burst into flames.

Highway patrolmen said the victims were killed on impact. It was several hours before identification was available because the victims were so badly burned.

Driver of the car was listed as Mrs. Pauline K. Driver, 40, of Hartwell, Ga. With her were her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Moore, 19, and her son, Garland Driver, 12, also of Hartwell.

The owner of the car, also killed instantly, was Walter Richard White, 42, of Iva, S.C., a cousin of Mrs. Driver.

The fifth victim was John A. Barlow, 22, of Columbus, Ind., who was assigned to the 2nd Amphibian Tractor Battalion at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

Trooper R. S. Akers said Barlow's family believed he must have been hitchhiking.

Only survivor of the crash was Truckdriver Howard Lewis East of Cedartown, Ga., who was suffering shock at St. Lukes Hospital, Jacksonville.

Akers said East was driving south with a load of shelled corn and suddenly saw the northbound sedan coming toward him on the west shoulder of U.S. 1. East said he first thought the car was going to turn off the highway, but it suddenly veered to the right and rammed the truck.

Akers said the driver of the car apparently fell asleep.

Charter Revision Plan Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins' special committee has completed the draft of a proposed constitutional revision program, but its details won't be made public until later.

Committee Chairman William McRae of Bartow said Monday that polishing touches are being applied to the draft before it is turned over to the governor.

Collins' administrative assistant, William Killian, sat in with the committee at its final session here Saturday.

Basic parts of the revision are most of the proposals adopted by the Legislature in the daisy-chained program killed by the Florida Supreme Court last year. However, this time the articles stand independently instead of being interlocked to be adopted or rejected as a whole.

He said the committee went about its work with the idea of retaining as many of these and still offer a cohesive, sound constitution.

The Supreme Court killed the legislature's revision program because of the interlocking feature which the court said made it a general revision that could be accomplished only by constitutional convention.

Among the innovations the new program contains is a reapportionment formula which McRae said the committee felt was "fair, sound and appealing to all sections of the state."

Some time next month members of the House and Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee will sit down with Collins' group to attempt to shape up a program for the Legislature.

Dean Named To New Post

COLUMBIA, S.C. — (AP) — Dr. Charles S. Davis, dean of faculties at Florida State University, was appointed to succeed Henry R. Sims as president of Winthrop College.

Gov. E. F. Hollings also announced that Davis, a native of Mobile, Ala., will take over before the beginning of the next academic year in the fall.

"South Carolina extends a warm welcome to Davis as president of Winthrop College," said Hollings, ex-officio chairman of the Winthrop Board of Trustees.

"The state is indeed fortunate in obtaining a man of his stature as an educator and administration for our very fine institution at Winthrop. He has our sincere good wishes."

'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

THE VENDOME HOTEL penthouse where ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras spent his exile was listed for rent in a recent issue of the Wall St. Journal . . . Combination of overwork and a virus bug canceled Donald O'Connor out of his Las Vegas date. Suffering possibly as much as Donald are Ben Novack for whom he has a Fontainebleau date on March 17, and Bill Miller who was hoping he'd show a profit for the Riviera there shortly after.

Wometco is serving up two versions of "My Uncle," the French comedy click starring Jacques Tati, this week. The Mayfair will have a print with French dialogue and printed English subtitles. The Sunset will show the film with English dialogue dubbed over the French sound track. You takes your pick.

Pat P. Arnstein . . . film?

Jacques Tati . . . 'Uncle'

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Ruth Foreman, director of the Dramatic Academy, was on the jury at two show business tests over the weekend: at Miami Beach High School for its "Frolics" on Friday, and at Booker T. Washington High for "Jabberwock" Monday night. She's taking over operation of Studio M.

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.

X-Ray Reaction 'Gratifying'

Dulles Quit? Ike Says Demands Made by Headline-Happy Critics

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with

SYMINGTON

Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Johnson Called Tyrant

Sen. Proxmire Wants 'Voice'

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator, Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.,-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three Republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

Cable Snaps, Prop Falls on Airman

Airman Kenneth L. Boehnen of San Francisco was severely injured in Alexandria, Minn., Monday when a propeller on which he was working knocked him from a ladder and fell on top of him. Boehnen, arrow, is shown working on propeller hub in picture above. Just afterward, the crane cable which held the propeller snapped. Below, others rushed to Boehnen's assistance as he lies beneath one propeller blade after the accident. He suffered a fractured leg, head and arm lacerations and severe bruises.

Jaycee Fluoridation Proposal Is Opposed

More State News 1C, 8A, 2B, 3B

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — A controversy is looming over the recent Fort Pierce Junior Chamber of Commerce proposal to flurotdat the city water supply.

The Jaycees say it may reduce tooth decay in children by two-thirds. They listed fluoridation as the No. 1 item on the list of objectives for 1959.

On Sunday a group, headed by Sam Lawder, radio station manager and L. W. Halbe, real estate broker, announced their opposition to the proposal. Lawder is a former president of the PTA.

Speaking for the newly formed "Fort Pierce Committee on Fluoridation Facts" Lawder said: "I do not believe sufficient positive proof has been given that artificial fluoridation is safe. Some doctors claim fluorine is not entirely soluble int he body and can cause bones to become brittle."

Referring to the proposal as "mass medicine" Lawder said he thought a clinic, such as used to give polio vaccine shots, would be the "proper way" to provide such treatment.

Dr. William Dannahower, a dentist and Jaycee president said Monday: "Citizens oft his community will have to decide who can interpret scientific material dealing with health of the community — who have made their position clear in this matter—or laymen."

Also on Monday Don Fuller, who heads the Jaycee committee in charge of carrying out the program said: "Fluoridation is backed by the American Dental Association, American Medical Association, U. S. Public Health Service, and the Tri-County Medical Society, (St. Lucie, Okeechobee and Martin Counties) whose membership is composed of all local medical doctors."

Lawder said Monday night he had received many new offers of anti-fluoridation support, but could ot reveal them at this time.

Dr. Dannahower stated: "Miami, Belle Glade, Ocala, Gainesville and Orlando are only afew of the Florida cities to accept fluoridation of their water supply.

"In my opinion this gives our citizens a chance to institute th most important measure ever available for dental health."

Jobless Millions Cited for Demand

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders asked Congress Monday to legislate a sharp cut in the American work week immediately. They said this is necessary to provide jobs for millions idled by increasingly efficient machines.

The federation's executive council called for a reduction of the present 40-hour-week, eight-hour day limit in the Fair Labor Standards Act to 35 hours with a seven-hour day.

Beyond that, overtime pay rates would apply.

The council urged Congress to make the 35-hour week effective for employes of the federal government.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said organized labor will push hard for such legislation and redouble efforts to accomplish the same result through collective bargaining contracts.

Meany said the U.S. is clearly able to produce more now with fewer workers and that either the work week must be shortened pr a substantial proportion of the American working force taken out and shot.

Meany said some unions already enjoying a work week of less than 40 hours will strive to get below the 35-hour goal.

The council statement said that in the 21 years since Congress set the 40-hour week "America has made tremendous technological progress which justified and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The growing efficiency of the American economy, the council said, is demonstrated by the fact more than one million fewer factory workers are employed now than in 1942, yet the output has been multiplied.

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said many members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

Meany said the immediate drive to get Congress to reduce the work week is part of a triple play effort to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Other federation goals, he said, are to raise the present $1 hourly wage minimum to $1.25 and to broaden the law's scope to cover eight million to 10 million of perhaps 20 million workers now exempt.

At present the law covers about 24 million workers.

A new batch of AFL-CIO economic statements blasted policies of President Eisenhower's administration. These said the nation's basic economic problems are to provide more jobs and promote economic growth.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

'Butch' Airs Views in Venezuela

Ham, Senior Grade, Talks About Lincoln

OMAHA — (AP) — A fellow known in amateur radio circles as "Butch" told Monday of one of the most unusual experiences in his 23 years as a ham — an unscheduled Venezuelan television network broadcast on Abraham Lincoln.

On his basement set the other night, Butch's "Hello CQ" — the traditional invitation to talk — brough a response from a member of the Radio Club of Venezeual at Caracas.

The club, an American organization, was trying to contact an American ham to tell the people of Venezuela about Lincoln on a national TV program. Would he do the job? But was asked.

He did.

"I told them I was in Omaha, Neb., and that the capital of Nebraska is Lincoln, named for Abraham Lincoln. Then I went on to talk for abouve five minutes about Abe Lincoln," Butch recalled.

His voice, patchel into the TV network, was heard through out Venezuela.

The Venezuelans learned something of Lincoln, but nothing of Butch, though they undoubtedly would have been inteestred.

He's Lt. Gen. Fancris H. Griswold, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command.

Mac Cancels Hunt, Plans Talks With Nikita Instead

Red Chief Foresees 'Results'

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night suddenly canceled a hunting trip planned by the Russians for today and arranged instead to have further private talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the countryside.

The visiting British leader's change in plans was made known after a lavish dinner in the British embassy, where Khrushchev hailed him as a man of peace.

Guests at the dinner quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"We (the Russians) think that the conversations between us will bring results."

This was Red Army Day and Macmillan, according to Radio Moscow, opened his speech with a tribute to the Soviet part in winning World War II.

"When I ponder the present state of the world, I ask myself whether we have not today a common interest of at least equal degree. This common interest is peace . . . "

The Soviet premier, in an expansive mood, said he regretted that "it has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and Russia in the post-war period.

"We all live on the same planet, and enjoy the same sun and air. Let us find wisdom to bring peace."

A British spokesman told reporters the talks substituting for the hunting trip will take place at a villa about a half hour's car ride from Moscow. The villa has been placed at Macmillan's disposal during his visit.

The embassy dinner followed up the first formal business meeting of Macmillan and Khrushchev at the Kremlin Monday morning.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-agression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

However, no one would rule out the possibility of a nonaggression document. Macmillan himself referred to the possibility of such before he began his Moscow mission Saturday.

Britain and Russia had a non-aggression pact until 1955 when the Soviets abrogated it.

Details of the meeting at the long, rectangular table in the cabinet room were secret. Macmillan, in his foot-tall white fur hat that won the hearts of the Russian people, and wearing a borrowed fur overcoat against the 18-degree Moscow temperature, arrived at the Kremlin to the applause of a crowd.

After the Kremlin meeting, Macmillan had lunch at the British Embassy and then toured Moscow's skyscraper university where he got a riotous welcome.

Third Top Batista Aide Is Doomed

HAVANA — (AP) — The last of three former army officers labeled by the Castro government as Cuba's top war criminals was condemned to death Monday after a seven-hour trial.

Defense attorneys for Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao said an appeal is being made on grounds of temporary insantiy.

Executions of nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday boosted the unofficial total to 325.

Grao was found guilty of assassination, homicide and robbery while fighting Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente Province.

The 45-year-old career soldier had first been led in for trial on Jan. 22 in the circuslike atmosphere of the Havana Sports Palace along with ex- of whom were executed.

Only Sosa Blanco stood trial before the thousands of spectators in the Sports Palace, and he later got a new trial in more decorous circumstances.

Among those executied Monday were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three others.

They were convicted of torturing and hanging four of Castro's student sympathizers only four days before Fulgencio Batista fled the country Jan. 1.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cubana airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fidel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

Talks Resume

CAIRO — (AP) — World Bank President Eugene Black arrived Monday to resume mediation in the British-Egyptian financial dispute dating from the Suez invasion.

Firm Price Supports

'Corporate' Farmers Reaping U.S. Profits

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.), told the Senate Monday that two large farm operators collected more than 2½ million dollars in government farm price supports in 1957.

"The high rigid support program is little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming," Williams said, "and actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers."

The senator said the two largest government supports were $1,460,902 to the Producer's Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark., on rice and $1,157,502 to the Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., on cotton.

Williams said these two payments in one year were larger than those received by all farmers in his home state of Delaware for two years — 1956-57.

Porter Says:

Batista Has Half-Billion Loot in U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Fulgencio Batista has about a half a billion dollars stashed away in the U.S. which belongs to Cubans, Rep. Charles Porter (D., Ore.), said Monday.

"This is an informed guess based on information from persons I've talked to here and other places," said Porter, who is here on official business.

He said he has asked the Justice Department and the Treasury in Washington to find out what assets Batista holds in the U.S. and what can be done to get it back. Initiative for recovery would have to come from the Cuban government, he explained, adding that the Cubans could count on plenty of cooperation in the U.S.

Batista has been living in the Dominican Republic since he fled Jan. 1.

MOSCOW —(AP)— Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Soviet Navy, said Monday his ships are able to range over the great oceans and "deliver mighty blows to targets on other continents."

Writing in the Navy organ Soviet Fleet, Gorshkov said: "Our fleet is capable to solve any strategic tasks in its field."

Hoffa Aims Blast at Union Bills

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa charged Monday at Miami Beach that labor legislation now before Congress "is the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Hoffa also announced that the union's organizing efforts in Florida — the future strategy — will be unveiled today.

Hoffa made his observations during a news conference at the Eden Roc Hotel following a meeting of the Teamsters board of directors.

The results of the union's initial organizing in Florida will be described by Murray (Dusty) Miller, southern chairman for the union, and Joe Morgan, international organizer, who is spearheading the Teamsters' bid for a foothold in this state.

Hoffa said his board is prepared to appeal to the Federal Appellate Court if court-appointed monitors attempt to take over the operation of the union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington ordered the monitors to step in as a result of a questioned election last year in which Hoffa was named union president.

The Teamsters have asked for a stay order.

"We were not elected to sell out the union and we do not intend to do so," Hoffa said sharply.

As for his differences with the new labor proposals in Congress — there are four major bills — Hoffa said none of them spell out anything which is not already covered in existing labor law.

"If there is going to be any legislation, it should be specific, not general," he declared.

He called it a mistake to write laws "which would leave to the imagination of administrators the intent of the Congress."

Passage of any of the labor bills in Congress, "because of their loose wording . . . could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years," he said.

Liquor Hours Up To Metro

Judge Defines County Powers

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has absolute power over cities in the setting of liquor sale hours, issuing auto inspection stickers and controlling many other muncipal activities, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Among the other functions which the new countywide government can take from the cities without a vote of the people, the judge ruled, are:

WASTE and sewage collection and disposal.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING building and related codes.

ISSUING certificates of competency for building contractors and tradesmen.

Pearsons' ruling came on a suit filed by the City of Miami Beach, one of the chief centers of opposition to Metro.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We will have a totally different type of government from what we have today," predicted Spaet, "if this decision is upheld."

The suit, said Spaet, presents all Metro issues "squarely for the first time."

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

He delayed making it until the Supreme Court took its final action on a decision upholding the countywide traffic code. A request for a rehearing on the suit brought by the Village of Miami Shores was denied last week.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

Two Youths Beat Guard, Escape

Two Negro juveniles at Dade Youth Hall knocked out a guard, pushed through a second-story window screen and leaped barefoot from a balcony early Monday morning.

One of the escapees, Leroy Tucker, 14, was returned several hours later by his father. The other, Joseph L. Walker, 15, was still at large.

The injured guard, John Nickerson, was treated at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Seven stitches were required to close a head wound.

Giblin, His Wife File Two Suits

Circuit Judge and Mrs. Vincent C. Giblin filed two personal damage suits "in excess of $5,000" each against the City of Coral Gables and policeman Seymour Anderson Monday — as a result of their traffic arrest Jan. 23 en route to court.

The suit charges that they were maliciously and unlawfully taken to the Coral Gables jail and confined and imprisoned.

The suit charges that the city employed Anderson knowing that he was incompetent and unfit.

'58 Tags Safe Until Friday

Dade motorists with 1958 license plates have until Friday to display their new tags before getting a ticket.

I. D. Smith, manager of Dade's main auto tag agency, said 30,000 drivers applied for their new plates on deadline, Feb. 20, but will not receive them before the end of the week.

But about 15,000 motorists haven't even applied for a 1959 tag, he said.

"They'll hear about it by Friday," he said.

Zoo Still Has Faith in Cecelia

Officials at Crandon Park Zoo insisted Monday that they have not lost faith in Cecelia, even though it is now a month since she was supposed to have a baby.

She hasn't had anything during that month except a terrific appetite.

The date on which the zoo's lady camel was due to become a mother for the second time was Jan. 25.

Robert Mattlin, zoo director, declared that despite Cecelia's disappointing lack of performance, that he and the other zoo worker, as well as the zoo veterinarian, are sticking by their original diagnosis of her condition.

"She'll have that baby any day now," Mattlin said, trying to sound confident. "She shows it more every day. She is the most pregnant camel in history. All we can do is wait."

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets and Police Battle With Fists

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

The Others, They Said 'Nay'

Airport Board Powers Splits Commissioners

Advisory Status Sought by Some

By BILL BUNGE
Melburne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — Extent of the power and authority which should be granted a proposed port board for the governing of the Melbourne Airport has split the City Commission, it was learned Monday.

The board is intended to guide the development of the airport, scheduled for major expansion soon as both an aerial passenger and freight terminal and for other aviation facilities.

Some members of the commission feel the proposed port board should be of an advisory status, as the planning and zoning board. This body may not adopt regulations on its own. It holds hearings, compiles facts and data, and makes a recommendation to the City Commission.

The recommendations must be approved by the commission before having any effect or force.

However, another commission faction feels the port board authority should operate under much the same system as the civic improvement board.

The CIB gets all money received from a franchise with the Florida Power and Light Co. It is empowered to spend up to $5,000 on capital outlay projects without commission action.

On all projects, costing over $5,000, an opinion is asked from city commissioners.

Under any new program for running the airport, said one official, "the Federal Aviation Administration has final say on all activities."

Melbourne Airport, now earning more than $200,000 annually from commercial leases alone, contains everything, from a sprawling trailer park to electronics plants.

Seven regularly scheduled Eastern Air Lines flights land daily at the Melbourne Airport and several other lines have filed requests with the FAA for inclusion of Melbourne on schedules.

The Melbourne field serves all commercial air traffic of Brevard County, including that involving the Air Force Missile Test Center at Cape Canaveral.

A master development plan, extending over 25 years, is now underway. Under this plan runways are being lengthened to accommodate turbo-jet powered planes.

Construction is also slated to start soon on a new airport terminal structure, to be built at an estimated cost of $100,000.

The accounting job has become so great that Melbourne has a separate airport account. Currently, all revenues from airport operation must be returned to this account.

Mayor J. J. (Jeff) Spitznogle recently said, "The airport is getting to be a tremendous operation, and an authority would help city administrators with one of their biggest jobs."

Commissioners already have their candidates lined up for the five-member port board.

Meanwhile, Commissioner E. W. (Bill) Buss and City Attorney Jackson Vaughn are drawing a set of rules and regulations to cover airfield operations. The field has no tower, and the number of planes using the facilities is rapidly growing.

Vaughn said the rules probably will cover "take-offs and landings, as well as taxi operations, fire regulations, fees for concessions, and other times not covered under laws."

Although air activity is covered by FAA regulations, Vaughn said the proposed rules will help the local situation.

"Our new regulations will take care of the more minor breaches of the law," he added.

Rush for Auto Tags

Better Late Than Never, Drivers Say

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — The South Brevard courthouse branch office in Melbourne did a brisk business in 1959 vehicle license plate sales Monday.

Most of this rush, law enforcement authorities report, can be attributed to drivers "who gambled" Gov. Collins would extend the deadline for new tags. When he didn't, hundreds of motorists got caught with 1958 plates at the midnight Friday deadline.

The county unit of the Florida Highway Patrol, with headquarters in Melbourne, said it was swamped with calls from motorists, asking about an extension of the deadline.

Patrol Dispatchers Billy Maxwell said nearly 200 calls were handled over the weekend, and more than 50 persons visited the station for information.

Anita Gourlay, Melbourne police dispatcher, said the city station also received a flood of calls.

Area police departments and the patrol issued warning tickets during the weekend, but officials said there would be a crackdown on tag violators this week.

Mrs. Gourlay said officers received a vareity of excuses from stopped motroists. "One person," she said, "told the officer that he thought he should get his tag at St. Petersburg, where he did last year.

But, when he drove all the way over there, he was told they couldn't sell him one — which, of course, isn't true."

She said the delinquent driver finished his excuse: "And by the time I drove all the way back to Melbourne, the courthouse office was closed."

Other drivers, Mrs. Gourlay stated, used the excuse they were working and couldn't find time to buy a license.

Club Calls Shivering Easterners

STUART — "Oh, stop it," said Mrs. Ivey Baker Priest, when told by telephone that the weather in Stuart was in the 80's.

Mrs. Priest was called by the Stuart Soroptimist Club during a direct telephone long distance dial program conducted by area manager Carl Fremaux.

Fremaux dialed different cities in the United States to get weather reports, and then gave members the privilege of calling relatives.

Mrs. Priest congratulated the local club for participation in United Nations Day and in Human Rights Day, as well as local projects.

A St. Patrick's Day Dance was announced by Mrs. Zola Swarthout, club president. It will be held March 17 at Seymour's Inn, Jensen Beach, with co-chairmen Mrs. Juanita Schreckengost and Mrs. Elaine Leasher.

Mrs. Madrid Williams, of Macon, Ga., Governor of the Southern Region, Soroptimist International will make an official club visit here on March 5. The club members will meet at the Key Club Sunrise Inn at 6:30 for dinner, followed by a meeting at 8 p.m.

Hot Lead Gets Him Cool Cell

TITUSVILLE — Gilbert Staples, 40, was sent to state prison Monday for shooting up downtown Titusville and wounding two men in October.

Circuit Judge Vassar B. Carlton sentenced the power company lineman to six months to five years.

Staples, a Texan, pleaded guilty to aggravated assault shortly after his arrest. Monday's sentencing came after a pre-sentence investigation.

The Oct. 3 shooting spree started when Staples opened fire in the John D. Bar, after arguing with several other men.

Two men were wounded in the fusillade.

Staples seized a gun from Titusville Patrolman George Marshall and backed off down a street, still firing. In all he fired 12 or 15 shots.

He was captured by Trooper Les Richardson of the Florida Highway Patrol, who leveled a shotgun at him.

Missile Men 'Learning' To Write

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — Civilian executives working on missile testing projects at Cape Canaveral have taken a course in simplified writing to aid in making their reports.

A group of 19 members of management for Pan American Airways and RCA took 18 hours of instruction from two faculty members of the University of Florida school of journalism and communications.

Officials of the two companies, which do much of the testing for the Air Force Missile Center at Patrick Air Force Base, called bulky report and letter writing the main problem of management relations with the Air Force.

Instructors said they were "amazed" at the writing abilities of the highly technical men.

Mixed Chorus Sings Tonight

VERO BEACH — The mixed chorus of the Vero Beach Tourist Club will give its first performance tonight following the business meeting of the club which begins at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. Arthur Powell, club president, is director of the 28-member chorus.

School Law Talks Today

VERO BEACH — The public is invited to a discussion of proposed legislation affecting the schools at 8 p.m. today at Osceola Elementary School, school officials said.

The discussion, in which Rep. L. B. (Buck) Vocelle will take part, will follow a business meeting of the Classroom Teachers Association of Indian River County at 7:30, Mrs. Myrtle Frisby, president said.

Vocelle will be introduced by J. A. Thompson, superintendent of schools. Mrs. Martha Carden will be in charge of a muscial program.

Fellsmere Report Set

VERO BEACH — A report on operation of the Fellsmere School will be made by D. G. Frisby, principal, to the Indian River County School Board Thursday.

The report is one of a series on the departments of the county schools being given at meetings of the board.

Shikar Line Forms to Right

Care to Hunt Tiger? Got $7,000 Handy?

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Take tigers by day, maharajahs by moonlight, a swift journey from the jungle to the capital of Europe and you have the ingredients for an "Arabian Nights" trip being planned here.

It is the "shikar" in India, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Wid Watson.

A shikar is a tiger hunt, but any resemblance between this trip and an uncomfortable sojourn in a steamy jungle is lacking.

This hunt will find the hunters personal guests of the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. They will stay at his palace when not tracking tigers aboard one of the Maharajah's personal elephants and shooting rifles from his armory.

The Watsons are vacationing here, preparatory to leaving New York on March 15 for San Francisco and points Far East.

They already have eight people ready to go with them. There is room for eight more, at $7,000 per person.

Among the eight going are Lady Susan Wilkins, widow of noted Explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkins; Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton; Bruce Kessler, a race driving friend of Reventlow's; and Countess Navarro of Caracas.

There's more than tigers ahead of them. During the hunt, each will have two personal servants to look after his wants. One hundred fifty beaters will drive the tigers toward them.

A way from the palace, they'll live in tents the size of a hotel dining room, where French cuisine will be provided.

But the hunt is only part of the month-long excursion. Also on the itinerary are visits to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Delhi, Calcutta, Cario, Rome, London and Ireland.

Parties are planned all along the route. The hosts include two more maharajahs, and promised guests are such as Alec Guiness, Dirk Bogarde, Anna Magnani.

Watson, who's 23, arranged the whole thing. The Indian rulers and other notables are friends of his. He met some through the Duke of Edinburgh, another friend.

Six-foot-four Watson is an unusual young man. Son of the discoverer of the Belola Gold Mines in New Guinea, he has lived all over the world and is at home speaking five languages. He attended 12 schools before leaving "through the back door" at 15, never to return.

His first business venture was a 35-foot sloop he chartered from Barbados. Now he has meat-packing interests in Australia and lumber interests in Vancouver, B.C.

"I don't live on my fathers' money," he said.

His proposal to his petite blonde wife, Claudia, a former actress, was an invitation to the tiger hunt. They were married a year ago after meeting in Spain. A European honeymoon wound up at a villa on the Riviera. Watson's family owns it, along with a chalet in Oberammergau, Germany.

Their Irish castle now is owned by Anita Leslie, author and niece of Winston Churchill.

The tiger-shooting party will visit it, too, and take part in a hunt there.

Plan 4-Point Program

New Officers Picked By Child Aid Group

STUART—Mrs. Marie McCullough, nurse of the County Health Department was named president of the Martin County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, at a recent meeting.

The society also adopted a four-point program for the year, and set March 1 as the annual fund drive date.

The group will offer assistance to adults and children who have hearing problems and orthopedic special disorders. They will sponsor the Crippled Children's Camp at Crystal Lake; sponsor a work shop and institute, and will offer mobile therapy.

Other new officers are Dr. J. Ira Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Flora Stafford, secretary; Miss Marion Tschischeck, treasurer.

The board of directors are Dr. John M. Gunsolus, who retired as president; Evans Crary, John M. Law Jr., Robert Fenton, Mrs. Harriet Elkins, Mrs. Sara Timon, RN.; Frank Richter, and Lester Combs.

A check for $400 was sent the society by the Jensen Beach-Rio United Funds, Inc., as its pledge to the group from the 1959 funds drive.

Bike Riders Are Warned By Police

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — A police crackdown on traffic violators resulted in arrest of 22 persons during the first two days — Sunday and Monday — of the campaign.

Tickets were issued 18 juveniles on charges of violating the bicycle ordinance, and three others were handed adults. The juveniles were released in custody of parents and will be referred to Brevard County Juvenile Court.

Although Police Chief John D. Thomas has aimed the drive at all types of violations, it stems from the death of a seven-year-old boy last week.

He was killed when a speeding motorist struck his bicycle.

Bids Due Soon For Terminal

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — City Manager Tevis Huguely said Monday he expects a dozen bids from 22 contractors who have taken out proposals for construction of a new Melbourne Airport terminal.

The terminal, on which bids will be opened tonight is expected to cost more than $100,000, according to Ciyt Commissioner E. W. (Bill) Buss, airport committee head. Half of the cost will be paid by the federal government.

This terminal is part of a series of improvements, some of which already are underway.

Warehouse Proposal Up Again

STUART — The Martin County Commission, meeting today, will be asked to reconsider its refusal to grant a building permit for a warehouse on the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

The Jensen Beach Zoning Committee, headed by Warner B. Tilton, turned down the request for the permit made by Johnny Hendry, as it conflicted with the provisions of that zoning area. The area is zoned Commercial two, which permits motels, hotels and doctor offices.

Arnold Bauer, chairman of the county zoning board, asked the commission to grant the permit. It was issued by Building Isnpector Thomas Heilier.

At a special meeting, March 13, the commission reversed its decision, after it learned that the local zoning committee refused the permit.

Tilton said that a public hearing would be necessary to consider any zoning revisions.

The controversy caused Commission Chairman Marvin H. Rowell, to comment, "all parties interested in zoning questions must be present when complaints are appealed before this board."

"Let us not be caught gnawing on the same bone twice," Rowell said. "Too many times in the past this board has had to reverse itself."

The commission will also adopt a priority list for its primary and secondary State Road Dept. roads.

Vero Beach Sets Play

VERO BEACH — The Vero Beach Theatre Guild will open its second production of the season, "The Curious Savage," Thursday at the Vero Beach High School auditorium.

Eugene C. Davis, director, said performances will be Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale by cast members and at McClure's Drug Store, Cypress Center Pharmacy, and Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the cast include Janet Showalter, George Trace, Frank Gigante, Mitzi Riddel, Adalie Brown, George Ann Davenport, Earla Ross, Edward Connolly, Pat Mueller, Ralph Fox, and Mrs. Charles Fraker.

Stuck for 6 Hours

Florida Sand Slows Atomic Age Progress

STUART—(UPI)—A product of the atomic age got stuck in the mud here Monday.

A 300-ton component of a nuclear reactor, being shipped by barge from Camden, N.J., to Dresden, Ill., ran fast into a sandbar in the Inland Waterway near here.

The mishap occurred in St. Lucie inlet, where the barge was being turned by its tug, the J. H. Coppedge of Jacksonville, into the St. Lucie River for its voyage across the state through Lake Okeechobee.

Looking like a bright orange washing machine, the reactor part measures 20 feet in diameter, is 42 feet high and 50 feet long.

But despite the atom power it probably will generate for the 45 million dollar Commonwealth Edison Plant at Dresden some day, the reactor could not budge for six hours.

The tug finally freed it from the sandbar shortly after 6 p.m. and continued the voyage.

Rollins Trustee, Professor, Dies

HARTFORD —(AP)— Dr. Roger Shaw, 55, a political scientist and writer, died Sunday.

Shaw was professor international relations at Trinity College and was a trustee of Rollins College at Winter Park. He was foreign editor and news commentator for several magazines and radio stations.

Nightlife with George Bourke

'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

Prio Home Up for Rent

THE VENDOME HOTEL penthouse where ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras spent his exile was listed for rent in a recent issue of the Wall St. Journal . . . Combination of overwork and a virus bug canceled Donald O'Connor out of his Las Vegas date. Suffering possibly as much as Donald are Ben Novack for whom he has a Fontainebleau date on March 17, and Bill Miller who was hoping he'd show a profit for the Riviera there shortly after.

Wometco is serving up two versions of "My Uncle," the French comedy click starring Jacques Tati, this week. The Mayfair will have a print with French dialogue and printed English subtitles. The Sunset will show the film with English dialogue dubbed over the French sound track. You takes your pick.

Pat P. Arnstein . . . film?

Mandy Campo . . . busy

Jacques Tati . . . 'Uncle'

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Ruth Foreman, director of the Dramatic Academy, was on the jury at two show business tests over the weekend: at Miami Beach High School for its "Frolics" on Friday, and at Booker T. Washington High for "Jabberwock" Monday night. She's taking over operation of Studio M.

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.

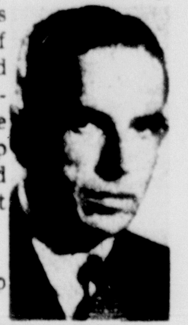
'Neutral' German Belt No Advantage to U.S.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

PARIS — Creation of a "neutral" zone in Central Europe or the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time would be senseless, dangerous and perhaps even disastrous in the opinion of military commanders at Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe.



In view of the eagerness with which many American and British politicians have played with the notion of withdrawing both Allied and Communist forces from a "demilitarized" belt in Europe, the arguments against such a step which are advanced by seasoned professionals appear to merit attention.

* * *

THEY CAN BE summed up as follows:

1. THE ESTABLISHMENTSTONEMAN of a strong American ground force in postwar Europe came in 1951 as a direct answer to a real threat of Soviet aggression.

Until then we had had one infantry division and a strong mobile force known as the constabularly in Germany.

We built that force up to five divisions plus a stronger mobile force consisting of three armored cavalry regiments to replace the constabulary.

At the same time Gen. Eisenhower was sent to Europe to command allied forces and organize them under SHAPE (Supreme Allied Headquarters.)

That increase in force and a similar increase in British strength on the continent restored the shattered nerves of Western Europeans and dispelled tension.

* * *

2. THESE FORCES, which the Russians now want us to dissipate, did not create any tension in Europe. They reduced tension.

"So," say these officers, "if you think you can reduce tension by reducing our forces you are starting at the hind side of the animal."

If you want to reduce tension you must start on the political side, not the military side.

* * *

3. THERE IS A SERIOUS practical reason for not withdrawing American and British forces from Western Germany. Due to German financial support we were able to finance the buildings and other installations needed for the maintenance of a sizable force in Germany.

It is highly doubtful if we could find space for more than a very small complement of men anywhere else in Europe.

So it is virtually certain that if we remove our forces from Western Germany the mass of them will have to go home.

There are also political reasons why this is so. It is unthinkable that a country like France would find it possible to play host to eight or 10 divisions of non-French troops in peacetime.

When you advocate the removal of our troops from Germany what you are really proposing is to remove the tangible evidence of our determination to defend Western Europe.

* * *

4. THE "SCREEN FORCE" which we now maintain in Western Germany is not intended to sway the balance in a global war. Its purpose is to deter any local attack or operation such as the Communists might be tempted to try if there were no shield along the Iron Curtain.

The major deterrent to global war has been and remains our retaliatory power . . . the hydrogen bomb and so forth.

The major deterrent to a small attack of the kind that has become increasingly likely is the screen force.

We must be able to halt an attack with adequate forces the minute enemy forces cross the Curtain. That will compel the enemy to bring up additional forces, a step which it would hesitate to take.

People must try to remember that we are not preparing to fight a war. We know that a war would ruin the world. What we are doing is to arrange such a pattern of defense that the enemy will not make a mistake which could provoke a major conflict.

* * *

5. THE RUSSIAN and Polish proposals for the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Eastern Germany are deadly dangerous for a reason few people seem to recognize.

The withdrawal of Soviet forces would allow the East Germans to throw out the Communists whenever they felt like it. That would almost certainly mean Soviet intervention of the Hungarian variety.

That would invite possible intervention by the West Germans and that would probably mean war.

* * *

6. WE ARE ALL LOOKING for a realistic way of reducing tension. One possible way would be to work out an agreement for the control and inspection of forces on both sides of the curtain. That would reduce the danger of a surprise attack.

The reduction of tension which resulted might create an atmosphere in which we could consider the reduction or readjustment of forces.

The trouble is that any such control agreement would be hard to apply unless we recognized the East German regime. That is impossible because it would outrage the West Germans and probably mean the loss of our rights in Berlin.

So it seems almost inevitable that the creation of an inspection zone would be tied to a solution of the German unification problem. And the Russians are dead set against such a solution.

* * *

7. FROM WHATEVER ANGLE you examine this situation it seems a mistake to consider the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time.

Those who complain because "we aren't ready to make any concessions to the other side" might stop to consider that the Iron Curtain today is the most stable frontier that the modern world has known.

We should think a long time before tinkering with a situation which doesn't seem to disturb anybody but the Red army and Mr. Khrushchev.

But Time Is Vital Factor

'Wait-and-See' Policy Best For Dulles, Moderates Feel

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — When White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty was asked Monday about Senators Stuart Symington and Hubert Humphrey calling for the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he replied: "It is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the papers."

These are the extremes of the controversy over the consequences of Dulles' illness. Most impartial observers here do not think it is necessary to reach any decision now, nor do they think it is right to dismiss serious doubts about the situation as mere "publicity seeking."

RESTON

The reasons behind this moderate wait-and-see position are:

1. It has been two weeks since Dulles asked for a leave of absence, and only 10 days since it was discovered he was suffering from a recurrence of intestinal cancer. There is nothing unusual in his being away from his post two or three weeks. This has happened many times during his six years in office, and while absence from Washington is not the same as absence for reasons of health, the State Department is accustomed to carrying on without him longer than a fortnight.

2. It is too early to know what the effects of the radiation treatment will be. He had his third treatmnt Monday, and the doctors are at least satisfied that these have not upset him.

3. Dulles himself has said publicly that he will let it be known "at any time I don't feel able to carry on." There is no reason to question his good faith on this point. Nobody knows better than he the dangers of a part-time Secretary of State at a critical time like this, and those who know him best, including the members of his own family, who want him to stay on, are convinced that he will resign immediately if he does not feel able to carry the full responsibilities of his job.

This is the argument which has persuaded such men as Senators J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Mike Mansfield of Montana and John Sparkman of Alabama — all members of the Foreign Relations Committee and all periodic critics of the secretary — that there is no reason to make a decision before the radiation therapy has been given a fair chance.

On the other hand it is not prudent, in this moderate view, not to give serious thought to alternate plans for conducting the nation's foreign policy, lest the hopeful assumptions of the White House prove to be false.

While there is no likelihood that any major decisions will have to be taken on the Berlin crisis before Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returns from Moscow, it is not accurate to say that everything is being carried on normally at the State Department.

For example, in his last public statement on Berlin the day he returned from Europe, Dulles said the three Western nations he visited (Britain, France and West Germany) had "reconfirmed the unity and firmness of our position."

"We are not resolved," he added in a formal statement, "that our position in, and access to, West Berlin shall be preserved. We are in general agreement as to the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights in this respect."

Because of Dulles' illness, however, not even the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate knows what these "procedures we shall follow" actually are.

Dulles has not been able to tell them. Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter has not told them, and neither has anybody else.

Involved in these procedures, however, are issues of momentous importance.

1. What is meant by the allies reconfirming "the unity and firmness of our position?" And what are "the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights" to pass freely from West Germany across 110 miles of Communist territory to free West Berlin?

2. Is there really "unity" among the allies on sending an armed convoy through East Germany to maintain our rights if the Communists try to block the way?

3. Who would man the convoy — U.S. soldiers or soldiers of all the Western allies?

4. If this led to fighting, would the obligations of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance be involved?

5. At what point would the issues be taken to the United Nations, and to what body of the U.N. — the Security Council or the General Assembly?

6. Is there "unity" among the allies on the forces and strategy necessary to pursue a policy of "firmness" in "preserving" "our position in, and access to, West Berlin?"

Even after Dulles made his general statement, a "working committee" of the four Western powers met to work out answers to these and many other questions, but officials here said Monday the four governments were still not committed to any specific course of action to meet any of the serious contingencies which may lie ahead.

What is at issue here is nothing less than a course of action which everybody concerned agrees could lead to war in Central Europe against conventional forces far larger than any commanded by the West.

Accordingly, while there is much sentiment for Dulles' recovery, there is also a great deal of anxiety in Washington about the formulation of policy to meet these serious developing situations.

Even with Dulles using all his authority in the National Security Council debate, it has not always been easy for him to prevail against the Pentagon on policy questions which might involve military action.

For all these reasons, time is a factor in the equation. The decision, of course, is the President's, and not Dulles', but at some point fairly soon somebody must decide what forces are to be placed in what positions to demonstrate Western "firmness," and this will certainly be one of the most important decisions of the last six years.

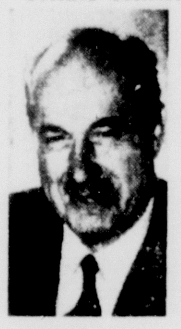
Strauss Criticism Censored in 1957

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If handsome, debonair Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington really wants to get the lowdown on Adm. Lewis Strauss, the Wall Street banker now up for Senate confirmation as secretary of commerce, he should call Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri as a witness.



PEARSON

STRAUSS

He should also subpoena the heavily censored report which Cannon once prepared on Strauss but which was largely killed at the insistence of Republicans.

In retrospect Cannon was well ahead of his time. His criticism of Strauss, then head of the Atomic Energy Commission, charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. Since then, sensational Russian tests show that the Congressman from Missouri was right.

Cannon, who represents Mark Twain's district in the "Show Me" state, had long adopted a "show me" attitude toward the ex-atomic chairman who now seeks to get a Senate OK as secretary of commerce.

And as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee he has the power to scrutinize much of what Strauss did.

In the Appropriations Committee report in the summer of 1957, Chairman Cannon accused Strauss of falsifying facts, bringing politics into atomic energy, and rubbing out commissioners who did not agree with him.

Immediately a storm broke inside the committee and Congressman John Taber of New York, ranking Republican, succeeded in having the criticism of Strauss largely censored from the secret report.

TABER

CANNON

However, this column has obtained a copy and senators who have to vote on whether Strauss is qualified to serve as Secretary of Commerce should read it.

"The approach to the problem which is urged by Commissioners Strauss, Libby and Vance constitutes nothing but defeat," was one critical statement stricken from the report.

* * *

THE NEXT SENTENCE was not censored: "Logically the vital question before America as a nation is, what are we accomplishing?" But the answer to this question was stricken. It read:

"The answer is inescapable that we are stagnating because of the dogmatic attitude of Chairman Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission. His (Eisenhower's) pledge to the world has been effectively thwarted by reason of a philosophy on the part of Mr. Strauss."

"Prior to the second advent of Mr. Strauss into official position as a member of the AEC," continued the censored report, "the commission remained singularly aloof from politics.

"Early in 1953, the President deemed it advisable to permit himself to be counseled by Mr. Strauss as a special adviser on atomic energy matters . . . Mr. Strauss set out to defeat the whole purpose of the Congress in entrusting this responsibility of sweeping magnitude to a five man commission. The result has been a development which is contrary to the best interests of the United States."

New Look in Lobbying --Just Use Soft Soap

By DON OBERDORFER
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congressmen have just taken an unusual peek at the newest methods of "influencing" their votes.

Oberdorfer

Since the Goldfine case, influence-minded constituents are being warned against giving congressmen anything more tangible than the time of day.

Instead, Washington "advisors" are suggesting flattery, social favors and "entertainment" as the keys to the congressman's heart.

The look at the revised lobbying methods was provided through the good offices of Rep. Lee Metcalf, a Montana Democrat.

He slipped into the Congressional Record the text of a message circulated to more than 10,000 businessmen by Babson's Washington Forecast. This is a newsletter claiming to give "inside tips."

The Forecast assured its readers that despite the recent tightening up on influence-peddling, "you can use many methods to influence (congressmen's) opinions and votes — without any danger of involvement or embarrassment."

Legal influence, a la Babson, proceeds this way:

"Find some fields of common interest — people back home, sports, hobbies, etc. Invite your congressman to lunch or dinner, or to a social affair.

"Make him feel you think he's smart and important. Ask him questions about subjects on which he's expert. Be a good, agreeable listener.

"Don't overspend on entertainment, but don't be afraid to order a sufficiency of the best. Very important: Don't give gifts of any kind.

"Develop future personal contacts — an affair back home, a speech or visit by your congressman at a trade meeting or convention, a fishing trip, golf game, visits to your home, etc. Gradually build a close personal friendship.

"After you're on a first-name basis, casually ask his advice about a personal or business problem . . . let him develop a reputation as a problem solver. Praise him for his astuteness.

"Very soon you'll find him wanting to live up to this developed reputation. At that stage, you'll be surprised at how open-minded he will become on issues on which you previously thought him bitterly opposed."

Rail Labor Heads Put Blame on Management

(One of a Series)

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO — Labor leaders accuse the nation's railroads of operating one of the most effective propaganda machines in existence.

They say the machine pumps out a mixture of distortion, exaggeration and half-truth that conceals the financial successes of railroads and gives a warped view of the industry's labor relations.

They contend that many newspapers, magazines and other news media print or broadcast only the management side of the railroad problem.

To get labor's side of the story this writer interviewed five of the country's highest ranking railroad union officials, head-quartered in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and St. Louis.

Guy L. Brown, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, spoke out on the railroads' "machine."

"If railroads spent as much time and money on furnishing and selling transportation as they spent on telling the public they're heading for the poorhouse, maybe they would increase their incomes," he said.

Brown, a railroader since he was 15, said the morale of rail workers is "lower than it has been in 50 years."

He is among labor leaders who are less than optimistic about patching up union-management relations.

* * *

THE BROTHERHOOD leaders generally condemned the bright young businessmen who represent today's new breed of railroad executives.

"They're detrimental to the industry," said George S. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association and head of the Telegrapher's Union.

"All they're looking for is the almighty dollar," he said. "They're not interested in serving the public."

Leighty said the railroads' total net income more than doubled between the late 1940s and the 50s (although it has declined since 1956).

"The railroads are actually a growing industry," added George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway & Steamship Clerks.

* * *

ROADS LIKE the Chicago & North Western will always remain "marginal," said Harrison, by virtue of the geographic and economic limitations of the regions in which they operate.

"Railroads want the public to pay rates sufficiently high to finance additions or betterments to their operations," he said.

"But does an office building owner raise his rents just so he can get enough money to put up a new building?" asked Harrison.

"No, he gets the money someplace else. He borrows it. And that's what the railroads should do."

The labor chiefs blame poor equipment, service and sales methods for much of the decline in passenger business.

* * *

FOX AND OTHER union officials feel intensive advertising campaigns, better customer relations and aggressive salesmanship can give passenger business a major boost.

Employe rudeness to customers and inadequate maintenance, they contend, can usually be traced back to workers disgruntled by overwork and a disinterested management.

Harrison said creation of super transit authorities in cities like Chicago could solve the commuter line problem.

Existing railroads would continue to supply service under contracts with the authority under such a plan. General revenue would make up any deficit.

Simple fare increases are not the answer, said Harrison.

* * *

MORE REALISTIC regulation of freight rates was urged by H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Gilbert said he also favors eliminating the 10-per cent federal tax on passenger fares, paying railroads the full cost of handing mail and similar measures.

Generally, however, labor and management find little common ground from which the joint program could be launched to help their industry.

Five Died Early Monday in This Car-Truck Wreck Near Callahan

5 Die in Flames Of Head-On Crash

CALLAHAN —(UPI)— Five persons, including a Marine Corps hitchhiker, were killed Monday when their car rammed a huge tractor-trailer truck and burst into flames.

Highway patrolmen said the victims were killed on impact. It was several hours before identification was available because the victims were so badly burned.

Driver of the car was listed as Mrs. Pauline K. Driver, 40, of Hartwell, Ga. With her were her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Moore, 19, and her son, Garland Driver, 12, also of Hartwell.

The owner of the car, also killed instantly, was Walter Richard White, 42, of Iva, S.C., a cousin of Mrs. Driver.

The fifth victim was John A. Barlow, 22, of Columbus, Ind., who was assigned to the 2nd Amphibian Tractor Battalion at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

Trooper R. S. Akers said Barlow's family believed he must have been hitchhiking.

Only survivor of the crash was Truckdriver Howard Lewis East of Cedartown, Ga., who was suffering shock at St. Lukes Hospital, Jacksonville.

Akers said East was driving south with a load of shelled corn and suddenly saw the northbound sedan coming toward him on the west shoulder of U.S. 1. East said he first thought the car was going to turn off the highway, but it suddenly veered to the right and rammed the truck.

Akers said the driver of the car apparently fell asleep.

Charter Revision Plan Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins' special committee has completed the draft of a proposed constitutional revision program, but its details won't be made public until later.

Committee Chairman William McRae of Bartow said Monday that polishing touches are being applied to the draft before it is turned over to the governor.

Collins' administrative assistant, William Killian, sat in with the committee at its final session here Saturday.

Basic parts of the revision are most of the proposals adopted by the Legislature in the daisy-chained program killed by the Florida Supreme Court last year. However, this time the articles stand independently instead of being interlocked to be adopted or rejected as a whole.

He said the committee went about its work with the idea of retaining as many of these and still offer a cohesive, sound constitution.

The Supreme Court killed the legislature's revision program because of the interlocking feature which the court said made it a general revision that could be accomplished only by constitutional convention.

Among the innovations the new program contains is a reapportionment formula which McRae said the committee felt was "fair, sound and appealing to all sections of the state."

Some time next month members of the House and Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee will sit down with Collins' group to attempt to shape up a program for the Legislature.

Drowned Man's Body Recovered

LEESBURG —(UPI)— The body of a 46-year-old farmer was recovered from nearby Lake Myrtle Monday after a two-day search.

William Arzig disappeared on a fishing trip Saturday.

Marianna School Costs Up

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Costs have risen more than 26 per cent during the past four years at the Marianna School for Boys, but the number of inmates jumped only 15 per cent, a state audit revealed Monday.

The audit, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, said in 1954-55, the institution cared for 655 boys at a cost of $2.71 per day per boy. By 1957-58, it said, the cost had risen to $3.19 per boy per day for 754 youths.

Auditor Bryan Willis said the school farm produced much of the food eaten at the school, but nevertheless food costs were up slightly. Total food costs were $325,898, of which food produced by the school accounted for $152,466.

Freed Pending New Appeal

King Given One Year

BARTOW — (UPI) — Former State Sen. Harry King, his request for a third trial denied, was sentenced Monday to two concurrent one-year jail terms on perjury charges growing out of a $10,000 political payoff.

Criminal Court Judge Roy H. Amidon handed down the sentences as he refused King's motion for a new trial on grounds of a long list of alleged trial errors.

The 56-year-old Winter Haven attorney was convicted Jan. 29 on two misdemeanor counts of conspiracy to commit perjury. At the same time, he was acquitted of two felony counts of subornation of perjury.

Judge Amidon gave him one year each on the conspiracy counts, the terms to run concurrently in Polk County Jail. But King's attorneys immediately announced they would appeal the decision not to allow a third trial and Amidon released King under $500 bond.

The judge could have sentenced King to one year in prison and a fine of $500 on each of the two conspiracy counts.

King was convicted on all four counts in 1956, the year of the payoff, but the conviction was thrown out by the State Supreme Court on the basis of trial errors. Amidon sentenced him to a total of five years in prison at the first trial.

King still faces trial on two counts of violating election laws and one count of perjury. Judge Amidon ruled Monday that King would be tried on these charges May 12.

The former senator, who would have become president of the Senate had he been re-elected in 1956, was accused of setting up a conspiracy scheme to block his indictment on charges of giving former State Rep. Boone Tillett Jr. of Lake Wales $10,000 not to seek King's Senate seat.

King, former Sheriff Pat Gordon and two deputies, Rollie Arnold and James Busbee, were charged along with King. All were convicted when tried as a group in 1956 and all the convictions were set aside by the Supreme Court.

But since then Busbee and Arnold have pleaded guilty to perjury and are awaiting sentencing. Gordon, charged on the same counts as King, will be tried for the second time April 21, Judge Amidon ruled Monday.

The defendants were charged with giving, or conspiring to give, false testimony to the Grand Jury investigating the case. King admitted giving the money to Tillett, calling it not a bribe but an effort to catch Tillett in an extortion attempt.

Legislators Hit State Ad Agency

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Florida Development Commission must demonstrate to the legislative auditing committee it has taken steps to correct complaints of State Auditor Bryan Willis.

The committee hinted Monday it would take punitive action against the agency appropriation if the commission didn't act.

The committee instructed its chairman, Rep. Mack Cleveland of Seminole County, to determine if the commission has moved to prevent improper use of telephone and gasoline credit cards by employes, use of personal automobiles when state-owned cars were available, and per diem claims for trips of less than a day's duration.

A. L. Hackett, commission manager of accounting and purchasing, said the agency "has taken, and is taking, steps to meet all the criticisms of the audit." He said the commission is trying to strengthen controls on all expenditures.

Sen. Tom Adams of Orange Park declared all agencies must realize irregularities must be corrected.

"We must let them know we have not forgotten the criticisms. If we have to reflect this in appropriatons we will do it," he said.

Cleveland said the audit indicated the commission had been doing "everything an agency should not do."

Cleveland said he would ask a detailed account of what is being done to correct abuses.

UF Enrolls New Record

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — A spring semester registration of 11,123 students was reported Monday by University of Florida Registrar R. S. Johnson.

The official figure establishes a new record. It is a gain of 850 students over last year's enrollment.

The spring total is swelled by 2,998 freshmen. The freshman class shows a total of 845 women and 2,153 men — a ratio of less than three men to each woman.

Why Men Wear Hats That Are Too Small

LISBON —(WNS)— Primitive man wore clothes to keep himself warm, the chivalrous man wore clothes to make himself beautiful and now modern man wears clothes for psychological reasons.

So, says Scella Corsi, poet, painter and designer-turned-psychologist.

He explains:

"The American male now wears a miniature-brimmed hat that is two sizes too small for his head and makes him look like a movie comic.

"This headpiece makes the wearer look naive, but not quite a half-wit. It is ideal for business deals.

"One would not wish to do business with a half-wit," explained the Portuguese designer. "But to look uncalculating and not clever enough to drive a good bargain is desirable.

"The trousers of the American businessman are ill-fitting with a low baggy crotch.

"This has two psychological advantages for the wearer," Corsi says.

"First, it distinguishes him at a glance from women and teenagers who wear their trousers cuttingly tight. Second, it shows that the wearer is not an idler who can waste time at a tailor shop having his clothes properly fitted."

The same American now wears a little-boy jacket buttoning high on the chest with the narrowest lapels ever known to civilized man.

"This immature cut inspires confidence to the beholder," Corsi claims. "It indicates that although the wearer does not know what is aesthetic, he does know what is new. To know what is new is important in business."

Corsi also points out that they are the direct opposite of the famously loud "American neckties" of previous years.

"Therefore, by wearing ultra-narrow cravats the wearer advertises the fact that his necktie wardrobe is new, which costs money," he explains. "And money, of course, is the great American symbol for success."

The straight-folded handkerchief in the jacket pocket serves several psychological purposes.

"Its unchanged fold suggests that the wearer does not sneeze," says Corsi. "He is in good health, and it is safe to do business with him."

It also indicates that the wearer is a follower in all matters, and not a leader or a non-conformist. Therefore, you can safely predict his reactions in any business deal.

"Finally, it points out that the wearer does not think for himself but obediently follows instructions from sources above him that are considered reliable," he reports.

'Should Folks Our Age Go Dancing? We're 60'

By DR. J. G. MOLNER

DEAR DR. MOLNER:

My husband and I are 60 years old. Recently we joined a club which gives a dance twice a week — an average of three hours of dancing for the week.

We haven't a car so we have to walk or take the bus wherever we go, so we do get in some walking.

Do you think dancing is too strenuous for people our age?

There has been some discussion among our friends as to the advisability.

MRS. C.

Dr. J. G. Molner

Tell your friends they are crazy. Certainly you are old enough to go to dances . . . Oh, you mean they think you are TOO old?

Rubbish.

Plenty of people of 60 or above play golf. Some play tennis. Quite a lot bowl. Some ride bicycles. Some indulge in far more strenuous jobs or sports.

The big danger — if any — is in overtaxing the heart, but the heart is an honorable organ which gives fair warning before it lets you down.

Sudden, extreme and—especially—unaccustomed strain is dangerous.

On the other hand, moderate exercise, and especially if the person is accustomed to comparable activity, not only is not harmful but is very good for you.

If you puff and huff, and start to black out, and feel uncomfortable because of the exercise, you are doing too much.

I have in mind the man of 60 (or 70, or 50 or even 40) who plays golf. He hasn't been out except on rare week-ends, but he suddenly decides to go play 18 holes. Or 36.

And his weariness and shortness of breath tell him he's had enough after six holes. If he quits, fine. But if he stubbornly keeps on, either to keep up with the rest, or to get full return for the fees he has paid, he is asking for trouble.

That fact that you folks walk a lot is good. It keeps you in trim. If shortness of breath, or tiredness, or other discomfort gives you a warning at the dance, then take the hint and rest for a spell.

Heed nature's warnings. And if you have been inactive, go back gradually to physical activity. But if you follow those two rules, your twice-a-week dances, or any other physical activity you enjoy will be beneficial, not harmful.

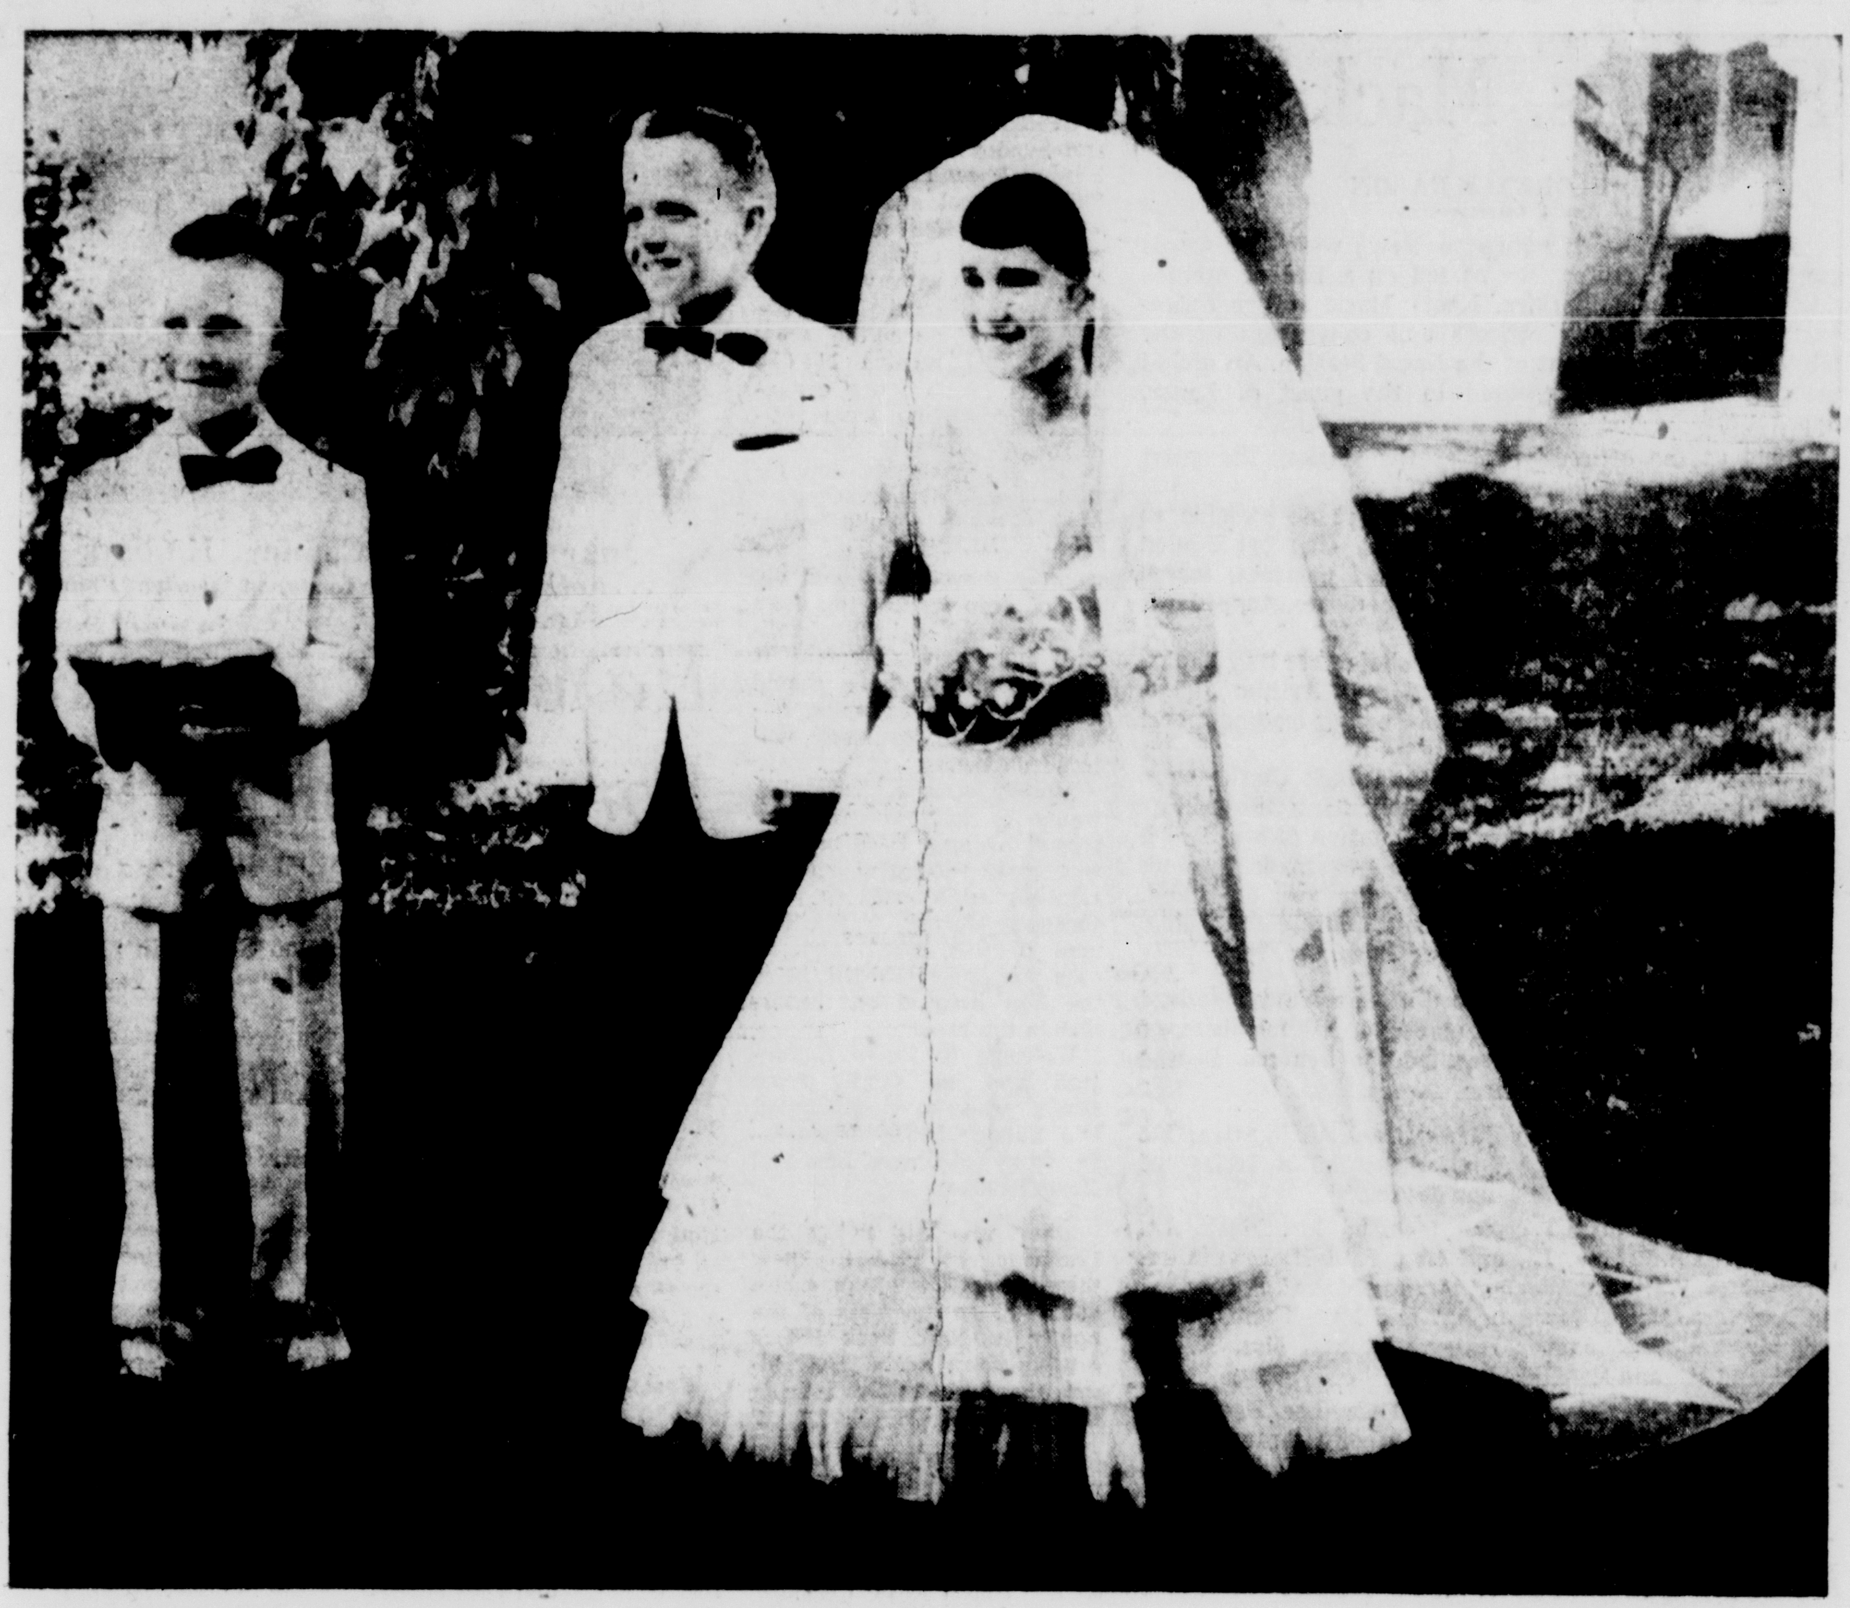
Bossy Wives a Myth, Says a Male Writer

NEW YORK — (WNS) — David L. Cohn, author of Love in America, An Informal Study of Manners and Morals, has a pat on the ego for American women.

Cohn laughs off the laments about today's woman being domineering to her male and full of smother-love when it comes to her children.

"Women's actual power is small," says Cohn, "Their children are likely to pay little attention to their views and, for all that their husbands appear meek, mild and browbeaten in their presence, the men retain the real power in all that counts and regard their esteemed spouses with the bemused affection that hunters have for their old, retired bird dogs."

Cohn, who is married, admits that the reference to "old, retired bird dogs" may ruffle many women. But he thinks it's better than being called "cold and unfeminine," as has happened so often lately.



O PROMISE ME that one day you and I can spend a honeymoon on Mars, live on Saturn and retire on the Moon. Until then bride and groom Donna Schwartz and Blair Moore and their ring bearer Paul Eckman will have to content themselves with being fourth graders at South Hialeah Elementary School. Friday they'll be principals in their class's formal Tom Thumb wedding and reception whose cast of 35 includes soloists, train bearer and flower girl. The bride's costume is imported alencon lace over slipper satin. The ceremony takes place at 8 p.m. in the school cafetorium. Parents will be among the guests.

Miniature Hearts For Your Neck

A new jewelry fad is on the way, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute. Tiny Miniatures, such as hearts, drops, free-form designs, geometric shapes, and religious symbols are fastened to fine gold chains.

They nestle in the hollow of the throat and make the neck appear slender and delicate.

Orchids To You Theme Of Party For Mrs. Mack

By FLORENCE RABON
Herald Correspondent

KEY WEST — "Orchids to You" were the words inscribed on the centerpiece nested on a bed of orchids which greeted Johnny (Mrs. Kent) Mack at her retirement party, hosted by officers and co-workers of the Public Works Department of the Naval Station. An orchid corsage, which was presented to the guest of honor, topped it off.

Held at the officers' pool at the station, the guest list was large.

MRS. RABON

Tables were set at poolside so guests could enjoy charcoal broiled steaks, fish, baked potatoes, tossed salad, and other dishes, topped off by cold beer.

Acting as chefs were Ray Banks, William Steed and Arthur Judge. Their ladies were busy lending moral support.

Ramona and Jack Clarke were there, with Jack doing the honors as emcee. Presentation of a gift of a transistor radio was made by Jere Meggs. Mrs. Meggs was on hand, too. Arthur Cade represented Public Works at Boca Chica Air Field.

An original booklet, fashioned after a Navy standard stock catalog, containing the names of all members of the department, was also presented the honoree. It was the handwork of Bill Schlueter.

Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Barnwell and their attractive daughters, Rosemary and Dial, presented a series of amusing and delightful Hawaiian dances.

Others seen in the crowd included Mr. Mack, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Legros, Lt. and Mrs. Paul H. Bratmiller, Lt. and Mrs. Walter R. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Mazeau, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Hilley, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Ahbol, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bush.

Chairmen of the affair were Cora Lee Beenaerts, Sylvia (Mrs. Jeff) Knight, and Anthony Arango. Jeff and Mrs. Arango were also there.

Retired Officers' Wives Meet

RED HIBISCUS and tropical foliage were used to decorate the tea table when the Retired Officers' Wives club hosted an informal tea at Fort Taylor Officers Club. A large bowl of fresh frozen fruits added a cool note.

Guests of honor included Mrs. F. D. McCorkle, Norma (Mrs. F. G.) Babbitt, chairman of the Fort Taylor Officers' Wives Club, Mrs. Harold Cokley, and Mrs. Ward. Other guests were Mrs. R. P. Mayes and Mrs. Jonathan Jackson.

Officers of the newly organized group, whose purpose is to support active Navy service projects, are Mrs. J. P. Baillod, president; Mrs. William Truesdell, publicity; Mrs. O. A. Sandquist secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Ray Byrns and Mrs. Thomas Grant, hostesses.

The next meeting will be a coffee on March 10 at the home of Mrs. Frank Bowser on Flagler Ave.

Nursery Ball Plans Advanced

"OPERATION NURSERY" is the theme selected for the annual Hospital ball, to be held at the Casa Marina hotel March 14. Proceeds will be used to equip the nursery of Monroe General Hospital.

Chairman of the affair is Betty (Mrs. Gordon) Keene with Dorie (Mrs. J. J.) Scarlet as co-chairman. Plans call for dancing and a floorshow, which will include Jin and Marilyn Carter, and a big surprise number by the hospital medical staff.

Other chairmen busy with plans are Ann DeLones, Elizabeth (Mrs. George) Code, Annie (Mrs. Anthony) Ulchar, Jeanette (Mrs. Ralph) Fields, Betty (Mrs. Jim Flenner, Copelyn (Mrs. J. J.) Reilly, Reta (Mrs. Earl) Adams, and Angela (Mrs. Angela) Caro. Mrs. Harold Bevis is president of the hospital auxiliary.

Gay Lou Torrey Club Officer

When the Staff NCO Wives Club at Cherry Point, N.C. held installation of officers, Gay Lou (Mrs. R. W.) Torrey was inducted as vice-president. The ceremonies were held at the staff club ballroom, which was decorated with white and green for the occasion.

White carnation centerpieces, white candles, pine boughs, and cones were used on the tables. The Torrey's are the parents of four boys. Gay Lou is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barroso.

Here and There About Island

NEWS FROM Florida State University tells of a a double honor won by Yvonne Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore. Elected vice-president of her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, Yvonne also made the dean's list.

Nearly 300 persons were in the gay throng which attended the Humane Society's annual gala benefit held at East Martello Tower. Games, dancing, and drinks on the house were all a part of the evening of fun.

Herman's fabulous spring styles were modeled by 35 of Key West's loveliest matrons and maidens. A high fashion note was added by the "swanky" dogs which paraded with some of the models.

Commentary was done by male observers, who included George Mills White, Karl Fischer, Lee Goddard, Bob Zimmerman, Burt Garnett, down from St. Petersburg for the affair; and Colin Jameson who wrote the commentary.

Funds raised by the benefit are used by the society to rescue and care for animals and to improve the shelter of Stock Island.

The 1959 Key West Flower Show will be open an additional day, closing March 2, at 10 p.m. Sheltered gardens inside the West Martello Tower are being arranged to furnish backgrounds for miniature gardens with fascinating names, such as "Terraced Gardens of Martinique," "Seaside Garden of Trinidad," and "A Haitian Fortress."

Large and small shadow boxes will be featured, as will dish gardens which children of the local schools are preparing.

One of the hardest workers in connection with the recent district meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club was Mrs. Grace Crosby. Grace, former secretary of the Florida Federation, was publicity chairman and assisted with plans for the heavy schedule of events.

One of her prized possessions is the trophy she won several years ago when she was selected as the Outstanding Citizen of Key West.

UPPER KEYS

Flower Show Held At School

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS — Saturday and Sunday were Upper Keys Flower Show dates at Coral Shores School auditorium. It is unfortunate that the few who work so hard to produce the show receive little cooperation from residents in both entries and attendance.

MRS. COHEN

While other parts of the country shovel snow and dig out of deep freezes this area is surrounded by brilliant foliage and warm breezes. It would seem that we should take pride in displaying native beauty to the many visitors and friends.

Murray Cribbs, Tavernier, wants to tell you that the recent Kiwanis Club fish fry was most successful and he sincerely appreciates the fine turnout. Murray was chairman of this event, and, in case you haven't heard, he is the first licensed bail bondsman in this area.

Welcome to Harry Saltonstall and his family from Ocala, who have purchased Isla Sundry Store, Islamorada, from old-timers Ann and Harry Perlman.

Many who will miss the Perlmans are glad to know they plan a Caribbean cruise and visits to members of the family in New York before settling down again. They insist they are really retiring this time.

Five Florida Keys restaurants are featured and praised in an editorial which appears in Playboy Magazine Feb. 26. Three of them are on our Upper Keys. Greene's, Key Largo, is commended for broiled shrimp; Martins Halfway House, Islamorada, for stone crabs and shore dinners; Green Turtle Inn, Islamorada, for conch chowder and turtle steak.

Others included in the accolade are Hanleys, Marathon, and The Patio, Key West.

Wonder how many were tuned into a national radio program on Saturday and heard former resident and nationally known sports fisherman and writer Joe Brooks. It was a remote broadcast from Australia, where Joe is getting first hand information about the land down under. Come on home to the Florida Keys, Joe. The fishing is wonderful here too.

Visitors to the Bill Uhe's, Key Largo, are Irene and Dick Durkop, Roxana, Ill. He is a chief engineer on the Mississippi and doesn't look forward to returning to that ice filled river.

If you like to sing you have an opportunity on Feb. 28, 7:30 p.m. at Burton Memorial Methodist Church. They invite everyone to participate in their "Singspiration."

Date book for the coming week includes the Islamorada Lions Club Minstrel Show, Feb. 27 and 28 at Coral Shores School. This is their third annual presentation and sure to be a hit.

There is another of those delicious barbecues at Tavernier Fire Department Feb. 28. Chicken and ribs and all the trimmings will be served, of course.

Opera Stars In Concert

PALM BEACH — Resort society attended a joint concert by the Metropolitan Opera Soprano Nadine Conner, and Eugene Conley, tenor, at the Society of the Four Arts Wednesday night.

The artists appeared in both solo numbers and in duets with Harry Jackson at the piano.

Mrs. Thomas B. Gilchrist gave a supper party for them following the concert at her home on the Lake Trail.

'Saint Joan' Reading Slated

DELRAY BEACH — The Inner Circle of the Delray Beach Playhouse will present a reading of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" Friday at 8 p.m. at the public library.

The reading, to be given by Playhouse members under the direction of J. Stuart Warrington, is the second in a series of free Friday night programs sponsored by the library.

Juke Box Arias Coming, He Says
... Robert Rounseville to star in 'Student Prince'

He Wants Opera For Man on Street

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — Singing Star Robert Rounesville, who opens at the Musicarnival tonight in "The Student Prince," wants to take grand opera out of the snob orbit.

"Everybody should have the privilege of attending and enjoying grand opera. The man on the street, the housewife, the career woman, business man, everybody should know great music."

The diamond horseshoe, the jewels and furs won by society — all the glittering froufrou that marks grand opera — are all right, but the people as a whole are entitled to a greater friendship with the great composers.

Could grand opera ever be performed in an arena type theater? That's a possibility, Rounesville averred, and grand opera selections on juke boxes are also coming, he said.

Robert Rounesville is a direct contradiction that all operatic tenors must be built like 10-ton trucks. A young, personable singer and actor, he also has definite ideas about the singing of grand opera in English.

Trouble is in the translation, he says. The translator must understand the problems presented by the music, the problems of the singer, the language and the actor.

For a certain type of sound, there is a certain type of singing technique. When that same sound is translated into English the sound is often different so that (technique must be changed. (He illustrated with a few bars from Carmen.)

Then, too, he says, there are shades of meaning in a foreign language that have no counterpart in English. A proper musical and linguistic substitute must be found.

Rounesville likes his role in "The Student Prince," and the music of Sigmund Romberg. He will be remembered as the star in "The Tales of Hoffman," in the great London technicolor poruction, and in numerous TV, opera and legitimate shows. He also presents an evening of concert which runs the musical gamut from Mozart to Cole Porter.

Rounesville likes all outdoor sports and sporting events and was sorry not to be able to play golf here. No time.

When singing a heavy role, such as Don Jose in Carmen, he takes strenous exercise to keep in shape.

Miss Judith Dravis
... of Delray Beach

Miss Dravis Is Engaged

DELRAY BEACH — Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Schuller, 910 Intracoastal Road, Trade Winds Estates, have announced the engagement of their daughter Judith Dravis to Carl R. Duxbury.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Duxbury, 726 N. O St., Lake Worth.

Miss Dravis is a graduate of Seacrest High School, and attends Palm Beach Junior College, where she is the treasurer of the Philo Social Club.

Mr. Duxbury attended Lake Worth High School, served two years in the Navy, and is employed by John H. Couse Air Conditioning and Refrigeration of West Palm Beach.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Rita Lawrence
... to be June bride

Teacher To Marry In North

WEST PALM BEACH — A June wedding in Homer, N.Y., is planned by Rita Marie Lawrence, teacher of physical education at Palm Beach High School, and James Frederick Thompson.

The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Lawrence of Skaneateles, N.Y.

Mr. Thompson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Thompson, 625 28th St.

Miss Lawrence holds a B.S. degree from the University of New York, Courtland, N.Y., and did graduate study at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

Her fiance was graduated from Palm Beach High School and attended the University of Florida. He served three years in the Navy.

NOTHING IS EVER RIGHT

My Neighbor Is Nosy

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

How does one cope with a next door neighbor she does not care for, a person who is contradictory and nosy, yet a person whose feelings she hesitates to hurt?

Mine gets on my nerves so badly that I actually find it difficult to speak civilly to her. She has a habit of belittling whatever I have, say or do.

If I say black, she says white. If I say it's a nice day, she says it's too hot. When I say I ate at a certain restaurant and the food was good, she wouldn't eat there.

If I mention a movie I saw, she says she wouldn't want to see that picture. If I tell her I baked a cake with a certain mix, she asks why I didn't use another brand.

No matter what I tell her, it isn't right.

If my drapes are closed, she remarks that they're not open. When I hang up clothes, she observes how much wash I have.

I have tried to avoid her, but invariably she'll corner me. I don't want to hurt her feelings by being rude, as she has been nice to me in that she remembers my children on their birthdays, etc.

What is the best way to avoid a person like this? My husband says I shouldn't let her bother me, but being sensitive, I can't help it. The straw that broke the camel's back was when she asked why I named my baby as I did.

I would like to hear from the readers. You received so many replies regarding the minister and his yard, perhaps this query will warrant some interest, too.

DISGUSTED NEIGHBOR

Methinks you accept too many favors from this woman you do not care for, else you wouldn't be quite so loathe to say, "But I like it," when she takes issue with your likes (which seem so i your likes (which seems to be constant).

I believe you deal with people like this by "hurting" their feelings when the occasion demands it, at least disagreeing with them pleasantly but openly.

We will welcome the readers' comments.

Mary, You Have Sick Marriage

TO MARY (confidentially): You have a sick marriage and one that has grown progressively worse with the years because there has been no attempt to get "treatment."

The man and woman who live happily together work hard for this happiness. They do not obtain it with empty promises or by reading the Scriptures.

Thought for the Day

"The mere honesty a man has, the less he affects the air of a saint." —Lavater.

Please don't misunderstand me. The Bible is the Holy Word and can be an unlimited source of inspiration, guidance and comfort. But merely reading the words is not enough.

I am sure you realize that no one has a pat formula that will enable you, your husband and your 14-year-old son to suddenly start living a happy life under the circumstances you have described. But there are people who can help YOU to see the way clear to make the decision that you know is best for you.

Please call the Rev. Dale Ratliff, counselor, at the Protestant Service Bureau for an appointment now. The Bureau's offices have been moved to the Huntington Building, so ask information for the new telephone number.

He's Dated Another Girl

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I'm in love with a wonderful boy. We are both young but I feel he is the one for me. We haven't talked seriously about anything like marriage because of our ages.

We haven't been going together long, but I certainly never thought he would ever date another girl because he made it clear that I was to give up all other boys. I thought the same thing applied to him.

But the other night he went out with another girl. When I asked him about it, he said he was sorry and wouldn't do it again. I let it go and never mentioned it again — that was before I found out how far the date went. I was really surprised to find out some of the things they did. It hurt a lot.

I haven't said anything to him, but everytime I go out with him that's all I can think about. It's ruining my grades in school, and the good times we had together.

I've got to do something, but what? I would appreciate your view and the readers' opinions.

K

Are you sure the "things you found out" are facts, and not distortions? A lot of facts take on a new appearance, even after the second telling!

The heartache you have already experienced in this brief relationship is one of the best arguments I can think of for not going steady so young.

For love embodies much more than physical attraction and a wanting to be with someone . . . that part comes easily. It's the consideration, the sincere wanting to put another's happiness ahead of your own that's hard.

I honestly think you'll be happier if you try to think of this boy, not as a person whose every thought and action you must share, but a fellow student you enjoy being with when you are with him.

And I guess this all boils down to a kind of round-about way of saying, don't go steady with anybody — now.

PAINT WON'T WORK

Plastic Covering Hides Tile Sills

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Three readers sent in the same answer to Mrs. P.C. who wanted to know if she could paint her red tile windowsills. Answer is no, but they know what will help her.

READERS' EXCHANGE

They suggested a gummed-back kind of plastic covering which is available by rolls in the five and ten-cent stores. It is available in assorted patterns and colors and is relatively inexpensive.

One young man called to say he covered his red tile sills with it (a marbelized pattern) last June and "it hasn't bubbled with dampness or peedled away at all." Says it's easy to clean, not hard to put on.

D.M. used it on a workshelf in the kitchen and finds it "very practical." Says on tile, though, "be sure the tile is free from grease or dampness."

Mrs. F.P. of Miami said she applied it on her kitchen countertop "where I drain my dishes and sprinkle my clothes."

If you'd like to know the name of this covering, we'll be happy to tell you if you'll send a self-addressed, stamped envelope along with your request.

What Takes Off Iodine Stains?

A skull and crossbones item. Iodine, that is.

"I would greatly appreciate learning if there is anything that will remove iodine stains from the bath white porcelain basin," writes L.R. of Miami.

"The bottle fell from the medicine cabinet and smashed into the washbasin. I have tried many scouring powders, but to no avail."

But the Things Won't Wash . . .

Hear tell there's some 24 karat gold underwear (or maybe when it's gold it's called lingerie) available in a department store here. Black lace trim and all that schmaltz.

But there's a difficulty about the whole thing. Just in case you can afford the $45 necessary for a brief unmentionable, what do you do about the sudsing thereof?

A curious shopper told us that she looked at the tag and it said the fabric couldn't be washed, couldn't be dry cleaned. What could you do?

Just thought we'd pass the thought along in case Daddy was thinking of buying you gold lingerie. Ask for mink instead.

Help for Messy Sewing Boxes

Tangled threads are no longer a problem for Mrs. D.P. of Miami. For years she struggled with the tangled threads of all colors snarled up in her sewing box. No more, though.

"Put a tiny piece of cellophane tape over the loose end of each spool of thread in the sewing box. It keeps it from unwinding and tangling."

Fine idea.

Stubborn stains on drinking glasses?

A glass company says use lukewarm water softened with baking soda.

Says, too, that glasses washed with detergent should be air dried; with soap, cloth dried.

Aluminum Window Frames Are Black

Naughty, naughty. Careless workers at the home of Mrs. J. W. of North Miami left some black stains from plastic and cement containing lime on her aluminum window frames.

What to do? she wonders. "Tried finest of steel wool and mineral spirits, but does not do a satisfactory job," she writes. "Would appreciate some good method."

Msgr. Barry Receives Americanism Medal

Msgr. Barry

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. William Barry, dean of Greater Miami's Catholic priests, received the special Americanism Medal from the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday in the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Mrs. Barbara Smith Wiler, regent of Golden Anchor Chapter, DAR presented the medal which recognizes outstanding leadership and patriotism among the foreign born.

Msgr. Barry, born in Ireland, has been pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Miami Beach for more than 30 years.

The luncheon at which he received the award was given by the Patrician Club of the church to celebrate the anniversary of the church's founding in 1928 and George Washington's birthday.

Msgr. Barry gave a short talk on patriotism following the award presentation, and the luncheon for 800 women also included a fashion show and drill by the Edison cadettes. Mrs. Arthur Wood was chairman of the luncheon.

State Flower Show Theme Announced

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — "Florida the Floral Way" will be the theme for the seventh state flower show of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs April 1-3 at Pensacola.

Announcement of the theme was made by Mrs. W. T. Chennell of Orlando, federation publicity chairman.

All amateur gardeners may enter the horticulture section of the show where reservations are unnecessary, except in the case of potted plants.

Plans for the flower show, in Pensacola's municipal auditorium, include a separate "show within a show" for Junior Garden Clubs, the African Violet Society and the Hemerogallis Society.

Blend peanut butter, honey and graham cracker crumbs for a pie crust, and hear the raves.

The filling is something to rave about, too. It's a chiffon type made with lemon flavored gelatin and bananas for flavor.

Daily Food Guide

The final touch is a sprinkle of crushed peanut brittle over the pie before it is served.

Peanut-Banana Chiffon Pie

The pie is made in two stages. The crust is baked far enough ahead of time so it can chill before filling.

PEANUT-BANANA CHIFFON PIE

- ½ cup creamy style peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons honey
- ¾ cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1 6-ounce can evaporated milk
- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- ¾ cup hot water
- Dash salt
- 1 cup mashed banana
- ¼ cup lemon or lime juice
- ½ cup confectioners' sugar

Blend peanut butter with honey. Combine with graham cracker crumbs. Blend thoroughly. Pour into greased 9-inch pie pan and press firmly against bottom and sides of pan. Bake in a moderately slow over (325 degrees) 10 minutes. Cool and chill in refrigerator until set, at least 2 hours.

Pour milk into bowl and place in freezing compartment of refrigerator until ice crystals form around edge of bowl. Meanwhile dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until thick as unbeaten egg white.

Whip gelatin with rotary beater until fluffy. Whip milk until stiff, add a dash of salt and fold in the gelatin. Add bananas, lemon juice and sugar.

Pour into chilled pie shell and chill until firm. Just before serving sprinkle with crushed peanut brittle.

Note: If wished, substitute 1 cup heavy cream for evaporated milk. Omit salt if cream is used.

A Rapid-Fire Hamlet Starts at 9:30 Tonight

By JACK GAVER

GAVER

NELSON

NEW YORK—(UPI)—"One thing is certain," Ralph Nelson said. "This will probably be the most rapid-fire 'Hamlet' anyone has ever seen."

The producer-director was referring to the 90-minute version of Shakespeare's masterpiece that he will bring to the CBS network tonight from 9:30 to 11 as the "DuPont Show of the Month" (locally by WTVJ, Ch. 4.).

"And referring to it as a 90-minute show, I only wish we had 90 minutes," Nelson continued. "With time out for commercials, we actually wind up with about 78 minutes of playing space. Oh, well, as I said, it's going to move."

★ ★ ★

"HAMLET," IF PLAYED uncut, which scarcely anyone ever does on the stage, runs over four hours.

The production Nelson is bringing to the home screen stems from the stage version played by London's Old Vic Company which has just completed a tour of this country in a production that runs well over three hours.

"So, you see," Nelson resumed, "our TV version will be less than half as long as the one the Old Vic people used on the stage.

"I must emphasize that the TV 'Hamlet' is not just a cut and rearranged staging of the Old Vic production. We are using the Old Vic cast, but this is definitely a presentation prepared directly for television.

"Michael Benthall, who staged the play for the Old Vic, for theaters, collaborated with me in cutting the script for TV. We didn't work from the already-cut Old Vic script, but from the original full-length copy.

"While we will use the Old Vic costumes, which have a mid-19th century flavor, we have our own scenic scheme.

"Instead of the somber backgrounds of the stage production, Designer Bob Markell is going in heavily for white backgrounds which will show to more advantage on television inasmuch as this is not a colorcast."

★ ★ ★

THIS ISN'T Nelson's first brush with "Hamlet." The handsome blond producer started in show business as a stage actor, and he was in the cast of the "Hamlet" in which the late Leslie Howard starred on Broadway 22 years ago.

The "Hamlet" production was recorded on video tape over the weekend.

Heading the cast are John Neville as Hamlet and Barbara Jefford as Ophelia. Richard Wordsworth, Dudley Jones, Joseph O'Conor Oliver Neville and Margaret Courtenay have other leading roles.

The CBS film division will video-tape a jazz show on April 3 that'll feature Miles Davis and Billie Holiday for its upcoming series, "Theater For A Story."

The new series — produced by Robert Herridge — also will offer a ballet show, a comic dance show, Eugene O'Neill's "In The Zone," Guy de Maupassant's "Piece of String," a dramatization of the death of Socrates and three Lee J. Pogostin stories about the Hudson Street section of Manhattan.

Clare Booth Luce is narrator of the test film for another proposed CBS film adventure series, "The Diplomat," which has the okay of the State Department.

ABC-TV will launch re-runs of the Gale Storm show in a daytime spot on April 13. The Gale Storm nighttime show, folding on CBS-TV in June, will switch to ABC-TV nighttime next fall.

The new Florence Henderson-Bill Hayes musical show which bows in on NBC-TV in late March will be called "Play of the Week."

Edward Robinson Sr. and Jr. will co-star for the first time on April 2 in a CBS-TV "Zane Grey Theater" episode, "Loyalty."

Sloan Simpson, former wife of New York's former mayor, William O'Dwyer, has signed in for an upcoming ABC-TV Naked City, "Nothing But The Truth."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

South had to duck his way thru two suits in order to bring home the game contract which he and his partner had reached on the barest of values.

North had a dead minimum opening and after his partner's two over one response he might have contented himself with a two spade rebid since his hand was worth only 13 points in support of hearts. However, he chose to raise South instead and the latter proceeded on to game.

West led the king of clubs which was permitted to hold as East played the discouraging deuce. West's natural shift was to the nine of diamonds and again declarer ducked. East took the trick with the queen, and returned the nine of clubs which was taken with the ace.

After cashing two top trumps, declarer went after the spade suit, ruffing the third round in his own hand.

The contract was now secure, irrespective of West's actions. If West over-ruffed and led a diamond, declarer would win with the ace, ruff one more spade in his hand to establish a "thirteener" and cross to dummy by ruffing the club, discarding the losing diamond on the four of spades.

If West refused to overruff, declarer would simply ruff the losing club, establish the fifth spade, and retain the ace of diamonds for entry to the dummy.

Observe that if declarer takes either the first round of diamonds or clubs he cannot win the hand, for he will be unable to maintain contact with the dummy.

Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: Is "Believe you me" bad English?—L. T. P.

ANSWER: It isn't bad English, but it's bad rhetoric, bad conversational strategy.

The Psalmist admits that he was a little hasty when he said in his heart that all men are liars; but even if he had stopped and thought it over he would, I think, have made only a few exceptions. Men have lied so long and so persistently that scarcely any assertion beyond the order of the alphabet or the facts of the multiplication tables can hope to be received without a measure of incredulity.

As a result, all languages are full of protestations of veracity and, of course, the more the protestation the more the suspicion. Among such expressions in our language is "Believe me." But no one believes someone else merely because he demands to be believed and the phrase soon grew weak. Then somebody tried to give it more force by inserting "you" and inverting the word order.

But it doesn't work. The excess of protestation stimulates an excess of doubt. And the contrived and artificial word order leads one to suspect that the statement it prefaces will be equally contrived.

Reviews, Previews of Tonight's TV

7 p.m.

2 — EVERYDAY SPANISH — Some age-old proverbs in Spanish.

4 — SILENT SERVICE — USS Nautilus rescues 14 nuns from Bougainville in the Solomon Islands.

7 — WOODY WOODPECKER — Woody and the wolf go on a South Sea pleasure cruise and are shipwrecked.

10 — A MILLION — Money threatens to be an insurmountable barrier to an otherwise happy marriage.

7:30

2 — POSTAL PARADE — "Stamp Saving."

4 — I LOVE LUCY — film.

7 — DANGER — Story of Harold Krier, a pilot who performs the impossible in the air at high altitudes or a few feet above the ground.

10 — CHEYENNE — A Congressional Medal of Honor involves Bronco Layne in murder and blackmail when a man fights his brother for a girl and faces a malicious killer.

8

2 — INSIDE AMERICA — Program explains the need for the worker, the stockholder and management to work together to increase production.

4 — FLIGHT — An officer tries to convince the Air Corps in 1942 to arm CAP planes on watch for enemy subs with bombs.

7 — GEORGE GOBEL — After working as an actor last night, Carl Reiner comes back as a live comedian tonight, working with Gobel in one of the last remaining cases of imaginative comedy on TV. Anita Bryant, a delicious and reasonably talented singer and Nat King Cole complete an interesting lineup . . . color.

2 — CRIMINAL MAN — Concept of punishment and how it has partially evolved into rehabilitation with emphasis upon the criminal rather than the crime.

4 — TO TELL THE TRUTH — film.

10 — WYATT EARP — Cathy Prentice (Ann Daniels) runs away from her shiftless, domineering family and Marshal Earp thinks only by marriage can he prevent her return.

9

2 — LAW AND GOVERNMENT — E. A. Faircloth, assistant to Treasurer Edwin Larson, discusses the powers, duties and responsibilities of the treasurer's office.

4 — ARTHUR GODFREY — film

7 — GEORGE BURNS — George looks for ways to keep Ronnie from getting too lonely in his new bachelor apartment. Jill Corey guests.

10 — RIFLEMAN — When Julia Andueza (Katy Jurado) opens a boarding house in North Fork, Lucas recognizes her as a faro dealer from Bismarck and tries to force her to leave town — until he learns she has really turned to a legitimate life.

9:30

2 — RELIGIONS OF MAN — "Judaism II: The Law."

4 — HAMLET — The Show of the Month has the play of all time as its vehicle of the night. The Old Vic Company the excellent British group, does the play which will not be explained here. John Neville plays the wonderfully complex prince in a solid production that suffers mostly from the fact that they're doing a 3½-hour play in 78 minutes and that's not cutting away mere fat; some bone was removed, too. Neville isn't the best Hamlet you'll ever see, but he at least makes the great words meaningful.

Best Bet

7 — BOB CUMMINGS — Bob takes six-year-old Tammy Johnson to the zoo and discovers that the boy knows more about animals than he does.

10 — NAKED CITY — When New York City plans a ticker tape parade for an Olympic hero and his wife, a man telephones police and announces his intention to plant a bomb during the parade.

7 — CALIFORNIANS — A man has been condemned to death and is about to be hanged, when he suddenly kills his jailer and escapes. However, freedom is only a lesser goal for Savage, in whose deranged mind revenge against Matt and Jeremy Pitt, who prosecuted him, is far more tempting than mere escape.

10 — ALUMINUM PRESENTS — Carl Archer gets an unexplained warning that his wife and son are in danger when a young mother returns from the grave to fight for her small son's life.

2 — TACTIC — Noted theatrical personalities will dramatize problems of cancer control as well as discuss prevalent views and opinions.

7 — MIKE HAMMER — When a doomed convict confesses to a crime, Mike explores the possibility that an innocent man has been executed.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Winslow Boy," (1950), Robert Donat, Sir Cedric Hardwicke. A private citizen sues the British admiralty for defaming his son's name.

11:20

7 — JACK PAAR — Peggy Cass returns to the panel, Jean Kerr is featured and Jack interviews opera singer Helen Traubel.

11:25

4 — MOVIE — "Hell's Kitchen," (1939), Ronald Reagan, Dead End Kids, Margaret Lindsay. An ex-gangster goes straight and tries to run a shelter for boys.

Now Liz Is Oscar Nominee; Ingrid's Nowhere in Sight

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)— Elizabeth Taylor, star of a headlined romance with Eddie Fisher, was nominated Monday for an academy award for her role as the love-starved Maggie in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

LIZ

Her competition in the 31st annua Oscar Race: Susan Hayward, "I Want To Live;" Deborah Kerr, "Separate Tables"; Shirley MacLaine, "Some Came Running," and Rosalind Russell, "Auntie Mame."

Conspicuously absent was Ingrid Bergman, who was expected to be nominated for her role in "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

Spencer Tracy was nominated for a possible third Oscar—a record for a star—for his role as the grizzled Cuban fisherman in "The Old Man and the Sea."

Also nominated for the starring actor: Tony Curtis, "The Defiant Ones"; Paul Newman, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"; David Niven, "Separate Tables," and Sidney Poitier, "The Defiant Ones."

The Motion Picutre Academy's voters nominated these as the best motion pictures of 1958: "Auntie Mame," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "The Defiant Ones," "Gigi" and "Separate Tables."

For best performance by a supporting actress: Peggy Cass, "Auntie Mame"; Wendy Hiller, "Separate Tables"; Martha Hyer, "Some Came Running"; Maureen Stapleton, "Lonelyhearts"; Cara Williams, "The Defiant Ones."

For the best performance by a supporting actor: Theodore Bikel, "The Eefiant Ones"; Lee J. Cobb, "The Brothers Karamazov"; Burl Ives, "The Big Country"; Arthur Kennedy, "Some Came Running," and Gig Young, "Teacher's Pet."

For best direction: Richard Brooks, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"; Stanley Kramer, "The Defiant Ones"; Vicente Minelli, "Gigi"; Robert Wise, "I Want to Live," and Mark Robson, "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

Best song: "Almost in Your Arms," from "Houseboat"; "To Love and be Loved," From "Some Came Running"; "A Very Precious Love," from "Marjorie Morningstar," and the Title Tunes from "A Certain Smile" and "Gigi."

Hollywood's biggest prize will be handed out to the winners at a telecast program April 6 in the Pantages Theater.

X-Ray Reaction 'Gratifying'

Dulles Quit? Ike Says Demands Made by Headline-Happy Critics

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

HUMPHREY

SYMINGTON

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Johnson Called Tyrant

Sen. Proxmire Wants 'Voice'

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.,-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three Republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

AFL-CIO Brass Push Action for 35 Hour Week

Jobless Millions Cited for Demand

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders asked Congress Monday to legislate a sharp cut in the American work week immediately. They said this is necessary to provide jobs for millions idled by increasingly efficient machines.

The federation's executive council called for a reduction of the present 40-hour-week, eight-hour day limit in the Fair Labor Standards Act to 35 hours with a seven-hour day.

Beyond that, overtime pay rates would apply.

The council urged Congress to make the 35-hour week effective for employes of the federal government.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said organized labor will push hard for such legislation and redouble efforts to accomplish the same result through collective bargaining contracts.

Meany said the U.S. is clearly able to produce more now with fewer workers and that either the work week must be shortened pr a substantial proportion of the American working force taken out and shot.

Meany said some unions already enjoying a work week of less than 40 hours will strive to get below the 35-hour goal.

The council statement said that in the 21 years since Congress set the 40-hour week "America has made tremendous technological progress which justified and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The growing efficiency of the American economy, the council said, is demonstrated by the fact more than one million fewer factory workers are employed now than in 1942, yet the output has been multiplied.

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said many members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

Meany said the immediate drive to get Congress to reduce the work week is part of a triple play effort to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Other federation goals, he said, are to raise the present $1 hourly wage minimum to $1.25 and to broaden the law's scope to cover eight million to 10 million of perhaps 20 million workers now exempt.

At present the law covers about 24 million workers.

A new batch of AFL-CIO economic statements blasted policies of President Eisenhower's administration. These said the nation's basic economic problems are to provide more jobs and promote economic growth.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

'Butch' Airs Views in Venezuela

Ham, Senior Grade, Talks About Lincoln

OMAHA — (AP) — A fellow known in amateur radio circles as "Butch" told Monday of one of the most unusual experiences in his 23 years as a ham — an unscheduled Venezuelan television network broadcast on Abraham Lincoln.

On his basement set the other night, Butch's "Hello CQ" — the traditional invitation to talk — brough a response from a member of the Radjo Club of Venezeual at Caracas.

The club, an American organization, was trying to contact an American ham to tell the people of Venezuela about Lincoln on a national TV program. Would he do the job? But was asked.

He did.

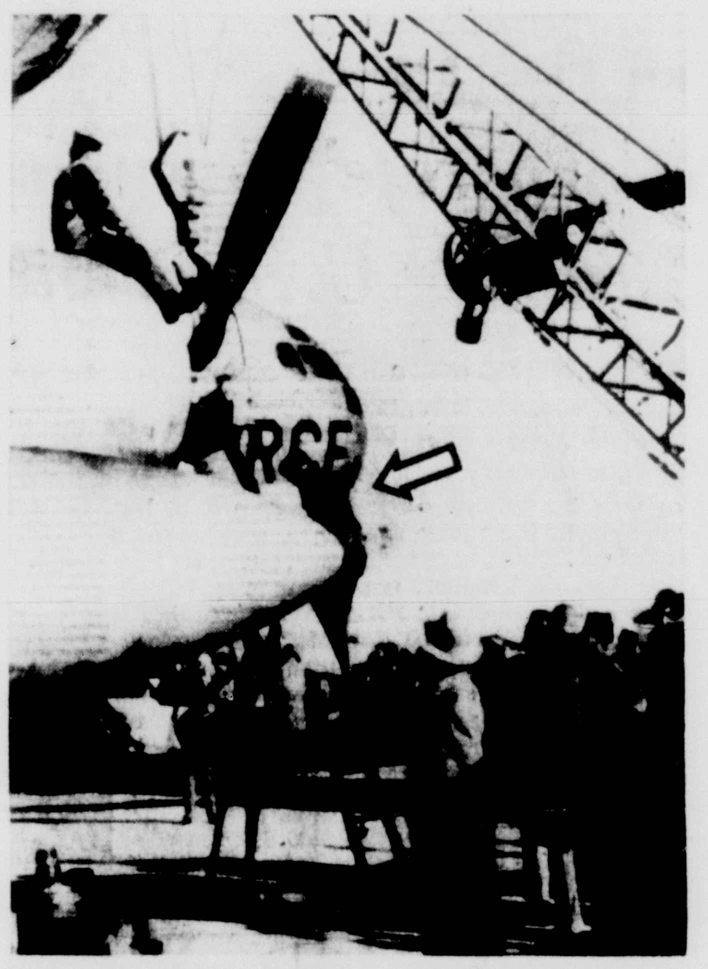
"I told them I was in Omaha, Neb., and that the capital of Nebraska is Lincoln, named for Abraham Lincoln. Then I went on to talk for abouve five minutes about Abe Lincoln," Butch recalled.

His voice, patchel into the TV network, was heard throughout Venezuela.

The Venezuelans learned something of Lincoln, but nothing of Butch, though they undoubtedly would have been inteestred.

He's Lt. Gen. Faneris H. Griswold, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command.

Cable Snaps, Prop Falls on Airman



Airman Kenneth L. Boehnen of San Francisco was severely injured in Alexandria, Minn., Monday when a propeller on which he was working knocked him from a ladder and fell on top of him. Boehnen, arrow, is shown working on propeller hub in picture above. Just afterward, the crane cable which held the propeller snapped. Below, others rushed to Boehnen's assistance as he lies beneath one propeller blade after the accident. He suffered a fractured leg, head and arm lacerations and severe bruises.

Jaycee Fluoridation Proposal Is Opposed

More State News 1C, 8A, 2B, 3B

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — A controversy is looming over the recent Fort Pierce Junior Chamber of Commerce proposal to fluroidat the city water supply.

The Jaycees say it may reduce tooth decay in children by two-thirds. They listed fluoridation as the No. 1 item on the list of objectives for 1959.

On Sunday a group, headed by Sam Lawder, radio station manager and L. W. Halbe, real estate broker, announced their opposition to the proposal. Lawder is a former president of the PTA.

Speaking for the newly formed "Fort Pierce Committee on Fluoridation Facts" Lawder said: "I do not believe sufficient positive proof has been given that artificial fluoridation is safe. Some doctors claim fluorine is not entirely soluble int he body and can cause bones to become brittle."

Referring to the proposal as "mass medicine" Lawder said he thought a clinic, such as used to give polio vaccine shots, would be the "proper way" to provide such treatment.

Dr. William Dannahower, a dentist and Jaycee president said Monday: "Citizens oft his community will have to decide who can interpret scientific material dealing with health of the community — who have made their position clear in this matter—or laymen."

Also on Monday Don Fuller, who heads the Jaycee committee in charge of carrying out the program said: "Fluoridation is backed by the American Dental Association, American Medical Association, U. S. Public Health Service, and the Tri-County Medical Society, (St. Lucie, Okeechobee and Martin Counties) whose membership is composed of all local medical doctors."

Lawder said Monday night he had received many new offers of anti-fluoridation support, but could ot reveal them at this time.

Dr. Dannahower stated: "Miami, Belle Glade, Ocala, Gainesville and Orlando are only afew of the Florida cities to accept fluoridation of their water supply.

"In my opinion this gives our citizens a chance to institute th most important measure ever available for dental health."

Khrushchev, left, and Macmillan Face Each Other Across Table at Kremlin Talks
. . . behind Khrushchev: Mikoyan, Gromyko, Malik; behind Macmillan: Lloyd

Red Chief Foresees 'Results'

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night suddenly canceled a hunting trip planned by the Russians for today and arranged instead to have further private talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the countryside.

The visiting British leader's change in plans was made known after a lavish dinner in the British embassy, where Khrushchev hailed him as a man of peace.

Guests at the dinner quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"We (the Russians) think that the conversations between us will bring results."

This was Red Army Day and Macmillan, according to Radio Moscow, opened his speech with a tribute to the Soviet part in winning World War II.

"When I ponder the present state of the world, I ask myself whether we have not today a common interest of at least equal degree. This common interest is peace . . ."

The Soviet premier, in an expansive mood, said he regretted that "it has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and Russia in the post-war period.

"We all live on the same planet, and enjoy the same sun and air. Let us find wisdom to bring peace."

A British spokesman told reporters the talks substituting for the hunting trip will take place at a villa about a half hour's car ride from Moscow. The villa has been placed at Macmillan's disposal during his visit.

The embassy dinner followed up the first formal business meeting of Macmillan and Khrushchev at the Kremlin Monday morning.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-agression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

However, no one would rule out the possibility of a non-aggression document. Macmillan himself referred to the possibility of such before he began his Moscow mission Saturday.

Britain and Russia had a non-aggression pact until 1955 when the Soviets abrogated it.

Details of the meeting at the long, rectangular table in the cabinet room were secret. Macmillan, in his foot-tall white fur hat that won the hearts of the Russian people, and wearing a borrowed fur overcoat against the 18-degree Moscow temperature, arrived at the Kremlin to the applause of a crowd.

After the Kremlin meeting, Macmillan had lunch at the British Embassy and then toured Moscow's skyscraper university where he got a riotous welcome.

Third Top Batista Aide Is Doomed

HAVANA — (AP) — The last of three former army officers labeled by the Castro government as Cuba's top war criminals was condemned to death Monday after a seven-hour trial.

Defense attorneys for Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao said an appeal is being made on grounds of temporary insantiy.

Executions of nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday boosted the unofficial total to 325.

Grao was found guilty of assassination, homicide and robbery while fighting Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente Province.

The 45-year-old career soldier had first been led in for trial on Jan. 22 in the circus-like atmosphere of the Havana Sports Palace along with ex- of whom were executed.

Only Sosa Blanco stood trial before the thousands of spectators in the Sports Palace, and he later got a new trial in more decorous circumstances.

Among those executied Monday were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three others.

They were convicted of torturing and hanging four of Castro's student sympathizers only four days before Fulgencio Batista fled the country Jan. 1.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cubana airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fidel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

CAIRO — (AP) — World Bank President Eugene Black arrived Monday to resume mediation in the British-Egyptian financial dispute dating from the Suez invasion.

Firm Price Supports

'Corporate' Farmers Reaping U.S. Profits

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.), told the Senate Monday that two large farm operators collected more than 2½ million dollars in government farm price supports in 1957.

"The high rigid support program is little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming," Williams said, "and actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers."

The senator said the two largest government supports were $1,460,902 to the Producer's Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark., on rice and $1,157,502 to the Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., on cotton.

Williams said these two payments in one year were larger than those received by all farmers in his home state of Delaware for two years — 1956-57.

Porter Says:

Batista Has Half-Billion Loot in U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Fulgencio Batista has about a half a billion dollars stashed away in the U.S. which belongs to Cubans, Rep. Charles Porter (D., Ore.), said Monday.

"This is an informed guess based on information from persons I've talked to here and other places," said Porter, who is here on official business.

He said he has asked the Justice Department and the Treasury in Washington to find out what assets Batista holds in the U.S. and what can be done to get it back. Initiative for recovery would have to come from the Cuban government, he explained, adding that the Cubans could count on plenty of cooperation in the U.S.

Batista has been living in the Dominican Republic since he fled Jan. 1.

Hoffa Aims Blast at Union Bills

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa charged Monday at Miami Beach that labor legislation now before Congress "is the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Hoffa also announced that the union's organizing efforts in Florida — the future strategy — will be unveiled today.

Hoffa made his observations during a news conference at the Eden Roc Hotel following a meeting of the Teamsters board of directors.

The results of the union's initial organizing in Florida will be described by Murray (Dusty) Miller, southern chairman for the union, and Joe Morgan, international organizer, who is spearheading the Teamsters' bid for a foothold in this state.

Hoffa said his board is prepared to appeal to the Federal Appellate Court if court-appointed monitors attempt to take over the operation of the union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington ordered the monitors to step in as a result of a questioned election last year in which Hoffa was named union president.

The Teamsters have asked for a stay order.

"We were not elected to sell out the union and we do not intend to do so," Hoffa said sharply.

As for his differences with the new labor proposals in Congress — there are four major bills — Hoffa said none of them spell out anything which is not already covered in existing labor law.

"If there is going to be any legislation, it should be specific, not general," he declared.

He called it a mistake to write laws "which would leave to the imagination of administrators the intent of the Congress."

Passage of any of the labor bills in Congress, "because of their loose wording . . . could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years," he said.

Liquor Hours Up To Metro

Judge Defines County Powers

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has absolute power over cities in the setting of liquor sale hours, issuing auto inspection stickers and controlling many other muncipal activities, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Among the other functions which the new countywide government can take from the cities without a vote of the people, the judge ruled, are:

WASTE and sewage collection and disposal.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING building and related codes.

ISSUING certificates of competency for building contractors and tradesmen.

Pearsons' ruling came on a suit filed by the City of Miami Beach, one of the chief centers of opposition to Metro.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We will have a totally different type of government from what we have today," predicted Spaet, "if this decision is upheld."

The suit, said Spaet, presents all Metro issues "squarely for the first time."

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

He delayed making it until the Supreme Court took its final action on a decision upholding the countywide traffic code. A request for a rehearing on the suit brought by the Village of Miami Shores was denied last week.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

Two Youths Beat Guard, Escape

Two Negro juveniles at Dade Youth Hall knocked out a guard, pushed through a second-story window screen and leaped barefoot from a balcony early Monday morning.

One of the escapees, Leroy Tucker, 14, was returned several hours later by his father. The other, Joseph L. Walker, 15, was still at large.

The injured guard, John Nickerson, was treated at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Seven stitches were required to close a head wound.

Giblin, His Wife File Two Suits

Circuit Judge and Mrs. Vincent C. Giblin filed two personal damage suits "in excess of $5,000" each against the City of Coral Gables and policeman Seymour Anderson Monday — as a result of their traffic arrest Jan. 23 en route to court.

The suit charges that they were maliciously and unlawfully taken to the Coral Gables jail and confined and imprisoned.

The suit charges that the city employed Anderson knowing that he was incompetent and unfit.

Dade motorists with 1958 license plates have until Friday to display their new tags before getting a ticket.

I. D. Smith, manager of Dade's main auto tag agency, said 30,000 drivers applied for their new plates on deadline, Feb. 20, but will not receive them before the end of the week.

But about 15,000 motorists haven't even applied for a 1959 tag, he said.

"They'll hear about it by Friday," he said.

Zoo Still Has Faith in Cecelia

Officials at Crandon Park Zoo insisted Monday that they have not lost faith in Cecelia, even though it is now a month since she was supposed to have a baby.

She hasn't had anything during that month except a terrific appetite.

The date on which the zoo's lady camel was due to become a mother for the second time was Jan. 25.

Robert Mattlin, zoo director, declared that despite Cecelia's disappointing lack of performance, that he and the other zoo worker, as well as the zoo veterinarian, are sticking by their original diagnosis of her condition.

"She'll have that baby any day now," Mattlin said, trying to sound confident. "She shows it more every day. She is the most pregnant camel in history. All we can do is wait."

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets and Police Battle With Fists

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

Key West Loses Round on Repeal Petition

Signature Rejection Is Denied

Kehoe Decrees Hearing of Suit

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The city suffered a setback Monday in its plan to get a proposed improvement program underway when Circuit Judge John J. Kehoe denied a summary judgment in the lawsuit contesting the city's rejection of a petition to repeal a new utility tax.

After hearing 90 minutes of argument from both sides, Judge Kehoe named several points on which he rejected the city's motion for summary judgment.

Specifically, the judge questioned the number of signatures on the petition termed invalid and the criteria of rejection as reported to the city commission in a letter from City Clerk Victor Lowe.

He noted that the sum total of signatures thrown out amounted to 6,637—almost double the total 3,669 names listed on the petition. This was a point also argued by Attorney John J. Quinn for the petitioners.

Judge Kehoe also referred to differences in handwriting between signatures and other information attributed to the signers.

"Even handwriting experts will disagree on a matter of this nature," the judge said.

The letter from Lowe showed 2,551 names rejected because the precinct and signature were not by the same persons, and 1,732 because writing of the signature and date did not match.

Kehoe's denial of the city's request for a summary judgment in effect recognizes the petitioners' grounds for filing the suit in the first place. The judge granted the city 20 days in which to file an answer to the original complaint of the petitioners.

Earlier in the hearing, City Attorney Hilary Albury attempted to show that further litigation on the petition lawsuit would only serve to delay the city in advancing its proposed improvement program.

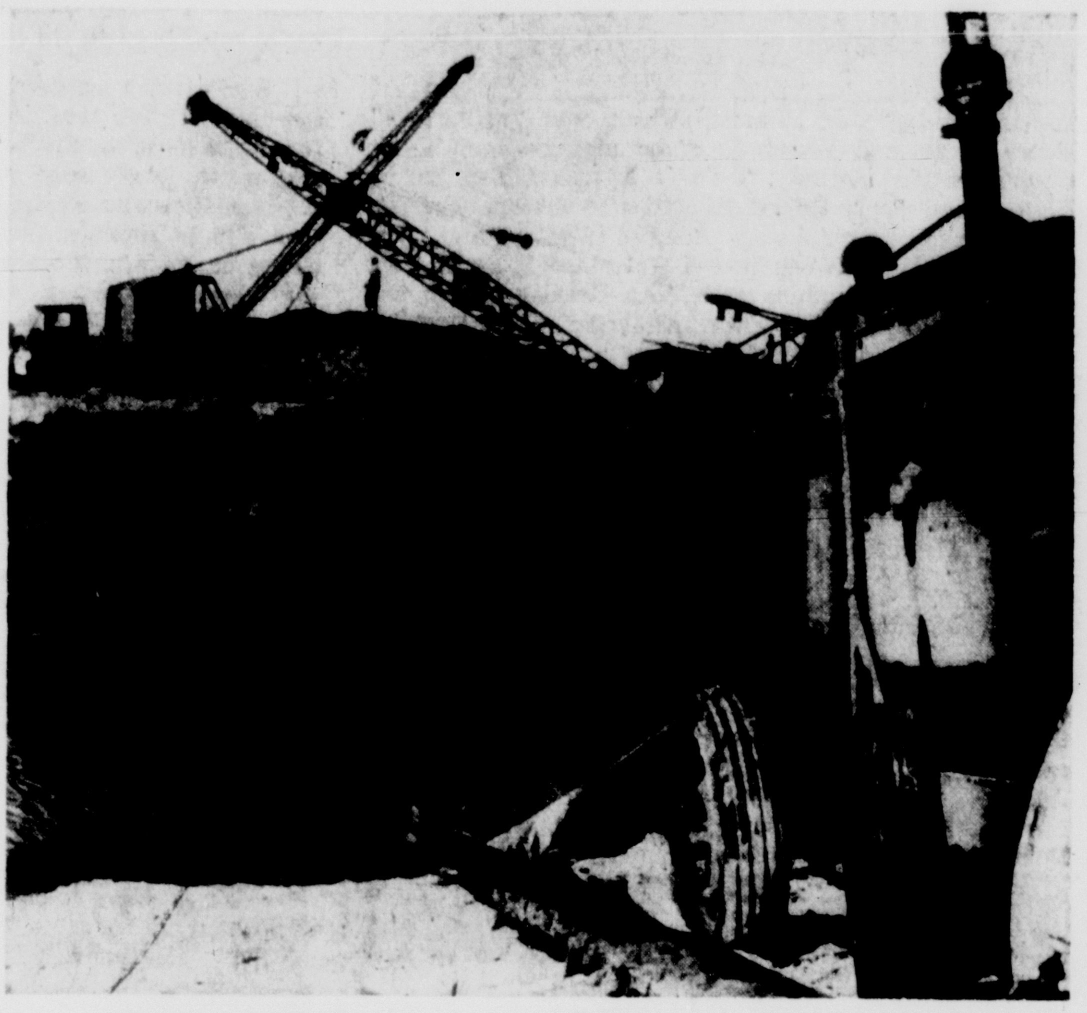
"It is patently unfair to ask the city to undergo a long delay to show in court what will prove to be immaterial," Albury said.

He argued that in preparing a petition its sponsors and signers had to be guided by the language contained in the city charter pertinent to such matters.

The petition, with 3,669 names, was filed with the city clerk Dec. 16. It asked the city commission to repeal the 10 per cent utility tax levied in November. A crew of checkers under Lowe's supervision examined the document, rejecting 3,202 signatures on various legal points interpreted from the city charter by Albury.

John Quinn, representing the petitioners, contended that Lowe did not personally conduct the tabulation of the petitions and therefore could not be accepted to pass judgment on the validiy of the document's signatures.

He argued that to judge the petition's validity, the court had to determine the number of registered voters, the reasons why the signatures were thrown out and the meaning of the language in the pertinent passages of the city charter.



Jinx Job?

It looks like "hard luck deluxe" for this E&I Construction Co. dragline working on the Naples public beach lake. A smaller dragline assists and a bulldozer prepares to tug from the other side of the hill to keep the heavy machine from toppling into its own diggings. It was saved when the driver, who leaped and ran when soft berm gave way, returned to "throw" the dragline's bucket across the slope to hold the monster in place. Other problems occurred when the Naples Council halted operations while debating whether the job should have been let on bids in the first place. More headaches are to come: Adjoining property owner Carl O. Hoffman has warned the city he'll sue if the lake allows storm waters to cut through from the Gulf of Mexico and damage his lands. No wonder "draggy" tried to end it all with one big splash.

Shikar Line Forms to Right

Care to Hunt Tiger? Got $7,000 Handy?

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Take tigers by day, maharajahs by moonlight, a swift journey from the jungle to the capital of Europe and you have the ingredients for an "Arabian Nights" trip being planned here.

It is the "shikar" in India, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Wid Watson.

A shikar is a tiger hunt, but any resemblance between this trip and an uncomfortable sojourn in a steamy jungle is lacking.

This hunt will find the hunters personal guests of the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. They will stay at his palace when not tracking tigers aboard one of the Maharajah's personal elephants and shooting rifles from his armory.

The Watsons are vacationing here, preparatory to leaving New York on March 15 for San Francisco and points Far East.

They already have eight people ready to go with them. There is room for eight more, at $7,000 per person.

Among the eight going are Lady Susan Wilkins, widow of noted Explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkins; Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton; Bruce Kessler, a race driving friend of Reventlow's; and Countess Navarro of Caracas.

There's more than tigers ahead of them. During the hunt, each will have two personal servants to look after his wants. One hundred fifty beaters will drive the tigers toward them.

A way from the palace, they'll live in tents the size of a hotel dining room, where French cuisine will be provided.

But the hunt is only part of the month-long excursion. Also on the itinerary are visits to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Delhi, Calcutta, Cario, Rome, London and Ireland.

Parties are planned all along the route. The hosts include two more maharajahs, and promised guests are such as Alec Guiness, Dirk Bogarde, Anna Magnani.

Watson, who's 23, arranged the whole thing. The Indian rulers and other notables are friends of his. He met some through the Duke of Edinburgh, another friend.

Six-foot-four Watson is an unusual young man. Son of the discoverer of the Belola Gold Mines in New Guinea, he has lived all over the world and is at home speaking five languages. He attended 12 schools before leaving "through the back door" at 15, never to return.

His first business venture was a 35-foot sloop he chartered from Barbados. Now he has meat-packing interests in Australia and lumber interests in Vancouver, B.C.

10 Patriots in Keys Remember Holiday

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS — Searching for American Flags on an important patriotic holiday is like looking for the proverbial needle in a haystack.

A Sunday cruise of 40 miles along the Overseas Highway, to count the number of business and provate homes that were showing their colors, showed a grand total of 10 flags from Jewfish Creek to the end of Lower Matecumbe Key.

Key Largo took first prize with four flags displayed. One was at the Key Largo post office, another at Colonial Motel.

Capt. D. D. Lett, retired master marine and lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy, had raised an especially large and beautiful standard over his home. The fourth was at the home of a retired Army major who shows his colors every day.

McKees Sunken Treasure Museum on Plantation Key flew a large American flag from the observation tower. Fortunately it flew above the entire key because it was the only one on that island.

On Windley Key the Theater of the Seas was the only place that displayed the flag.

More State News, See P 8A, 2B, 3B

Two motels on Upper Matecumbe, La Jolla and South Winds, had their flags flying. The third one on this key was at the Islamorada monument, resting place of the Upper Keys unknown soldier who sleeps with others who lost their lives in the hurricane of Sept. 2, 1935.

For a time it appeared that Lower Matecumbe Key would have no visible flags but Casa Esperanzuhome of Frank H. Lindley, had the lone flag on this long expanse.

Because it was Sunday it was understandable that the post offices in Tavernier and Islamorada did not have their flags displayed as they do on other days. Coral Shores School displays both U. S. and Florida State flags on weekdays only.

Several residents wondered why the Elks Club in Tavernier and the American Legion Home in Islamorada had not recognized Washington's Birthday by hoisting their colors.

The large silvered flagpole, surrounded by flowers, in front of the new sheriffs sub-station on Plantation Key, was completely barren of any standard too.

One old timer grimly remarked, "Perhaps we aren't being humorous when we say that Monroe County never joined the Union. But, there might be a glimmer of hope that we'll be included some day . . . we did have 10 residents who flew the flag along with the rest of the U. S."

Naples 'In Dark' On Water Plant

Validation Of Sewer Bonds Due

Herald Bureau

EVERGLADES — The City of Naples will hold a validation hearing in Circuit Court here today at 3 p.m. (Tuesday) on a $550,000 sewer refunding certificate issue. No opposition has been reported to the validation.

The issue is a stopgap measure in the construction of a sewer system which will ultimately cost 1.2 million dollars according to first estimates by engineers.

Of the new issue, $200,000 will refund a sewer revenue issue; $140,000 will repay money the city borrowed from itself, and an estimated $180,000 will go to new construction. The difference is expected to be used for engineering and bond sale fees.

The first unit of new construction may cost $100,000 more than the money realized from the refunding according to engineers' preliminary estimates. The difference will be made up by front footage assessments along the route and $59,000 expected in unpledged cigaret tax rebates anticipated this year. Future cigaret tax funds go to the new issue.

The sewer construction planned from the new issue includes lines on both sides of Fifth Ave. from Sixth to 11th Sts. and a force main down Eighth St. to Broad Ave.

The latter main will pick up the proposed Gallahue shopping center and may also be linked to the Third St. shopping area which includes the old Naples Hotel.

The new line will not service the second highest revenue area, the motel and apartments along Third St.

Street assessments may run $4 a front foot but the city is considering lowering its $235 charge for inspection and connection to the lines.

Rollins Trustee, Professor, Dies

HARTFORD —(AP)— Dr. Roger Shaw, 55, a political scientist and writer, died Sunday.

Shaw was professor international relations at Trinity College and was a trustee of Rollins College at Winter Park. He was foreign editor and news commentator for several magazines and radio stations.

REVVING UP for a "pinewood derby race" planned by Naples Cub Scout Pack 33 are Floyd Carrington, 9, and Derald Lyon, 8, as Cubmaster Jim Nelson prepares to start the contest. The derby is for cars the cubs carve from pine blocks, with their parents' aid, and race down a wooden hill. Pack 33 winner Carrington, and Runnerup Lyon ,will join other cubs of packs in the annual Scout father and son banquet for all Naples Mar. 30 at Lake Park School.

$8,000 in Jewels Taken from Hotel

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Theft of about $8,000 in jewels from an unlocked hotel room was reported to police Sunday night. The jewels, and about $135 in cash, came from the room of Mr. and Mrs. William M. van Buren of Rutherford, N.J.

The Van Burens were said by Police Chief S. B. Caruthers to have left their room at the Naples Hotel open from about 2 to 4:30 p.m. while they were a the hotel pool. Mrs. Van Buren then returned to the room while her husband went to the beach.

The loss was not confirmed until Van Buren came back and Chief Caruthers and Capt. Orran P. Coates were called. They asked in the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the assumption that the stolen gems will be taken out of the state.

Much, if not all, of the loss was insured.

The chief said a suspect picked up at the hotel had been released after questioning. Other leads are being checked but no definite clues were reported.

The robbery brought to $69,285 the losses in jewels in five robberies here in a little more than two years. All of the jewelry cases are unsolved so far.

Last December Naples police cooperated with the FBI in obtaining the arrest in Fort Lauderdale of Ted J. Rinehart, convicted jewel thief suspected in a November jewel robbery here. Rinehart was later released for lack of evidence. He was then on parole after he had convinced Acting Gov. Charley Johns he was rehabilitated.

Rinehart was suspected of taking $14,000 in jewels from the Cutlass Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wood. Previous Naples jewel thefts included $14,855 taken from Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill at the Naples Hotel in February, 1957; $22,600 from Mrs. Arthur T. McIntosh, Gordon Drive, $3,850 from W. C. Evans, Beachcomber Apartments, and $5,950 from N. Osborne Siegfried, Sixth Ave., South, all in February, 1958.

Audubon Leads Trip

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Fourteen seniors from the Gilbert School, Winstead, Conn., will visit the Florida Keys Thursday on a field trip as part of their biology class work, the Audubon Society has announced.

The seven boys and seven girls will spend Tuesday night in Everglades National Park, returning to Homestead Wednesday night, and then go to Tavernier.

The group, to be escorted by Audubon leaders at different points on their tour, are supposed to get a close look at natural history and foster a respect for natural resources. Rules say "No smoking, no purchasing of fireworks, no throwing stones at alligators or birds and no littering the highway."

The visitors are also "not to go barefoot except on the beach."

7 Out of 8 Females Will Change Colors

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — "Do it by the numbers," they say in the army. Whit Orcutt, Naples painting contractor, disagrees.

Monday morning early he started, cleaned up office details and stepped out for a cup of coffee. His foreman sought him with bad news.

On a large painting contract for which special colors had been ordered for eight apartments, six women came in, the foreman said, and changed the colors on seven of the apartments. Five of the units were already completely painted.

"This week is starting off all wrong," said Orcutt, sadly, going back to work.

Keys Gripe On Facility A Mystery

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — If the City of Naples is first in line for a federal seawater conversion pilot plant, as Key West officials say, members of the local government know nothing about it.

Manager Fred M. Lowdermilk and Bill Savidge, water plant superintendent, both denied on Monday any knowledge the city will get such a plant.

Lowdermilk noted however that he had filled out an inquiry blank sent him several months ago concerning such a project "but I haven't heard a word since."

The blank was sent by George D. Hack of the Industrial Service Division, Florida Industrial Commission. When a letter to him brought no answer, Mrs. Helen Yeager, Lowdermilk's secretary, sent another and got a return receipt—but no reply.

Lowdermilk, in the absence of further information, could only surmise that Naples blank has earned the city a top priority it doesn't know about.

Similar speedy action by Lowdermilk three years ago to seek federal aid to sewers brought the city the first grant made in Florida — $77,850 towards planning costs. The city today will seek validation of a $550,000 sewer refunding issue to cover some added construction.

Naples' water plight is not as desperate as Key West whose supply is piped in 130 miles along the Keys by the U.S. Navy. The southern city also has been reduced 400,000 gallons a day in its supplies due to work on new pumping station expected to be finished April 1 and a temporary four-hour daily power shutdown along the supply route.

Water supplies at Naples are obtained from wells in and outside the city and are believed adequate for at least five more years to furnish needs of the two main plants. Present daily pumping capacity is three million gallons but additions begun yesterday at Plant No. 2 will raise the daily capacity to four million gallons.

New Pastor Honored

KEY WEST — The Rev. John Walter Houck, who has accepted a pastorate here, Monday made his farewell to the Pilgrim Congregational Church of New York.

He received a gift from the Bronx County Council of Jewish War Veterans during Sunday's farewell service, to mark his work in "furthering the cause of Americanism in New York City."

Dr. Houck has been active in interfaith work in New York and last month received a brotherhood award from the Labor Temple Fellowship. He held the pulpit of the Bronx church 34 years.

At It Again

The winning habit of H. H. (Bookie) McCurry in those Naples Swampbuggy races starts with getting out in front and improving one's position, as he showed Sunday while winning his third straight contest. His champion buggy "Short Cut" was an Army munitions carrier salvaged from a junkyard. Mrs. Lena Bembry of Naples won the Powderpuff division.

'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

Prio Home Up for Rent

THE VENDOME HOTEL penthouse where ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras spent his exile was listed for rent in a recent issue of the Wall St. Journal . . . Combination of overwork and a virus bug canceled Donald O'Connor out of his Las Vegas date. Suffering possibly as much as Donald are Ben Novack for whom he has a Fontainebleau date on March 17, and Bill Miller who was hoping he'd show a profit for the Riviera there shortly after.

Wometco is serving up two versions of "My Uncle," the French comedy click starring Jacques Tati, this week. The Mayfair will have a print with French dialogue and printed English subtitles. The Sunset will show the film with English dialogue dubbed over the French sound track. You takes your pick.

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

Jacques Tati . . . 'Uncle'

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Ruth Foreman, director of the Dramatic Academy, was on the jury at two show business tests over the weekend: at Miami Beach High School for its "Frolics" on Friday, and at Booker T. Washington High for "Jabberwock" Monday night. She's taking over operation of Studio M.

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.

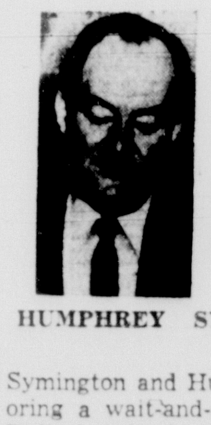
X-Ray Reaction 'Gratifying'

Dulles Quit? Ike Says Demands Made by Headline-Happy Critics

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.



HUMPHREY

SYMINGTON

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Johnson Called Tyrant

Sen. Proxmire Wants 'Voice'

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three Republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

AFL-CIO Brass Push Action for 35 Hour Week

Cable Snaps, Prop Falls on Airman

Airman Kenneth L. Boehnen of San Francisco was severely injured in Alexandria, Mimn., Monday when a propeller on which he was working knocked him from a ladder and fell on top of him. Boehnen, arrow, is shown working on propeller hub in picture above. Just afterward, the crane cable which held the propeller snapped. Below, others rushed to Boehnen's assistance as he lies beneath one propeller blade after the accident. He suffered a fractured leg, head and arm lacerations and severe bruises.

Jobless Millions Cited for Demand

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders asked Congress Monday to legislate a sharp cut in the American work week immediately. They said this is necessary to provide jobs for millions idled by increasingly efficient machines.

The federation's executive council called for a reduction of the present 40-hour-week, eight-hour day limit in the Fair Labor Standards Act to 35 hours with a seven-hour day.

Beyond that, overtime pay rates would apply.

The council urged Congress to make the 35-hour week effective for employes of the federal government.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said organized labor will push hard for such legislation and redouble efforts to accomplish the same result through collective bargaining contracts.

Meany said the U.S. is clearly able to produce more now with fewer workers and that either the work week must be shortened or a substantial proportion of the American working force taken out and shot.

Meany said some unions already enjoying a work week of less than 40 hours will strive to get below the 35-hour goal.

The council statement said that in the 21 years since Congress set the 40-hour week "America has made tremendous technological progress which justifies and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The growing efficiency of the American economy, the council said, is demonstrated by the fact more than one million fewer factory workers are employed now than in 1942, yet the output has been multiplied.

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said many members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

Meany said the immediate drive to get Congress to reduce the work week is part of a triple play effort to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Other federation goals, he said, are to raise the present $1 hourly wage minimum to $1.25 and to broaden the law's scope to cover eight million to 10 million of perhaps 20 million workers now exempt.

At present the law covers about 24 million workers.

A new batch of AFL-CIO economic statements blasted policies of President Eisenhower's administration. These said the nation's basic economic problems are to provide more jobs and promote economic growth.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

Rich Bolita Suspect Traced to Hollywood

More Broward News, Page 1C, 8A

By BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writer

A free-spending millionaire—sought as the No. 1 man in a Michigan bolita scandal involving police bribery — was traced to the Hollywood home of a Miami strip dancer Monday.

But Russell Raymond Trilck stayed one jump ahead of the lawman sent to track him down.

Trilck has extensive land holdings in Broward, and connections who might hide him out, a Detroit assistant prosecutor said.

Trilck fled the Detroit area to avoid charges that he was No. 1 bolita operator and had bribed a half dozen officers including a police commissioner, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Albert A. Goldfarb said in Fort Lauderdale.

"He had a multi-million-dollar operation," Goldfarb said.

Trilck spent the last few days at the home of Leocadia Nelvit, who dances at the Suburban Club in Miami, Goldfarb said. She lives at 6961 NW 22nd Ct., Hollywood, in a home equipped with a swimming pool, he said.

Goldfarb quoted her as saying:

"I knew him in the old days when I was dancing at Micky's Show Bar in Detroit. He had always been good to the girls and spent a lot of money on them."

Goldfarb said Trilck's bags were found at the home of another Fort Lauderdale friend, Leslie O'Brien, of 1956 SW 50th Ave.

In Trilck's bags were Broward Kennel Club tickets which showed he had bet $600 in one night, Goldfarb said.

Fort Lauderdale police also picked up Trilck's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dennis, and held them for investigation of harboring a fugitive, the prosecutor said. He did not give their address.

Goldfrab has a fugitive warrant charging Trilck with four counts of conspiracy and bribing public servants.

"The former chief of police of River Rouge, Mich., and the former safety or police commissioner of Wayne have been accussed of accepting his bribes," Goldfarb said.

He said that in 1947 the Kefauver Committee produced evidence showing that Trilck's earnings from bolita alone wepe $612,000.

'Butch' Airs Views in Venezuela

Ham, Senior Grade, Talks About Lincoln

OMAHA — (AP) — A fellow known in amateur radio circles as "Butch" told Monday of one of the most unusual experiences in his 23 years as a ham — an unscheduled Venezuelan television network broadcast on Abraham Lincoln.

On his basement set the other night, Butch's "Hello CQ" — the traditional invitation to talk—brought a response from a member of the Radio Club of Venezuela at Caracas.

The club, an American organization, was trying to contact an American ham to tell the people of Venezuela about Lincoln on a national TV program. Would he do the job? Butch was asked.

He did.

"I told them I was in Omaha, Neb., and that the capital of Nebraska is Lincoln, named for Abraham Lincoln. Then I went on to talk for about five minutes about Abe Lincoln," Butch recalled.

His voice, patched into the TV network, was heard throughout Venezuela.

The Venezuelans learned something of Lincoln, but nothing of Butch, though they undoubtedly would have been interested.

Mac Cancels Hunt, Plans Talks With Nikita Instead

Red Chief Foresees 'Results'

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night suddenly canceled a hunting trip planned by the Russians for today and arranged instead to have further private talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the countryside.

The visiting British leader's change in plans was made known after a lavish dinner in the British embassy, where Khrushchev hailed him as a man of peace.

Guests at the dinner quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"We (the Russians) think that the conversations between us will bring results."

This was Red Army Day and Macmillan, according to Radio Moscow, opened his speech with a tribute to the Soviet part in winning World War II.

"When I ponder the present state of the world, I ask myself whether we have not today a common interest of at least equal degree. This common interest is peace . . ."

The Soviet premier, in an expansive mood, said he regretted that "it has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and Russia in the post-war period.

"We all live on the same planet, and enjoy the same sun and air. Let us find wisdom to bring peace."

A British spokesman told reporters the talks substituting for the hunting trip will take place at a villa about a half hour's car ride from Moscow. The villa has been placed at Macmillan's disposal during his visit.

The embassy dinner followed up the first formal business meeting of Macmillan and Khrushchev at the Kremlin Monday morning.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-agression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

However, no one would rule out the possibility of a non-aggression document. Macmillan himself referred to the possibility of such before he began his Moscow mission Saturday.

Britain and Russia had a non-aggression pact until 1955 when the Soviets abrogated it.

Details of the meeting at the long, rectangular table in the cabinet room were secret. Macmillan, in his foot-tall white fur hat that won the hearts of the Russian people, and wearing a borrowed fur overcoat against the 18-degree Moscow temperature, arrived at the Kremlin to the applause of a crowd.

After the Kremlin meeting, Macmillan had lunch at the British embassy and then toured Moscow's skyscraper university where he got a riotous welcome.

Third Top Batista Aide Is Doomed

HAVANA — (AP) — The last of three former army officers labeled by the Castro government as Cuba's top war criminals was condemned to death Monday after a seven-hour trial.

Defense attorneys for Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao said an appeal is being made on grounds of temporary insanity.

Executions of nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday boosted the unofficial total to 325.

Grao was found guilty of assassination, homicide and robbery while fighting Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente Province.

The 45-year-old career soldier had first been led in for trial on Jan. 22 in the circus-like atmosphere of the Havana Sports Palace along with ex- of whom were executed.

Only Sosa Blanco stood trial before the thousands of spectators in the Sports Palace, and he later got a new trial in more decorous circumstances.

Among those executied Monday were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three others.

They were convicted of torturing and hanging four of Castro's student sympathizers only four days before Fulgencio Batista fled the country Jan. 1.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cubana airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fidel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

CAIRO — (AP) — World Bank President Eugene Black arrived Monday to resume mediation in the British-Egyptian financial dispute dating from the Suez invasion.

Firm Price Supports

'Corporate' Farmers Reaping U.S. Profits

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.), told the Senate Monday that two large farm operators collected more than 2½ million dollars in government farm price supports in 1957.

"The high rigid support program is little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming," Williams said, "and actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers."

The senator said the two largest government supports were $1,460,902 to the Producer's Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark., on rice and $1,157,502 to the Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., on cotton.

Williams said these two payments in one year were larger than those received by all farmers in his home state of Delaware for two years — 1956-57.

Porter Says:

Batista Has Half-Billion Loot in U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Fulgencio Batista has about a half a billion dollars stashed away in the U.S. which belongs to Cubans, Rep. Charles Porter (D., Ore.), said Monday.

"This is an informed guess based on information from persons I've talked to here and other places," said Porter, who is here on official business.

He said he has asked the Justice Department and the Treasury in Washington to find out what assets Batista holds in the U.S. and what can be done to get it back. Initiative for recovery would have to come from the Cuban government, he explained, adding that the Cubans could count on plenty of cooperation in the U.S.

Batista has been living in the Dominican Republic since he fled Jan. 1.

Hoffa Aims Blast at Union Bills

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa charged Monday at Miami Beach that labor legislation now before Congress "is the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Hoffa also announced that the union's organizing efforts in Florida — the future strategy — will be unveiled today.

Hoffa made his observations during a news conference at the Eden Roc Hotel following a meeting of the Teamsters board of directors.

The results of the union's initial organizing in Florida will be described by Murray (Dusty) Miller, southern chairman for the union, and Joe Morgan, international organizer, who is spearheading the Teamsters' bid for a foothold in this state.

Hoffa said his board is prepared to appeal to the Federal Appellate Court if court-appointed monitors attempt to take over the operation of the union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington ordered the monitors to step in as a result of a questioned election last year in which Hoffa was named union president.

The Teamsters have asked for a stay order.

"We were not elected to sell out the union and we do not intend to do so," Hoffa said sharply.

As for his differences with the new labor proposals in Congress — there are four major bills — Hoffa said none of them spell out anything which is not already covered in existing labor law.

"If there is going to be any legislation, it should be specific, not general," he declared.

He called it a mistake to write laws "which would leave to the imagination of administrators the intent of the Congress."

Passage of any of the labor bills in Congress, "because of their loose wording . . . could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years," he said.

Liquor Hours Up To Metro

Judge Defines County Powers

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has absolute power over cities in the setting of liquor sale hours, issuing auto inspection stickers and controlling many other muncipal activities, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Among the other functions which the new countywide government can take from the cities without a vote of the people, the judge ruled, are:

WASTE and sewage collection and disposal.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING building and related codes.

ISSUING certificates of competency for building contractors and tradesmen.

Pearsons' ruling came on a suit filed by the City of Miami Beach, one of the chief centers of opposition to Metro.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We will have a totally different type of government from what we have today," predicted Spaet, "if this decision is upheld."

The suit, said Spaet, presents all Metro issues "squarely for the first time."

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

He delayed making it until the Supreme Court took its final action on a decision upholding the countywide traffic code. A request for a rehearing on the suit brought by the Village of Miami Shores was denied last week.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

Zoo Still Has Faith in Cecelia

Officials at Crandon Park Zoo insisted Monday that they have not lost faith in Cecelia, even though it is now a month since she was supposed to have a baby.

She hasn't had anything during that month except a terrific appetite.

The date on which the zoo's lady camel was due to become a mother for the second time was Jan. 25.

Robert Mattlin, zoo director, declared that despite Cecelia's disappointing lack of performance, that he and the other zoo worker, as well as the zoo veterinarian, are sticking by their original diagnosis of her condition.

"She'll have that baby any day now," Mattlin said, trying to sound confident. "She shows it more every day. She is the most pregnant camel in history. All we can do is wait."

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets and Police Battle With Fists

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

Care to Hunt Tiger? Got $7,000 Handy?

—Herald Photo by Gene Hyde

Want To Go On A Shikar?
. . . the Watsons are planning one

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Take tigers by day, maharajahs by moonlight, a swift journey from the jungle to the capital of Europe and you have the ingredients for an "Arabian Nights" trip being planned here.

It is the "shikar" in India, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Wid Watson.

A shikar is a tiger hunt, but any resemblance between this trip and an uncomfortable sojourn in a steamy jungle is lacking.

This hunt will find the hunters personal guests of the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. They will stay at his palace when not tracking tigers aboard one of the Maharajah's personal elephants and shooting rifles from his armory.

The Watsons are vacationing here, preparatory to leaving New York on March 15 for San Francisco and points Far East.

They already have eight people ready to go with them. There is room for eight more, at $7,000 per person.

Among the eight going are Lady Susan Wilkins, widow of noted Explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkins; Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton; Bruce Kessler, a race driving friend of Reventlow's; and Countess Navarro of Caracas.

There's more than tigers ahead of them. During the hunt, each will have two personal servants to look after his wants. One hundred fifty beaters will drive the tigers toward them.

But the hunt is only part of the month-long excursion. Also on the itinerary are visits to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Delhi, Calcutta, Cario, Rome, London and Ireland.

Parties are planned all along the route. The hosts include two more maharajahs, and promised guests are such as Alec Guiness, Dirk Bogarde, Anna Magnani.

Watson, who's 23, arranged the whole thing. The Indian rulers and other notables are friends of his. He met some through the Duke of Edinburgh, another friend.

Six-foot-four Watson is an unusual young man. Son of the discoverer of the Belola Gold Mines in New Guinea, he has lived all over the world and is at home speaking five languages. He attended 12 schools before leaving "through the back door" at 15, never to return.

His proposal to his petite blonde wife, Claudia, a former actress, was an invitation to the tiger hunt. They were married a year ago after meeting in Spain. A European honeymoon wound up at a villa on the Riviera. Watson's family owns it, along with a chalet in Oberammergau, Germany.

Their Irish castle now is owned by Anita Leslie, author and niece of Winston Churchill.

The tiger-shooting party will visit it, too, and take part in a hunt there.

Magic Lure Of B-Joints

ANY LOCAL RESIDENT who gets suckered in one of those girlie show joints doesn't deserve much sympathy, a reader observes, because he should know better. There ought to be, however, some way to warn the unknowing tourists about them.

Right at this moment, no foolproof warning system comes to mind. Perhaps hotel operators could post a list of the worst spots in each room with the notation, "stay away from these places," or something like that.

Humans being as they are, the joints could afford to have the lists printed themselves and distributed to all hotels and apartments. Their business would skyrocket . . .

Public Left Holding the Bag

A FEW DAYS AGO a Hollywood real estate broker suggested that the way for a home owner to protect himself against unjust mechanic's liens is to put a mortgage on his property with a relative or friend, for more than the property is worth. Then if a lien is placed, the mortgage can be foreclosed, the broker said, and the lien be wiped out.

One reaction to this was a note from a title company executive who said, among other things, "some of your title problem solutions keep me awake nights."

Legally, he contended, the idea won't work, but he added:

"Practically, as a scare tactic against some small builder or supplier who can't afford a good lawyer, it might. But a mortgage that has not been funded (no cash actually leaving the hands of the mortgagee) is not prime against mechanic's liens . . ."

Another reaction was a call from a Hollywood investor who explained that he has had considerable experience in mortgages and said: "(1) There's a certain expense attached to placing mortgages — about $50 or more for $15,000, for example; (2) Such a procedure doesn't make a property lien-proof; the man who puts the lien on may not collect any money, but his action can cloud the title for a year.

Meantime, it appears now that there will be no proposal from the state building industry for a change in the lien law in the forthcoming session of the Legislature. A joint committee of architects, builders, suppliers and others which has been at work on a revision for about nine months has nearly despaired of having a new version ready by April.

So here again we run into the condition which prevails all too frequently: No one is really going to bat for the ordinary property owner who suffers from the lien law. Nearly all segments of business and the professions have their associations, their committees, their lobbyists at work for them, but there's never enough time to do a job for the simply, unorganized citizen . . .

Picture Postcards Tell Story

THE NUMBER OF PICTURE POSTCARDS mailed out of Fort Lauderdale tells us something about the condition of the tourist season. Last year, for example, the peak was about 28,500 a day, reached in March. Right now the figure is fluttering around 28,000 some days.

In 1957 it hit a high of more than 34,000, but it fluctuated wildly, sometimes going as low as 13,000, for no apparent reason.

Postmaster Dale Dunifon finds that the volume is more stable this year than in 1957. For the last 10 days or so it has remained comparatively steady at 23,000 to 28,000. He analyzes this as an indication that people are staying longer, and personal observation tells him the same thing. The reason: Consistent good weather here and consistent bad weather up north . . .

Big Fair Opens at Hallendale

Herald Bureau

HALLANDALE — Bands, babies and beauties took over this city Monday as its first six-day Industrial and Agricultural Fair opened with a parade down Federal Hwy.

The Chamber of Commerce event will feature everything from vegetables to missiles.

City officials opened the fairgrounds across from Gulfstream racetrack at 4 p.m. with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

The parade boomed down Federal with four bands setting the pace. Then came the official cars, loaded with beauty contest hopefuls and infants entered in the baby contests.

The bathing suit part of the beauty pageant began at 8 p.m.

Talent section of the fair and derby queen competition starts at 8 p.m. today. Coronation of the queen will be Thursday.

Judging of field crops, household arts, home gardening, horticulture, arts and crafts, baking and home demonstration, and 4-H Club projects begin at 8 a.m. today.

A pet show starts at 10 a.m. and a series of children's contests start at 1 p.m.

Cunningham Refuses to Testify

Witness Against Gunn Takes Fifth 11 Times

Politics Crackle In Background as Gunn Trial Opens

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE—Personalities and politics put a sharp edge on the proceedings in Criminal Court Monday as James Gunn went on trial.

Gunn, a familiar courthouse figure, claims the sheriff's office is out to frame him.

This is officially pooh-poohed, but it adds a tang to the atmosphere missing from routine cases.

Nine deputies are due to parade to the stand today to testify for the state.

Claude Anderson, Gunn's employer, has been sniping at Sheriff J. A. Lloyd on and off for two years. A possible candidate for the job in 1960, he watched the trial closely Monday.

Then there's the touchy situation between County Solicitor Tom Coker and Defense Attorney Ray Sandstrom.

They worked together as assistants under former Solicitor Emerson Allsworth. Coker succeeded Allsworth. Sandstrom quit the office.

Coker has been stung by Sandstrom's criticism since.

Both are up for the Gunn verdict — a big feather for someone's cap.

Assisant Solicitor Wallace Allbritton is prosecuting, but Coker is actively sitting in — taking notes, double checking, holding whispered consultations.

The pugnacious Sandstorm had a field day in court — bristling with objections, motions, emphatic gestures.

But Allbritton solidly gave as good as he got in return. Judge Louis Weissing once told both attorneys: "Stop arguing. Make your objections — then be quiet."

Gunn appeared confident and hardboiled in his role as defendant. He was a teenage Marine Corps sergeant. He was wounded in Korea.

Among the spectators was Donald Baines, another well-known client of Sandstrom's. He is due for trial next Monday and March 9 on similar but unconnected charges.

But 2nd Convict 'Unloads'

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Burglary Convict Darwin Cunningham invoked the fifth amendment 11 times Monday after the state produced him as a witness at the trial of James Gunn, 28-year-old bondsman.

Cunningham is waiting to appeal a five-year term for breaking into John Pulda's home at 1285 SW 41st Ave. Gunn is charged with receiving some of the property stolen.

Cunningham, 30, said he might tend to incriminate himself if he answered questions about the Nov. 21 crime.

Judge Louis Weissing told Prosecutor Wallace Allbritton that the witness was within his rights.

But William Jordan, a three-time loser at the age of 22, spilled the beans freely when he followed Cunningham to the stand.

Facing a possible life term for other crimes, Jordan admitted going with Cunningham on the Pulda job.

He fingered Gunn as the receiver of the best items taken.

This happened, Jordan said, in the presence of himself, his wife and Cunningham in Bondsman Claude Anderson's office. Anderson was not present. Gunn was employed by Anderson.

Defense Attorney Ray Sandstrom tore mercilessly into Jordan's character, caliber and credibility.

Repeatedly, Sandstrom asked Jordan what lenience he was promised by the state in exchange for testifying against Gunn. Jordan denied getting any.

Jordan said he wrote a check to Gunn to bond himself out of jail after arrest for robbery Nov. 16.

Sandstrom asked if the check bounced. Jordan said to his knowledge it hadn't.

"Why did you get back in jail?" Sandstrom pressed.

"I refused to go to Georgia to rob a bank, and Gunn put me back," Jordan replied.

Mrs. Ruth Jordan is due to appear when the trial resumes at 9 a.m. today. She is awaiting sentence as an accessory to her husband's robbery.

Mrs. Jordan and another woman pleaded guilty to enticing men to a rockpit where their husbands jumped the victims.

Gunn is charged on two counts — of receiving jewelry and a watch. The charge specifies a Benrus timepiece.

Pulda told the court the stolen watch was a Bulova, then later said he wasn't sure. His wife said it was a Benrus.

Sandstrom moved twice for a mistrial, but was denied by Weissing. Frequent legal sparring bouts kept the jury hopping in and out of the courtroom.

It was 12:50 p.m. before the panel was sworn in. Sandstrom interrogated each member closely.

A Sizable Little Air Force

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Cuban Strongman Fidel Castro may be chuckling under his beard over a "gift" unwittingly given him by his bitter foe, Fulgencio Batista.

Last August, Batista bought his Air Force 10 used American airplanes. But delivery was to be late pending repairs.

So late, in fact, that although Batista bought them, Castro will probably get them.

The 10 T-28 Navy trainers were bought at Phoenix, Ariz., and sent to Aircraft Instrument Service here for repairs. Space was leased for them at Broward International Airport.

"But when things got hot down there, the U.S. government held up shipment," said Frank Hill, co-owner of Aircraft Instrument.

"Now that the situation has cleared up, it looks like Castro will get the planes," said Hill.

Hill said representatives of Castro's new government came here Friday to make arrangements for shipping the planes to Cuba.

"The men we talked to on the phone about the deal were the same ones we talked to during Batista's time."

Hill said the planes vary in value from $2,000 to $6,500, depending upon their condition. They are of the type used by the Navy for pre-jet training, he said.

No Contest At Hillsboro

HILLSBORO BEACH — Three commissioners up for reelection March 3 will be unopposed.

Town Clerk Ethel Grant said only Mayor A. D. Henderson, Vice Mayor Allen K. Reid and Commissioner Anne H. Cannon have qualified as candidates. Friday was the deadline.

Voter registration books closed, too, with a total of 81 voters — an increase of five over last year's election total.

Postcards Warn of Poisonings

HOLLYWOOD — A dog was apparently poisoned Sunday in the Lawnacres section by a sadist who had warned the pet's owner earlier by postcard, detectives said Monday.

Three other dog-owners have received similar postcard warnings.

Detectives admitted they were baffled by the strange case.

All four cards were mailed Feb. 11.

Printed in red ink on each was this message:

"Please keep your dog in your yard or it will be poisoned."

This was added to one card:

"Also someone at your house has a big mouth. Can hear voice a block away."

The cards were received by Hugh L. Lafferty, 5827 Monroe St.; Gus Norbut, 5710 Jefferson St.; Joseph Hadad, 5718 Jefferson, and William Copeland, 5713 Jefferson.

Detectives Louis Ottuso and Earl Mitchell said a neighbor saw Mrs. Hadad's dog eating a piece of lunch meat Sunday. She could only recover part of the meat and the string that bound it in a roll.

Posthumous Award Given By Realtors

FORT LAUDERDALE—The Fort Lauderdale Board of Realtors' first "Realtor of the Year" award was presented posthumously to Henry R. Taylor Monday night.

Taylor was president of the board in 1950 and 1956 and served the group as an officer and director in other years. He died late last year.

The honoree's widow, Ann, accepted the award — a 30-inch loving cup surmounted by a figure expressing achievement—at the board's monthly meeting at the Governors' Club Hotel.

She was informed that the perpetual trophy will be known as the Henry R. Taylor Memorial Award.

'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.

'Neutral' German Belt No Advantage to U.S.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

PARIS — Creation of a "neutral" zone in Central Europe or the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time would be senseless, dangerous and perhaps even disastrous in the opinion of military commanders at Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe.

STONEMAN

In view of the eagerness with which many American and British politicians have played with the notion of withdrawing both Allied and Communist forces from a "demilitarized" belt in Europe, the arguments against such a step which are advanced by seasoned professionals appear to merit attention.

* * *

THEY CAN BE summed up as follows:

1. THE ESTABLISHMENT of a strong American ground force in postwar Europe came in 1951 as a direct answer to a real threat of Soviet aggression.

Until then we had had one infantry division and a strong mobile force known as the constabularly in Germany.

We built that force up to five divisions plus a stronger mobile force consisting of three armored cavalry regiments to replace the constabulary.

At the same time Gen. Eisenhower was sent to Europe to command allied forces and organize them under SHAPE (Supreme Allied Headquarters.)

That increase in force and a similar increase in British strength on the continent restored the shattered nerves of Western Europeans and dispelled tension.

* * *

2. THESE FORCES, which the Russians now want us to dissipate, did not create any tension in Europe. They reduced tension.

"So," say these officers, "if you think you can reduce tension by reducing our forces you are starting at the hind side of the animal."

If you want to reduce tension you must start on the political side, not the military side.

* * *

3. THERE IS A SERIOUS practical reason for not withdrawing American and British forces from Western Germany. Due to German financial support we were able to finance the buildings and other installations needed for the maintenance of a sizable force in Germany.

It is highly doubtful if we could find space for more than a very small complement of men anywhere else in Europe.

So it is virtually certain that if we remove our forces from Western Germany the mass of them will have to go home.

There are also political reasons why this is so. It is unthinkable that a country like France would find it possible to play host to eight or 10 divisions of non-French troops in peacetime.

When you advocate the removal of our troops from Germany what you are really proposing is to remove the tangible evidence of our determination to defend Western Europe.

* * *

4. THE "SCREEN FORCE" which we now maintain in Western Germany is not intended to sway the balance in a global war. Its purpose is to deter any local attack or operation such as the Communists might be tempted to try if there were no shield along the Iron Curtain.

The major deterrent to global war has been and remains our retaliatory power . . . the hydrogen bomb and so forth.

The major deterrent to a small attack of the kind that has become increasingly likely is the screen force.

We must be able to halt an attack with adequate forces the minute enemy forces cross the Curtain. That will compel the enemy to bring up additional forces, a step which it would hesitate to take.

People must try to remember that we are not preparing to fight a war. We know that a war would ruin the world. What we are doing is to arrange such a pattern of defense that the enemy will not make a mistake which could provoke a major conflict.

* * *

5. THE RUSSIAN and Polish proposals for the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Eastern Germany are deadly dangerous for a reason few people seem to recognize.

The withdrawal of Soviet forces would allow the East Germans to throw out the Communists whenever they felt like it. That would almost certainly mean Soviet intervention of the Hungarian variety.

That would invite possible intervention by the West Germans and that would probably mean war.

* * *

6. WE ARE ALL LOOKING for a realistic way of reducing tension. One possible way would be to work out an agreement for the control and inspection of forces on both sides of the curtain. That would reduce the danger of a surprise attack.

The reduction of tension which resulted might create an atmosphere in which we could consider the reduction or readjustment of forces.

The trouble is that any such control agreement would be hard to apply unless we recognized the East German regime. That is impossible because it would outrage the West Germans and probably mean the loss of our rights in Berlin.

So it seems almost inevitable that the creation of an inspection zone would be tied to a solution of the German unification problem. And the Russians are dead set against such a solution.

* * *

7. FROM WHATEVER ANGLE you examine this situation it seems a mistake to consider the withdrawal of American forces from Western Germany at the present time.

Those who complain because "we aren't ready to make any concessions to the other side" might stop to consider that the Iron Curtain today is the most stable frontier that the modern world has known.

We should think a long time before tinkering with a situation which doesn't seem to disturb anybody but the Red army and Mr. Khrushchev.

But Time Is Vital Factor

'Wait-and-See' Policy Best For Dulles, Moderates Feel

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — When White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty was asked Monday about Senators Stuart Symington and Hubert Humphrey calling for the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he replied: "It is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the papers."

These are the extremes of the controversy over the consequences of Dulles' illness. Most impartial observers here do not think it is necessary to reach any decision now, nor do they think it is right to dismiss serious doubts about the situation as mere "publicity seeking."

RESTON

The reasons behind this moderate wait-and-see position are:

1. It has been two weeks since Dulles asked for a leave of absence, and only 10 days since it was discovered he was suffering from a recurrence of intestinal cancer. There is nothing unusual in his being away from his post two or three weeks. This has happened many times during his six years in office, and while absence from Washington is not the same as absence for reasons of health, the State Department is accustomed to carrying on without him longer than a fortnight.

2. It is too early to know what the effects of the radiation treatment will be. He had his third treatmnt Monday, and the doctors are at least satisfied that these have not upset him.

3. Dulles himself has said publicly that he will let it be known "at any time I don't feel able to carry on." There is no reason to question his good faith on this point. Nobody knows better than he the dangers of a part-time Secretary of State at a critical time like this, and those who know him best, including the members of his own family, who want him to stay on, are convinced that he will resign immediately if he does not feel able to carry the full responsibilities of his job.

This is the argument which has persuaded such men as Senators J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Mike Mansfield of Montana and John Sparkman of Alabama — all members of the Foreign Relations Committee and all periodic critics of the secretary — that there is no reason to make a decision before the radiation therapy has been given a fair chance.

On the other hand it is not prudent, in this moderate view, not to give serious thought to alternate plans for conducting the nation's foreign policy, lest the hopeful assumptions of the White House prove to be false.

While there is no likelihood that any major decisions will have to be taken on the Berlin crisis before Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returns from Moscow, it is not accurate to say that everything is being carried on normally at the State Department.

For example, in his last public statement on Berlin the day he returned from Europe, Dulles said the three Western nations he visited (Britain, France and West Germany) had "reconfirmed the unity and firmness of our position."

"We are not resolved," he added in a formal statement, "that our position in, and access to, West Berlin shall be preserved. We are in general agreement as to the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights in this respect."

Because of Dulles' illness, however, not even the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate knows what these "procedures we shall follow" actually are.

Dulles has not been able to tell them. Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter has not told them, and neither has anybody else.

Involved in these procedures, however, are issues of momentous importance.

1. What is meant by the allies reconfirming "the unity and firmness of our position?" And what are "the procedures we shall follow if physical means are invoked to interfere with our rights" to pass freely from West Germany across 110 miles of Communist territory to free West Berlin?

2. Is there really "unity" among the allies on sending an armed convoy through East Germany to maintain our rights if the Communists try to block the way?

3. Who would man the convoy — U.S. soldiers or soldiers of all the Western allies?

4. If this led to fighting, would the obligations of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance be involved?

5. At what point would the issues be taken to the United Nations, and to what body of the U.N. — the Security Council or the General Assembly?

6. Is there "unity" among the allies on the forces and strategy necessary to pursue a policy of "firmness" in "preserving" "our position in, and access to, West Berlin?"

Even after Dulles made his general statement, a "working committee" of the four Western powers met to work out answers to these and many other questions, but officials here said Monday the four governments were still not committed to any specific course of action to meet any of the serious contingencies which may lie ahead.

What is at issue here is nothing less than a course of action which everybody concerned agrees could lead to war in Central Europe against conventional forces far larger than any commanded by the West.

Accordingly, while there is much sentiment for Dulles' recovery, there is also a great deal of anxiety in Washington about the formulation of policy to meet these serious developing situations.

Even with Dulles using all his authority in the National Security Council debate, it has not always been easy for him to prevail against the Pentagon on policy questions which might involve military action.

For all these reasons, time is a factor in the equation. The decision, of course, is the President's, and not Dulles', but at some point fairly soon somebody must decide what forces are to be placed in what positions to demonstrate Western "firmness," and this will certainly be one of the most important decisions of the last six years.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Strauss Criticism Censored in 1957

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If handsome, debonair Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington really wants to get the lowdown on Adm. Lewis Strauss, the Wall Street banker now up for Senate confirmation as secretary of commerce, he should call Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri as a witness.

PEARSON

STRAUSS

He should also subpoena the heavily censored report which Cannon once prepared on Strauss but which was largely killed at the insistence of Republicans.

In retrospect Cannon was well ahead of his time. His criticism of Strauss, then head of the Atomic Energy Commission, charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. Since then, sensational Russian tests show that the Congressman from Missouri was right.

Cannon, who represents Mark Twain's district in the "Show Me" state, had long adopted a "show me" attitude toward the ex-atomic chairman who now seeks to get a Senate OK as secretary of commerce.

And as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee he has the power to scrutinize much of what Strauss did.

In the Appropriations Committee report in the summer of 1957, Chairman Cannon accused Strauss of falsifying facts, bringing politics into atomic energy, and rubbing out commissioners who did not agree with him.

Immediately a storm broke inside the committee and Congressman John Taber of New York, ranking Republican, succeeded in having the criticism of Strauss largely censored from the secret report.

TABER

CANNON

However, this column has obtained a copy and senators who have to vote on whether Strauss is qualified to serve as Secretary of Commerce should read it.

"The approach to the problem which is urged by Commissioners Strauss, Libby and Vance constitutes nothing but defeat," was one critical statement stricken from the report.

* * *

THE NEXT SENTENCE was not censored: "Logically the vital question before America as a nation is, what are we accomplishing?" But the answer to this question was stricken. It read:

"The answer is inescapable that we are stagnating because of the dogmatic attitude of Chairman Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission. His (Eisenhower's) pledge to the world has been effectively thwarted by reason of a philosophy on the part of Mr. Strauss."

"Prior to the second advent of Mr. Strauss into official position as a member of the AEC," continued the censored report, "the commission remained singularly aloof from politics:

"Early in 1953, the President deemed it advisable to permit himself to be counseled by Mr. Strauss as a special adviser on atomic energy matters . . . Mr. Strauss set out to defeat the whole purpose of the Congress in entrusting this responsibility of sweeping magnitude to a five man commission. The result has been a development which is contrary to the best interests of the United States."

New Look in Lobbying --Just Use Soft Soap

By DON OBERDORFER
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congressmen have just taken an unusual peek at the newest methods of "influencing" their votes.

Oberdorfer

Since the Goldfine case, influence-minded constituents are being warned against giving congressmen anything more tangible than the time of day.

Instead, Washington "advisors" are suggesting flattery, social favors and "entertainment" as the keys to the congressman's heart.

The look at the revised lobbying methods was provided through the good offices of Rep. Lee Metcalf, a Montana Democrat.

He slipped into the Congressional Record the text of a message circulated to more than 10,000 businessmen by Babson's Washington Forecast. This is a newsletter claiming to give "inside tips."

The Forecast assured its readers that despite the recent tightening up on influence-peddling, "you can use many methods to influence (congressmen's) opinions and votes — without any danger of involvement or embarrassment."

Legal influence, a la Babson, proceeds this way:

"Find some fields of common interest — people back home, sports, hobbies, etc. Invite your congressman to lunch or dinner, or to a social affair.

"Make him feel you think he's smart and important. Ask him questions about subjects on which he's expert. Be a good, agreeable listener.

"Don't overspend on entertainment, but don't be afraid to order a sufficiency of the best. Very important: Don't give gifts of any kind.

"Develop future personal contacts — an affair back home, a speech or visit by your congressman at a trade meeting or convention, a fishing trip, golf game, visits to your home, etc. Gradually build a close personal friendship.

"After you're on a first-name basis, casually ask his advice about a personal or business problem . . . let him develop a reputation as a problem solver. Praise him for his astuteness.

"Very soon you'll find him wanting to live up to this developed reputation. At that stage, you'll be surprised at how open-minded he will become on issues on which you previously thought him bitterly opposed."

Rail Labor Heads Put Blame on Management

(One of a Series)

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO — Labor leaders accuse the nation's railroads of operating one of the most effective propaganda machines in existence.

They say the machine pumps out a mixture of distortion, exaggeration and half-truth that conceals the financial successes of railroads and gives a warped view of the industry's labor relations.

They contend that many newspapers, magazines and other news media print or broadcast only the management side of the railroad problem.

To get labor's side of the story this writer interviewed five of the country's highest ranking railroad union officials, head-quartered in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and St. Louis.

Guy L. Brown, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, spoke out on the railroads' "machine."

"If railroads spent as much time and money on furnishing and selling transportation as they spent on telling the public they're heading for the poorhouse, maybe they would increase their incomes," he said.

Brown, a railroader since he was 15, said the morale of rail workers is "lower than it has been in 50 years."

He is among labor leaders who are less than optimistic about patching up union-management relations.

* * *

THE BROTHERHOOD leaders generally condemned the bright young businessmen who represent today's new breed of railroad executives.

"They're detrimental to the industry," said George S. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association and head of the Telegrapher's Union.

"All they're looking for is the almighty dollar," he said. "They're not interested in serving the public."

Leighty said the railroads' total net income more than doubled between the late 1940s and the 50s (although it has declined since 1956).

"The railroads are actually a growing industry," added George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway & Steamship Clerks.

* * *

ROADS LIKE the Chicago & North Western will always remain "marginal," said Harrison, by virtue of the geographic and economic limitations of the regions in which they operate.

"Railroads want the public to pay rates sufficiently high to finance additions or betterments to their operations," he said.

"But does an office building owner raise his rents just so he can get enough money to put up a new building?" asked Harrison.

"No, he gets the money someplace else. He borrows it. And that's what the railroads should do."

The labor chiefs blame poor equipment, service and sales methods for much of the decline in passenger business.

* * *

FOX AND OTHER union officials feel intensive advertising campaigns, better customer relations and aggressive salesmanship can give passenger business a major boost.

Employe rudeness to customers and inadequate maintenance, they contend, can usually be traced back to workers disgruntled by overwork and a disinterested management.

Harrison said creation of super transit authorities in cities like Chicago could solve the commuter line problem.

Existing railroads would continue to supply service under contracts with the authority under such a plan. General revenue would make up any deficit.

Simple fare increases are not the answer, said Harrison.

* * *

MORE REALISTIC regulation of freight rates was urged by H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Gilbert said he also favors eliminating the 10-per cent federal tax on passenger fares, paying railroads the full cost of handing mail and similar measures.

Generally, however, labor and management find little common ground from which the joint program could be launched to help their industry.

Sewage System Vote Scheduled at Pompano

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — City commissioners were told Monday that homeowners can have a 3.7 million dollar sanitary sewer system for a two mill tax levy and a $2.50 monthly sewercharge.

Commissioners informally decided to schedule an election on the necessary $2,150,000 general obligation bond issue for mid-April.

Meanwhile, the mayor will name a citizens advisory committee to help get the facts of the program to the voters.

The sewer program, designed to serve about 75 per cent of the city, was outlined as part of an engineering report by the firm of Russell and Axon. George D. Russell of the firm discussed the program with the City Commission Monday.

The commission is expected to set the election date at their regular meeting today.

The propsoed sewage rates would rank Pompano's as the sixth lowest among 30 Florida municipalities over 10,000 population.

Under proposed rates, a single family residence with four fixtures or less would pay $2.50 monthly; all fixtures over four, an additional 25 cents per fixture.

Motels, hotels, tourist apartments and rooming houses with 50 units or less: $2.50 a month for first unit, $1.50 a month each additional unit, plus 100 per cent of water bill from Dec. 1 to May 31.

Motels, hotels, tourist apartment and rooming houses, 51 units or more, 100 per cent of water bill with a minimum of $1 per unit per month.

Commercial establishments, $2.50 per month per unit minimum, plus 50 per cent of water bill.

The cost for individual homepwners to connect their plumbing system with the city's mains at the property line, would vary, depending on location of present septic tanks, and length of the line. It has been estimated the costs will be about $2.25 per foot.

Listeners Overwhelmed

Dorati 'Dynamic' With Minneapolis

By BOB FREUND
Special To The Herald

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Minneapolis Symphony brought its world-famed brilliance of sound and spectacular interpretation to a delighted audience at the War Meed audience at the War Memorial Auditorium Monday night.

The second Community Concert Association program of the season, the huge orchestra literally overwhelmed its audience in a concert that reflected all the qualities one has experienced through its numerous recordings.

Opening with Beethoven's third-act overture to his only opera, "Fidelio," the orchestra, led by its permanent conductor, Antal Dorati, set a pace that was marked by a full panoply of dynamics and coloration: The "Lenore" Overture is an overpowering work even when skimpily performed. On this occasion, however, Mr. Dorati and his organization rose to Beethoven's own level in matters of interpretation.

The Beethoven Concerto No. 5 in E-flat major for piano and orchestra followed, and was performed with size and breadth, as the E-flat key demands. Louis Kentner, soloist, gave it the majestic dimensions it requires, and was highly sensitive as to shading and color. The piano part is ornamental, and especially striking to the ear are those lengthy passages where piano and orchestra stride in giant octaves in opposite directions.

Mr. Kentner and Mr. Dorati made a superb team, and the orchestra was particularly fine in the second movement, which opens with music of astonishing breadth and exquisite warmth.

After the intermission, the orchestra tackled Tschaikovsky and, while Mr. Dorati has not made a particular habit of recording the Russian master, he showed in this instance that his Tschaikovsky interpretations take second place to none.

Utilizing a broad orchestral palette, the Minneapolis aggregation swung into the well-known and well-beloved Fifth Symphony. Every possible nuance was drawn from this hackneyed work and eyes were opened as Mr. Dorati portrayed with equal skill the lyrical and bombastic elements of this beautiful work.

After repreated hearings of the Tschaikovsky Fifth, one grows weary of the crash-bang of cymbals, and the popular "Moon Love" theme. Not so last evening, when Eorati and his men did right by this massive piece, playing it as though for the first time, for unaccustomed ears.

The Minneapolis deploys a mammoth string section. Some of the instrument placement was strange, but Dorati got what he wanted. The sounds were glorious, the audience wildly enthusiastic.

The Community Concert Association has two remaining concerts for this season — Zinka Milanov, soprano, and Van Cliburn, filling a postponed concert date on April 1.

Moffitt Rites Are Today At Hollywood

Destiny Marked Aging Yacht for Violent Death

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

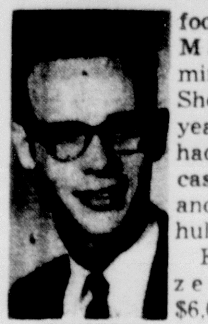
DANIA — Destiny had marked her for violetnt death.

She was no longer beautiful and perhaps like a proud woman who has lost her beauty, she was ready to die.

Her name was Harpoon.

The end began last September.

William B. Wright of Daytona Beach brought the 60-footer to Dania Marina for minor repairs. She was 25 years old. She had had only casual maintenance, but her hull was sound.



TUTTLE

Fidel Castro's zealots paid $6,000 for her, about $4,600 more than she was worth.

After repairs, she stayed at the Marina berth. Machineguns and medical supplies were loaded aboard at night and she was a little lower in the water each morning when the sun rose out of the Atlantic.

September 10 last, the 31 rebels were ready. She started up the inland waterway toward the port inlet around midnight. U.S. Border Patrolmen and customs agents met her halfway.

One rebel tried to blow up the gasoline tank with a grenade detonator, but it exploded in his hand. Another tried to machinegun a border patrolman but the magazine was in backward.

A third rebel tried to scuttle her but couldn't open the petcock. When it was all over, no one had died on her decks.

Perhaps she was waiting for nature to claim her; not a Cuban rebel who had overloaded her with arms.

Yachts are proud, like a beautiful woman.

She was towed to Port Everglades, where customs agents ripped out her plumbing and destroyed her furnishings in search of more arms. Many had been thrown overboard.

When she went up at auction, Al Ard, of 5901 SW 113th Ave., Miami, was the lone bidder. He paid $1,400, the fair market value.

She was in worse shape than before. Ard, who wanted her for Bahama fishing trips, had her repaired again.

"She was all right for normal sea conditions," Marina Dockmaster Leo Goddu said. "But I imagine she could have lost a plank in a severe storm. No amount of pumping could save her then."

On Jan. 13, Ard, his wife, Betty, and their three daughters, set out on a pleasure cruise to Haiti with one crewman, Bruce Roberts.

A fierce storm broke upon them Feb. 5 and Ard radioed an SOS signal.

He lashed his daughters inside a dinghy as sharks circle the Harpoon, waiting.

She had reached the end; she was sinking.

A Greek ship came into view just as the Ards were ready to cast off the dinghy. They were picked up.

A half-hour after the rescue, the Harpoon settled beneath the green Caribbean swells and vanished forever. She had lasted long enough to cheat the sharks.

Again no one had died on her decks.

Title Taking

The Central and South Florida Flood Control District is seeking to acquire title through condemnation to 300 acres of land for improving the Pompano-Cypress Creek Canal. Circuit Judge Richard M. Sauls will hold a hearing March 9 to consider a declaration to taking and appoint appraisers.

There Are No Bar 'Chools' In Fort Lauderdale Pubs

There are no bar "chools" in FORT LAUDERDALE, License Inspector John Kaiser said Monday.

Kaiser said none of the Fort Lauderdale establishments holding restaurant-bar licenses are in violation of an ordinance prohibiting them from supplying patrons with bar stools.

E. L. Braddy, co-owner with Wilton Manors Mayor Frank Starling of a bar there, gave the name chools to the controversial seats in the establishment. The seats have backs. They are in violation of a similar Wilton Manors ordinance, other bar owners claim.

Kaiser said only two restaurants here have taken out restaurant-bar licenses since the ordinance became effective. Both are complying with it, he said.

No 'Stripping'

The State Road Department gave a blunt refusal to FORT LAUDERDALE'S request to make the SE Ninth Ave. bridge more quiet. "Stripping the deck (of the bridge) as suggested by the city would waste $3,900 of tax money and serve absolutely no purpose as far as the noise is concerned," District Engineer Winston Carlton wrote to City Manager William J. Veeder. Carlton suggested imposing a 10 miles per hour speed limit on the bridge to lessen traffic noises.

Cove Basin Rezoning Turned Down at Deerfield

Herald Bureau

DEERFIELD BEACH — The City Commission Monday overruled a decision of the Planning and Zoning Board, and denied a request by Cove Enterprises, Inc., to rezone portions of the Cove Yacht Basin.

Myron Prosser, president of the firm, has tried nearly two years to have the zoning changed from residential to business to accommodate stores. He said he would next take his appeal to the Zoning Board of adjustment.

The commission also approved the mayor's appointment of a new Parks and Recreation Board consisting of David N. Perkins, Frances N. Watts, M. Edward Clousner, Ann M. Sharbrough and James Phipps, and agreed to meet 5 p.m. daily the rest of the week to draft city charter changes.

Hollywood's biggest prize will be handed out to the winners at a telecast program April 6 in the Pantages Theater.

X-Ray Reaction 'Gratifying'

Dulles Quit? Ike Says Demands Made by Headline-Happy Critics

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House Monday dismissed as headline-hunting the demands of some Democrats that cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "it is remarkable what people will say to get their names in the newspapers."

Hagerty said that is his own reaction to statements by Sens. Stuart Symington (D.,Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) urging President Eisenhower to appoint a successor to Dulles immediately.

Hagerty said the President is aware of these demands, and "he is also aware of the many other members of the Senate from both parties who say we should avail ourselves of Dulles' services."

Sens. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.), himself a recent cancer victim, differed with Symington and Humphrey, favoring a wait-and-see policy on Dulles' medical progress.

HUMPHREY

SYMINGTON

The President, who has said Dulles will be kept on as long as the secretary feels he can do his work, visited the ailing statesman for half an hour at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

After the President left, Dulles talked on the telephone with Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Herter had conferred with the President at the White House for an hour before Eisenhower's visit to Dulles.

Dulles continued to receive the radiation therapy started last week after the recurrence of abdominal cancer was discovered.

The mid-day medical report said there were "no signs of adverse reaction at this stage to radiation treatment," and noted that "doctors described this as very gratifying."

With the absence of adverse reaction to the treatment, the report said, there has been "a gradual increase in the time interval and area of abdominal exposure" to the radiation.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said he does not know how long doctors exposed Dulles to radiation Monday, but knew the first treatment Friday was one minute and the maximum would be five minutes.

The initial treatment covered the lower abdomen, but White said he does not know how large an area was covered by the latest treatment.

Johnson Called Tyrant

Sen. Proxmire Wants 'Voice'

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — A Democratic senator Monday accused Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) of one-man rule that has left other Senate Democrats with virtually no voice in legislative policy-making.

Sen. William Proxmire (D.-Wis.) complained that under the leadership of Johnson a "typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies" of his party.

Proxmire said Johnson's failure to consult with other Democratic senators in regular caucuses has, in effect, "disenfranchised" citizens of states other than Texas.

Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

"The majority in the Senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to Senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator, no matter how able, wise or good that senator may be."

Johnson was not present in the Senate when Proxmire launched the attack on his leadership. Acting Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Johnson was suffering a touch of influenza at his ranch in Texas. He went to Texas early last week.

An indication that Johnson or his aides knew of Proxmire's intentions was contained in the Wisconsin senator's speech. Proxmire said the situation was "dramatically" pointed up when he sought the minutes of past Democratic Senate caucuses from Johnson's office last Friday and was turned down.

Proxmire said he was told Johnson did not believe the minutes should be given out without first getting permission from other members of the majority party in a caucus.

When Proxmire began the speech, only three Democrats and three Republicans were in the chamber.

He said he had not discussed his protest in advance with Johnson or other Senate Democratic leaders because past efforts at change by this method had failed.

Proxmire's attack on Johnson brought swift rebuttal from Sen. Richard E. Neuberger (D., Ore.).

Neuberger said that before Proxmire's 1958 election the Wisconsin senator had "probably buttered up the majority leader more than any other senator in the chamber."

Challenged on his choice of words, Neuberger amended "buttered up" to say Proxmire had "lavishly praised" and "glowingly applauded" Johnson in repeated floor statements in 1958.

His speech was the first public challenge of the powerful Johnson leadership by a Democrat at this congressional session. Unlike the old-line Republican leaders who had to fight off a liberal attempt to replace them at the beginning of the session, Johnson was reappointed to lead the heavy new Democratic majority this year with no fuss.

Proxmire said the Senate Democrats have held only two caucuses in two years — one each in January of 1958 and 1959.

He said Johnson spoke at both meetings — releasing his speech in advance to the press — but no business was discussed other than the selection of party leaders.

In Deactivation Move

Palm Beach Air Base Cuts Force in Half

More Palm Beach News, Page 8A, 1C, 2B, 3B

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach Air Force Base has reduced its force 50 per cent in a gradual deactivation which will be completed in late June.

The base at its peak had 4,000 men and its deactivation is expected to have an impact on the economy of the West Palm Beach area.

The last remnants of the 1370th Photo Mapping Squadron, a complement of 1,100 men, pulled out last week. The squadron's gradual move to Turner Air Force Base at Albany, Ga., began in January. A colorful parade replete with military pomp served as an official farewell when the shift began.

Other personnel on base will be relocated in "dribbles." However, the military installation will continue its training program until the last day of operations when the remaining planes will fly off to various assigned bases.

The 1707th Air Transport Wing and a few smaller units remain to be deactivated.

All attempts by government, civic and business leaders in Palm Beach County to stave off the deactivation of the base failed.

The Chamber of Commerce spearheaded a move to delay the transfer of the photo mapping group until July of this year.

The chamber in its plea pointed out that the 1370th represented one-third of the payroll at the Air Force Base. Of the 1,100 officers and men, 755 were married and had families living in the area. More than 49 per cent owned their own homes in the metropolitan West Palm Beach area and many had lived here as long as five or six years.

The Chamber complained that the transfer of the 1370th would have an adverse impact on the area's economy, taking away $600,000 a month in payroll alone.

The chamber's appeal for a delay, however, failed and the 1370th completed its move last week.

Jobless Millions Cited for Demand

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders asked Congress Monday to legislate a sharp cut in the American work week immediately. They said this is necessary to provide jobs for millions idled by increasingly efficient machines.

The federation's executive council called for a reduction of the present 40-hour-week, eight-hour day limit in the Fair Labor Standards Act to 35 hours with a seven-hour day.

Beyond that, overtime pay rates would apply.

The council urged Congress to make the 35-hour week effective for employes of the federal government.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said organized labor will push hard for such legislation and redouble efforts to accomplish the same result through collective bargaining contracts.

Meany said the U.S. is clearly able to produce more now with fewer workers and that either the work week must be shortened or a substantial proportion of the American working force taken out and shot.

Meany said some unions already enjoying a work week of less than 40 hours will strive to get below the 35-hour goal.

The council statement said that in the 21 years since Congress set the 40-hour week "America has made tremendous technological progress which justifies and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The growing efficiency of the American economy, the council said, is demonstrated by the fact more than one million fewer factory workers are employed now than in 1942, yet the output has been multiplied.

Told that Teamster Boss James Hoffa came out Sunday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Hoffa said many members of his union are more interested in higher wages than shorter working hours.

Meany said the immediate drive to get Congress to reduce the work week is part of a triple play effort to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Other federation goals, he said, are to raise the present $1 hourly wage minimum to $1.25 and to broaden the law's scope to cover eight million to 10 million of perhaps 20 million workers now exempt.

At present the law covers about 24 million workers.

A new batch of AFL-CIO economic statements blasted policies of President Eisenhower's administration. These said the nation's basic economic problems are to provide more jobs and promote economic growth.

Michigan Disrupted By Snows

By United Press International

Up to a foot of wet, heavy snow isolated communities, closed schools and snapped power lines across the northern Midwest Monday.

The fast-moving storm swept into New York State, where it slicked roads with a treacherous coating of snow. Below the storm belt was an icy mixture of rain and sleet.

The storm hit hardest at northwest Michigan, where it snapped telephone lines and cut off communication to eight communities containing 15,000 persons. Schools closed in Wisconsin, power was disrupted in eastern Iowa, and Imperial, Neb., was buried under 10 and a half inches of snow.

Traffic slowed to a crawl and communities were practically paralyzed in the Michigan snowbelt. The moisture-laden snow cracked tree limbs, which in turn broke through lines supplying power and telephone service to thousands. At Big Rapids, Mich., the roof of a big roller skating rink caved in under the weight of a half foot of snow.

Cadillac, with 10 and a half inches of snow, was one of the largest Michigan cities affected. Schools throughout the area were closed.

Wisconsin had the deepest snows—an even foot measured at La Crosse.

South of the snow, rains spattered the southern Illinois floodwaters which have driven more than 600 persons from their homes. Four more families were evacuated from their homes in Milan, Ill., but the worst of flood waters were draining slowly back into the Wabash River.

'Butch' Airs Views in Venezuela

Ham, Senior Grade, Talks About Lincoln

OMAHA — (AP) — A fellow known in amateur radio circles as "Butch" told Monday of one of the most unusual experiences in his 23 years as a ham — an unscheduled Venezuelan television network broadcast on Abraham Lincoln.

On his basement set the other night, Butch's "Hello CQ" — the traditional invitation to talk—brought a response from a member of the Radio Club of Venezuela at Caracas.

The club, an American organization, was trying to contact an American ham to tell the people of Venezuela about Lincoln on a national TV program. Would he do the job? Butch was asked.

He did.

"I told them I was in Omaha, Neb., and that the capital of Nebraska is Lincoln, named for Abraham Lincoln. Then I went on to talk for about five minutes about Abe Lincoln," Butch recalled.

His voice, patched into the TV network, was heard throughout Venezuela.

The Venezuelans learned something of Lincoln, but nothing of Butch, though they undoubtedly would have been interested.

He's Lt. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command.

Mac Cancels Hunt, Plans Talks With Nikita Instead

Red Chief Foresees 'Results'

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night suddenly canceled a hunting trip planned by the Russians for today and arranged instead to have further private talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the countryside.

The visiting British leader's change in plans was made known after a lavish dinner in the British embassy, where Khrushchev hailed him as a man of peace.

Guests at the dinner quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"We (the Russians) think that the conversations between us will bring results."

This was Red Army Day and Macmillan, according to Radio Moscow, opened his speech with a tribute to the Soviet part in winning World War II.

"When I ponder the present state of the world, I ask myself whether we have not today a common interest of at least, equal degree. This common interest is peace . . ."

The Soviet premier, in an expansive mood, said he regretted that "it has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and Russia in the post-war period.

"We all live on the same planet, and enjoy the same sun and air. Let us find wisdom to bring peace."

A British spokesman told reporters the talks substituting for the hunting trip will take place at a villa about a half hour's car ride from Moscow. The villa has been placed at Macmillan's disposal during his visit.

The embassy dinner followed up the first formal business meeting of Macmillan and Khrushchev at the Kremlin Monday morning.

During a two-hour-25-minute meeting in the Soviet cabinet room beneath a large portrait of Stalin, the two chiefs of government agreed to turn over to a committee the job of forming a new cultural pact. The committee will set to work today in Moscow.

The London Daily Mail reported that a non-agression pact was being considered. But British circles here expressed some doubt. They pointed out Macmillan's purpose was to "exchange opinions," not negotiate treaties.

However, no one would rule out the possibility of a non-aggression document. Macmillan himself referred to the possibility of such before he began his Moscow mission Saturday.

Britain and Russia had a non-aggression pact until 1955 when the Soviets abrogated it.

Details of the meeting at the long, rectangular table in the cabinet room were secret. Macmillan, in his foot-tall white fur hat that won the hearts of the Russian people, and wearing a borrowed fur overcoat against the 18-degree Moscow temperature, arrived at the Kremlin to the applause of a crowd.

After the Kremlin meeting, Macmillan had lunch at the British embassy and then toured Moscow's skyscraper university where he got a riotous welcome.

Third Top Batista Aide Is Doomed

HAVANA — (AP) — The last of three former army officers labeled by the Castro government as Cuba's top war criminals was condemned to death Monday after a seven-hour trial.

Defense attorneys for Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao said an appeal is being made on grounds of temporary insantiy.

Executions of nine more former soldiers and policemen Monday boosted the unofficial total to 325.

Grao was found guilty of assassination, homicide and robbery while fighting Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente Province.

The 45-year-old career soldier had first been led in for trial on Jan. 22 in the circus-like atmosphere of the Havana Sports Palace along with ex- of whom were executed.

Only Sosa Blanco stood trial before the thousands of spectators in the Sports Palace, and he later got a new trial in more decorous circumstances.

Among those executied Monday were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three others.

They were convicted of torturing and hanging four of Castro's student sympathizers only four days before Fulgencio Batista fled the country Jan. 1.

The tourist business showed a decided pickup.

Hundreds of persons arrived from Miami to take advantage of a three-day package special offered by the Cubana airline and hotels.

University of Miami students here for a Cuban holiday today hit it off well with Fidel Castro's bearded soldiers. Many of the visitors had their pictures taken with the soldiers.

Talks Resume

CAIRO — (AP) — World Bank President Eugene Black arrived Monday to resume mediation in the British-Egyptian financial dispute dating from the Suez invasion.

Firm Price Supports

'Corporate' Farmers Reaping U.S. Profits

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.), told the Senate Monday that two large farm operators collected more than 2½ million dollars in government farm price supports in 1957.

"The high rigid support program is little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming," Williams said, "and actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers."

The senator said the two largest government supports were $1,460,902 to the Producer's Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark., on rice and $1,157,502 to the Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., on cotton.

Williams said these two payments in one year were larger than those received by all farmers in his home state of Delaware for two years — 1956-57.

Porter Says:

Batista Has Half-Billion Loot in U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Fulgencio Batista has about a half a billion dollars stashed away in the U.S. which belongs to Cubans, Rep. Charles Porter (D., Ore.), said Monday.

"This is an informed guess based on information from persons I've talked to here and other places," said Porter, who is here on official business.

He said he has asked the Justice Department and the Treasury in Washington to find out what assets Batista holds in the U.S. and what can be done to get it back. Initiative for recovery would have to come from the Cuban government, he explained, adding that the Cubans could count on plenty of cooperation in the U.S.

Batista has been living in the Dominican Republic since he fled Jan. 1.

Pact Ratified

LONDON—(AP)— Radio Moscow said the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) Monday ratified an agreement between the Soviet Union and Argentina arranging a 100 million dollar credit for the sale of oil equipment to Argentina. The agreement was signed in Moscow Oct. 27.

Soviet Navy Chief Brags

MOSCOW —(AP)— Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Soviet Navy, said Monday his ships are able to range over the great oceans and "deliver mighty blows to targets on other continents."

Writing in the Navy organ Soviet Fleet, Gorshkov said: "Our fleet is capable to solve any strategic tasks in its field."

Hoffa Aims Blast at Union Bills

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa charged Monday at Miami Beach that labor legislation now before Congress "is the most serious attack on labor since Taft-Hartley."

Hoffa also announced that the union's organizing efforts in Florida — the future strategy — will be unveiled today.

Hoffa made his observations during a news conference at the Eden Roc Hotel following a meeting of the Teamsters board of directors.

The results of the union's initial organizing in Florida will be described by Murray (Dusty) Miller, southern chairman for the union, and Joe Morgan, international organizer, who is spearheading the Teamsters' bid for a foothold in this state.

Hoffa said his board is prepared to appeal to the Federal Appellate Court if court-appointed monitors attempt to take over the operation of the union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington ordered the monitors to step in as a result of a questioned election last year in which Hoffa was named union president.

The Teamsters have asked for a stay order.

"We were not elected to sell out the union and we do not intend to do so," Hoffa said sharply.

As for his differences with the new labor proposals in Congress — there are four major bills — Hoffa said none of them spell out anything which is not already covered in existing labor law.

"If there is going to be any legislation, it should be specific, not general," he declared.

He called it a mistake to write laws "which would leave to the imagination of administrators the intent of the Congress."

Passage of any of the labor bills in Congress, "because of their loose wording . . . could take away all gains labor has made over a period of many years," he said.

Liquor Hours Up To Metro

Judge Defines County Powers

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Metro has absolute power over cities in the setting of liquor sale hours, issuing auto inspection stickers and controlling many other muncipal activities, Circuit Judge Ray Pearson ruled Monday.

Among the other functions which the new countywide government can take from the cities without a vote of the people, the judge ruled, are:

WASTE and sewage collection and disposal.

ESTABLISHING water supplies and setting up conservation projects.

SETTING building and related codes.

ISSUING certificates of competency for building contractors and tradesmen.

Pearsons' ruling came on a suit filed by the City of Miami Beach, one of the chief centers of opposition to Metro.

Beach Councilman Harold Spaet, one of the leaders in the anti-Metro fight, said the Council is sure to order the ruling appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We will have a totally different type of government from what we have today," predicted Spaet, "if this decision is upheld."

The suit, said Spaet, presents all Metro issues "squarely for the first time."

In previous Circuit Court decisions upheld by the Supreme Court, various individual sections of the Metro charter have been upheld. Included were the establishment of a Metro Safety Department absorbing the former Sheriff's Department, and the passage of a uniform, countywide traffic code.

But Pearson's decision, released Monday afternoon, was the first to take a wide sweep.

He delayed making it until the Supreme Court took its final action on a decision upholding the countywide traffic code. A request for a rehearing on the suit brought by the Village of Miami Shores was denied last week.

Unless the Supreme Court disagrees with Pearson, the Cities of Miami and Miami Beach will have to stop issuing their own auto inspection stickers and dispense Metro stickers instead. Up to now the two big cities have resisted the Metro law which gives the county complete control over inspections.

Up to now, Metro has passed no law setting liquor hours inside city limits, though there has been some talk about it.

The county now controls the sale hours in the unincorporated area only, leaving the cities free to set their own. The hours vary from city to city.

Nor has Metro moved yet to take over the water supply or waste collection activities of the cities. Most of the water in Dade County is supplied by the City of Miami, or by small, independent firms.

Arlene, Lamas Divorce Bound

HOLLYWOOD, Claif. — (AP) — Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas have separated, the red-haired actress said Monday.

Miss Dahl and the Argentine actor were married in 1954. They have a one-year-old son, Lorenzo.

Miss Dahl declined to disclose the cause of the couple's difficulties.

Two Youths Beat Guard, Escape

Two Negro juveniles at Dade Youth Hall knocked out a guard, pushed through a second-story window screen and leaped barefoot from a balcony early Monday morning.

One of the escapees, Leroy Tucker, 14, was returned several hours later by his father. The other, Joseph L. Walker, 15, was still at large.

The injured guard, John Nickerson, was treated at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Seven stitches were required to close a head wound.

Giblin, His Wife File Two Suits

Circuit Judge and Mrs. Vincent C. Giblin filed two personal damage suits "in excess of $5,000" each against the City of Coral Gables and policeman Seymour Anderson Monday — as a result of their traffic arrest Jan. 23 en route to court.

The suit charges that they were maliciously and unlawfully taken to the Coral Gables jail and confined and imprisoned.

The suit charges that the city employed Anderson knowing that he was incompetent and unfit.

'58 Tags Safe Until Friday

Dade motorists with 1958 license plates have until Friday to display their new tags before getting a ticket.

I. D. Smith, manager of Dade's main auto tag agency, said 30,000 drivers applied for their new plates on deadline, Feb. 20, but will not receive them before the end of the week.

But about 15,000 motorists haven't even applied for a 1959 tag, he said.

"They'll hear about it by Friday," he said.

Zoo Still Has Faith in Cecelia

Officials at Crandon Park Zoo insisted Monday that they have not lost faith in Cecelia, even though it is now a month since she was supposed to have a baby.

She hasn't had anything during that month except a terrific appetite.

The date on which the zoo's lady camel was due to become a mother for the second time was Jan. 25.

Robert Mattlin, zoo director, declared that despite Cecelia's disappointing lack of performance, that he and the other zoo worker, as well as the zoo veterinarian, are sticking by their original diagnosis of her condition.

"She'll have that baby any day now," Mattlin said, trying to sound confident. "She shows it more every day. She is the most pregnant camel in history. All we can do is wait."

And Cecil, the potential father?

He's losing weight, Mattlin said.

Officers Win in UAW Fight

Pickets and Police Battle With Fists

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Some 100 United Auto Worker pickets tangled with about 50 policemen Monday in a fist-swinging melee at the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Twenty-six pickets were hauled off to jail. Two policemen were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises; one picket was treated for a back injury.

Some 13,600 UAW members have been on strike at eight Allis-Chalmers plants throughout the nation since Feb. 2.

The picket trouble began when strikers stopped a shifting locomotive from moving two flatcars into the plant's warehouse.

When police tried to clear a path for the train, the pickets resisted. Police were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

The locomotive crew made several attempts to move the cars into the plant, but each time a knot of jeering pickets blocked the track.

Police and strikers jostled and shoved each other. Several pickets were knocked to the ground. Strikers were forced into patrol wagons in batches and taken to jail.

Police finally cleared the track. The locomotive then shifted the cars into a siding in the plant and left.

The arrested pickets were charged with disorderly conduct. Each posted a $10 forfeit and was released.

The nationwide strike began after union and management failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

National Summary

A storm moving rapidly across the Great Lakes region generated strong winds which brought cold dry air into the Midwest, while a southerly flow transported showery mild conditions over the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states Monday.

Temperatures rose to the 50s in Virginia by early afternoon and readings well up in the 30s or 40s insured rain as far north as southern Michigan and New Jersey. However, snow fell to the North, spreading across New York and Pennsylvania into New England and the New York City area during the forenoon with locally heavy intensity reported as far east as Providence, R.I.

Two to three inch accumulations were measured since morning in parts of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, but skies cleared through the upper Mississippi Valley where the storm deposited as much as eight inches of snow at Mason City, Iowa, and raised snow cover from eight to 18 inches at La Crosse, Wis., since Sunday. Colder air is scheduled to push through the Midwest and lower Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, preceded by warming which will change snow to rain in parts of the Northeast, followed by colder and clearing and snow flurries today.

Road Relief's On Way for Commuters

SRD Plans to Expand Routes From Lake Worth to West Palm

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—Are you part of that hapless throng who fight traffic from and to Lake Worth to earn your daily bread?

Be patient. In at least 20 years — probably, much much sooner — things will be better.

The State Road Department's proposed 20-year road program for Palm Beach County includes projects to ease the glutted flow of traffic between West Palm Beach and Lake Worth.

The road planners even had an eye for beauty in it all.

Take Flagler Dr., for instance. SRD planners recommend that the county develop this lakefront road into an important north-south four-lane artery.

★ ★ ★

Scenic Lakeshore Drive

IT MAY TAKE some filling along the lakeshore, but when completed, Flagler Dr. would be one of "the most scenic drives in this area," says the SRD.

The state survey recommends that Flagler be extended as far as Lucerne Ave. in the heart of downtown Lake Worth. At present, Flagler does not run straight through to the city limits of Lake Worth.

The Flagler development, according to the SRD, is needed to help relieve crowded U.S. 1, which is S. Dixie — the street most daily commuters take.

Besides beauty, Flagler Dr. has other compensations as a north-south route. Cross streets are limited. Most intersections are T-type, also enhancing Flagler's thru-street value.

"This facility," said SRD planners, "has the potential of carrying more traffic than any other at-grade four-lane highway in the area."

★ ★ ★

D Street-Georgia Ave. Link

THE 20-YEAR PROGRAM also includes plans for Georgia Ave. in West Palm and D St. in Lake Worth. It would take less than a mile of roadway to link the two.

Right now, you have to swing off Georgia at Forest Hills Blvd. and go to S. Dixie to journey on to Lake Worth.

The SRD says of the proposed link, "This would greatly improve the circulation of traffic between the two cities."

See — in a matter of years, you'll be able to cruise to and fro with beauty and ease. Patience, though.

'Gift' to Castro?

Now, About Those 10 Planes, Fulgencio . . .

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Cuban Strongman Fidel Castro may be chuckling under his beard over a "gift" unwittingly given him by his bitter foe, Fulgencio Batista.

Last August, Batista bought his Air Force 10 used American airplanes. But delivery was to be late pending repairs.

So late, in fact, that although Batista bought them, Castro will probably get them.

The 10 T-28 Navy trainers were bought at Phoenix, Ariz., and sent to Aircraft Instrument Service here for repairs. Space was leased for them at Broward International Airport.

"But when things got hot down there, the U.S. government held up shipment," said Frank Hill, co-owner of Aircraft Instrument.

"Now that the situation has cleared up, it looks like Castro will get the planes," said Hill.

Hill said representatives of Castro's new government came here Friday to make arrangements for shipping the planes to Cuba.

"The men we talked to on the phone about the deal were the same ones we talked to during Batista's time."

Hill said the planes vary in value from $2,000 to $6,500, depending upon their condition. They are of the type used by the Navy for pre-jet training, he said.

Shikar Line Forms to Right

Care to Hunt Tiger? Got $7,000?

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Take tigers by day, maharajahs by moonlight, a swift journey from the jungle to the capital of Europe and you have the ingredients for an "Arabian Nights" trip being planned here.

It is the "shikar" in India, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Wid Watson.

A shikar is a tiger hunt, but any resemblance between this trip and an uncomfortable sojourn in a steamy jungle is lacking.

This hunt will find the hunters personal guests of the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. They will stay at his palace when not tracking tigers aboard one of the Maharajah's personal elephants and shooting rifles from his armory.

The Watsons are vacationing here, preparatory to leaving New York on March 15 for San Francisco and points Far East.

They already have eight people ready to go with them. There is room for eight more, at $7,000 per person.

Among the eight going are Lady Susan Wilkins, widow of noted Explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkins; Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton; Bruce Kessler, a race driving friend of Reventlow's; and Countess Navarro of Caracas.

There's more than tigers ahead of them. During the hunt, each will have two personal servants to look after his wants. One hundred fifty beaters will drive the tigers toward them.

But the hunt is only part of the month-long excursion. Also on the itinerary are visits to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Delhi, Calcutta, Cario, Rome, London and Ireland.

Parties are planned all along the route. The hosts include two more maharajahs, and promised guests are such as Alec Guiness, Dirk Bogarde, Anna Magnani.

Watson, who's 23, arranged the whole thing. The Indian rulers and other notables are friends of his. He met some through the Duke of Edinburgh, another friend.

Six-foot-four Watson is an unusual young man. Son of the discoverer of the Belola Gold Mines in New Guinea, he has lived all over the world and is at home speaking five languages. He attended 12 schools before leaving "through the back door" at 15, never to return.

His proposal to his petite blonde wife, Claudia, a former actress, was an invitation to the tiger hunt. They were married a year ago after meeting in Spain. A European honeymoon wound up at a villa on the Riviera. Watson's family owns it, along with a chalet in Oberammergau, Germany.

Their Irish castle now is owned by Anita Leslie, author and niece of Winston Churchill.

The tiger-shooting party will visit it, too, and take part in a hunt there.

3 Teens Back In Stir

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The last three of six juveniles who escaped county jail last week by sliding down roped blankets have been returned to the custody of the sheriff here.

The trio — Loren Lamb and James Brooker, this city, and James L. Tyler, Belle Glade, all 15, were taken into custody Sunday at Winter Park by the Polk County sheriff.

They were held in juvenile detention quarters in Bartow for the sheriff of Palm Beach County.

A Winter Haven resident brought about the recapture of the fugitives when he found them sleeping in an orange grove and called authorities.

David E. Peterson, Ralph L. Adams and Roger D. Wade, the other three 15-year-olds, were seized by the sheriff's department and police in this area 24 hours after they slid down from the roof of the county jail where they were permitted to exercise.

All six are slated for terms in the boys training school at Marianna, the sheriff's office said.

Abstract Firm Opens Boca Branch

BOCA RATON — Security Abstract & Insurance Co. of West Palm Beach Monday formally opened its branch office here at 111 SE Royal Palm Rd.

President of the 46-year-old firm is T. M. Rickards Jr., a grandson of one of the early developers of Boca Raton. The elder T. M. Rickards was employed by Henry Flagler to survey the original plat of downtown Boca Raton.

The local office will be under the direction of Mrs. Marion J. Kirkwood and Mrs. Jack Criswell.

Husband Sought In Wife's Death

BOYNTON BEACH — Authorities Monday were conducting a search for a 40-year-old Negro in connection with his wife's death.

The sheriff's department identified the suspect as Major Bo Warten, 207 NE 11th Ave. He disappeared after his wife, Carrie, 39, was found shot to death on NE 12th St. at 1 a.m. Monday.

Three Favor Vote On Term of Office

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — Three more city commissioners indicated Monday they favored adding a referendum provision to a legislative bill on extending their terms of office from two to four years.

Two of them also put a damper on the proposed salary increase for the city commission.

Commissioners W. P. Holland, L. W. Kelloway, and Sylvan Burdick committed themselves to a referendum on the tenure of office bill. Mayor Horace E. Miller has already declared himself in favor of a vote of the people on the measure.

Holland and Burdick also made comments on the proposal to boost the annual stipend for commissioners from $3,000 to $5,000.

The tenure of office bill as presented at Friday's legislative clinic did not include a provision calling for a referendum on the change.

Holland, Kelloway and Burdick made it clear Monday they favored a referendum. Burdick added he had been under the impression such a provision was going to be incorporated in the measure drawn by City Attorney Egbert Beall.

Holland and Burdick also expressed themselves on the salary change being advocated by Kelloway.

Holland said he would not vote himself and other commissioners a raise unless it was submitted to a referendum.

Burdick said he saw "no point in a salary increase." "I am not convinced," Burdick added, "that the time spent (by commissioners) needs to be spent." He conceded "more time is required" but referred to "unnecessary waste details."

Missile Men 'Learning' To Write

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — Civilian executives working on missile testing projects at Cape Canaveral have taken a course in simplified writing to aid in making their reports.

A group of 19 members of management for Pan American Airways and RCA took 18 hours of instruction from two faculty members of the University of Florida school of journalism and communications.

Officials of the two companies, which do much of the testing for the Air Force Missile Center at Patrick Air Force Base, called bulky report and letter writing the main problem of management relations with the Air Force.

Instructors said they were "amazed" at the writing abilities of the highly technical men.

Voters Say No But Delray Unit Votes Self Raise

McNeese Is Lone Dissenter

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

DELRAY BEACH — City commissioners voted Monday to give themselves a fat pay raise — despite overwhelming voter opposition.

The proposal is one of a dozen proposed charter changes to be aired at a legislative clinic here Friday and then presented to the Legislature with a request for early passage.

Commissioner LeRoy Croft said the pay-hike proposal would call for a salary of $125 a month for commissioners and $150 for the mayor.

"The people just don't realize," Croft said, "how much time is spent doing the job that is expected of us.

"This kind of a pay scale would at least mean some renumeration for people who have to take time off from their business."

The proposal passed 4-1, with Commissioner Fred McNeese saying he was "unalterably opposed."

The question of a pay raise was overwhelmingly defeated when it was included on the November ballot in an effort to sample public opinion.

At the time of the straw vote, the commission was thinking in terms of a salary of $3,000 a year for the mayor and $2,400 for the four commissioners.

All five now receive five dollars a meeting and a maximum of 20 dollars per month.

The commission threw out a proposed charter change calling for the direct election of the mayor.

George Warren, who said he was gyped when he led the balloting in the last election but failed to be named mayor by his fellow commissioners, moved that candidates be permitted to run directly for the office of mayor. His motion died for lack of a second.

By secret ballot, the commission selected Kenneth Jacobson as architect for the new City Hall. Jacobson and Richard T. Hanna had both submitted plans.

The commission has not yet revealed statistics on the proposed City Hall, but it is understood it will be a $225,000 structure located on city property adjacent to the fire station.

In view of its plans for a new building, the commision rejected a proposal by M. N. Weir & Sons to sell the city the Arthur Vining Davis owned Bon Aire Hotel and property for $146,500 for use as a City Hall.

The commission also voted against a proposal to shell rock a number of streets in the city's Negro section in favor of continuing with a three-year, $121,325 street paving program in that area.

Oceanfront Lots On Zoning Agenda

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Is exclusive Palm Beach in the "throes of a major transition?" Julian Langner Research Inc., a Miami firm, says "yes," and the opinion, based on research, is reflected in the resort town's zoning fight over oceanfront lots.

Another round in the bitter battle comes today at 2 p.m. when the Zoning Commission gives its attention again to the plea to re-zone 12 lots.

Five firms and three individuals are asking the zoning group to change the N. Ocean Blvd. property between Root Trail and Wells Rd. from single family to multiple dwelling property.

Requesting the change are Charles Shapiro and Associates; D. and F. Corp.; Maylake, Inc.; Roberts-McNab Florida Hotel Co.; San Carlos Ranch, Inc.; Ethel Fein, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Mausz.

An overflow crowd—including staunch opponents to the proposal — is expected at the controversial session.

Petitions opposing the change will be handed the Zoning Commission. Also, a group of property owners in the immediate area will have an attorney to speak for them.

The Miami research firm noted in a report released earlier this month the slow moves toward a change in this fashionable resort.

"Tourism in Palm Beach," the research firm said, "is currently in throes of a major transition. Palm Beach was, and to some extent still is, the most fashionable and exclusive resort area in the U.S."

But, the researchers pointed out, carriage trade is forsaking the Palm Beach gold coast for northern resorts, Europe, and the Caribbean.

It predicted it would be many decades, if ever, before the fashionable resort caters to middle-income tourists.

The outcome of the current zoning fight, some observers feel, will aid or deter the transition the research firm feels is in the making.

Audubon Leads Trip

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Fourteen seniors from the Gilbert School, Winstead, Conn., will visit the Florida Keys Thursday on a field trip as part of their biology class work, the Audubon Society has announced.

The seven boys and seven girls will spend Tuesday night in Everglades National Park, returning to Homestead Wednesday night, and then go to Tavernier.

The group, to be escorted by Audubon leaders at different points on their tour, are supposed to get a close look at natural history and foster a respect for natural resources. Rules say "No smoking, no purchasing of fireworks, no throwing stones at alligators or birds and no littering the highway."

They'll Run Against Ins

RIVIERA BEACH — All but one of four incumbent city officials seeking reelection in the April 7 municipal election developed opposition Monday.

Latest to file were Steele Coddington, who will be a candiate for the Group 1 post held by Thomas Holland, and Robert H. Carlson, who will oppose Foster Brown, the Group 3 incumbent.

Mayor B. Fox Griffin, is opposed by Nick Cindia, who was a candidate two years ago.

H. N. Wells, veteran member of the council, is the only incumbent official who has developed no opposition.

Florida Sand Slows Atomic Age Progress

STUART—(UPI)—A product of the atomic age got stuck in the mud here Monday.

A 300-ton component of a nuclear reactor, being shipped by barge from Camden, N.J., to Dresden, Ill., ran fast into a sandbar in the Inland Waterway near here.

The mishap occurred in St. Lucie inlet, where the barge was being turned by its tug, the J. H. Coppedge of Jacksonville, into the St. Lucie River for its voyage across the state through Lake Okeechobee.

Looking like a bright orange washing machine, the reactor part measures 20 feet in diameter, is 42 feet high and 50 feet long.

But despite the atom power it probably will generate for the 45 million dollar Commonwealth Edison Plant at Dresden some day, the reactor could not budge for six hours.

The tug finally freed it from the sandbar shortly after 6 p.m. and continued the voyage.

'Hole in Head,' First a Play, Then Film, Now Becomes Novel

FORMER Miami Beach High School student Arnold Schulman had no hole in HIS head when he got the idea for "A Hole in the Head." It started as a television script, became a play in three different versions, has been converted into a made-in Miami film starring Frank Sinatra and the Paul Pollaks, and now Arnold has novelized it for a Gold Medal paperback edition. Gold Medal, me eye. That's a gold mine! And to take up his spare time he's doing the script for the remake of "Cimarron" at MGM.

Note to the Sigma Delta Chi Ribs and Roasts lampoon script committee: This reporter's theatrical agent says we'll be available to recreate the role of the bolita peddler in this year's show, now that the lottery has been restored to the Cuban scene. But it will require some rewriting. New lottery, with first drawing set for March 7, will be more like a stock issue. Tickets are called bonds and even the losers can cash in if they hold the "bonds" for future redemption. Proceeds of the lottery will be used to build worker's homes. A gal, Pastorita Nunez, is lottery director. Lady Luck?

Prio Home Up for Rent

THE VENDOME HOTEL penthouse where ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras spent his exile was listed for rent in a recent issue of the Wall St. Journal . . . Combination of overwork and a virus bug canceled Donald O'Connor out of his Las Vegas date. Suffering possibly as much as Donald are Ben Novack for whom he has a Fontainebleau date on March 17, and Bill Miller who was hoping he'd show a profit for the Riviera there shortly after.

Wometco is serving up two versions of "My Uncle," the French comedy click starring Jacques Tati, this week. The Mayfair will have a print with French dialogue and printed English subtitles. The Sunset will show the film with English dialogue dubbed over the French sound track. You takes your pick.

Pat P. Arnstein . . . film?

Mandy Campo . . . busy

Jacques Tati . . . 'Uncle'

Extra added attraction at the Miami Beach Firemen's and Policemen's Benevolent Assn. all-star show on Sunday night was the appearance of Joe Farrell and Jim Conway, who wrote "Tom Boy," the current Perry Como click. They're fire laddies on the Miami mainland . . . Brandt chain has booked "Some Like It Hot" for Lincoln Theater, opening March 19, following "These Thousand Hills," due March 3, and "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," opening March 4 at the Flamingo, followed by "Sound and the Fury" on March 11.

"The Carefree Heart," musical version of Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself" which was "withdrawn" before it reached Broadway some months ago, hasn't stopped beating entirely. Those former Miami Senior High School boys, Robert Wright and George Forrest, who were so successful with "Song of Norway" and "Kismet," still have faith in it and will stage it in London. Rehearsals start in June with Joan Heal in one of the leads. Now that's a pleasant name for a work called "Doctor in Spite of Himself"!

Ruth Foreman, director of the Dramatic Academy, was on the jury at two show business tests over the weekend: at Miami Beach High School for its "Frolics" on Friday, and at Booker T. Washington High for "Jabberwock" Monday night. She's taking over operation of Studio M.

Levenson, Gogi Go, Go, Go

SAM LEVENSON, the humorist of television and cafe, has a good thing going for him at Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat where he is currently sharing the show spotlight with singer Gogi Grant and the dancing Mambo Aces.

Miss Grant has to put out a tidy sum every now and then to get arrangements and material for her act. The Mambo Aces must spend hours on perfecting their foot work and the wear and tear on their dancing shoes must add up to a pretty dollar. But Sam earns his not inconsiderable fee with minor personal outlay by simply persuading the audience to laugh at itself—or, at least, at memories of the itself it used to be back in the days when "double occupancy" of a bed, not to mention of a room, was a luxury and progressive education meant a student would get rapped on the knuckles instead of on the head.

Sam earns a constant flow of laughs, alternated with murmurs of "It's true, it's true," by simply spotlighting the contrasts of family behavior from generation to generation. O. Henry once wrote that "life is made up of sobs, sniffles and smiles, with sniffles predominating." Sam simply changes the order of finish and puts the smiles in the winner's circle—at least in retrospect from the favorable vantage point of a lush cafe where the patrons are able to pay a $3 cover charge to laugh at themselves . . . as they used to be.

Come to think of it now—in retrospect—Miss Grant also uses the same technique in one phase of her performance. Her forte, of course, is more emotional song such as "Restless Wind," which established her with a million platter sale; "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" coupled with the similar "Poor Butterfly," and a medley of Helen Morgan tunes, which she did for the film life of that star.

But she also pokes good-natured fun at the music tastes of the past by reprising such intellectual gems as "Barney Google," "Seafood Mammy," "Music Goes Around" and so forth. The Mambo Aces keep it completely contemporary, however, with unbelievably precise renditions of Latin dance tempos. Mal Malkin's music men never miss a beat in backing them and perform nicely for Miss Grant and the dance-minded customers.
